TURNING THE PAGES OF "CANADA UNLIMITED"

"The cod was so thicke by the shoar that we hardlie have been able to row a boat through them." With these words, in 1498, John Mason described fishing on the Grand Banks. By 1504, hundreds of European fishermen were sailing to the east coast of Canada.

Early English fishermen dried their cod on racks in the sun. This meant bases along the coast, and many settlements were founded. French, Basque, Portuguese and Spanish fishermen followed.

For 300 years, French and English fishermen maintained a rich industry. They jealously guarded the Grand Banks, the greatest fishing area in the world. And Canada's inland waters abounded in fresh-water fish, opening up new opportunities in this age-old trade.

In 1886, fishing on the Pacific Coast became important. Today, British Columbia provides half of Canada's yearly catch.

A large part of our 238 million-pound catch in 1948 was sent to many countries. Fishing and its allied industries—canning, processing, extracting meal and oils—play an important part in our lives. Yes, there's room to grow in Canada Unlimited.

Strikers Reject Proposals of Mining Companies

Thetford Mines, Que., June 15 —(CP) — Proposals by three asbestos mining concerns here for settlement of the asbestos strike were rejected Tuesday night by 2,000 striking employees, it was announced by a union official.

Jean Marchand, secretary of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor, reported some 1,200 strikers took a secret vote on the company proposals. Ninety-two per cent voted against accepting the company terms.

It was the first secret vote since the asbestos strike was called last Feb. 13 to enforce demands for a 15 cents-an-hour increase to raise the basic pay from 85 cents to $1.

The settlement proposals were made by the Asbestos Corporation, Johnson Mines and Flintkote Limited. The companies operate seven pits in this asbestos mining district.

The company proposals offered a 10-cents-an-hour increase, no discrimination against the strikers, except specified cases now before the courts, and arbitration according to provincial labor law.

Pickets Orderly At Kingston Plant

Kingston, Ont., June 15 (CP)— Picketing at the Aluminum Company of Canada plant continued Tuesday as both the company and the striking United Steel Workers of America (C.I.O.) indicated their willingness to discuss terms of settlement.

An estimated 1,100 company workmen started a "rest cure" to enforce their demands for a 15-cent hourly pay increase, check-off of union dues, increased holidays and shift bonus. The company is offering an average 2.7-cent increase with two additional paid holidays.

Plant officials said they were not officially notified of the strike and, therefore, consider it illegal. They claimed the union made no attempt to resume negotiations and, at the same time, expressed their willingness to meet the workers for further discussion of terms.

Robert Black, President of the striking Local 343, today delivered a letter to plant officials outlining the union's position.

The letter stated: "The employees have made the decision to stop work until some satisfactory arrangements can be reached by your company and this union. The union committee is prepared to meet you at any time to discuss any offer you wish to make."

PLANS GETAWAY FROM IT ALL

A man in love with solitude, Frederick William Pester, picturesque recluse well known to tourists at Canyon, Calif., thinks civilization is closing in on him. So he's moving out. Pester plans to buy a boat, learn navigation and set sail for some more thinly populated area in the Pacific. The bewhiskered hermit is 65, but is bright-eyed and healthy. Modern life, he says, is too fast for him.

Strange Party Waits Break-up In Arctic Circle

Ottawa, June 15. (CP)— A strange party made up of an RCMP constable, a 15-year-old Eskimo and the strangled body of an Eskimo woman is somewhere inside the Arctic circle, awaiting the Summer break-up, it was learned Tuesday.

The Mountie, Constable D. Mead of Busby, was last reported, toward the end of April, in the vicinity of Spence Bay, about 750 miles due north of Churchill, Man. His job is to bring his "man" and the body about 300 miles east to the Arctic outpost of Cambridge Bay, on the south-eastern edge of Victoria Island.

R.C.M.P. officials, anxiously awaiting word from him for nearly two months, expect he will abandon a previous plan to make the trek across the Arctic Straits by dog-team and await transportation by boat or airplane.

The Spring break-up may not come until mid-July in these 68-degree latitudes and meanwhile, so far as is known here, Const. Mead, with his corpse and captor, his huskies and possibly a few Eskimo assistants, is waiting it out.

The 15-year-old Eskimo—Ishakak—is jointly charged with an Eskimo named Eerkiyoot, age 20, if murdering Eerkiyoot's 44-year-old mother Nakasbook. Two mounties were assigned to the job and Eerkiyoot, the son, already is at Cambridge Bay awaiting trial.

Premier Frost Denies Statement Of David Croll

Toronto, June 15 (CP)—Premier Frost said in a statement Tuesday that the Ontario Treasury Department did not begin its study of charitable gifts, leading to enactment of the Ontario Charitable Gifts Act, until "about a year ago".

He was commenting on a statement made in an election campaign address Monday night by David Croll, Liberal member of the last Commons for Toronto Spadina, that the act had been "conceived almost three years before it was passed."

Mr. Croll said its introduction was delayed until the death of J. E. Atkinson, Toronto publisher, whose will established a charity foundation for the Toronto Daily Star and the Star Weekly.

The Act, passed at the last session of the Ontario Legislature, provides that charity trusts may not hold more than 10 per cent of any business. Its opponents said it was aimed at overthrowing Mr. Atkinson's will.

Mr. Frost said:

"No policy was settled upon until long after Mr. Drew (George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, had left the provincial scene. The act was designed by the Treasury Department . . . for the purpose of protecting the public and preventing charitable trusts having control of great wealth which they could use for other charitable purposes."

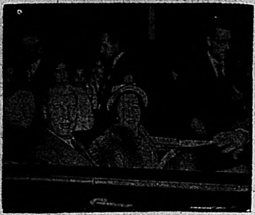
THRIVES ON CAMPAIGN RIGORS



P.C. Leader George Drew has proved a tough campaigner. Prime Minister St. Laurent talked himself into a case of laryngitis in three weeks, but Drew, shown here in Sudbury with his wife, Fiorenza, is still going strong after a trans-Canada speech-making tour that took him by train, car and plane into dozens of strange towns and villages. Though polls declare his party to be second in popularity to the Liberals, Drew appears confident. His followers say: "Look what happened to the Dewey poll!" (Central Press Canadian)

COALITION GOVERNMENT IN B.C. RE-ELECTED

Two Are Injured, 11 Cars Derailed East of Kingston

All Traffic on CNR Main Double Track Line Blocked

Kingston, June 16 — (CP) — Eleven derailed freight cars, scattered along the C.N.R. tracks at Findley Station, 16 miles north east of Kingston, blocked all traffic on the Toronto to Montreal main double track line early this morning.

C.N.R. officials said they expected the first train would go through on the line shortly after noon today. Some re-routing was done during the night.

The derailment occurred about 1 a.m. after the train had wrecked a Model "A" Ford in which Lloyd Graham, 24, Kingston Mills, and Harold Chase, 27, R. R. 3, Joyceville, were riding, injuring both.

Received Treatment

Both men are receiving treatment in the Kingston General Hospital. Graham suffered abrasions about the face and neck. Chase has fractures of the right arm and left leg. Both were conscious.

Offer No Explanation

So badly wrecked was the car and so widely scattered its fragments that police had difficulty in reconstructing the accident. Both men were unconscious and could offer no explanation. Chase and Graham were taken to Kingston General Hospital in an ambulance.

When Provincial Constable Silas W. Moore and city constable Leo White arrived, Chase was lying on the matted wreckage of the car body. He was gashed deeply on the face and was bleeding profusely from his chest near the shoulder, observers said. Graham was huddled several yards away in a ditch between a fence and the railway track.

Before dawn, sectionmen began to converge on the derailment scene to put the track in operating condition. An auxiliary crew in a work train from Belleville, arrived about 8 a.m. today. Another was expected from Montreal during the day.

REDS FINDING THEMSELVES ON DEFENSIVE NOW

Attempt to Block Spread of Americanism

Washington, June 16 (AP). — State Department officials today found evidence that even the Communists feel they now are on the defensive in the cold war in Europe.

The clue to what may be a radical turn in Communist leadership estimates of the east-west conflict came in a bulletin of the Communist International Information Bureau.

As reported from Bucharest where it is published, the bulletin said it now is the "cardinal task" of Communists to block the spread of Americanism.

Officials here took an interested look at the defensive nature of this declaration. They aid that this, coupled with the charge that the United States is trying to "poison" working classes with American ideas, indicates the Soviet-led cominform is deeply concerned over the west's success to date in fighting Communism.

Dominates Top

They speculated that this concern now dominates top Communist thinking in contrast with an earlier Communist preoccupation with expansion of their own power and influence. If this analysis is correct, it may mark a switch in Communist tactics in Europe — from primary emphasis on expansion westward to a new stress on holding the line in eastern Europe.

This view of what the Communists themselves may believe is in accord with official American estimates of the cold war struggle. According to these, the next phase of the battle between western influences and Soviet Communism — apart from Germany — may well lie in eastern Europe, with Yugoslavia providing the initial testing ground.

On the Communist side all signs indicate that the cominform is getting ready to try to crush Tito. This may take the form of intensifying the economic blockade maintained against Yugoslavia by the Russian-led eastern European Communist countries.

KILLED IN FLAMING CRASH

Villanova, Pa., June 16 — (AP) — Lawrence B. Sheppard, 26, executive of the Hanover Shoe Company, was killed Wednesday in the flaming crash of his plane on a main line estate 15 miles west of Philadelphia. The crash occurred a few minutes after noon as young Sheppard took off from a cornfield where he had made an emergency landing.

ARTIST BUSY MAN

Toronto, June 16 — (CP) — Artist David Anderson puts in a hard day as a laborer. But he still finds time for his etchings. The 26-year-old Air Force veteran, recently awarded the Saskatchewan government prize for the finest printmaking produced this year, hurries to his mid-town upper attic every night to continue his work. Canadian are, he says, "still lacks strong graphic qualities."

C., but allegedly never arrived there. A native of Guelph, he came here for his first visit in 32 years. He had a mining interest in Prince George.

LORD DERBY'S ALYCIDON WINS ASCOT GOLD CUP

U.S.-Bred Favorite, Black Tarquin, Second

Heron Bridge, an Irish entry, finished third, 10 lengths behind Black Tarquin. The Irish horse started at 25 to 1.

Alycidon started as second choice at 5 to 4. Black Tarquin was the favorite at 11 to 10.

The race was worth £10,540 ($42,160) and to the winner also went a £500 gold cup.

Black Tarquin had sought to become the first American-bred or owned Gold-Cup winner since Flares triumphed in 1938. British turf experts had conceded the United States entry a good chance and the Times said this morning: "If Black Tarquin wins readily today, it will not be easy to point to a better horse than him since the First World War."

By CHARLES MOLONY

Washington, June 16 — (AP)— Modest price cuts might be all that's needed to start sales booming again in the United States.

That was the surprisingly-simple implication of a federal reserve board survey of consumer buying prospects for the January 5-March 5 period. Announced Wednesday, it boils down to this:

Unless they've changed their minds in the last 2½ months, the American people have both the money and the desire for record quantities of goods—but at somewhat lower prices.

Automobiles There were not only more prospective buyers this year than last, but they expected to pay more for their new and used cars, the survey showed.

Houses? More prospective buyers here, too, than a year ago — some two to three million of them —and they were resigned to higher costs: an average of $8,200 against the 1948 prospects' $7,400.

Television sets? Probably twice as many prospects as last year — maybe around 1,450,000 or so in all.

For other durable goods — furniture, household appliances, and the like — buying intentions were slightly weaker early in 1949 than early in 1948," but the "indicated decline in demand was small."

Evils of Seven Years of War, Strife Await Java When Peace is Restored

By NOEL BUCKLEY

Batavia, June 16 — (Reuters)— A long and gloomy reckoning of the evils resulting from seven years of war, rebellion and disorder, awaits Java when peace is eventually restored to this Indonesian island.

Even if the hopeful, first results of the present Netherlands-Republican negotiations lead to an early over - all agreement, the most optimistic opinion here does not expect calm to return Suddenly to this island.

Its people have been deeply disturbed by events since the Japanese invasion.

Local rule in Java had not changed much through the centuries until the Japanese invasion.

Village administration was in the hands of headmen and councils of elders who ruled according to "adat" custom which had the authority of ancient tradition.

Dutch colonial police accepted and sanctioned the "adat." But the Japanese ignored it and, especially in their propaganda to the young, shook its authority severly.

Throughout the 3½ years of its existence, up to the second Dutch police action in December, 1948, the republic was never able to establish a completely authoritative and efficient internal administration.

The second Netherlands police action destroyed whatever administrative machinery the republic had set up. But it did not bring immediate order. It drove the armed forces, regular and irregular, of the republic to take refuge in the mountains and jungles, both in former Republican territory and in territory controlled by the Dutch before last December.

There, the Republican forces have to live as best they can off the population, sympathetic or otherwise — conditions which are ideally suited to the development of banditry.

Whatever ultimate settlement is reached between the Dutch and the Republicans must be a compromise. Although it may make Indonesia sovereign and independent, it can hardly be the republic proclaimed Aug. 17, 1945. On that pretext alone, fanatics or bandits may fight on in the jungle in the belief, or under the pretence, of continuing the struggle for freedom.

READY FOR HISTORY-MAKING JOB

Dr. Edwin P. Hubble, dean of U. S. astronomers, is shown putting the unique 48-inch Schmidt photographic telescope through its final series of rehearsals for the sky survey, to be launched on July 1 at Palomar, Calif. The four-year scientific project will provide the world with the first definite photo atlas of the heavens in history. The "Big Schmidt" is the teammate of the 20-inch Hale telescope. But whereas the Schmidt is a wide-angle instrument, the Hale is a pinpointing instrument. It would take the 200-incher some 5,000 years to do the job the Schmidt will do in four.—Central Press Canadian.

Defence Nears End of Case In Murder Trial

Sudbury, June 16. (CP)— The defence is expected to complete its case by noon today at the murder trial of Gerard Chretien, 24, accused of the gunshot slaying last Dec. 9, of William Wilson, 29.

The former Ottawa Valley resident is alleged to have shot Wilson at a Sudbury home to which Chretien went in search of 19-year-old Gertrude Lamothe, who had broken her engagement with Chretien.

The accused man's mother Wednesday told the court that her son, one of 13 children, was injured in an accident nine years ago near his home at Clarence Creek, near Ottawa. Mrs. Leo Chretien, who now lives in the Ottawa district town of Rockland, said Gerard was knocked off a bicycle and lay unconscious more than three hours.

Both Mrs. Chretien and a brother, Philip said that after the accident a change came over Gerard. The youth became morose and subject to fits of violent rage, they said.

The crown completed its case late Wednesday after 17 Crown witnesses testified. One of the last to enter the witness box was Sgt. William W. Sutherland, described as an R.C.M.P. ballistics expert from Ottawa.

Sgt. Sutherland said he examined a 44.40 rifle, six cartridge cases and three spent bullets said to have been found at the scene of the shooting in the home of Mrs. Rose McRoberts a war widow. He said all the bullets were fired from the same gun.

Chretien was arrested with self-inflicted wounds in the chest and abdomen after Wilson was killed and Mrs. McRoberts, Wilson's sister-in-law, was severely wounded.

Mrs. McRoberts said Chretien struck her with the butt of the rifle, shot her twice as she lay on the floor and then drove his heel into her chest.

Is U.K. Headed For Another Economic Crisis?

London, June 16. (CP)— The New York Times says today some of the best economic brains in Britain believe the country is heading for another economic crisis.

In a dispatch from Michael L. Hoffman, the newspaper says "deep pessimism in the current outlook" was reflected in Sir Stafford Cripps' warnings to the Labor party conference that the "economic barometers are certainly not rising."

"When Sir Stafford spoke he undoubtedly knew, though the public does not yet, that the figures showed changes in Britain's dollar and gold position during the second quarter of 1949 indicate a serious deterioration on this vital economic front," the Times says.

The Times say there is little disagreement that the cause of the impending crisis is that even with Marshall-plan aid, Britain and the sterling area as a whole are not earning enough dollars to cover their dollar requirements at the current level of imports.

The paper adds:

"To an increasing extent, British economists believe the crisis will lead to an ultimate test of strength between the government and the trade unions, a foretaste of which is already given by the unrest among the railway and dock workers."

To Tip or Not Tip Taxi Drivers Issue

London, June 16. (CP)—To tip or not to tip taxi-drivers. That is the question.

Chairman of an Epsom, Surrey, magistrate's court ruled that a taximan accepting a tip was committing an offence and the passenger could be prosecuted for aiding and abetting.

Taxi-drivers have mixed feelings. Some say fares should be raised so that tipping would be unnecessary. Others say it is legal and "quite separate from the official fare."

Meanwhile, drivers are complaining that "considerable harm has been done to our earnings."

BARRIERS BLAMED

Geneva, June 16 (Reuters).— While over 1,000,000 tons of European coal — mostly Belgian — remain unsold on the continent, Marshall-plan countries still are asking for coal from the United States, the United Nations Economic Commission said Wednesday night. Currency barriers between the European countries were given as one of the chief reasons for the defeat of efforts to free Europe of dependence on American coal.

COURT RESERVES DECISION IN SMALLWOOD CASE

Nfld. Premier Faces Four Summonses

St. John's, Nfld., June 16 (CP). —Magistrate Hugh O'Neill today reserved until an unspecified date his decision in the case of Premier Smallwood charged with using undue influence and intimidation of voters.

Four summonses were issued against the new province's Liberal premier Tuesday at the request of W. J. Browne, a former district court judge who resigned to become Progressive Conservative candidate for the June 27 federal election in St. John's West.

Magistrate O'Neill adjourned the hearing after listening to argument by counsel for the premier and Mr. Browne.

The courtroom and streets outside were jammed with persons from St. John's and outlying districts who cheered both principals when they arrived and as they left.

Standing in the doorway of the Justice building near the courthouse, Premier Smallwood held both arms outstretched in acknowledgment of the cheering.

No Demonstration

There was no untoward demonstration by the crowds.

Argument of counsel dealt largely with the extent to which Canadian laws apply now in the new province.

P. D. Lewis, acting for Mr. Smallwood, said the Canadian Criminal Code has not been proclaimed in Newfoundland and therefore there is no mechanism to enforce penalties under the Dominion Elections Act. The Act was proclaimed the day following confederation, two and a half months ago.

Mr. Lewis said he wished to make it clear his argument was advanced solely from a legal point of view and that his client has no fear of inability to disprove the charges against him.

'King of Gang' Boy Accused Of Branding Three

Boston, June 16 (AP)—An 11-year-old boy accused of branding three playmates because they refused to recognize him as "king of the gang" today faced juvenile court arraignment.

Police said the boy reported he placed a lighted cigaret against their flesh when they refused to heed his command "kneel down in front of me; I'm king of the gang around here."

They said two other boys held them while the self-styled "king" applied the cigaret to their arms and hands. The boy was charged with assault and battery.

WALK MORE; DIET LESS

Niagara Falls, June 16 (CP)— People on this continent need to walk more and diet less, according to Deputy Lord Mayor-elect of Belfast, Ireland, stalwart James Henry Norwitt. He said his weight has not varied an ounce from 203 pounds in the last 10 years despite rigid rationing.

Air War Veteran on Bombing Mission Kills 128 Million Grasshoppers

Worland, Wyo., June 16 (AP)— Affable Archie Geiser, who rassled a lot of C-54 transports over the hump during the war, went on a bombing mission and killed 128,000,000 of the enemy.

His victims were grasshoppers. His bomb load was 7,350 pounds of poison bran. In 25 minutes over the target area he wiped out enough of the vicious insects to reach end-to-end from New York to Los Angeles.

This happened on a single flight Wednesday. Archie is making about eight a day and will continue this schedule for 30 days.

Geiser pilots a C-47 which is the spearhead in the government's air war to head off a new grasshopper invasion of the grain belt. About 25 other smaller planes are being used.

The 128,000,000 is a theoretical but conservative figure. Ground investigations after previous flights have shown a kill of 90 to 95 per cent of the 'hoppers in the area pelted with poison.

Geiser and other pilots are expected in the coming month to wipe out the grasshopper menace over an area of 35,000,000 acres.

Here, say experts of the United States Department of Agriculture, the infestation is just as bad as it was in the late 30s when a 'hopper plague cost farmers in the northern plains states $250,000,000 in crops damage.

Liberals and PC's Wheel Into Power For Third Term

Major C.C.F. Bid for Power Shattered; Big Vote Polled

(By Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, June 16. (CP)— A major C.C.F. bid for power in British Columbia was shattered yesterday as the Coalition government—a fusion of Liberals and Progressive Conservatives — wheeled into power for the third consecutive term—and with an increased majority in a record vote.

In an election described during the campaign as a battle between Socialism and Free Enterprise, the C.C.F. opposition of 11 in the last legislature was cut to six.

Lone uncertain seat was Cranbrook where C.C.F. candidate Leo Nimsick nursed a slim 54-vote lead over Clifford Swan who sought re-election on the Coalition ticket. Two polls of 19 remain unheard from.

Coalition	40	37
C.C.F.	6	10
Labor	1	1
Independent	1	—
Total	48	48

Result Know Early

The Coalition re-election was reported by The Canadian Press only one hour and 20 minutes after polls closed.

Premier Byron Johnson, repeating his 1945 performance, was elected first in the province in winning New Westminster while his Finance Minister Progressive Conservative leader, Herbert Anscomb, swept Oak Bay soon afterward. The full cabinet was returned excepting Agriculture Minister Frank Putnam who deisgned prior to the eleciton because of his age.

C.C.F. leader Harold Winch and his 70-year-old father, E. E. Winch, were re-elected but the party whip, Herbert Gargrave went down to defeat.

Of the 14 women seeking election among the 138 candidates, only two were successful. Both Nancy Hodges in Victoria and Mrs. Tilly Rolston in Vancouver Point-Grey will sit again with the Coalition.

Neither the Social Credit party with 16 candidates no its offshoot, the Union of Electors with 12, elected a candidate

He leaned over the unconscious Hebert, pulled him back to their precarious roost and revived him.

STILL NO RAIN PREDICTED TO RELIEVE DROUGHT

Temperatures Expected to Slip 10 Degrees to Alleviate Heat Wave

Toronto, June 16 — (CP) — Southern Ontario's parched farm and pasture land still is in dire need of a heavy rainfall today.

Only relief predicted by weather officials today was in cooler air settling over the province. But the much - needed rain still is not in sight.

Wednesday night forecasts called for scattered thundershowers throughout the province, as far east as Kingston to Windsor in the west. Temperatures were expected to slip another 10 degrees — to about 76 degrees—to alleviate the five - day heat wave in the southern section.

Although the light rains have helped many crops, it came too late to save the hay and strawberry harvest. Almost total ruin of the strawberry crop is reported by agricultural officials and 75 per cent decrease in the yield of hay.

Hamilton Area Hit

Hardest hit by the drought, considered the worst in Ontario's history, is the Hamilton area where the latest rain reported was 24 days ago. Total rainfall there since April 15 was 1.85 inches.

In the Huron county town of Goderich, considerable rain fell Wednesday forcing cancellation of the 77th annual field day. But farmers didn't mind. They just grinned and sought cover under the grandstand.

In Kent county a record strawberry crop is being harvested, officials said, while Niagara Peninsula farmers are preparing for a good cherry crop.

Conditions are worse in Central Ontario, however. In Bradford, early lettuce crops have been all but destroyed by the drought, while frost has been equally damaging. Although a shortage is predicted in the lettuce crop, farmers report the quality will be the same as in previous years.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, June 16 (CP). — The advance of cooler air across Ontario stalled last night across Georgian Bay and Northwestern Lake Huron regions. No further advance of cooler air is foreseen in the near future. The weather over most of Southern Ontario will continue hot and humid today and Friday with widely scattered showers and occasional thunderstorms occurring at night.

A. C. Wilkin and Robt. Davidson Tendered Complimentary Dinner On Eve of Retirement as Teachers

Grateful appreciation to two long-term school teachers in the city was expressed Wednesday evening by members of the local teachers' council and the Board of Education when they tendered a complimentary banquet to public school principal A. C. Wilkin, and Robt. D. P. Davidson, science teacher at Belleville Collegiate.

On behalf of the teachers' council the two retiring teachers were presented with handsome paintings by Manly MacDonald, well-known Canadian artist, while the board of education followed with honorariums in appreciation of long years of teaching servicee.

For the past 37 years Mr. Wilkin has been principal of Queen Victoria School, coming to the city at that time from the town of Deseronto. He will continue to reside in the city following his retirement, but Mr. Davidson who has been science teacher at the collegiate for the past 17 years, will retire to his ancestral farm north of Cobourg.

Glowing Tributes

Members of the local teachers' council and of the local board of education were well represented at the complimentary banquet which was held at the Bridge Street United Church Sunday School rooms. Glowing tribute to the two retiring teachers for their long and useful teaching careers, was heard from teachers and the board of education.

Referring to the retirement of the two teachers Miss Josephine Tickell, chairman of the Board of Education, pointed out that age and time were only relative and noted that both Mr. Wilkin and Mr. Davidson would now have the opportunity of taking part in community projects which because of their routine had previously been denied them.

Mr. M. Hackett, president of the Teachers' Council, noted that this occasion was unique in Belleville and that the Teachers' Council was happy to assist the Board of Education in planning the complimentary banquet.

"I sincerely trust that the holding of this banquet will assist in showing our appreciation to two very fine gentlemen, who may take this as an indication of the high esteem in which they are held."

Showed Early Promise

Alderman H. J. Clarke, former public school inspector for Hastings South, referred to his early acquaintance with Mr. Wilkin while he was still school principal at Deseronto.

Mr. Clarke said he was then favorably impressed with the way Mr. Wilkin conducted his school and classes and had no hesitation in recommending him as principal of Queen Victoria School in Belleville. "I never had any occasion to regret that recommendation," he said.

"Mr. Wilkin in all his years at Belleville has served well," Mr. Clarke added, "just how well only time will tell. Mr. Wilkin will retire officially in two or three weeks' time but he will carry with him the veneration of pupils and the compliments of the Board of Education."

Public School Inspector Lawrence Kells admitted that Mr. Clarke in some measure had said what he had intended to say but added that Mr. Wilkin and Mr. Davidson had given much actual and factual service to the province and to Belleville.

Served With Distinction

Principal C. I. Frederick, Queen Mary School, presented Mr. Wilkin with the painting by Manly Macdonald stating that Mr. Wilkin had shown many capabilities and much aptitude as a teacher and principal and said he was a man who had won distinction in his profession.

"The city and district owes to Mr. Wilkin a debt which will never be repaid, and yet is repaid when he looks back and sees the success of former pupils now in positions of responsibility.

He added that 37 years as principal of the same school was possibly a record in Ontario.

In expressing his appreciation Mr. Wilkin stated he was very happy to know that he had so many friends in Belleville, stating that the painting was "something by which to remember Belleville and Belleville teachers."

He said he had enjoyed his career as a teacher, noting that one of the first requirements of being a successful teacher was an inherent love of children.

Principal of the Belleville Collegiate Mr. G. E. Currie, paid tribute to Mr. Davidson who, he said, had worked 38 years as a high school teacher his experience dating back to the old "model school" Mr. Davidson had a wide comprehension of what a full time school teacher's job entailed and had often doubled as a teacher in other classes besides science. He referred to Mr. Davidson as being "fair-minded and generous," and always willing to look for the good points in a pupil.

Long Association

The honor of presenting the painting to Mr. Davidson fell to Kenneth Hill, collegiate teacher, who throughout almost his entire teaching career had been associated with Mr. Davidson. He paid tribute to Mr. Davidson as a teacher and as a father who had afforded a university education to five children.

Miss N. P. Merry presented flowers to Mrs. Davidson.

In expressing appreciation Mr. Davidson stated that he had tried to give faithful service as a teacher noting he had many pleasures as well as heartaches. The pleasures were in meeting former students who had achieved success in life.

In passing Mr. Davidson noted teachers were leading the warfare against ignorance and regretted the tendency of ignorance for the finer things of life by some young people. He termed as deplorable the indifference toward the better things of life.

Member of the local Board of Education Col. E. A. Geen added the appreciation of the board, noting that Belleville had been fortunate in all its public school principals. The service of Mr. Wilkin, however, had been outstanding. Mr. Davidson, he said, had been a faithful teacher as a science master and was responsible for the early teaching of many students who had achieved success in the world of science.

Mr. Clifford Templer, music teacher at the collegiate favored with several much appreciated solos, accompanied by Mrs. Templer on the piano, while Miss Norma Arkels, also was heard in several numbers.

"Experience is an arch through which gleams that untravelled world whose margin fades forever and forever as we approach." So said Alfred, Lord Tennyson, and so again Tuesday afternoon said more than one graduate of the Ontario School for the Deaf as they received their graduation diplomas, and merit awards; thus closing the door of another year's experience and opening that of the future.

After welcoming those parents who had been able to be present on this occasion, and regretting the absence of others who, owing to the great distance away, were unable to attend, Mr. W. J. Morrison, B.A., B.Paed., Superintendent of the School, addressed the graduating class. Some, he said, were leaving to enter upon the work for which they had been instructed to make their way in the world, not as handicapped young men and women, but as those capable of earning a livelihood. Some would continue on in academic work, as would Miss Laura Clarke, whose outstanding proficiency in language had merited her an entrance into Belleville Collegiate Institute, while Miss Dorothy Holmerg, would enter the Ryerson School of Technology, Toronto, to continue her vocation of sewing.

Classwork Extended

As far as possible, the aim of the school had been to have the vocational work academically eductional. They were taught by speech and lip reading, and by visual reading. Not so long ago no attempt had been made to prepare pupils for the entrance into high school. This year, however, there are 14 in the high school entrance class. Another outstanding feature of this graduation, was that each girl graduate had made her own graduation dress, a splendid example of perfect cut and fit, as well as being daintily feminine with the colors becomingly chosen.

Following the presentation of the various diplomas and awards Miss Audrey Hanna, outstanding graduate of the year, and holder of several diplomas, and awards read the valedictorian address which was also cast on the wall for the benefit of those who were in the rear of the auditorium.

The first awards to be given out were to those of the graduating class for academic, vocational and out-of-school achievements during the students' complete school life at the O.S.D. These were presented by the superintendent to Miss Barbara Waller, and Miss Dorothy Holmerg.

Wins Fetterly Award

The H. B. Fetterly Memorial Award, presented by Mrs. Fetterly and her daughters, Mrs. Maud Cuykendall, and Miss Jean Fetterly, in memory of the late Mr. H. B. Fetterly, M.A., who had been superintendent of the Ontario School for the Deaf 1930-1934, which was now an annual award in cash, from money deposited by Mrs. Fetterly and daughters, and sent to the winners in the form of cheques. The winners of this award were Miss Dolores Henault, and Robert Spiker, who voiced their thanks over the microphone.

The graduation certificates which were awarded to those students who, having completed the curriculum for entrance to high schools, have continued in school for two years, after obtaining the High School Entrance certificate, were won by the Misses Audrey Hanna, Dorothy Holmerg, Anizia Samus, Grace Swain and Barbara Waller.

Next came the certificates of merit which were awarded to those students who had completed a course of study, emphasizing vocational work. Canada Needs Many More Emigrants Norman Rawson Tells PC Meeting Speaking in Interests of R. D. Arnott

"The only thing that can defeat the Progressive Conservative candidate, Richard D. Arnott, is an overconfidence by the Conservative voters in not bothering to get out and vote." These were the views expressed by Capt. the Rev. Norman Rawson when he spoke on behalf of the Progressive Conservative Party and for R. D. Arnott, Progressive Conservative candidate for Hastings South, to one of the largest audiences that has been in attendance at such meetings at the Prince of Wales School.

"As a Progressive Conservative campaigner, I think that Mr. Arnott is an excellent prospect for Ottawa. And of candidates themselves I think that Mr. Arnott is one of the best of any that I have heard of for quite some time. Canada needs a greater and deeper appreciation of the talent and ability of men like Dick Arnott who could help to govern more wisely than do the left wingers that are in power now.

Need More Emigrants

"The flowering of Canada can only come with free unfettered enterprise. What we need is immigration. After the war the government did a lot of talking about it. Then it took George Drew to go in and do it. There should be half a million hand-picked, freedom minded people brought into this country to till the soil and to teach Canadians what true democracy really is. And this is exactly what the Progressive Conservative party intends to do when it gets in power."

In regard to the propaganda that has been put out by the Liberal party Mr. Rawson said, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent maintains that there is no big issue in this election. This is where he has run into one of the biggest obstacles in his campaign.

"There is a big issue in this election and in fact there is more than one big issue. One of the greatest principles or issues is to have no taxation without true representation. The Liberal Party is trying to buy our votes with our own money. The Liberal Party was the big gun during the war and they are now afraid to let go of that power. We have got to give the government back to the people so that it may truly be servants of the people instead of its boss.

Drew Not Anti-Labor

"The most dishonest and unwarranted statement which has been made by political opponents of George Drew is that he is anti-labor. A look at the record of his administration in Canada's most heavily industrialized province, Ontario, from 1943 to 1948, will readily show that he has been a tireless champion of the rights of the workers. During this period the progressive labor legislation enacted placed Ontario at the forefront in assisting workers. George Drew's belief that a primary duty of government is to protect the worker was translated into action with outstanding results.

"I am proud of the record of George Drew and have been a close friend of his for a long time. The only way to get votes is to tell the truth and that is what this party is doing. The only people who hate Drew are the communists and the CCF are scared of him. Every political opponent in Canada is after George Drew's hide and Drew is fighting as hard as he can right back at them. What he really wants is to help to make Canada strong.

"The Progressive Conservative Party have learned what real co-operation is and they know how to do it voluntarily. What we have now from the powers that be is a forced co-operation. A man cannot be a good internationalist until he learns how to serve his own country. That is why George Drew and Richard Arnott will make two of the best men in Ottawa after this election.

Asks for Support

R. D. Arnott in speaking to the gathering asked for continued support from those on the College Hill the same as he has had in the past but he expressed his hope that it will be even better. He said that he had already heard rumors that the CCF was creeping in on College Hill but he flatly refused to believe it. He also dealt briefly with the fine record of George Drew.

"The Progressive Conservative Party intends to do a lot of things when it goes into power but these are more than just promises. They will become reality if the people will wake up and see the light. There will be increased housing for young married couples and homeless veterans, increased old age pensions and last but not least there will be increased hospital grants. These are just a few of the things that will happen after the 27th of this month when George Drew becomes Prime Minister of Canada. St. Laurent is now afraid that he will not get an over-all majority in the House of Commons.

"The Liberals seem to have given up all hope. They are gradually moving over to the CCF and are opening the doors to a coalition of a sort. The Liberal party has also refused to recognize the fact that they can get the most revenue from the greatest natural resources of Ontario.

"Taxes there must be, but they should be much lower since the war. The income tax rates are now very much unfavorable under the Liberal regime. The Liberals had full power during the war and they are afraid to let it go. The representatives who are sent to Ottawa have as much to say there as we have sitting in our own homes. Without a doubt this is one of the quietest elections that has ever been held and the quiet word is known all over Canada that Drew will be the next Prime Minister.

Denies Rumors

Mr. Arnott spoke briefly on the propaganda put out by the Liberals and backed up George Drew in stamping out the rumors that when he becomes elected that the CNR and the CPR will amalgamate. Another rumor that Drew denies is that the family allowances are to be cut.

Others who spoke in support of the candidate were Harry Rollins, campaign manager for the candidate, Mayor D. L. Storey, Filmer Sandercock, M.L.A.; Roscoe Robson, M.L.A., and Reeve Harry Harrison. A musical program was also presented for those in attendance.

A CENTURY AGO

Annals of the long past were opened before the members of Hastings County Council on the first day of their June session this week and in their mind's eye they could see their forerunners and the great number of members of councils who have for a century served Hastings and carried on the municipal government which took its present form that long time ago.

Present day members honor the memory of their ancestors who were county legislators and who helped to lay the foundations of that healthy municipal life which has carried on to the present. At the same time they can feel the glow of pride in having been called upon by the people of today to serve in the offices of their forerunners.

To see the ponderous tomes opened which contained the records of meetings and discussions of the long ago must have sent a thrill through the members of 1949 council as they realized that their antecedents were in that far-off era doing what they themselves are doing in this time, governing the municipalities of the district or county.

The thoughts of all were given to local government on this centennial occasion. As pointed out at the opening meeting of the Hastings County Council on Tuesday the Baldwin Act of 1849 marked the beginning of township and county municipal governments with elected councils and locally appointed officials and provided for all incorporated municipalities, in one act, the powers which were suitable to their local neeeds.

This delving into a century ago has its interest of course for Belleville as well as the district for one of the county council of a century ago was the reeve of Belleville, Rufus Holden, a representative and a man who was held in high esteem. The names of council members are familiar names, a good many of which are still those of families in these parts.

The perpetuation of names familiar a century ago hereabouts is one of the proofs of the stability of the old families to whom we of this day and generation owe so much for their labors in building for a happy and developing future.

As they built stoutly so are their successors of today building up the local communities which carry on the traditions of a century and more ago.

NO HARD TIMES YET

In view of all the talk which is going on about the depression which some claim is bound to come in Canada, because of the declining purchasing power of the masses of the people, it is interesting to note that the last available figure, that for February, 1949, shows that salaries and wages in that month were $56 million or 11% more than in February, 1948. In February, 1949, total wage payments were estimated at $605 millions. Admittedly, there was a fall of $3 million fromm January, 1949.

The people have not stopped spending their wages. Retail sales in Canada in March, 1948, were $578 million, 6% higher than March, 1948.

This scarcely looks like hard times as yet. Hard times will come if and when employment begins to fall off in Canada. Employment will fall off, if and when buyers find the price of goods so high that they prefer to do without the goods rather than to spend their money. Every time that everyone refuses to buy something, which he would like to buy and could buy, he creates a certain lack of employment.

It is perhaps because of a growing understanding of this, and particularly because the recent Royal Commission on Prices admitted that it had not been able to find any great profiteering, that there has been a notable drop in criticism of high prices, a great increase in the willingness of the public to accept present price levels as being realistic, for the simple reason that even at these price levels most Canadians are able to live better than they lived when prices were much lower.

What now remains to be seen is whether organized labor is satisfied with the present situation, or whether there is going to be another wave of demands for much higher wages, which would mean much higher prices, which might set up resistance on the part of buyers, which might then lead to unemployment and real hard times.

He who knows only his own side of the case, knows little of that.—John Stuart Mill.

It is not what he has or even what he does which expresses the worth of a man, but what he is.—Amiel.

Discretion in speech is more than eloquence.—Bacon.

RUMOR AND GOSSIP

Who seeks the worst can twist the fact
And sinful make the slightest act.
For not 'til all is understood
Can men distinguish bad from good.

Rumor and gossip little heed
The truth of what they hear or read.
Their tales, from evil thinking spun,
Tell never why the deed was done.

All down the years mankind grieved
Because the worst has been believed,
And good, whenever pointed out,
Has often been received with doubt.

I think it strange that mortals should Think evil surer than is good,
And question everything worth while,
But never stop to doubt the vile.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TOO MANY DISLIKES

I know I am sincere in stating that I have far more likes than dislikes. And I take pride in emphasizing these likes. I prefer to say kind things about people whom I know. I like to think of the good things of life rather than the bad things. I like to talk about my good fortunes rather than my misfortunes.

People with too many dislikes often end up by disliking themselves, and their friends (if they have any) as well. What a damper is put upon what ought to be good talk, when a person says: "I don't like it," or "I don't like him." We may even think the same as that other person, but we can remain silent if our expression can serve no good. There are so many likes to talk about. And to express them inspires others to the same liking.

We like to be with people who have a multitude of likes that associate with our own. I like to talk with a lover of books, of art, or of nature. I am thus stimulated in mind and spirit. And how easy it is, and so much pleasanter, to talk about our likes rather than our dislikes.

I often think of an incident that Archibald Rutledge tells about in one of his books, of visiting a friend. Noting some flowers in a special place upon the mantle, he inquired why his hostess had so placed them, and why that particular variety? Her reply was: "They 'mind me of God." How many of us can say the same about the things we love, that they " 'minds" us of God.

We ought to express our likes more and oftener, if for no other purpose than to shame those who are forever giving expression to their dislikes, and giving them a lesson which may result in a change of mind and heart. Our tastes are varied, and it is well that they are, but we gain nothing by condemning the likes of another, nor by advertising our own dislikes.

There are likes and dislikes in doing, too. There are those who dislike all work, who dislike books, and who dislike to take orders from one in a higher position. But many of our dislikes are essential. Life isn't all pleasant sailing. There is many a storm, and many a squall, and we are expected to handle each in good heart, without complaint.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

One of my friends owns a Cadillac, and otherwise treats himself to the more expensive things of life. But at the same time he is notably thrifty and even a little near in relation to the ordinary run of expenses. He checks the domestic food bills narrowly, and all the ordinary little spending that most of us indulge in is weighed by him with as much deliberation as he might give to the purchase of a new car or a suit of clothes.

For instance, I invited him fishing; and I assumed he would provide his own tackle. But this he regarded as absurd. "What would I want with tackle I might use only the once. . . .?" he protested.

Not only did I supply the tackle, but I also lent him flannel shirts, canoe shoes, a fishing hat and other equipment—all on the same grounds that it would be ridiculous for him to buy a lot of gear for the one trip.

During our excursion, I needled him about his thrift in small things, while he was content only with the best, in larger things.

"Money," he explained blandly to me, "is fluid. All my life, I have thought of money in terms of a pailful of it, as if it were say, water. Money can leak away, if the pail is leaky, just as effectively as money can be thrown away, like dumping the pail. In fact, the silliest way to lose money is the same as the silliest way to lose water,—through a leaky pail. There is something satisfying, in fact, in collecting a pail of water and dumping it all out in a wallop. It is nonsense to dip a pail of water, carry it up to the house and then have it simply leak away . . . . .

"By making sure I haven't got a leaky pail, I generally have enough to dump onto a Cadillac or a trip to Europe whenever I feel like it. . . . ."

Letter to the Editor

Bible Politicians

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer

King Pharaoh adopted the simple method of a dream, instead of a political convention, as his policy, Genesis C. 41. He dreamed that he saw seven fat cattle, followed by seven lean cattle, and he asked Joseph to interpret his dream. Joseph declared that it meant that the country would have seven years of good crops, and plenty, followed by seven years of depression, and that during the seven years of prosperity supplies should be gathered for the seven lean years to follow.

This was much simpler than long lists of proposals, which are sometimes not understood or remembered.

Strike Settled By Compromise At Kingston Plant

Kingston, June 16 (CP)—The strike at the Kingston plant of the Aluminum Company of Canada is over, ended by a compromise on production workers' demands for higher wages and additional paid holidays.

Picket lines which had surrounded the plant since midnight Sunday were withdrawn Wednesday night after members of the United Steelworkers of America (C. I. O.) voted to accept a company offer. The compromise was reached in conferences between representatives of the company and of the union.

More than 1,100 production workers struck to enforce demands for a 15-cent hourly increase to bring starting pay to 95 cents an hour, eight paid holidays in place of four a year and checkoff of union dues.

The compromise provides for a minimum wage of 90 cents an hour, six paid holidays a year and the dues checkoff. Other union demands concerning an increase in the shift bonus will be discussed later.

In addition to the production workers, 300 plant employees were made idle by the strike. They were members of the International Association of Machinists (A. F. L.) who reported for work at regular shift hours but made no attempt to cross the C. I. O. picket lines. Only 600 office workers and foremen, not involved in the strike, remained on the job.

Described by the union as a "rest cure" for workers' nerves frayed by wage negotiations, the strike brought operations at the $20,000,000 plant to a standstill. The aluminum factory is the major industry in this Eastern Ontario city of 31,000.

COALITION

The elected Independent, James Mowatt, who failed to obtain the coalition nomination in Alberni, sat as a Coalitionist in the last legislature.

Premier Johnson's post-election comment bore out his five-week-long campaign in which he had stressed a claim that a Socialist government in control at this time would hinder a province facing tremendous expansion. He termed the victory "a great one for free enterprise," and was heartily seconded by Mr. Anscomb.

Mr. Winch said the results "clearly indicate that the people drove the electorate 'to support the government in the hope of maintaining job security and full employment."

Now with provincial decks cleared, some B. C. federal candidates for the June 27 voting may feel freer to swing into action. The Coalition's bid for provincial re-election toned down Liberal and Progressive Conservative federal campaigning to some extent.

At prorogation, the C.C.F. held seven of the province's 16 federal seats, Liberals four, Progressive Conservatives four and an Independent one. Redistribution has added two seats.

The C.C.F. nominated 18 federal candidates, the Liberals 16 and the Progressive Conservatives 15. An unofficial coalition is indicated in the three seats where only one of the old-line parties was nominated since all are C.C.F.-held.

From still-incomplete provincial returns tabulated by the Canadian Press it developed that the Coalition force yesterday received approximately 62 per cent by the total vote, compared to 56 in 1945. C.C.F. candidates polled 35 per cent compared to 38 per cent.

A war-swollen population made possible the record vote. With approximately 150,000 more persons eligible than in 1945.

Total votes were probably more than 700,000 compared to the 1945 total of 467,747 but the number of voters could not be accurately calculated since voters could cast votes for three members in two constituencies and for two members in three.

LAND SALES UP

Edmonton — (CP) — Estimates of city land sales for this year exceed $1,000,000. Last year a record was established when city land was sold for more than $900,000. City land sales for May 1949 are expected to total $105,000.

C V D COMES SOONER OR LATER

There are no particular signs or symptoms by which physician or patient can recognize the early stage of cardiovascular degeneration—hardening of the arteries and/or slow heart muscle failure—but one or more of the following facts should warrant a complete physical or health examination if you are past thirty:

1. You require longer hours of rest and you do not recuperate as quickly with rest as you formerly did.
2. You have digestive difficulties unknown in earlier years, especially a sense of mullness or bloating and of "gas."
3. You are becoming somewhat flabby if not corpulent and disinclined to indulge in physical effort or exercise you formerly enjoyed.
4. Your skin has grown sallow, harsh and dry; your eyes dull and often congested.
5. You become winded if you run even a few blocks.
6. You are easily fatigued by mental effort such as reading or writing for a short time, and you have grown forgetful of details of your work or of recent events.

Even if you have all of these "symptoms" and more it does not necessarily signify that there is anything wrong with your arteries and heart. On the other hand it would not indicate that you are in fine fettle either. All I mean to imply is that it does indicate that it is high time for you to get an appointment with your doctor for a complete physical or health examination.

It may be that you do not value your arteries, heart, teeth and general health as highly as I do mine. All right, stupe, let the doctor wait till the ambulance comes, if you spend money on health while you have any to go on. Would you be willing to invest two bits in health? If so, send it to me along with a stamped envelope bearing your address, and ask for the booklet C V D—it deals with heart and artery troubles.

I hope the term I used for arteriosclerosis or hardening of the arteries and slow heart muscle failure will not alarm anybody. After all, every one gets it if he or she lives long enough. So I think I should worry you just enough to make you do something about it, for I believe what we do or fail to do when we are thirty to forty determines whether we shall get cardiovascular degeneration sooner or later. The easiest thing to do about it, whether your arteries are older than you are or not, is described in the pamphlet Young Folks and Old Folks. Ask for it is writing (do not use a clipping) and inclose stamped self addressed envelope.

In this pamphlet, I warn you some foods which you probably take in restricted quantities if at all, are prescribed as indispensable items in the diet of any one who wishes to preserve as long as possible the characteristics of youth.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Carrot Juice

Claim that carrot juice will correct eye defects and maintain normal vision. How much juice should one drink daily? (Mrs D. J.)

Ansker—It has no such effect. Carrots contain carotene, which can be converted into vitamin A in the body. But not enough to make it worth the bother, if you need vitamin A.

Lucky Baby

Raising our baby according to the Brady Baby Book and friends and neighbors think I am out of my mind if I let the baby go barefooted outdoors in damp or cool weather—but the baby enjoys it and thrives on it. (Mrs. K. N.)

Answer—It is always best for any baby to go barefooted and with the minimum of clothing or bed covers provided the baby likes it and the baby's feet feel warm to your touch. Now is the time to give the baby a break. Send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope for The Brady Baby Book.

Teeth Will Drift

Had a molar extracted, leaving a space between the teeth on either side, which have good inlays. Will these teeth drift if the space is left unbridged. (T. L. F.)

Answer — Yes. By all means have a bridge or other denture installed at once—to save your digestion, your health, your good looks.

Good Dentistry

Dr. ——— of New York, ——— of Los Angeles and myself are just a few of the many who have treated abscessed teeth with results similar to the miracles reported by exodontia (extraction). (——— ———, D. D. S.)

Answer—Thank you, Doctor. You need not sell me, however. In my opinion it is malpractice to extract teeth that good dentistry can save—malpractice on the part of the physician who arbitrarily orders sacrifice of the teeth on a mere guess that one or more may be the seat of focal infection, and on the part of the dentist who extracts the teeth out of deference to the imperious will of the charlatan. Dentists of that sort qualify for the tooth carpenter designation.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GROWTH BY SELF-EFFACEMENT

George Wythe, who lived during the most of the eighteenth century, had as his greatest distinction that he taught other men who became greater than he was. He himself was an excellent lawyer. He signed both the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States and was, in his day, considered an outstanding legal authority. But it was the boys in his office who really made him famous. Wythe laid down the principle that a court can annul a law if this law conflicts with the Constitution, and one of his younger students, John Marshall, later to become Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court, applied this principle with history-making effect.

Wythe trained Patrick Henry. He also trained Thomas Jefferson and James Munroe, both of whom became presidents. Henry Clay was a clerk in Wythe's court for four years.

It is always inspiring to read of the people who eliminate themselves that others might become much. Sometimes we do not read about them because they are the humble fathers and mothers, the undistinguished school teachers, the wives, the friends and associates who by touching ordinary lives have brought them to distinction. But those who become of little consequence that others may have a chance to succeed, are truly great.

West Hastings W.I. Holds Annual Meeting at Stirling

Success again registered at the District Annual meeting of the West Hastings Women's Institute, which was held at the Community Hall in Stirling on Monday with a large representation from the branches. Despite the superstitious 13th and the warm penetrating rays of 'old Sol' the officers carried out their duties with efficiency.

The spacious hall created an inviting and refreshing atmosphere with baskets of summer flowers and a model "table sitting for two" the work of the Stirling Girls' Club and their leader.

Mrs. S. Nicholson, district president, capably presided over the day's proceedings with Mrs. E. B. Finkle as secretary treasurer. Community singing led by Mr. Geo. Crown of Stirling with Mrs. C. Ketcheson at the piano preceded the morning session.

Mr. Holt, councillor, substituting for the Reeve of Stirling, welcomed the visitors to Stirling and in a brief address said that when organizations such as the Women's Institute, get together to plan for better living the more vitality Democracy will have.

Resolutions: Mrs. P. Utman who read a verbatim report of resolutions submitted by the committees which were later discussed at the afternoon session. Mrs. C. Holmes a past prov. president ably conducted this discussion and outlined correct procedure in two of these resolutions viz. WEDDINGS

CARSON—COOK

A quiet but pretty wedding took place on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in St. Andrew's Church, Belleville, when Mrs. Margaret Cook, Belleville, was united in marriage to William John Carson, Belleville. The Rev. J. G. Hornsby officiated.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Carson left for Watertown, N.Y., and upon their return will reside in Belleville.

REID—HOLDEN

The Standard Church, Belleville, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, June 11, at 2 p.m., when Dorothy Mina Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Holden, of Moira, Ontario, was untied in marriage to Walton Richard Albert Reid, of Ivanhoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Reid. The ceremony was performed by the Reverend G. Kelly assisted by the Reverend J. Patterson before an altar banked with ferns, hydrangea, iris and peonies.

The wedding music was provided by the pianist, Miss Helen Brown of Trenton, who wore a becoming light blue ensemble, with corsage of pink carnations.

Miss Evelyn Smith, of Bloomfield, was soloist, gowned becomingly in a navy blue and wore a corsage of white carnations, sang during the signing of the register, "A Wedding Prayer".

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charming in a street length dress of azure blue crepe with navy accessories, and corsage of American Beauty roses and bouvardia. She carried a white Testament with streamers caught with white bouvardia.

Miss Norma Holden, of Moira, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, wearing a street length dress of dove grey crepe, with black accessories, and carried a nosegay of mixed sweetpeas and fern.

Little Beth Holden, sister of the bride, was flower-girl, and wore a pink dress of whispering silk, and carried a nosegay of mixed sweetpeas and fern, with headdress of pink Sweetheart roses.

Mr. Herman Holden, brother of the bride, and Mr. Earle Smith, of Bloomfield, were ushers and Mr. Roy Stevenson of Eldorado, was groomsman.

The wedding dinner, which was held at 5 p.m., at the home of the bride's parents, was attended by 75 guests. The bride's mother, gowned in beige crepe, black accessories, and corsage of Sweetheart roses, was assisted in receiving the guests, by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a gown of aqua-blue crepe with navy accessories and corsage of pink Briarcliffe roses.

The bride chose as her traveling outfit to Niagara Falls, and Northern United States, a brown gabardine suit with matching accessories.

The wedding was also graced by the presence of the 89-year-old grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Thomas Rollins.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Reid will reside in Ivanhoe.

VAUGHAN—KISER

On Saturday, June 11, at 3 p.m. a pretty wedding was solemnized at the United Church, Consecon, when Marlene Lucille, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Kiser, became the bride of William Edward Vaughan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Edward Vaughan, Belleville. The ceremony was performed by the Reverend H. Bartlett before an altar banked with white lilacs and snowballs, spirea and ferns.

Miss Muriel Howe, A.T.C.M., rendered the wedding music and Mrs. Bruce Yarwood, A.T.C.M., sang before the ceremony "The Lord's Prayer" and "At Dawning" during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a traditional gown of white satin; low-cut shoulder, and neckline accented by a handmade rose of the same material, long sleeves, and featuring a peplum back trimmed with Chantilly lace, the skirt ending in a long train. Her full-length veil and face veil was held in place with a tiara of pearls and bugle beads and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white orchids.

Mrs. Cecil Johnson, 237 Waterloo Street, St. John, N.B., sister of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a gown of blue moire diamond horseshoe taffeta, with nosegay of carnations, roses and sweetpeas, with matching halo of flowers.

Miss Barbara and Miss Norma Vaughan, sisters of the bridegroom, and Miss Kathryn Evans, Belleville, were bridesmaids, wearing gowns fashioned on similar lines to that of the matron of honor, in shades of mauve, yellow and pink, with half halos of carnations, sweetpeas and roses matching the nosegays with matching tulle bows.

Little Heather Hoye, of Trenton, and little Mary Lynn McConkey, of Consecon, were flower girls, gowned alike in green taffeta made on similar lines to the matron of honor and wearing half halos of carnations and roses.

Master Roger McConkey was train bearer, wearing white trousers and navy flannel coat.

Mr. William Thompson, Belleville, was groomsman and Mr. Neal VanWyck, Mr. Alex. Pierson and Mr. Douglas Barlow, all of Belleville, were ushers.

At the reception which was held on the lawn at the home of the bride's parents, the bride's mother, wearing orchid brocade taffeta with bolero, and white and gold accessories with corsage of pink roses, was assisted in recieving the guests by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a light blue taffeta gown with bolero, navy accessories and corsage of red roses.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Western United States, the bride chose a grey Poslum suit with matching shorty coat, white bonnet-hat, trimmed with navy, and navy accessories. Upon their return, the happy couple will reside in Belleville.

Women's Hospital Aux. Holds Charming Tea Party

A charming garden party and delightful tea was held on Wednesday afternoon at the lovely new home of Dr. George H. Stobie and Mrs. Stobie, on the Bay of Quinte, under the auspices of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary.

Just outside, seated at a small table were Mrs. E. O. Keeler, Mrs. St. Clair Hurlbut, and Mrs. H. Cair-Braint, who were in charge of the guest books, while inside Mrs. Stobie, assisted by Mrs. Gilbert Scott, president of the Hospital Auxiliary, received the numerous guests who, after being most graciously and cordially welcomed, dispersed in groups of twos and threes or more. Some wended their way to the attractive library with its book-lined walls and compact cosiness, to sit at restful ease renewing old acquaintances or making new ones, or to gaze at the beauty of rolling, white-capped waves through swaying branches. Others thronged the spacious living room, — a symphony in pastel greens — while some braved the vigorous breeze, and sat about in groups on the terrace enjoying the vistas of velvety lawn, blue waters, distant hills, and drinking in the health-producing ozone.

Across the sun-drenched lawn wafted the broken strains from a piano-accordian in the hands of Mrs. Grace Calvert, luring the ever-curious to the two soothsayers, in proverbial attire, Miss B. Rierdon and Miss Jean Morrison, who skilfully separated them from their hard-earned dimes, and judging from the waiting 'cues' the venture was successful. The convener of this was Mrs. Fred Deacon. Mrs. J. G. Galloway, Mrs. H. Croll, and Mrs. P. C. McGuire, invited to the tea rooms and Mrs. I. Hefkey was the gracious hostess of the dining-room.

A Thing of Beauty

The dining-room with its lovely, antique furnishings was a thing of beauty, and a joyous scene of animation. The long tea table was centered by a silver rose bowl filled with graceful snapdragons in pink and white, and deeper pink carnations, on an Italian lace runner of exquisite design. Two tall triplesilver candelabra with ivory candles, and silver tea services completed the appointment.

Those who presided from 3 to 4:30 were Mrs. D. L. Storey and Mrs. R. H. Wray, while Mrs. C. Morgan and Mrs. T. Y. Wills assumed the honors from 4:30 to 5:30.

Those who were presiding on the terrace from 3:30 to 4:30 were Mrs. J. Forrester and Mrs. George Graham; from 4:30 to 5:30, Mrs. A. MacDonald and Miss M. Byers.

The recreation room came in for the overflow, and like the others was a hive of lively conversation, joyous eating, and happy fellowships.

Those who were kept busy replenishing the dainty sandwiches, refreshing tea, and delicious confections were: Mrs. Kenneth Griffeths, Mrs. J. E. Marsh, Mrs. E. McCormick, and Mrs. John McIntosh.

Those who served from 3 to 4:30 were: Mrs. Leona Wilson, Mrs. E. Fairman, Mrs. Fred Deacon, Mrs. R. A. Elliott, Mrs. L. Dandeno, Mrs. E. M. McDonald, Mrs. E. B. Lally, Mrs. R. L. Bird, Mrs. J. M. Robb, Mrs. A. B. Hunt, and Mrs. Arthur Hill.

From 4:30 to 5:30 those who served were: Mrs. H. Robbins, Mrs. Sydney Sillitoe, Mrs. G. R. Weese, Mrs. D. G. Burr, Mrs. O. V. Grandame, Mrs. Reg. Anderson, Mrs. Lewis Watson, Mrs. R. H. Tanner, Mrs. N. E. Edwards, and Mrs. G. Keeler.

Those in charge of the transportation were Mrs. H. McCabe, Mrs. Ted Follwell, and Mrs. M. Hawkins. Mrs. R. E. Peterson kindly looked after the sending of invitations and Miss Ivy Dickens was the treasurer.

Much credit is due to all those who unstintingly labored to make this occasion one of such gaiety as well as one of such a successful culmination, and especially to the gracious hostess, and to its convener, Mrs. Joseph Imlah.

Woman Hungry For Green Fields Of England

New York, June 16 (AP) — A tired old woman, her aged heart hungry for the green fields of her native England, has given up trying to be an American. Today she heads back across the sea to die.

"I'm going back to England to finish my life, 90-year-old Mrs. Eliza Slack said Wednesday night. "I came here to finish it, but I have become too homesick."

Mrs. Slack came here Christmas Day, 1947, to spend the rest of her days with a son in Minneapolis, Archibald Slack, 53. She had not seen him in 42 years.

"My son and daughter-in-law did their best to make me happy, but they couldn't succeed," she said. "My son loves it here, but for me to change countries after 89 years is too much.

"I like America. The people are very kind and hospitable and I am charmed with them.

"But this old woman will not be happy until she gets home."

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

..Invitations worded in second person not appropriate

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a teen-ager, and in two or three months will be moving to another part of the country. My mother and father are planning to give a farewell party for me, inviting all my school friends. Refreshments will be served... not a meal. Our problem is how to word the invitations. I thought they should be worded like this:

You are sincerely invited to attend the

to be given for
etc.

But my mother says this is not correct, for she says that a Farewell Party is never given by the family, but by a close friend. If you agree with your mother that this form of invitation is incorrect, will you please suggest a suitable invitation?

Your question somewhat confuses the type of party with the type of invitations. It is quite proper for your mother and father to give you a party before you leave, but the invitations should be informal notes written by your mother (preferably, since she will be the hostess) or by you in her name. The type of invitation you suggest...the invitation worded in the second person..."You are invited"...has no style or appropriateness for the invitation to an informal party.

Best of all, your mother should write a note, on letterpaper or note-paper, worded something like this:

Dear Janet,

Before we leave to live in ---, we are giving a party for Mary and her friends, and it would make us all very happy if you will come here on Friday evening, June 24, at eight o'clock.

Please tell us you will come.

Cordially,
Martha Smith

..Guest Provide Own Transportation To Wedding Reception

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Some of my friends tell me that it is compulsory for the bride's family to provide transportation for all the guests from the church to the wedding reception. Is this true?

M.P.

No. The bride's family are responsible for the transportation of the bridal party, but the guests arrange for their own transportation from the church to the reception.

Sending Wedding Announcements

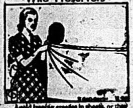
Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are having a rather small wedding. (1) Is it considered correct to send a large number of formal, engraved announcements of a small wedding? (2) And when we send the announcements, should we send them also to those who were invited to the wedding?

-Sue T.

(1) Yes. Regardless of the size of the wedding, you may send as many announcements as you wish. As a matter of fact, the smaller the wedding, usually the more practical it is to send a large number of announcements. (2) No. Announcements are not sent to those invited to the wedding... whether or not they were able to attend the wedding.

Wife Preservers



Avoid ironing creases in sheets, or they will wear out more rapidly at the crease. Fold them off center part of the time, so the same threads won't be creased every time.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Treatment of enlarged pores

No minor good-looks grief is the skin of coarse texture. Facial operators in beauty shops make no promises of immediate improvement, as it is no easy task to change the cutaneous fabric for the better. The cause of this unfavorable condition may be due to neglect or to a diet too rich in fats.

The pulchritude patient is given definite orders to omit fried foods from the daily menus and to shun pastries. Every year we learn more about the bond between health and appearance. The woman who walks hand in hand with the Goddess Hygeia is likely to have few good-look sorrows.

Don't underestimate the beautifying value of diet

The first step in combatting enlarged pores is to find a bland soap and to use it faithfully at bedtime, fluffing up a rich lather working it into the flesh with the fingertips. This treatment serves as a sort of a massage treatment to speed up circulation. The water should not be hot, because heat is relaxing to the skin structure; it should be just warm enough to make the suds form in a hurry. After the face-washing, there should be a warm rinsing, then a cold one; an astringent should be applied immediately.

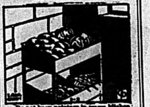
A cold rinsing would be sufficient in the morning and an astringent should be used again. An ice friction now and then is most helpful.

On cosmetic counters, there are displayed special lotions for refining the skin. They tighten up tissue-sag, tend to make texture closer and finer. A simple home remedy will be found in witch hazel. Apply it with a pledget of cotton; let it dry on.

It is best to forego the pleasure of using creams or any form of oil beautifier for a time. If it's necessary to apply a soothing emollient, do not let it remain on for more than an hour.

The coarse-grained skin is susceptible to blackheads. Large pores may be blocked with sebaceous exudation that have hardened, and the tips of which attract atmospheric dust. Blackheads lead to another horror—acne. They may so distend the walls break forming a perfect lodging place for bacteria. So if your skin is coarse-grained follow the right coarse of treatment and ward of the secondary troubles that may descend upon you.

Don't underestimate the beautifying value of diet. Cut down on fats in all forms. Start the day with orange or tomato juice. Once a day have a green salad. Drink plenty of water. Go slow on make-up, avoiding heavy powders that have oily contents.



Do not keep potatoes in warm kitchen bins or they will shrivel, sprout and spoil. Keep all vegetables in a cool place.

Girls Know How To Keep Cool On Warm Days

Ottawa, June 16 — (CP)—Hot, eh? Well, take a tip from the girls. They have it all over the men when it comes to knowing how to keep cool in warm weather.

That's the opinion of Dr. R. G. Ratz, chief of the Health and Welfare Department's civil service health division. He said in an interview he was heartily in favor of open - necked dresses, shorts and no stockings.

"Clothing should be light and as non-constrictive as possible — and women follow that out," he said.

But men! Those ties!

The neck-tie is "one of the worst offenders." Dr. Ratz looked down perspiringly, and accusingly, at his own dark blue number.

"A neck-tie," he said, "prevents circulation of air between the neck and the body."

Shirts, open at the neck, were the best.

As for physical exercise, he warned that persons getting on in years should be chary of hot weather activity.

For instance, "You'll find a lot of people playing tennis on the hottest day."

While this might not be harmful to the young ones, older persons should be careful—especially those not used to exertion.

"People more than 45 should not indulge in unaccustomed strenuous exercise, particularly in hot weather," said Dr. Ratz.

Women's Activities

AIKENS' W.M.S.

3rd Sidney—The June meeting of Aikens' Woman's Missionary Society was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Westover, with an attendance of twelve members, two Mission Band and two Baby Band members.

A very fine program with the theme "Keeping the Lord's Day" was presented and was in charge of the program convener, Mrs. Carmen Grills, assisted by her co-conveners, Mrs. Allan Latta and Mrs. Orliff Pearson.

The Sabbath was observed by the Hebrew people long before the Ten Commandments were recorded in Scripture. Jesus observed the Sabbath though He freed its observance from many petty rules which had made it a burden instead of a blessing to the people of His day.

The Sabbath a Day of Worship

In the Christian Church, the Lord's Day has been a day set aside for worship and for preaching and teaching; a day when men and women have been called to turn their minds and hearts to God and to enter into His Kingdom. Today in many lands and in countless churches Christian people gather on the Lord's Day to seek new light and power for Christian living.

Misuse of Sabbath Day

Few subjects are of more vital concern today than Sabbath observance. What happens in our generation to the Lord's Day Act of Canada which was enacted by the Parliament of Canada in 1906 will have a far-reaching influence on the future of the church, on the future of children and youth and indeed, on the future of the nation. Many of the tragedies witnessed in the lives of individual Canadians, many of the social evils that cause alarm, find their root cause in the failure to use this Day according to God's purpose.

During the business session which was conducted by the President, Mrs. S. Westover, plans were made for a joint meeting of the Auxiliary members, Mission Band and Baby Band members. The treasurer announced the proceeds of the cooking sale to be almost $40.

As superintendent of the Aikens' Mission Band, Mrs. Harleigh Hamilton gave a brief resume of the last meeting of the Band, when the Reverend Wesley Neelands, had presented copies of the New Testament to the children on behalf of the Gideon Bible Society.

Bible Reading Urged

In his talk to the children, Mr. Neelands, asked them to read the Books of Matthew, Mark, Luke and especially the 10th chapter of Acts and the Psalms which were recorded in the front of the Testament. Mrs. Hamilton stated that there were 30 members of the Aikens' Mission Band all pupils of the public school.

Musical numbers which added much to the afternoon's program were a piano solo "Mother's Prayer" by Mrs. Lee Grills and a vocal solo "No One Ever Cared For Me Like Jesus" by Mrs. Perry Hamilton.

Suitable hymns were sung throughout the service and an interesting discussion followed the presentation of the program leaflet which had been prepared by Miss Harriet Christie, dean of the United Church Training School in Toronto.

Prayers were offered for the wise use of Sunday in our lives and in the homes, and for the wisdom to influence the standards of the community in the observance of the Lord's Day.

At the close of the meeting delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Fred Westover and the program conveners.

CENTENARY W.M.S.-W.A.

The Centenary W.M.S. helds its June meeting at the home of Mrs. Reg. Edmondson, with a good attendance of members and friends.

Mrs. Geo. McDonald presided and gave the call to worship from the Missionary Monthly. Mrs. D. Thrasher and Mrs. E. Hart read the scripture readings on the theme for the day.

"Our Heritage and How to Spend Sunday" was discussed by Mrs. McDonald and many helpful thoughts were outlined. Mrs. Roy Thrasher gave a reading on the importance of family worship in the home and the influence for good it has on each member of the family.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Jamieson in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. W. Shortt. Collection received amounted to $4.69 and a special collection of $4.90 to be used for a special purpose.

Mrs. F. Aikens gave a reading and Mrs. Kelley spoke on "Temperance", and what the beverage rooms are doing to the young people in the cities and towns.

Rev. Mr. McCallum requested that while on his holidays the society be responsible for one Sunday Church service.

The W.A. meeting followed with Mrs. E. Ray in the chair. It was announced that $47.40 had been collected from the community to send parcels through "Care" to Europe.

Mrs. P. Sutherland, on behalf of herself, and little daughter, Heather, thanked the ladies for a plant and cards.

After several items of business were taken care of the delegates, Mrs. L. Hall and Mrs. G. Sills, gave splendid reports of the convention held recently at Grace church in Trenton. Rev. Mr. McCallum closed the meeting.

The hostess and her assisting group served refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed.

CANNIFTON W.A.

The June dinner meeting was held in the Sunday School rooms and was in charge of Mrs. Peacock and Mrs. Wm. Bleekman. The tables were pretty in white with red flowers and white iris.

After a bounteous repast was partaken, Mrs. H. Farnham, president of the W.A., presented to Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Trumpour, an electric kettle and a two pound box of chocolates, on behalf of the W.M.S. and W.A. Although taken by surprise, Mr. Trumpour thanked the ladies for their help during his pastorate and hoped in some small way that he had helped them in their Christian life. Mrs. Trumpour spoke very feelingly of her associations with the ladies in the two groups and said she had enjoyed it very much and of how she had always found Mrs. Farnham, a willing and faithful worker. She was delighted with the present as it was just what she had wanted. Mrs. Harry Tweney, president of the W.M.S., also said a few words. Mr. and Mrs. Trumpour and Kenneth, are leaving and all wish them "God's speed" in their new charge.

At 2.30 p.m. the meeting was opened by the president, and after the reports were read and adopted, Mrs. Thomas Howard, the delegate to the W.A. convention in Trenton, read the report of the meetings, which was interesting to those unable to attend.

The president also read a poem entitled "The Noble Life", after which Mrs. Twiddy and Mrs. Howard sang a duet "O Saviour Come to Me".

The meeting closed and the sewing group finished some aprons and there were two quilts on.

CHRIST CHURCH PARISH GUILD

Christ Church Parish Guild held their regular monthly meeting on Tuesday last, at 3 p.m., with Mrs. Geo. Meades in the chair. Mrs. Horace Wright was pianist.

The secretary's minutes were read and approved also the treasurer's report and reports of the other various committees.

A generous gift for broadcasting purposes was received from Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hinchey. The Rev. J. Grant Sparling spoke on various parish activities.

Following the business session, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. W. Kempston and group, who were in charge of the program. Various readings were given and a most attractive program of dancing was given by the pupils of Miss Barbara Diment. The Guild appreciated very much the time and effort given for this entertainment.

Mrs. Wm. Adams and social committee served a delicious tea and the Parish Guild meetings adjourned until September.

TABERNACLE W.M.S.

The June meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Tabernacle United Church was held in the church parlors was Mrs. W. M. Harrison presiding in the absence of the president, Mrs. Laura Adamson. Mrs. Duff presided at the piano.

The secretary's report was given by Mrs. G. Brickman and adopted as read. Mrs. F. Paul reported $97.79 in the bank.

Mrs. A. Fisher gave a temperance reading, and Mrs. Charles Hogle reported that eight cartons of good clothing had been packed and shipped to Toronto for Europe. Two lovely comforters for babies were quilted by the College Hill group for supply needs, and also some portions of baby layettes were made and had been brought in at this meeting from other members of the W.M.S.

Mrs. Archibald spoke on "Christian Stewardship" and Mrs. Harrison is to act as president for the remainder of the year. Miss Johns gave a synopsis of the study book, "West of the Gorges", which included the last chapter of "The Christian's Church". She related that in China religion was greatly gained, and that the door was open for many more recruits.

Mrs. F. Paul had charge of the devotional period, the theme of which was "Keeping the Lord's Day", while Mrs. A. H. Fisher read several portions of the Scripture. Mrs. Paul closed the meeting.

Britain Looks to Canada For Big Business in Television

By H. L. JONES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, June 16 — (CP) — Britain's radio industry has its television eye on the Canadian market.

Right now, say British radio executives, the picture is a bit blurred. But eventually they hope to do big business in the Dominion despite American competition and other difficulties.

A group of overseas correspondents who recently toured British radio factories were told Britain is ready to go into the Canadian market from the erection of television stations to the sale and servicing of receivers. British manufacturers are ready to turn out any type of equipment Canada desires and meet American competition on quality and price.

Already one large British company, Electrical and Musical Industries, Ltd.) is negotiating with the CBC for erection of Canada's first TV station in Toronto and possibly another in Montreal. An executive said each station would cost about $400,000 but no decision had yet been made if Britain would get the business.

Another British company (Pye) has set up a factory at Ajax, Ont., where television and other radio equipment will be manufactured for sale in Canada.

British manufacturers expect Canada will adopt the television system used in the United States so Canadian sets will be able to pick up American transmissions. The United States system is multi-channel and produces a picture on a 525-line screen compared with the British single-station system which uses a 405-line screen.

Receivers for the multi-channel 525-line system are more expensive to manufacture. But British producers are ready to turn them out for the Canadian market as cheaply as American models. And, they claim, the quality will be as good or better.

The Canadian market for British radio products has never been large. Last year radio equipment of all kinds to the value of £12,000,000 was exported, £208,000 worth of it to Canada.

British manufacturers expect great expansion of this trade if they can establish a firm foothold in the television field in Canada.

Emergency Crops For Hay and Grain

Toronto — Continued dry weather has brought many Ontario farmers face to face with an immediate shortage of pasture and an anticipated shortage of both hay, pasture and grain later in the season, says Dr. G. P. McRostie, Head of Field Husbandry Department, Ontario Agricultural College.

The immediate shortage is very difficult to overcome but it can be helped to some extent at least by feeding reserve hay or grain if available. If such is not obtainable some of the new hay crop may have to be used, either fed green as a soiling crop or cured before feeding.

It is not too late to plan for later season shortages. No amount of rain from now on can insure a heavy hay crop in most sections. Therefore some kind of supplementary feed will be needed. Several crops can be used for this purpose.

Sudan Grass seeded during the next two weeks at the rate of 30 pounds of seed per acre can be pastured when sixteen to eighteen inches high or cut for hay in the early heading stage.

Other Selections

Millets can be used similarly. The Siberian, Hungarian, Empire and Common are varieties that are used chiefly for emergency hay, but may be used also for pasture. These may be seeded as late as the third week of June at 30 pounds per acre, and should be harvested for hay when fully headed.

Oats make a satisfactory hay if harvested six to eight days after heading. In some parts of Canada this crop provides most of the hay used. A portion of our crop may be thus used.

For fall pasture rape and kale may be seeded in drills, using one pound of seed per acre, or broadcast, using 4 or 5 pounds per acre. The crop is ready to pasture six to eight weeks after seeding and it may be planted as late as the middle of July.

Make Excellent Pasture

Oats at one bushel and fall rye at one-and-one-half bushels per acre, seeded during the first two weeks of August, make an excellent fall pasture. The oats provide early fall pasture and the rye, late pasture, and if needed, the rye can be left to provide early pasture the following spring.

To supplement shortage of grain, early maturing hybrids of grain corn can still be planted. Buckwheat also is a good possibility, and the grain millets, as Siberian Proso, Crown, and Hog, as well as grain sorghum, are all suitable for providing extra feed.

Search for Uranium in Arizona Resembles Old Time Gold Rush

Flagstaff, Ariz., June 16 — (AP) — Atomic-age prospectors, armed with Geiger counters and pick axes, have launched a new gold rush in northern Arizona.

This time the "gold" is uranium.

Prospectors are swarming in droves over canyons and arroyos pointing their counters at anything that resembles carnotite. This is one of about 100 mineral ores containing uranium.

In its purest state carnotite contains 60 per cent uranium and 20 per cent vanadium, the Arizona Department of Mineral Resources reported.

Charles H. Dunning, director of the department, said the rush resulted from publicity given recent strikes.

"The possibilities of finding and developing uranium sources in northern Arizona are enormous" Dunning says.

Already the towns of Ashfork, Selginan, Williams, Flagstaff, Winslow and Holbrook have noted the influx of prospectors ranging from grizzled experienced sourdoughs to college students on vacation.

Strikes of importance have been made in the state's northern counties

Most publicized of these is the Maggie Riley claim. A few months ago Mrs. Riley stumbled on some petrified logs. They were flaky and apparently not what she wanted in the way of specimens to polish and sell to tourists.

However, she mailed samples to the Mineral Resources Department and discovered her find was worth $40,000.

ANTI-MALARIA UNITS

Calcutta, India — (CP) — The West Bengal government is opening 20 new anti-malaria units for rural areas, each unit covering 40 villages. Last year's campaign had good results, in one area the incidence of malaria falling from 61 to 37 per cent.

PEACH-PITTING MACHINE

Adelaide, Australia — (CP) — A local man has invented a machine to pit peaches which will save Australian canners £40,000 ($160,000) a year. He says the machine, operated by hand or power, halves fruit and ejects stones at a rate up to 56 a minute.

County Tables Hospital Request for Payment of $8,522 Indigent Accounts

Hastings County Council, late Wednesday afternoon, endorsed a motion that "no further contributions be made to the Belleville General Hospital on 1948 indigent deficits." (See story elsewhere.)

Following a serious two-hour discussion Wednesday morning, Hastings County Council laid over for further discussion and decision the request of the Belleville General Hospital for payment of the sum of $8,522.43, said to be the balance of cost of county indigent patients for 1948.

W. H. Wakefield, hospital administrator, addressed the council on the matter, and answered several questions during the lengthy discussion.

He pointed out that while the Board of Governors was extremely grateful for the county grant of $8,000 last year, an audited statement revealed that earlier in the year the cost to the hospital for county indigents had been $10,195 up to Dec. 31, 1948. Since then the county had paid some accounts and figures at the moment are $8,522.43.

Capital Charges Excluded

This amount, the administrator pointed out, does not include any capital charges, bank charges on debentures issued by the city of Belleville. All profits such as drugs government grants, etc., had been deducted from hospital operating costs before deciding the number of patient days of patients from the county.

The number of patient days chargeable to the county of Hastings in 1948 was 56,758.

It was pointed out by members that the county rate of $2.50 per diem per patient and the county grant had brought county payments to $4.55 per day. This, plus the government grant of 60 cents per day, brought the total indigent revenue to the hospital of $5.15.

Stating that the public ward fee was $5.00 per day, Reeve Wells, Stirling, failed to see how the county owed the hospital money.

Extras Not Included

Mr. Wakefield, however, stated that the $5.00 per day did not include extras which varied at times and at others amounted to $2.00.

Reeve Clarke Rollins, Wollaston. "Are you asking other counties to pay extra cost?"

Wakefield: "We would be establishing a precedent if we did. Hastings has by far the most cases and should lead the way. If this county pays the extra cost, other counties will fall in line."

"Do you call $8,000 a precedent?" asked a voice from the northern benches.

"We will admit that this county has been very generous in paying fifty per cent of the cost," replied the administrator.

"It looks like public ward patients are paying $7 a day instead of five and it further looks as though you have more indigents than others in public wards," remarked the Stirling reeve.

"With rising costs that's true," came the reply.

Cites Other Arrangements

Answering the remark that some people are indigents because they prefer it that way, Mr. Wakefield said that is because we have never had a true interpretation of the word 'indigent.'

In some cases, the administrator said, the counties made arrangements to pay on a cost basis. In others, the counties refused to have anything to do with anything over the $2.50 per diem rate. As a result the city of Hamilton imposed a $2.000 levy on all patients residing outside its city limits.

"Personally I am opposed to this," Mr. Wakefield said. "I think it is penalizing the people who pay the taxes, and I cannot see where it would be a happy arrangement. It may happen here, all depending on what the county will do."

More Government Assistance

The administrator agreed with Reeve Adams, Dungannon, that if the county is to pay $16,000 a year over and above its indigent rates, it should receive more assistance from the government.

"The government indigent rate is based on: 1st, bed numbers; 2nd, ratio of private patients to indigents, and third, occupancy percentage. How they arrive at the figures no one can tell. But it is quite obvious an increase in rates should be approved," he said.

Only fifty per cent of Hastings indigent patients are treated in the Belleville hospital, Reeve Vincent Lynch, Marmora, said. "How is it that we are not pressed by other hospitals after we have paid our legal and moral obligations? And how," he added, "since people say they pay as much here as they do in other cities, do these outside hospitals absorb this extra cost?"

Has No Endowment

Belleville General Hospital has no endowment, the administrator replied. "All teaching hospitals attached to medical schools get a grant of $1.00 a day per bed from the government. Kingston for instance gets this grant as well as being endowed and receiving staff assistance from Queen's University. Toronto General Hospital has 750 beds and gets $750 a day grant. Yet it had a $620,000 deficit in 1948."

Reeve George Spencer, Frankford, charged that a number of people from his district were being admitted to the hospital as indigents without his knowledge. "A lot of them would not be there in that capacity had I been advised. There seems to be a lack of co-ordination between the hospital and the county," he said.

Mr. Wakefield said he still believed in believing people. He quoted the case of a child, one of four, who was admitted to hospital for treatment, while her father had been working for four months. "I could not turn down a sick baby," he added.

Thinks Costs Out of Line

Reeve Harry Harrison, Thurlow, felt the figures produced by the auditors were not correct. "He sets the indigent cost down at $6.96 per day and claims this county owes, on that basis, another $8,000. The cost of $6.96 for indigents as against $7.15 for semi-private ward patients is out of line. The hospital received from the county $5.15 plus a grant. It will take a lot to convince me our indigents are costing $6.96 per day."

The auditor, Mr. Wakefield said, deducted all profits and government grants to arrive at the cost of $6.96. "Actually," he went on, "the government auditors have a way of computing costs from total expenditures and patient days."

"For 1948," he added, "the government figures for Belleville General Hospital's cost per day will be $8.98. This is what the hospital paid out for every patient day including everything. Other hospitals per diem costs will be: Brantford, $7.42; Kitchener-Waterloo, $8.44; Oshawa, $8.87 and Windsor. Ont., Metropolitan Hospital, $11.06." Figures for the Kingston hospital were not available.

Salaries in Lump Sum

County Treasurer Ross Bailey said that the auditor took off the costs of special services, but he did not break down the report very much. Salaries were in a lump sum, and he did not believe the auditor had deducted the salaries applicable to the special services. "Had he done this I think the rate would have been less," he said.

Asked by Reeve Lynch, Marmora, if a patient was forced to pay a week in advance on admission, Mr. Wakefield replied that unless he had a Blue Cross certificate or a reputable life insurance policy, the patient was asked to pay a week's deposit. "But we cannot turn any patient down, and we never suggest indigency because it is to our disadvantage."

THE EIFFEL TOWER

Almost 7,500 tons of iron were used in the construction of the Eiffel Tower in Paris which stands 985 feet high.

Fawn 'Holds up' Northern Reeve

The shape moved. Then to the reeve's surprise, it suddenly broke into a half-trot, half-lope and headed directly for the lights of the car.

He rammed down the brakes and the gravel spun from under the wheels. A baby fawn was looking curiously at the front of the motor car, unafraid and apparently just curious.

"It was a mere baby," the reeve said. "And I managed to stop the car just in time to avoid striking it. After a few seconds or so it loped towards the fence and disappeared."

The reeve stated that deer appear to be plentiful in his section of the county, and on numerous occasions have been seen on and near the highways and byways.

County Council Will Make No Further Contributions To Hospital on 1948 Deficit

Hastings County Council at the Wednesday afternoon session endorsed by a clear majority a motion that "no further contribution be made to the Belleville General Hospital on its 1948 deficit".

The motion followed two days of lengthy discussion during which council was addressed by W. D. Wakefield, hospital administrator. Following his Wednesday morning address the matter was tabled for discussion and resumed, before the 1950 estimates were struck late yesterday afternoon.

While some members were of the opinion that something should be done with regard to the hospital's request for the amount said to be the county's share of indigent patient cost, the majority ruled that the overall payment of $16,000 (including an $8,000 grant given December last) for claimed Hastings County indigent patients extra cost, would establish something of a precedent. It was felt, the governing body would be called upon to do this every year, with probable increasing amounts.

Province Asked to Help

At the same time, the council unanimously endorsed a recommendation of the Prince Edward County Council that the provincial government be urged to increase the ward indigent patient day assistance to a minimum of $2.00 per day.

The recommendation stated that "inasmuch as county councils are being asked for more money to help maintain hospitals and remove deficits and as the provincial governments assistance to hospitals is only 53 cents per ward indigent patient day and is wholly inadequate to maintain costs of indigent patients over and above the indigent costs paid by the municipality" the above recommendation was urged.

A resolution of the Middlesex County Council which stated that body was unanimously opposed to the cancellation of the provincial one-mill subsidy to municipalities, was concurred in by the council. The resolution prompted some discussion. It was pointed out that one reason the subsidy was discontinued was because the city of Toronto raised its assessment several millions of dollars.

Reeve Charles Rush, Hungerford, said that if municipalities were given back the subsidy, smaller ones with no police or other costs, would know what's coming in and could estimate accordingly. Reeve Vincent Lynch, Marmora, was of the opinion "we would still be in the hole if we raised our assessments."

Take No Action

Council took no action on a Wentworth County Council resolution asking the provincial government to raise the salaries of sheriffs' constables from four to five dollars per day.

A motion that no grants could be made in the December session of the council unless recommended by the Finance Committee precipitated a lively discussion. Some members felt it was too close to the coming year and the following council would be burdened with the costs of grants, while others stated that the December session was the only one in which council could find out where it stood financially.

Reeve Charles Rush stated that taking the authority from open council to a small group was not to his liking. "There is no greater proof of democracy than having these matters before open council. I have a great respect for the ability of the Finance Committee, but I feel a smaller number of men might reject a ceive a different consideration worthy cause which would re- from open council."

Deputy Reeve Seldon Homan, Thurlow, felt the Finance Committee was an authoritative safeguard when matters could be talked over properly. "Last year we ran close to the line by spending $20,000 in the December session. This motion is a good way to keep our finances in proper order."

The motion carried by a 13-11 vote.

FATHER OF YEAR—Syl Apps, former captain of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League has been named father of the year by the Canadian Father's Day Council. The council cited his sports record and the encouragement he has given young Canadians as a coach of various hockey teams and as Ontario Athletic Commissioner, a post from which he retired early this year. Peering over Syl's shoulder at the $100 cheque that went with the award are his son Bob, 7, and daughter Joanne, 8. The younger members of the Apps team are Carol, 5, and Sylvanus, 2. Syl turned over the cheque to the Society for Crippled Children.—(CP photo).

Council Turns Down Motion From Game Club

Members of Hastings County Council while great believers in and endorsers of the tourist industry, feel that at least some of the fishing facilities of the Bay of Quinte waters should be at the disposal of local residents.

This was evidenced when the county governing body at the Wednesday afternoon session took no action on suggestion of the Belleville and Hastings County Fish and Game Association that "no trolling or fishing from moving boats be allowed on Bay of Quinte Waters before July 1st of each year, and secondly, that pike in the Bay of Quinte district be placed on the game fish list."

The recommendation, the original of which was forwarded to the Department of Game and Fisheries, stated that the prohibition of trolling and fishing from moving boats in the Bay of Quinte "was but a continuance of regulations at present in effect in the Trent River system over the same waters as they continue into the Bay of Quinte to Lake Ontario."

With regard to making pike a game fish, the resolution pointed out that while local residents give preference to 'lunge and bass, the tourists prefer to take pike. "These people," it said, "come here during the holiday season and get great satisfaction through taking a two-to-ten pound pike along with perch, rock bass, etc. It relieves the pressure on the 'lunge and bass population and we would have a ready supply of pike for visiting anglers."

"While I have a great respect for the Fish and Game Association and know what fine work it is doing, I do not feel that this suggestion is right," said Reeve Charles Rush, Hungerford. "I feel we would be depriving a great many citizens and residents of their early summer amusement. It seems to me to be a little too drastic a measure."

"We can't fish from a moving boat north of No. 7 Highway," Reeve Charles Buskard said, "until after July 1st, and I believe it has resulted in an increase in the fish populations."

"Whoever trolled from a boat that wasn't moving," quipped one of the northern reeves.

Council moved no action on the matter.

Southern Drive Of Chinese Reds Bogged Down

Canton, June 15. (AP)— The Communist southbound offensive was reported bogged down today by floods that have taken 20,000 lives in China's "rice bowl".

The death toll was reported by the Nationalists' official Central News Agency. It gave no source for the report which was not confirmed elsewhere.

Central News said the flood victims were in the Hengyang area about 270 air miles north of this refugee capital on the Canton-Hankow railway. Hengyang is in Hunan province, one of China's richest rice-producing area.

Nationalist military sources reported jubilantly that floods were holding up the Red Drive to the south. They said high water had damaged roads around Nanchang in northern Kiangsi province where the Reds have heavy troop concentrations. Nanchang is 400 miles northeast of Canton.

The "New Voter's Dance" held Wednesday evening at the Club Commodore sponsored by the Belleville Progressive Conservative Association in the interests of Mr. R. D. Arnott K.C., the Progressive Conservative standard bearer in Hastings South, proved to be a smashing success as almost 500 new voters of Belleville and district gathered for an evening of fun and entertainment with their friends.

With dancing in progress from 9.00 p.m. to 1.00 a.m. featuring music by the Commodore's orchestra with vocals by Arthur Duby the crowd had little difficulty in keeping themselves amused and occupied as they awaited the appearance of the candidate Mr. Arnott. When he arrived after having attended a rally at College [illegible], he was greeted with a tumultuous ovation as he walked to the front to officiate for the drawing of the door prize. The lucky winner proved to be Mr. Bob Potts.

With every dance being a spot dance the following couples were awarded gifts during the evening, Dorothy Meeks and George Royle, Mr. and Mrs. Mickey Walt of Trenton, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hyde, Norma Chambers and Keith McNary, Margaret Clarke and Bruce Sword, Elsie Clarke and Allie Kellar, Evelyn Ellis and Merle Brown, Dorothy Watlingham and Orlie Glass, Joan Gibbon and Ross Soule, Clarence Meeks and Pat Semark, Elizabeth Chadworth and Percy Law, Mrs. Pringle and John Jee, Helen Lalonde and Tom VanAlstyne, Marjorie Hughson and George Ward, Mae Sedore and Doug Bone, Eva Wood and George Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bradshaw, Bill Barrett and Vivian Smith, Mrs. Wadsworth and Mr. Johnson, Mrs. Grace and Chas. Eaton and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lawrence

The prizes were generously donated by Belleville merchants and were canvassed for by the Young Men's Committee of the Belleville Progressive Conservative Association consisting of Messrs. Jerry Hyde, Wilbur Countryman, John Lennox, Don Thomas, Bram Humphries and Spence Wonnacott. This same committee were also responsible for all arrangements in connection with the dance.

Insanitary Conditions Cause Family Evictions

For sanitary reasons 13 different living accommodations, including eight at the city barns, will be closed in the city within the next few days with the families either to be asked to vacate or to be evicted by court order.

This was stated today by Sanitary Inspector George Whitman who stated that sanitary conditions at some of the premises were "incredible and unbelievable."

The sanitary inspector stated that eight families were living in very insanitary conditions in the city barns, while like conditions existed at upstairs back living quarters at 337½ Front Street, at a premises on South George Street, and at quarters on the bay shore at the rear of the hospital.

Mr. Whitman stated some of the premises would be closed Friday and others the first of the week.

FRONTIER U.

By Oren Arnold

Nevertheless he did not desert her, he and Sue. They were all together when the moment for unmasking came at midnight, and it may or may not have been chance that enabled them to be within a few feet of "Coronado" and the "Apache Maiden". Polly suspected that Ward had deliberately engineered it so.

Joy's mask, in addition to her theatrical face paint, had effectively concealed the one feature that might have been telltale if Ken Palmer had been a close observer—her eyes. Joy's were blue, even violet at times. Polly's were dark brown.

When Joy took off her mask, Polly saw instantly that Ken hadn't tumbled. He still thought himself with the other girl! Excitement was high everywhere now, girls shrieking and boys laughing, all making a roaring happy hullabaloo. But Polly's gaze was transfixed. She hung near a colonnade beside pots of artificial palms that were a part of the auditorium decorations, and stared at Joy and Ken. She was close enough even to hear their conversation.

"Ken, you're staring!" Joy beamed. "Don't you like me better with it off?"

He opened his mouth, but uttered no sound.

"Am I not lovely as an Indian girl, sir?"

"Yes!" The big fellow nodded. "You— you— Joy! I thought — I thought— you're Joy!"

His consternation was real. But Joy didn't know that. She smiled a little at him, teasingly. "Don't tell me you didn't know! Oh sure, you thought I really was Pocahontas or somebody! How ni-i-ice! Anyway it's gallatn of you to say so, Kenny. Wait a sec— I can have the grease paint off in no time!"

She fled from him, and he stood there frowning during the five minutes she was absent. When she returned, most of the grease paint was gone at any rate, and so was the black Indian wig.

"Her blond beauty is gorgeous even with the Indian skirts!" Polly HcMurray whispered to herself.

Newspaper photographers had come onto the floor, and of course they discovered Joq Boone, America's Girl-Of-The-Lear, she who already had brought a certain fame to Phoenix and its Frontier University. In a moment she and Hen Palmer were being spotlighted by the house electricians and flash photographed by the press. People gathered around by the hundreds, as usual where Joy Boone was.

Polly turned slowly away and found herself facing her brother again. Ward instantly saw the tears pooled in her eyes. He put an arm around her, squeezed her hand. His muscles were tense.

"You're sold on Ken, aren't you, Sis? Don't answer. I know it's so." He spoke ever so tenderly, right next to her ear. "Well, I know just how you feel. Just... how...you...feel!"

He nodded. Can't I, thought?? You think I'm made of stone myself?" The Buffalo Bill wig and face makely were gone. It was Ward McMurray who faced her, lips strained, eyes revealing more than his words did. By degrees the truth dawned on Polly. "We're in identically the same boat, I reckon, Sis. I had meant to keep my mouth shut, but seeing you—kell, damn it, I'm human! You'll never tell on me. I know you won't. Sorry I mentioned it, kid. Forget my part. I'll do what I can to help you out, though. You know that!"

He turned away, going back to Sue Rivers, but Polly's gaze followed him.

In Polly now was the greatest heardbreak she had ever known. To have connived with Joy was one thing, because Joy might at least make Ken happy, Ken whom she herself loved. But to have connived unwittingly against her brother, t oknow that he secretly loved Joy who mshe had agreed to help win another man—that made it all a double burden!

"I can't stand it!" Polly whispered to herself now. "Self-sacrifice may be ever so noble, but— there's such a thing as self loyaltyfi too! I've got to do something!"

"The way I see it," Ward McMurray was saying, with feeling, "you and I have to keep our mouths shut, that's all. We are ranch people Sis. Nothing soft about people raised in a ranch. We— we can take it."

Polly nodded. "Yes."

"I never would have figured this'd come up," Ward resumed, almost bitterly. "A thing like this, to me!"

"Why not? You're not different from other boys just because you're a cattleman. You have feelings. Same as I have."

"Guess so."

They were scilent for several minutes. The hour was past midnight, but they had left the dance early. They had taken Sue Rivers home and themselves were riding back to their Paradise Ranch in Ward's car. Memories of this night's Freshman Masquerade wre not the happy, hilarious ones youth has a right to expect, but were so poignant as to distress the brother and sister here.

Polly tried to divert him. "The Fiesta del sol dance next month ought to be grand, too. It's to be in the same place."

He didn't respond. "Tell you what," said he, presently, "tomorrow I'll look up this Ken Palmer and set him straight, Sis. He can be made to see you for what you are, and then—"

"No! That's ridiculous, Ward."

"The hell it is! Excuse me, I mean—why is it?" He spoke vehemently. "Are you my little sis, ora aren't you? My business is to look after what's mine. If anything got to upsetting my herd of fine horses, do you think I'd just twiddle my thumbs about it? Now I can tell Ken that—"

"You'll do nothing of the sort. Only a moment ago you yourself said that we must keep our mouths shut. That ranch folks can take it!"

"But—"

"All right. We can take it, then. Unless— you wish me to help you get Joy. Do you? It isn't you to sit down and do nothing when there's somtehing you want!"

He grimaced at her, in mild exasperation. "Nuts to that, Sis! If you're sold on Ken—"

"It works both ways, Ward."

He shut up then. For another mile. Each was thinking glumly, staring through the windshield at cactus and palo verde and grease—wood bathed in the car lights. They saw the odd little kangaroo night rats jumping beside the road. Once an owl glared at themfi and a gorgeously marked skunk ambled off leaving no scent. But the two youths were unresponsive to Nature's outdoor lures tonight.

"It's all right to go after the man you want, Sis," Ward said, after the interval of silence. "Girls are supposed to, uh, to compete with one another in their romancing and all. All you got o dot is keep it clean, see? I read once where—"

"No. You won't fight for Joy."

"That's different, confound it! Can't you see how it is? I admit I fell for Joy, but if I elbowed in with fists doubled I'd just mess up the works. I'm a roughneck cowpuncher and she's a diamond on blue velvet! Why hell's potatoes, Sis, I'm not one to— to— cheapen it! Know what I mean? She's beautiful! Didn't you see her tonight? Haven't you seen the wonder in her eyes? Seen the way she moves, and talks; and thinks too, so help me! That's what I like about her. Joy's not just a shapely little heifer with good promise for calving time. She's show stock! Right on through to the sweepstakes, A man'd nigh about work himself crazy just doing for a girl like her. She—"

"Why— War-r-rd!" Polly was impressed. She had never heard her brother talk so. There was no levity in his speech, for all its picturesque quality. Something had impelled the young man to open up his heart.

"That's a fact, Polly, he would. Now you say I won't fight for Joy. Nope, I won't. The situation is different, see? She has already committed herself, in private and openly. She's gone on Ken Palmer. Ken is counted a friend of mine; he figures I'm on his side since he came to Arizona, and by george that's not to be treated lightly! Most important thing though—Joy has made her pick already. She wants him. Okay, she oughta have him. I wouldn't butt in! I— well, I want her to be happy, that's all. She figures her happiness means getting Ken. Okay, then, I must help her get him if I can.

Polly looked at him a long moment, with a new greater admiration.

"You'd do that!" she breathed. "It's proof you really do love her. It's the real thing! Oh, Wardy!"

She wanted to cry, for somehow his speech had touched her more than she had imagined a brother could. Normally, her reactions to Ward would have been amusement; teasing and devilment and careless repartee.. Now though, he had stimulated her in a strange new way. She felt older, more mature than he, despite his five-year advantage.

Suddenly she squeezed his hand. "I know how you feel!" she whispered, impressively. "It's the same way with me. But—listen, don't let it get you! I know you, Ward. You'll mumble and think about it, and then you'll blow up and go into action of some kind. So listen to me— you do nothing for a while. You are a darling, and you are expert at handling Hereford cattle and prize stallions and all that. But you let your Sis do the heart thinking! You hear? You hear me? Promise!"

His handsome young face was set. Jaw firm. Lips tight. He glared straight ahead. The ranch house was picked up in the car light now.

"What'll you do?" he demanded.

Break Off Talks Of World Atomic Energy Control

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Lake Success, N. Y., June 15 — (CP) — Delegates to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission Wednesday broke off discussion of world atomic control until the Big Five powers and Canada decide there is a basis for agreement.

There was indication that the six powers would meet soon after the close of the present session of the council of Foreign Ministers in Paris. Canada and the Big Five, Great Britain, the United States, Russia, France and China, are directed to report to the U.N. General Assembly in September.

The decision to conclude the current talks was made in the 11-member working committee of the commission. The working committee members are the same as those who sit on the main commission.

Argentina and Cuba jointly proposed shifting the problem to the Big Five and Canada. The vote for this was seven to two with Egypt abstaining. Russia and the Soviet Ukraine opposed the move, claiming that a six-power conference would not help solve the deadlock.

Centennial Celebration Will be Held at Tweed

The Centennial celebration of Hastings County Council this year will be held in Tweed Park, the council decided yesterday.

There was no discussion when the question of a celebration and its locale came up for discussion. Members were unanimous in their feeling that in honor to Warden S. A. McCarey, Reeve of Tweed, the 100th birthday celebration of the county should be held in his municipality.

Before the close of the present session, a committee will be appointed to work in conjunction with the Tweed Parks Board and other village associations with regards to the celebration. Earlier in the session a communication from the Tweed Parks Board, suggesting the council hold its centennial celebration there, was read, and tabled for further discussion.

It was suggested that the celebration be a county affair with former wardens, reeves, deputy reeves and their families being sent special invitations, and that the celebration which will likely be in the form of a picnic be thrown open to the general public.

Warden McCarey thanked his council for their consideration in naming Tweed as the locale for the celebration and promised that he and his council and village organizations would do their best to make the affair an enjoyable one.

He said he felt it was a singular honor to be the warden of Hastings county in its Centennial Year, and he would do all in his power to make the 100th anniversary of county council government in Hastings a worthy one.

No date was set for the celebration, but as Reeve Adams, Dungannon, remarked in lighter vein, "Let's have it soon for I know of no better thing to attract rain than a monster picnic."

POLICE COURT

Pleads Guilty To Theft Charges

Pleading guilty to two charges of theft of articles which apparently were taken with the idea of selling as scrap iron, Vernard Boomhower, city, was sentenced to three months in the county jail when he appeared before Magistrate T. Y. Wills today.

One week ago Boomhower pleaded guilty to the theft of parts of a stove and of parts of metal farm implements and was remanded for sentence when the court was informed an additional charge of theft had been laid as the result of alleged theft at Bannockburn.

Case Enlarged

Fred Walsh, Trenton, charged with intent to defraud, had his case enlarged for one week. Walsh pleaded guilty to the charge.

Provincial Police told the court Walsh had approached Fred Wallace, Sidney township service station operator, and had obtained $48 worth of credit. He had given Wallace a fictitious name and address, the court was told.

Remanded a Week

Charles Austin, city, was remanded one week on a charge of causing a public disturbance, the charge arising out of an alleged disturbance at the time of the Maxwell fire last Saturday morning.

Thirty cases were listed on the morning court docket, the court proceedings being held in the main court room at the county building owing to the large number of witnesses.

Minor highway traffic charges, several of which were settled out of court, made up the larger part of the court list.

Meeting Planned to Set Up New Playground In N. Front St. Area

At a recent meeting held in a North Front Street home, interested neighbors organized to erect a children's playground in this vicinity. Due to the limited facilities of the home only a few met who represented the parks committee and the various sections of the immediate locality. Plans were formulated to have a larger and wider representative body of all the interested neighbors to meet together for consultation on this great need.

One of the outstanding aspects of the meeting was the evident determination on the part of those present to see something done, to provide safe, comfortable, pleasant and wholesome recreation for the children, under careful supervision.

On Monday evening at eight a public meeting has been arranged at King George School for all interested neighbors of this vicinity to bring constructive ideas for promoting this playground. It is aimed as a community project and it is hoped that all members of the community will support it.

With sites available, equipment promised, determination and vision clear, it will be but a matter of a few weeks to see one of the most beautiful playgrounds in Belleville and the realization of this long-felt need in this part of the city.

C8748

And then it rains!

ONE of life's daily dramas is the weather. The weatherman studies the situation and says tomorrow will be fair and warmer. You read about it in the newspaper and plan a picnic. And then it rains!

The newspaper brings you the report of the fact of rain and the opinions of the forecaster, the ball game score and the crop estimate, the report of a fire and the statements of the Prime Minister..

Some people would have it otherwise. They would have the newspaper print no opinion—except their own. They would like to limit what you read. They think the free exchange of ideas and opinions is dangerous. It is—to them.

Opinions are as much a part of the news as facts. The newspaper brings you all sorts of both in order to serve you better. Facts are valuable because they help you form your own opinions. When opponents debate an issue you are better equipped to decide who is right. By reading facts and opinions you get the knowledge that guides your decisions on how to shape your life, how to invest your money, how to vote—how to stay free.

Now you can read what you want and decide as you want. Your enemies do not want you to do that. As long as you do, they cannot control you. They don't want you to know and use your wits to make the right decisions about men and issues. To achieve their aims they would close off your access to the world of knowledge.

Because the newspaper is your main source of facts and opinions it is the first to be attacked. To control your mind—and you—there is a studied plan to control what you read in newspapers. The scheme is to invade and take away your right of a free press—not just the newspaper's—but yours!

The newspapers have no monopoly on a free press. It belongs to everyone. And it belongs to you even though you never write a letter because the right of a free press includes your right to read.

If you think your right to read freely is [illegible] the proposals that are being offered, supposedly in your interest, by certain commissions and committees operating under lofty-sounding names and in some cases on public funds.

You may agree with some of their arguments. That is your right. But before you make up your mind, take a second look. Newspapers only head the list. Control of your sources of information means control of your opinion and, if the experience of the people under Hitler and Stalin tells anything, under such control you can expect someone, someday, rain or shine, to tell you when you can have a picnic.

Your right to know is the key to all your liberties

"Win for Waitkus" New Battle Cry for Onrushing Phillies of Philadelphia

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

"Win for Waitkus" has become the new battle cry for the "fightin' Phillies" of Philadelphia.

Shocked by the shooting of Eddie Waitkus, the star Philly first-baseman, his teammates were determined today to aid the stricken athlete in a way he would appreciate most. Waitkus was shot and seriously wounded by a girl fan in a hotel room early Wednesday.

The Phillies wasted no time in carrying out their promise. They went out and swept a doubleheader from the Chicago Cubs, 4-1 and 3-0, to move into a virtual tie with Boston for 3rd place in the tight National League race.

The twin triumph gave the Phils a four - game winning streak and a record of 10 victories in their last 13 games. The Phils now trail the front - running Brooklyn Dodgers by only three games.

Ken Heintzelman won his seventh game in the opener and Borowy notched his sixth in the nightcap. Borowy, however, needed help in the ninth, and got it from Robin Roberts.

Dick Sisler, subbing for Waitkus, collected three of the eight hits off loser Bob Rush and Emil Kush in the opener.

Dodgers' Streak Broken

Brooklyn's eight - game winning streak came to an end last night when St. Louis Cardinals whipped them 9-5 to cut their first place margin over the Redbirds to two games. First baseman Nippy Jones smashed a home run, two singles and a double to bat in six runs and almost beat Brooklyn single - handedly.

A crowd of 32,131 — largest of the year at Sportsman's Park — saw Gerry Staley come to the aid of faltering Al Brazle in the fifth and pitch shutout ball the rest of the way to earn his fourth victory. Paul Minner, who replaced Ralph Branca in the second was charged with the defeat.

Pittsburgh's Pirates duplicated Tuesday's feat by coming from behind with a four - run rally in the last of the ninth to nip the Braves, 8-7. Danny Murtaugh's single off Bobby Hogue drove in the tying and winning runs with two out in the ninth.

Dino Restelli, who joined the Pirates Tuesday night from San Francisco of the Pacific Coast League, hammered two homers and a single.

Boston Shoved Deeper

The American League - leading New York Yankees opened up a four - game lead over Detroit, whipping Chicago White Sox 9-4 while the Tigers were losing a 2-1 game to Philadelphia. Cleveland shoved Boston Red Sox deeper into a rut, drubbing the Sox 8-5, and Washington stayed in fifth place shutting out the St. Louis Browns 9-0.

Yogi Berra and Bobby Brown paced a 12 - hit Yankee attack against Randy Gumpert and Allen Gettel with home runs. Yogi's came with two on and featured a four - run fifth which sewed up the game.

Rookie Ray Boone, who has replaced Manager Lou Boudreau at shortstop, clouted his first two major league home runs to lead the Indians to their second straight victory over the Red Sox.

Eddie Joost's 14th home run won for the A's. The blow came off Ted Gray in the fifth. Dick Fowler scattered six hits for his fifth win, his fourth in a row. Vic Wertz homered for the lone Tigers' run.

Rae Scarborough allowed only two hits in shutting out the Browns. The Nats collected 15 hits off Bill Kennedy and Karl Drews.

HANDY MOISTURE-PROOF POUCH

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Peterborough's high flying Marines move into town tonight to do battle with manager Bill Easton's Batawa Shoemen. The Marines are currently leading the parade in the COBL and would like nothing better than a win over the Shoemen this evening to consolidate their first place position against the onrushing Oshawa Merchants.

The men of Easton have other ideas, however, and feel that tonight is the opportune time to pull out of their slump and get back into the win column. They have failed to win a contest since May 25 when they dropped to the reinforced Oshawa Merchants 4-3 in the Motor City.

The game being played tonight was originally scheduled for July 26, but the Batawa factory will be on holidays at that time and other arrangements had to be made.

Sergeant "Mike" Kelly phoned this desk early yesterday morning advising us that the Fair Grounds were soggy and quaggy and in no condition on which to play ball. Consequently the game scheduled for last night between Flyers and Northern Electric was postponed. Incidentally, the Hon. Mike is taking off on Friday for Summerside, Prince Edward Island, where he expects to remain for the next ten weeks or so. Service, y'know, old bean. We're going to miss "Mike" and we're glad it's only a temporary shift. We don't know of another chappie who takes his sport more seriously unless its Leo Durocher and the good Mike will be missed by everybody in sports circles hereabouts, especially the laddies of the RCAF.

We are informed that a Sergeant Hornage is taking over Mike's sport chores and Kelly gives the new sarge a good recommend. Welcome, fella, and let's hope you'll like us as well as I'm sure we are going to like you. Mike tells us that sport will be given the same co-operation as heretofore from the RCAF and his word is good enough for us. Best of luck in Spud Island, Michael, and we'll be seein' you when the Autumn rolls around.

And for the information of those two valiant sports writers of Peterborough and Oshawa who have been singing the praises of these Kokomo Clowns, the lowly Batawa Shoemen beat them 5-4 in the first game of a twin bill here a week or so ago. Funny game, this baseball, even when they're clowning.

"With reference to your sports column regarding the Northern Electric - Trenton baseball game of Saturday June 11th, I wish to answer the criticism hurled at you by an irate few. Being an interested spectator at this game, I'll answer it fully.

"Trenton asked to have this game played at Point Anne because their field at Trenton was in use for Air Force Day. Being Trenton's home game it is their duty to supply the baseballs no matter how many are lost. Other teams have to do the same.

"Haffey, the Trenton manager, asked to have the game called at the end of six innings with the score 16-2. Regarding admission: to my knowledge there was none charged and not even a collection. The attendance was very small."

(Signed)—Jerry Mahoney.

A stormy mat session is anticipated when Fred Atkins the rugged Australian grappler, meets Tug Carlson, the sensational Swedish athlete, in the feature wrestling event at the Memorial Arena on Friday night.

Atkins has heard about the big hit Carlson made with the fans here over the past three weeks and it would appear that a trace of jealousy has struck the husky grappler from Down Under.

• • •

"These fancy pretty-boys come along every once in a while," grumped Fred, "and become popular white-haired guys with the fans. I get a big kick out of knocking those fancy-dans into the middle of next week. It's one thing to be popular but it's another thing to be able to take it in the ring when the tough slugging is going on."

What Atkins may not have been informed about, is that Carlson is rated as one of the most effective, offensive wrestlers in the sport, and has a drop-kick that is a terrific smasher of reputations and profiles. While he is conceded to be spectacular, Tug's repertoire is one that brings results in the record columns also.

• • •

Fans will likely be well prepared for the main bout action by the two all-star supporting matches, in which Al Lovelock tests hard-rock John Katan and Pat (Flying) Flanagan goes against the 330-pound, bearded Cardiff Giant.

Better Golf

By Sam Snead

Clubhead faces are lofted to the ball the flight that is most efficient for the particular distance desired. Of the irons the No. 5 iron is the middle club in the loft. You position the less lofted clubs, about one inch left of centre, progressively for each club. Clubs more lofted than No. 5 you position about one inch right of centre, progressively for each club. But because our pictured player is swinging with a No. 1 or No. 2 wood, he places the ball about two inches left of centre. The reason for this is that with the straighter-faced clubs the most desirable flight and distance is secured by having the clubhead take the ball after the clubhead has passed the low point in the arc of the swing. The blow so delivered to the ball gives overspin to the ball so that at the far end of its flight, when the ball hits the ground, the overspin will cause the ball to run and give additional yardage. With highly lofted clubs the club face must contact the ball on the downswing before the clubhead reaches the lowest point in the arc of the swing. This is necessary to yield the correct flight and distance desired.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By DOUG GREEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, June 16 — (CP) — In the opinion of Tony (Winnipeg Tribune) Allan, his sports-writing colleagues were a trifle generous in awarding full marks to the exhibition game between the touring Newcastle United Soccer team and Manitoba All-Stars here.

Tony quotes his colleague Cince Leah of the Tribune: "Ever-brilliant Newcastle United revealed the legendary skill of British big-time soccer to bedazzle 5,500 spectators."

Scotty (Winnipeg Free Press) Harper was equally enthusiastic: "Over 5,000 fans saw the million-dollar star-studded aggregation give a perfect exhibition of the game."

"We don't doubt that it was quite a thrill for soccer-starved Old Country expatriates and anyone familiar with the fine points of the game," Allan wrote, "but we feel sure we aren't the only ignoramus in the park to whom the spectacle was something less than stupendous."

He admits the 7-4 victory for the Newcastle eleven represented a score considerably closer than expected.

"The Manitoba side acquitted itself nobly and the Newcastle team showed flashes of brilliance whenever it had a mind to. We got the impression, however, that the Magpies were quite content to coast once they had a safe lead—for which we didn't blame them one bit . . .

"Saturday's game, of course, was a friendly exhibition affair and, as such, was conducted on a most gentlemanly plane. Perhaps that is why most of the time we found it damnably dull.

No Rough Stuff

"After all, when you have become brutalized and degraded through watching nine months of junior hockey, you miss the rough stuff . . ."

"The big difference would seem to be that in soccer the idea is adhere to the rules — rather than figure out ways of circumventing them — and to play the game in the spirit in which it was intended to be played.

"An idea, incidentally, which hockey players and most people connected with Canada's national sports, would consider to be a big joke."

'Name' Golfers Passing Up Canadian Open

(By The Canadian Press)

Unless many American 'na'me' golfers get cracking on entry forms, the 40th Canadian Open Golf championship at Toronto St. George's Club June 22-25 will lose much of its glamor of former years. There's a big entry list so far—177—but it doesn't show a Locke, Snead or Middlecoff in the lot.

"Final" closing date for entries was set at June 13 but the list will be kept open until a day before the tee-off in the hope that Slammin' Sam, three-times open winner and always a favorite with Canadians, or Cary Middlecoff, the Memphis dentist who won the 49th U.S. open at Chicago last week, will put their signatures on entry blanks.

Charley Congdon, Tacoma's ace golf professional will leave Tacoma, Wash., today for Toronto to defend his Canadian open title.

At London, Ont., defending Champion Gil Walker of London Hunt Club and Jerry Kesselring of Kitchener shot even 145's Wednesday to divide the honors in the London Hunt Invitation Golf tournament.

Kesselring shot a 72 going out on the first 18, and couldn't do better than a 73 coming back. Walker was out in the first 18 in 73, but shot terrific golf in the last 18 to go one under par and come home in a 72.

There is no playoff in the tournament, so the choice of the Willingdon nominee now is up to the Ontario Golf Association.

Epic, winner of the King's Plate at Toronto May 28, finished out of the money in the 22nd running of the $20,000 added Shevlin stakes over a mile and a sixteenth at New York's Aqueduct race track Wednesday. Epic, three-year-old brown colt owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto, led for the first seven furlongs but faded in the stretch.

Newcastle United, First Division Club of the English Football League, defeated Sweden 4-0 at Toronto Wednesday night in one of the best games ever seen in Canada. A crowd of 24,300—largest in history of the sport in the Dominion— witnessed the match at the spacous Canadan National Exhibition Sports Field.

At Fall River, Mass., the touring Scottish Internationals, Wednesday night showed plenty of class in defeating the New England All-Stars 3-1 in an exhibition soccer game before 4,045 fans.

Big Mort Cooper, one of the top pitchers in the National League a few years ago, will join the second-place Moose Jaw entry in the Southern Saskatchewan Senior Baseball League later this month, Club officials announced Wednesday at Moose Jaw. Cooper, whose big-time career was shortened by an arm ailment, tried an unsuccessful comeback with the Cubs this season.

Infielder Lou Klein is the first St. Louis Cardinal who jumped to the Mexican League was first to sign a new contract, it was announced Wednesday night at St. Louis. Fred M. Saigh, President of the Redbirds, said Klein signed the contract in the club's office Wednesday evening. Saigh said Klein signed for the same salary he had when he went to Mexico, in 1946—$6,500.

At Ascot, Berkshire, England, Ascot was made truly royal this afternoon by the victory of the King's filly, Avila, in the Coronation Stakes for three-year-old fillies run over the mile. The King and Queen and members of the Royal Family who had earlier driven down the course in state saw Avila, a daughter of Hyperion, race to a comfortable three-length victory in the hands of Irish-born jockey Michael Beary.

W. L. (Lindy) Fraser, owner-trainer-driver of Dr. Stanton, top money winner of the 1948 season, has accepted an invitation to enter the National Pacing Derby, June 7. For the Forest, Ont., reinsman, it will be a second attempt to capture the $25,000 race, under the lights at Roosevelt Raceway, near New York.

Deadline Passes With no Big Deals Being Made

New York, June 16 (AP)— The deadline for major league deals passed at midnight Wednesday night, but the "big deal" never came off.

Nobody was sure what the "big deal" would be. But anybody who put any stock in the hundreds of rumors that were floating around must be surprised to find so few changes.

These were the deals completed in the final hours:

Pittsburgh bought outfielder Ed Sauer from St. Louis Cardinals and then peddled him to the Boston Braves for catcher Phil Masi. The Pirates promised the Cards a minor league player at the end of the season and tossed in considerable cash in the Boston transaction.

Cincinnati and Chicago Cubs swapped four outfielders. Hank Sauer, older brother of Ed, and Frankie Baumholtz, went to the Cubs in exchange for Harry Walker and Harry Lowery.

The only American League deal of the closing days was completed Monday when Boston sent outfielder Sam Mele and pitcher Mickey Harris to Washington for pitcher Walter Masterson.

Also on Monday the Reds sent catcher Ray Mueller to New York Giants for catcher Walter Cooper. The next day the Giants sold another catcher, Mickey Livingston, to the Braves for the $10,000 waiver price.

From now until Aug. 31 the only way one major league team can send a player to another major league team is via the waiver route. This means that the player must be offered to each club in the league for $10,000. The offer is made in the order the clubs stand in the league—the bottom teams getting first pick.

Brantford Red Sox Coming In Intercounty

(By The Canadian Press)

The second-place Brantford Red Sox have served notice that their slugging may carrp them to the leadership in the Inter-County Senior Baseball loop.

The Red Sox last night belted their way closer to the first-place Waterloo Tigers by drubbing them 12-3 at Brantford.

They did it neatly. No less than three home runs were recorded by the Red Sox—one a grand slam by big George Carruth in the third inning.

In two other Intercounty games, the upsurging London Majors connected for only four hits as they downed the Guelph Maple Leafs 4-1 while the Kitchener Legionnaires won their 10th straight contest with a 16-3 victory over the St. Thomas Legion.

Buffalo Bisons Setting Hot Pace in League

By The Associated Press

They won their sixth in a row Wednesday night, knocking off Newark Bears for the third straight time, 13-5. A pair of six-run innings, the second and the seventh, made Ernie Silverman's path to his eighth victory of the season a breeze. Ray Coleman hit his seventh homer with two on in the second.

Andy Tomasic won his fourth game against one defeat, pitching the Little Giants to a 3-1 victory over Toronto. He allowed only four hits.

Ray Gerken paced the Giants' seven-hit attack against Jocko Thompson with a single and home run. He scored two runs and drove in one.

Rochester got 20 bases out of 12 hits to whip Syracuse 10-5, Dick Cole, Ed Mierkowicz, Steve Bilko and Don Richmond clouted home runs to highlight the Red Wing barrage.

CALVERT 1622 Famous Families OGDEN 1783

Isaac Ogden; New England-born Empire Loyalist, came to Montreal in 1783. He was appointed Judge of the Admiralty Court and later Judge of the Superior Court. His son, Charles Richard, a lawyer, was Attorney-General for Lower Canada from 1833 to 1842. Another son, Peter Skene, associate of fur trader John Jacob Astor, was a partner in the North West Company and, on its amalgamation with the Hudson's Bay Company, became Chief Factor at Fort St. James. Truly a distinguished Canadian family.

Great Families Create Great Nations

CALVERT, head of the famous Calvert family, distinguished English statesman and Secretary of State to King James I, founded pioneer colonies in Newfoundland and Maryland early in the 17th Century.

In the New World, Calvert's descendants advocated friendly trade relations with the Indians. They also fostered principles of democratic freedom and religious tolerance among their settlers. These Calvert ideals were perpetuated down through the succeeding generations of the Calvert family.

The family is the corner-stone upon which great nations are built. Let each of us strive to promote within the great Canadian family the same concepts of freedom and tolerance pioneered by the Calvert family over three hundred years ago.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 16 — (AP) — Now it can be told — about how Betty Grable almost retired after her last picture.

The beautiful blonde told me she almost quit the movie business after her recent western. The reason: "a behind-scenes feud with triple-threat genius Preston Sturges.

"I was so mad I left the set after the last scene of the picture without even saying goodbye to anybody in the crew," she said. "That's the first time I've done that since I've been in the business."

It seems that Grable and Sturges disagreed on the story and almost everything. Betty, who has usually placed her film fate entirely in studio hands, carried her beef to production boss Darryl Zanuck.

She's a happy gal again. She's now doing "Wabash Avenue," which is the kind of thing Grable fans like. In fact, it's her "Coney Island" vehicle with the locale switched to Chicago at the time of the 1893 World Fair.

It's another costume picture, but this time Betty isn't wearing corsets.

"They were hurting my back," she said. "So I took off some weight in the right places and now I don't have to wear them."

Notes From All Over

Humphrey Bogart tried to borrow Lauren Bacall for his own production, "In a Lonely Place," but got a flat "no" from Warners. That isn't helping relations between Bogie and his home lot.

James Cagney finishes "White Heat" in a week and heads to New England for the summer. He'll be back in the fall to do another film. Jim tells me that "A Lion is in the Streets" (on the Huey Long theme) won't be made for another two years. By that time "All the King's Men," which is in a similar vein, will be played out.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Somebody must have been reading my mail. It was a piece I once wrote about an immediate jump takeout. In it was my statement that such a bid does not necessarily promise a fit in partner's suit.

Repercussions are still coming in from various parts. The gist of them is, how dare I make such a claim when better men say a fit is always guaranteed. Sacrilegious, they call it.

It would be impolite to ask what better men. I request them to name the origin and they do not. I could name several better men. But none that insists on a fit for every jump response.

Some of the famous announce need for a fit with weak strength in honors. Why? Because some of their openings are also weak in the honor or high cards strength. Or they lack enough sure tricks.

Some of the noted advise fit with good honors when the suit is not long. Why? Because such a hand does not contain enough tricks or is lacking in some other requirement.

In Horse Sense, we do not go fiddling around with the wrong basics to find bids. Therefore, six tricks including two sure are enough for an immediate jump response. Fit or no fit.

All we ask is that the opener start with the honest values. If he does, our jump responses contain enough help for game. With or without help in the suit first named by the opener.

South opened with a spade and north held this hand:

♥A K Q 7 5

Someone sent it and said north should not jump with only one spade. Respond with a simple takeout of two hearts, he believes.

No such a thing. Four high cards and two short spades are six tricks. More than two sure are in the hand. Respond first with a jump to three hearts. When you see a game, say so.

Metropolitan Confirms 22 Candidates

Madoc—The Lord Archbishop of Ontario, M.A. D.D., (the Most Rev. John Lyons) visited the parish of Madoc on Trinity Sunday June 12th. His Grace confirmed 22 candidates in the three Anglican churches of Madoc, Glanmire and Bannockburn, which included some from Queensboro and Millbridge. They were presented for confirmation by the rector, the Rev. A. W. Smith. Despite very hot and humid weather, a very happy day was enjoyed by all. The people gave His Grace a very cordial welcome. It was a great honor to have the chief shepherd visit such a scattered flock, so soon after His Grace's enthronement as Archbishop and Metropolitan of all Ontario.

Crown Completes Case Against Kingston Men

Cornwall, June 16. (CP)—The Crown Wednesday completed its case against three Kingston men, charged with robbery and attempted extortion, and no defence testimony was offered. The case is expected to go to a general sessions of the peace jury today.

The accused—George Smyth, 24, John Graham, 22, and Russell Parker, 22—are charged with robbing Bernard Hart of Farran's Point, Ont., of $825 and attempting to extort an additional $1,875 by threatening to involve him in divorce proceedings against Smyth's estranged wife, Marjory.

Hart testified the three men walked into a Montreal hotel room armed with a revolver and a blackjack. He said they took him to Cornwall where he turned over the money to Smyth.

The three men were arrested near Morrisburg, Jan. 6.

Electric Iron Causes Fire At Cherry Valley

Picton, June 16 — An electric iron caused a fire which threatened the home of Carl Euler near Cherry Valley Tuesday. One room of the house was gutted with all contents being destroyed. The fire was eating its way through a wall into another room when discovered by Raymond Goodwin who was passing. He was joined by Donald Walker soon afterwards. Unable to enter the house due to dense smoke, they broke a window and threw buckets of water into the room and were able to get it under control. Mr. Euler was in Picton at the time. The fire originated from an electric iron which had been left plugged in. Mrs. Euler had turned the switch off but this apparently had not worked and the ironing board caught fire, spreading into the room. Furniture, bedding and clothing, amounting to several hundred dollars was lost.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was watching pop smoke the 2nd half of his ferst cigar, saying, I had the most thrilling experience today, William. A whole drama unravelled istelf in the space of a few moments. Really, William, I mean really, if I could write books I could write a book about it, or at least a chapter. Anyway, I had one of those uncomfortable sensations that someone was looking at me, and suddinly I saw him, as big as life, she said.

Saw who, for Peet sake? pop said, and ma said, A little mouse in the corner.

My dear, his tiny beedy eyes were fassened on me with the most gassly glint, and he was crouched reddy to spring like a coiled serpent. My mind went blank, or otherwise I'm sure my whole passed life would of flashed before my eyes the way it's suppos to when you're drowning or falling through space to your certain doom. INITIALLED LANDMARK

Halifax —(CP)— An old sandstone post, marking the entrance to one of the city's oldest estates, today bears scars of the age old custom of initial cutting. The old pillar, still a city landmark has one initial dated May 10, 1906.

Lamotta, Cerdan Fight Postponed Due to Rain

Detroit, June 16 — (AP) — To avoid the threat of an international boxing incident, both middleweight champion Marcel Cerdan of French Morocco and Challenger Jake Lamotta of New York will weigh in again today for tonight's once - postponed title bout at Briggs Stadium.

Long after the Michigan State Boxing Commission first ruled that no new weigh - in was necessary, the two managers got together and agreed to let their boys step on the scales a second time.

Jo Longman, the excitable Parisian who manages Cerdan, talked about an "international incident" and the danger of losing the title to a 'light - heavyweight' when it appeared that Jake and Marcel would not have to weigh in after the postponement.

Lamotta hit 159½ Wednesday noon and it was agreed he would have trouble getting under the 160-pound class limit again today. For that matter, Cerdan, too, will have difficulty although he got in comfortably at 158 Wednesday. Both ate well, thinking no second weigh-in would be necessary.

The happenings of the evening were vague, veiled in confusion and counter - confusion.

Al Silvani, one of Lamotta's handlers, said Jake became alarmed when he heard the Frenchman talking about losing the title to a light - heavy. He recently was involved in another international furore when he was given a widely - disputed nod over Frenchman Robert Villemain.

"If that's what they want, okay I'll weigh again," Silvani quoted Lamotta. Silvani said he then contacted the commissioner with the news.

What little betting action remained on the fight still made Cerdan the favorite. The 5-to-8 price, however, might melt as much as two points by ring-time for the 15-round battle scheduled for 11 p. m. EDT.

The gate is expected to hit $200,000 and 18,000 fans.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, June 16 — (AP) — A gentleman who should know about such things maintains that the recalls of Wes Westrum by New York Giants and Charley Keller by New York Yankees were at least premature . . . . . "Keller wouldn't have been a regular with Newark if he wasn't Keller," the gent says. "He was improving, but he needed at least two weeks more there before he could hit with his old power . . . and Westrum should have been left in Jersey City, where he was working every day, for the full season. Then he'd be a finished catcher. He didn't hit and he didn't stay in condition in New York last year and he might slip into the same thing again." . . . The same source indicates that Jersey City fans (there still are a few) have a legitimate beef against the Giants for not sending them good material, but that Newark has no squawk against the Yanks. "Hank Workman, Fenton Mole and Wally Hood were the best prospects in the Yankee system. They just haven't come through this year," he argues.

Tongue Twister

Dave Rowe, pioneer baseball league publicity man, wasn't certain whether he was hearing about a baseball game or a ski meet when manager Walt Lowe of Pocatello, Idaho, Cardinals was sidelined and outfielder Dick Czaplewski replaced him at first . . . the Pocatello infield also included Ted Lewandowski at short and Dominic Varczewski at second . . . with all those skis, the radio announcers were kept jumping.

Jungle Swallowing Millions In Scrap on Pacific Island

By LESLIE BRODIE
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

(Canadian Press Correspondent)

On this island alone there is salvagable equipment with an estimated value of from $75,000,000 to $101,000,000 slowly being swallowed up by the creeping jungle.

The works and housing division of the Australian government has been working overtime in a race with the jungle, but unless they are prepared to spend years cutting it back they will lose millions.

It was from Manus, the largest island in the Admiralty group 150 miles south of the equator, the Americans mounted their offensive that heralded the end of the war in the Pacific. At one stage they had full battle equipment and stores for a huge fleet and about 500,000 men on the island.

After the war the Australian government refused to allow the Americans to maintain a peacetime base on the island on the grounds that it encroached upon Australian sovereignty. The Americans then cut their final ties with the Southwest Pacific and moved to bases further north.

Sold Salvage Rights

Before they left they sold salvage rights to all movable stores and equipment to China. Australia bought the fixed installations for a price quoted from Canberra as $1,250,000. All essential war equipment was sabotaged by the Americans to prevent it being used in the conflict now being waged in China.

The Australian government gave the Chinese a set time to get their purchases off the island and refused to extend it when the time was up. The action caused considerable ill-feeling among the Chinese, and, it is said, much material was wrecked.

In scrap alone Manus is worth a fortune. Jeeps, trucks and heavy earth-moving equipment were bull-dozed into heaps and then stacked high by cranes. When the cranes had finished their work they, too, were abandoned to rot in the steaming tropics.

United States steel companies are interested in buying scrap rights to the island but the Australian government refuses to sell. Some of it did find its way to the U.S. from China. Sold to the Chinese for $30 a ton it was rebought for double the price—which meant simply a back-door loan to China.

The Australian government has ordered that they be pulled down and shipped to the mainland to house displaced persons from Europe. So far fewer than 200 have been recovered.

ILLEGIBLE BUT EFFECTIVE

Christchurch, N.Z. — (CP) — A medical specialist here wrote a letter to a friend. The answer came back: "Thank you for your letter, I was unable to read it, but it did enable me to get two hot water bags." Hot water bottles are rationed in parts of New Zealand.

Montreal Mayor Attacks Motive Of St. Laurent

Montreal, June 16. (CP) — Mayor Camillien Houde charged in a political speech here Wednesday night that Prime Minister St Laurent "had tolerated growth and development of Communism and has never signified his intention to act against it."

Speaking in French to a crowded hall with a capacity of 1,500 in Montreal Papineau riding where he is running as an independent candidate in the federal election, the mayor attacked the motives of Mr. St. Laurent in relation to the majority population in Quebec.

He told his audience that it is "more advantageous for the majority population of Quebec to have as Prime Minister an English-speaking Protestant who will safeguard their rights than to have a French-speaking Roman Catholic who is willing to betray them."

Mr. Houde said that Mr. Laurent "knew there were 25,000 avowed Communists in Canada and 500,000 fellow travellers."

"The difference between St. Laurent and Progressive Conservative leader, George Drew," he said, "was that had it not been for Drew's fight for provincial rights in collaboration with Premier Maurice Duplessis the French language would be on its way out today."

THOMASBURG

Thomasburg — A number from here attended the Progressive Conservative picnic at Memorial Park in Tweed on Wednesday last.

Mr. Gordon Boldrick was in Belleville several days last week serving on the jury.

Mrs. Archie Jones underwent a serious operation in the Belleville hospital last week. Her many friends hope she will soon be enjoying improved health.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Vance and Carolyn, and Mr. and Mrs. Burton Vance, and Baden, of Tweed, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. William Holbert.

Mrs. (Dr.) H. L. Cheeney of Ottawa, is spending a while with her sister, Mrs. Emma Porter, who is confined to her home.

Mrs. Allan Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Boldrick spent Wednesday with Mrs. Herb. Kimmerly at Napanee.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Adams of Belleville, visited on Sunday at Mr. Fred Coulters.

Miss Isabel Richardson has returned to her home after having completed her first year at college in Tacoa Falls, Georgia, U. S. A. She has accepted a position in Belleville for the summer vacation.

At the sessions of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada held recently at Picton, Rev. Morley Clarke, B. A., was appointed pastor of the Thomasburg West Huntingdon, Eggleton and Moira charge, of the United Church, to succeed the Rev. H. N. Burgess, who is leaving for Athens on July 1st. Mr. Clarke has just completed a post-graduate course at Union Theological Seminary in New York City. He and Mrs. Clark will be taking up residence in the parsonage in the village in the near future.

The death of Mr. Alexander Calberry occurred suddenly on Monday afternoon, the result of a heart seizure at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kellar, where he had been living for the past few weeks.

Suffered Stomach Trouble 10 Years, Says This Man

Tried Many Different Things. Gas, Indigestion, Cramps, Sick Stomach, Headaches, Nervous, "Nothing Ever Helped Me Like Syntona," He Says.

"For ten years I suffered from very bad stomach disorders and I would be glad to have other people know of the good results I got by taking Syntona Herbal Compound," said Mr. Elmer Pearson, 300 Barton Street East, Hamilton, Ont., in a recent report.

"I was troubled with gas indigestion and cramps so bad I felt sick and nauseated. Even the lightest food did not digest properly but fermented in my stomach, giving me a full, heavy, bloated feeling. I was subject to sick headaches and dizzy spells. Rheumatic pains set in my arms and legs and I finally became very nervous and rundown and couldn't get my proper sleep at night.

"I tried everything I heard of but nothing helped me and I kept getting worse and worse. Then, one day I read about Syntona and decided to get some and this medicine cleared up the gas, indigestion and sick feeling in my stomach better than anything I ever took before. In a little while, the pains in my arms and legs went away, my nerves calmed down. I found I could go to bed and get sound, restful sleep all through the night.

"That experience was quite some time ago, but ever since then I have always kept Syntona in the house and find there is nothing like it to keep me free of these troubles from which I suffered so long."

You, too, can rely on Syntona for common disorders of stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels. It aids in the elimination of excess acids and impurities from the system and promotes better assimilation of food for increased strength and energy.

Czech Archbishop Held as Virtual Prisoner in Palace

War on Catholic Church Nears Climax Says Report

Prague, June 17 — (AP) — Archbishop Joseph Beran, head of Czechoslovakia's 9,000,000 Roman Catholics, today was a virtual prisoner in his own palace, as the communist government's war on the church appeared nearing a climax.

Two priests from Archbishop Beran's consistory nave been arrested and taken away by police after a raid on the consistory section of the Archbishop's Palace in which police tried to seize church records.

Two Associated Press correspondents who tried to see the Archbishop were told by personnel at the reception desk that "the Archbishop says 'No.'"

Archbishop Beran for some months has fought against a government campaign to take over schools and apolish church papers.

In recent weeks he has sent out a number of clerical letters breathing defiance of government decrees involving the church - state conflict. In one message he hinted that excommunication would be imposed against "collaborators."

Ripe for Events

Vatican City — An informed Vatican source today expressed the belief that Czechoslovakia is "ripe for events like those in Hungary."

He referred to reports of new pressure by the communist government against the Roman Catholic Church and the reported house arrest of Monsignor Joseph Beran, Archbishop of Prague.

The Vatican informant said these events paralleled similar anti - church campaigns in Hungary shortly before the arrest, trial and life sentencing of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, Primate of Hungary.

Vatican circles expressed no surprise over Prague reports that Archbishop Bevan was a virtual police prisoner in his palace. They said measures against the outspoken foe of communism were "probable" and "likely" in view of worsening church - state relations.

PERRAULT DIES ON GALLOWS FOR PART IN SLAYING

Second of Three Men to Die for Killing of Two Constables

Montreal, June 17 — (CP)—A faint breeze fanned the warm air in the yard of Bordeaux Jail shortly after midnight today as the hangman's noose was slipped around the neck of Douglas Perrault, convicted bank robber and police slayer.

Minutes later the jail bell tolled three times, announcing that 38-year-old Perrault had been executed for the murder of one of two policemen during a bank holdup last September.

The trap was sprung at 12:39 and 14 minutes later Dr. Romeo Plouffe, jail physician pronounced Perrault dead.

He was the second of three men to die for the killing of Constables Paul - Emile Duranleau and Nelson Paquin. Noel Cloutier was hanged March 11 and Donald Perrault is under sentence to die July 8.

Douglas, convicted Dec. 18 and sentenced to be hanged March 25, had an appeal denied by the Quebec Court of Appeals. Date of his execution was postponed until June 17 because of the appeal.

Perrault recently made a request for a stay of execution on the ground that he had evidence to give in the case of Robert Tremblay, who faces charges as an accessory after the fact.

His stay of execution was denied but Thursday, M. A. Hurteau, assistant clerk of the Crown who was appointed as a commissioner to take evidence, heard a statement from Perrault in the jail.

The statement may be brought in court later in the Tremblay case.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, June 17—(CP)—Synopsis: Very warm and fairly humid air continues to dominate the southeastern part of the continent, extending as far north as Lake Superior and central Quebec. Considerably cooler air covers the Canadian Prairies but it looks as though the main flow of this air will be deep into the western United States rather than towards Eastern Canada. Hence continuation of very warm weather is indicated for the weekend, at least for southern and central regions.

A few showers were reported from widely scattered localities Thursday night and there is little prospect for more than similar showers tonight and again Saturday night.

Premature Quadruplets Have All Succumbed

Long Branch, N.J., June 17 — (AP) — Premature quadruplets—two boys and two girls — all died within 15 minutes of each other early today a little more than 10 hours after they were born.

Their mother was Mrs. Raymond Caffrey of Union Beach, N. J. Monmouth Memorial Hospital, where the quadruplets were born, said Mrs. Caffrey had been five months pregnant. She was listed in "good" condition after the births.

New Process Changes Sea Water Into Fresh Water Economically

Lake Success, N. Y., June 17 — (CP) — A new step in changing sea water into fresh water today was reported to the United Nations.

A diesel engine now makes 20 gallons of fresh water for a cost of one cent. This is twice to three times more fresh water than could be made for a penny previously.

The report was made by Dr. Abel Wolman of Johns Hopkins University. It is part of a symposium on water to be held here at the United Nations Conference on conservation and utilization of resources beginning Aug. 17.

Dr. Wolman said that progress toward getting fresh water from the sea has been surprisingly great in the last 10 years.

New processes include chemicals that dissolve the salt out of sea water. But the cheap test new method uses boiling and condensing the vapor to fresh water. The condensation is speeded and cheapened by compressing the vapor. The compressors are diesel engines.

DRENCHING RAIN NEEDED FOR CROPS IS NOT IN SIGHT

Toronto, June 17 — (CP)—Ontario still needs rain to help relieve crop damage resulting from three weeks of drought.

Another hot, humid day is forecast for the dry areas of Southern Ontario, with temperatures well into the 80s. The drenching rain for which farmers are hoping is not yet in sight.

A few scattered showers fell this week but they missed many of the worst drought sections, such as Hamilton, where no rain has been reported for 25 days. Hamilton has had less than two inches of rain since April 15 and farmers in that district are hauling water for their livestock.

In Ottawa J. L. Orr of Toronto, head of the Low Temperatures Division of the National Research Council, said that man can force nature to produce rain but it was unknown whether enough of it could be produced to aid Ontario's parched crops. In an interview he said the council has completed 57 rain - making trials and got rain half the time.

Rain-making Trials

Mr. Orr said that if any section of Ontario wanted the council to carry out rain-making trials "we'd probably meet the request." There would be the question of payment and costs of flying aircraft and the dry ice used in the experiments but "it might be worth it to the farmers."

Consumers have been warned to wash strawberries, lettuce, radishes and similar garden products before eating them. The Brant county health unit said Thursday night that some growers in the Brantford district have to use river water to save their crops and the water may be contaminated.

Fruit crops have suffered from the drought less than some other agricultural products. Fair yields are expected, but fruit will probably be stunted by lack of moisture.

The Ontario Agriculture Department estimates that the drought has already meant a loss to Ontario farmers of more than $100,000,000 in potential crops.

"SCIENCE ILLUSTRATED" TO SUSPEND PUBLICATION

New York, June 17 — (AP) — The magazine "Science Illustrated," which has a monthly circulation of over 500,000, will suspend publication with the July issue, McGraw-Hill Publishing Company announced Thursday. High printing costs and insufficient advertising income made continuation of the publication unattractive, the publishers said.

Southern Townships Urged To Consider Plans to Fight Fires In Areas Outside Protection

Reeves of the southern townships of Hastings County over which he has jurisdiction, were urged on Thursday by District Forester W. E. Edwards, Napanee, to seriously consider plans which will be forthcoming for the fighting of fire in districts outside fire protection.

There is definitely a movement under way, he said, to get fire protection for these municipalities. Most reeves realize that there is a definite need for protection of buildings, bush and open fields against fire especially in the times of drought. He quoted the famous fire at Bar Harbor, Maine, in 1947 when millions of dollars of damage was caused to buildings and crops.

"There is no reason why the same thing could not happen here for we have the same type of countryside as did Bar Harbor," he said.

Quoting a report of the annual meeting of Zone 5 of the Ontario Conservation and Reforestation Association, Forester Edwards said that one of the principal authorities present thought that county councils would have to handle any legislation. Each township would be required to appoint a man responsible for fire protection and fire fighting in that township. A township or joint townships jointly should have a set of fire fighting tools and portable pumps available in a central location.

Own Fire Protection Systems

It was felt at the meeting that there was not much hope of extending the fire district south of the present boundary and therefore townships and counties outside the fire district should draw up their own fire protection systems.

Forester Edwards urged the reeves of the southern townships to take the matter up. He will be glad to assist in any way possible.

With reference to county reforestation plots, the forester told council that the past spring had been very successful with many schools in competition. Twenty-one schools had assisted at Actinolite; 10 at Bird's Creek; two in Sidney; two at L'Amable and two at Tyendinaga, a total of 37 schools.

He suggested the Agricultural Committee provide a county prize for school competition. Three other counties have put prizes in the vicinity of $50. In all, he said, there are 62 schools in competition and only three prizes.

Two Baby Coons Out For Stroll End up in Zoo

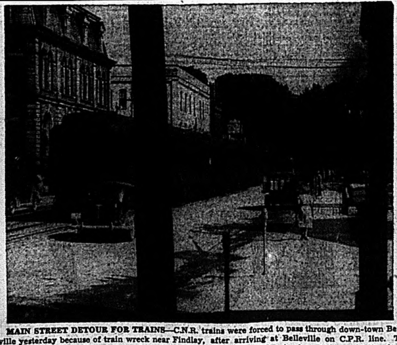
Constable R. Crawford, of Leaside, said he found the two coons standing outside a local theatre.

"They looked as if they were trying to make out the ads," he said. They weren't the least bit frightened, even when I picked them up they behaved like a pair of kittens."

The curious tourists were taken to the Leaside Firehall for a meal and sent to the zoo today.



MAIN STREET DETOUR FOR TRAINS—C.N.R. trains were forced to pass through down-town Belleville yesterday because of train wreck near Findlay, after arriving at Belleville on C.P.R. line. POLICE BOARD TO HEAR CHARGES AGAINST OFFICER

Charges Not Disclosed By Toronto Commission

Toronto, June 17 — (CP) — Detective - Sergeant Arthur Keay appeared today before a closed meeting of the Toronto Police Commission called to investigate charges against him.

Mayor Hiram McCallum later announced that "the best interests of the city will be served if the hearing is conducted without the press present."

Mayor Hiram E. McCallum, chairman of the Police Commission, said Thursday night that the charges against Keay, who has been attached to the headquarters detective squad, are of "a very serious nature." He declined to elaborate.

The mayor said he had signed subpoenas for about 50 witnesses. He hinted that other municipalities might enter into the inquiry.

Before being promoted to his present rank, Keay was active in prosecuting drug cases. With Alex Deans, who resigned from the force some time ago, he recovered several thousand dollars worth of bonds stolen from banks and buried by the thieves in farm land along a highway just west of the city.

Formal Statement Later

Mayor Hiram McCallum met the press this morning and said he felt "the best interests of the city will be served if the hearing is conducted without the press present."

He said a formal statement would be issued later.

A spokesman at police headquarters said he had never known such precautions to be taken against the release of information.

Even Keay refused to clarify the situation any further than to say "I don't know what all the charges are."

"I know some and I am sure I can clear myself of those, but I believe there are other charges — I have no dea what they are or who is laying them," he told reporters.

MUST KILL ELK HERD

Pembroke, June 17 —(CP) — W. E. Gimby, assistant district forester here, said Thursday that a herd of 45 elk, brought to Pembroke from Wainright Park in Alberta, 15 years ago, is to be destroyed Saturday. He said the animals have been attacked by a parasitic disease and the step is necessary to prevent it spreading to wild life in the immediate area.

Same Take-Home Pay Wanted With Increase in Rate

Fifteen Brotherhoods Serve Notice on Both Railroads

Montreal, June 17 — (CP) — Fifteen International Brotherhoods, representing 100,000 Canadian rail workers, announced today that they have served notice on the railroads demanding a five - day, 40-hour week with the same take - home pay as for 48, plus a wage increase of seven cents an hour.

Formal notice of the unions' demands was served on the railways Thursday, a month before expiration of the agreement which brought more than 150,000 rail workers a 17-cents-an-hour wage increase last July 16.

No Immediate Comment

There was no immediate comment from the railways on the submission.

The announcement was made by Frank H. Hall, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks (A. F. L.) who is chairman of the Brotherhoods' joint negotiating committee.

Under the current agreement average railroad wage is $1.09 an hour. The 48-hour work week prevails in nearly all branches except the locomotive shops where a 44-hour week is in force.

Although the 15 Brotherhoods affiliated with the American Federation of Labor announced a month ago that they intended to seek reduced working hours and higher wages, today's announcement was the first time they had made public their actual wage demands.

To Seek Revision

At the same time the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (C.C.L.)), which numbers 25,000 members, is preparing formal notice of its intention to seek revision of the present agreement with the railways.

The C.B.R.E., whose members work on the same terms as the A.F.L.-affiliated workers, also announced in May that it would seek the 40-hour week and a 30-per-cent wage increase.

The C.B.R.E. is expected to submit its formal notice in a few days.

Mr. Hall's announcement said: "The proposals require that the adjustment to a 40-hour week be made without reducing the amount to be paid for 40 straight-time hours below the compensation now paid for a 48-hour work week. It is proposed that the new work hours shall be made effective Sept. 1, 1949.

"Employees must have two consecutive days off duty each week, but if they are worked on these days must be paid at punitive rates not less than time and a half.

"The amount of wage increase requested is seven cents per hour, to be effective July 17, 1949."

Two Cats Attack Child, Tear Scalp and Face

Cookstown, Ont., June 17 (CP). — Two-year-old Alayne Zaygos was savagely attacked by two berserk female cats Thursday just outside her home in Cookstown, 50 miles north of Toronto. She was rescued by a neighbor, Margaret Patterson, after her brother and Alayne's dog chased the cats.

"The big cats had her on the ground," said Miss Patterson. "All their claws were tearing into her scalp."

The girl was treated at her home for superficial face scratches and quarter-inch scalp cuts.

Waitkus to Play Major League Baseball Again

Chicago, June 17. (AP)—Eddie Waitkus will play major league baseball again—but probably not this season—says one of the physicians attending the seriously wounded Philadelphia Phillies' first baseman.

Dr. L. L. Braun, team physician for the Chicago Cubs, said it was "still uncertain" whether Waitkus, shot near the heart by an infatuated 19-year-old girl, will be back in the Phillies lineup this season.

"But I am quite sure," Dr. Braun said, "he will be back playing baseball. Just when it will be I cannot say."

Condition of the 28-year-old player today was described as 'good". The hospital said he had "taken a turn for the better but was not quite out of danger."

Waitkus Wednesday was shot with a .22 calibre rifle by Ruth Steinhagen, a typist who was secretly in love with the bachelor ball player although she had never met him until she lured him to her room in the Edgewater Beach Hotel, Tuesday night.

Oshawa Woman Awarded Damages

Whitby, June 17 (CP). — Mrs. Julia Blackburn, widow of former Oshawa City Treasurer Peter A. Blackburn, Thursday was awarded $17,450 damages in a Supreme Court of Ontario action arising from an automobile accident in May 1948 in which her husband was killed.

Brampton George Hawkins of Belleville, recently convicted of dangerous driving and sentenced to three months in jail in connection with the same accident, was found negligent by Mr. Justice D. C. Wells.

Towering Forms Like Thunderheads Only Kind of Clouds Worth 'Seeding'

By RENNIE TAYLOR

Associated Press Science Reporter

Vancouver, June 17 (AP).—It may be possible to prevent lightning storms by seeding clouds with dry ice, says L. O. Grant, one of several scientists who tried rain making in Arizona last summer.

Seeding also can make it rain harder even if it can't actually start a rainstorm, Mr. Grant told the American Meteorological Society here Thursday.

In a year or two the researchers will have a complete record of rainfall covering a long enough period to tell whether it pays to seed clouds.

Mr. Grant is a member of the American Institute of Aerological Research, of Pasadena, Calif., which carried out the experiments.

The only ind of clouds worth seeding, Mr. Grant reported, are certain towering cumulus formations something like the great white, round thunderheads commonly seen in summer. Also they have to be at least 3,000 feet thick containing three-per-cent moisture by volume and they must have a sub-freezing temperature.

Quick seeding of the top of a cumulus cloud sometimes produces no rain but it can change the nature of the cloud and cause a build-up in neighboring clouds to the point where they may form raindrops.

When this happens the top of the cloud turns into ice particles. The ice particles fall. The ice particles drop through the bottom of the cloud to disrupt the area where moisture from clear air is being condensed into cloud vapor.

This disturbs the bottom of the cloud line, where electrically-charged particles collect and sometimes produce lightning. A breaking up of collections of these charged particles may prevent the accumulation of the electrical energy which causes lightning flashes, Grant said.

PARKED CAR OWNER IS LOCATED

It isn't just safe to leave a motorcar parked in an unattended place for too long at a time. At least that is what Everett Graham, Walker's Foundry, must be thinking today.

Yesterday a report was received at the police station that a car had been parked near the river bank behind Loblaw's since last spring and was gradually being dismantled.

A check for the owner revealed the car was registered in the name of a Kingston man. Then Mr. Graham turned up and said he had bought the vehicle and was selling it this week.

Uniform Bounty Of $40 on Wolves Is Proposed

There won't be much point in wolf hunters dragging their kills from one township to another which pays the larger bounty if a Peterborough County Council resolution, endorsed yesterday by the Hastings County body, bears any fruit.

The resolution called for an increase of the provincial bounty on wolves from $25 to $40 with the provincial government subsidizing the municipalities 50 per cent.

At present, it was pointed out, municipality bounties differ. It was felt the above resolution was proposed in order to have a uniform bounty in all counties and do away with township bounties.

Reeve Wilfred Spencer was of the opinion that all townships should strike a uniform rate of bounty.

"At one time my township (Rawdon) paid a fifty-dollar bounty and it appeared that every wolf shot, or poisoned was done to death in Rawdon township."

Reeve William Davis, Bangor favored the idea of a uniform rate of bounty, while Reeve Chas. Rush, Hungerford favored the elimination of township bounties so that all monies spent this way could go through county councils which in turn would be subsidized.

"Wolves won't travel so far. if this goes through," he smiled, "especially after they're dead"

S.A. Expresses Appreciation for Assistance Given

The Salvation Army wishes to express appreciation to residents of Belleville and district, for their kind response to this year's effort in the Red Shield appeal. While many busy men and women gave of their time, their efforts would have been wasted had not the citizens rallied so well to the support of Salvation Army work.

Final reports have not been tabulated as yet, due to the fact the tag day will be held in September and some contributions are still outstanding. However, the total at present is in the vicinity of $6,300.

Thanks to the Kiwanis Club of Belleville, who contributed the sum of $500 to pay for any children they may send along to the Fresh Air Camp, which will be operated by the Salvation Army.

The Fresh Air fund will remain open during the summer to receive any donations which may come in for this work.

Skunk Chased Into Taxi Office Soon Dispatched

It is only natural for a dog to chase a cat but when the cat is of the black and white striped species then it is something else again.

But that is what happened in the city early this morning when an ambitious dog chased a skunk into the office of the Midtown Taxi on Victoria Ave.

The skunk took refuge in a brick fireplace and caused quite a bit of concern on the part of the occupants and by city police until the visitor was evicted and despatched. But in the process the skunk left a grim reminder of his call.

According to a report from the scene of operations one of the city police managed to lassoo the skunk with a piece of string and with the unwilling visitor protesting almost every inch of the way the animal was led out and despatched with a bullet from the police service revolver.

And that is the reason why today there is a tendency on the part of pedestrians to circuit a certain section of Victoria Ave.

POLICE COURT

Four cases of drunk driving were listed for hearing at the morning session of magistrate's court before Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

The magistrate reserved judgment on the drunk driving charge against Henry Scruby of Cannifton and enlarged two others until a later court. Harry Badgley, Plainfield, pleaded guilty to drunk driving and was sentenced to seven days in jail.

Other motorists charged with drunk driving were Roscoe Sine, and Bernard Egan of Read. Both had their cases enlarged for one week.

The Scruby charge resulted from an accident on Cannifton Road when a truck driven by the accused ran into the side of a moving train some weeks ago. Three police officers testified the accused was intoxicated while Defence Counsel Frank Cushing brought in two witnesses who said they saw no signs of intoxication in Mr. Scruby following the accident.

Fred Bryce, Dundas Street East was given suspended sentence for two years when he pleaded guilty to the theft of a bicycle which he had later painted.

Two drunks pleaded guilty, one being a second offender, and was sentenced to one month in jail.

Douglas Bews Heads Advisory Board for Blind

At the annual supper meeting of the Hastings County Advisory Board for the Blind held in Trenton, the members were privileged to hear a talk by Mr. D. B. Lawley, National Consultant for Field Services in Canada. At the request of the authorities in Trinidad, Mr. Lawley was loaned by Canada to organize an institute for the blind there.

In graphic word pictures, Mr. Lawley described the difficulties due to racial prejudices and the insanitary conditions among which the blind were living in Port of Spain. With the co-operation of willing helpers a site was chosen and plans for a school and other facilities were established. Mr. Mark Tripp was chairman of the meeting and Mr. A. D. Archibald presided over the business meeting.

116 Blind in Hastings

Several have radios on loan, and the Kinette Club of Belleville have purchased two talking books for the use of the blind.

Miss Munro, the home teacher for the district reported that she had helped in instruction of leather and wool work and other handicraft, and in teaching braille and typing. Each person received a gift at Christmas, and in most cases were visited.

Other reports were given by Mr. George Wishart on services and costs; Mrs. Harry Rollins for the tag day; Miss M. W. Peck for the Christmas fund; and Mr. E. S. Fairman, statistical report.

Changes in industrials were held to fractions. A few papers and refining oils were slightly lower. Utilities were mixed. Canadian Vickers showed the widest change, adding $1 at $63.

Base metals weakened on small losses. Consolidated Smelters, selling ex-dividend $5, was down $6 at $81. International Nickel and Noranda weakened fractions and East Sullivan, Steep Rock and Golden Manitou showed declines ranging up to seven cents.

Championship Fight Was Financial Flop

Detroit, June 17 (AP)—On the face of it, Thursday night's Marcel Cerdan-Jake Lamotta middleweight championship fight was a financial flop.

The newly-organized International Boxing Club, Incorporated, evidently went into the red in its first title venture.

Official gross receipts for the fight were announced as $159,762 (net $127,810) which compared to the expected $300,000 gate. The crowd was 22,183.

The I.B.C.'s announced tally listed the "promoters' share and promotional expenses" together at $43,455.

By the time preliminary fighters are paid off, along with innumerable other expenses including advertising, program printing and employees, a deficit is almost certain.

Defending champion Cerdan's 40 per cent share was $51,124. Lamotta's 15 per cent was $19,171. Both are approximate figures.

Club's Decision Boon to Entire Breeding Industry

New York, June 17 (AP)—The British Jockey Club's decision to open its general stud book to foreign-bred horses was hailed today as a boon to the entire breeding industry and international turf relations.

The controversial, 36-year-old "Jersey Act" long a bone of contention between Britain and France and the United States on the other, was proposed by the late Earl of Jersey and implied that only horses registered in the general British stud book were pure, as thoroughbreds are judged. Since its 1913 inception, the act had stymied export trade in American blookstock.

The British Jockey Club announced Thursday, through its official "racing calendar," that new regulations in the next issue of the stud book, due in 1953, will admit any horse with height or nine crosses of pure blood tracing back at least a century if track performances in its immediate family "warrant belief in the purity of its blood."

American and French-bred horses have participated, many successfully, over the years in British racing although barred for breeding purposes there due to the Jersey Act.

Arthur B. Hancock, for many years a leading American breeder and who believes there should be an international stud book, expressed the opinion held by many other horsemen and breeders in Kentucky and elsewhere when he said, in Lexington, Ky.:

"The move will do them (the English) more good than it will us. It means they can use some strong crosses that were not eligible for their book. We could use them anyway."

Hog Prices Slump During Week

At Toronto opening sales were down $2 on grade A and B1 hogs and $1 lower on sows. At the close of trading on Thursday grade A were $32 and grade B1 $31.60 a hundredweight. The slump showed signs of continuing as bids on weekend deliveries were $1 lower.

Of the centres reporting Brantford had the biggest drop. Grade A hogs there slid to $29.85 for a net loss for the week of $4.

Grade A hogs at Peterborough were reported selling $1 lower at $30.40 while in Hull, Que., dressed grade A hogs dropped even more, showing a loss of $1.75.

Engineers, Corbys Score Victories In Softball Loop

It took a three-run rally in the bottom of the seventh to give Corbys a 10-9 victory over Shell Oil in the first game of a Commercial Softball League doubleheader played last evening at the Alemite Field. In the nightcap, Provincial Engineers eked out a 7-6 victory over McFarlane's Woodenware, behind the sterling mound effort of Johnny Bawden.

Shell Oil waged an uphill struggle all the way against Corbys, and were nursing a two-run lead going into the bottom of the seventh. Two errors and doubles by Nolan and Hunter produced three runs and the victory. Corbys were lucky to get away with their win record unimpaired.

The Oilers opened the scoring with two runs in the first frame on two hits and an error. Corbys came back for three tallies in their end of the inning and added another in the second to take a two run lead.

Two singles and an error tied up the ball game in the third as Shell drove over two runs. That was all for Shell starting pitcher Art Empy who retired to centrefield. Reid came in to relieve. Shell took a short lived lead in the fifth with Jones singling to score Milligan. Doubles by Ray Reid and Storms, and singles by Moon and Doug Sword produced three tallies for Corbys in the fifth to put them two up.

Disaster in Seventh

Shell came storming back in the sixth to collect four runs with Jones' three-run homer being the pay-off blow. Then came the seventh and disaster for Shell.

Smart fielding by the Oilers produced three double plays, one in each of the second, third, and fourth innings. All plays came off an attempted bunt with a man on first. The bunt popped up to the pitcher twice and once to the third baseman with the relay at first catching the runner each time.

Art Empy started for the oilers and in two innings struck out one, and gave up three hits for four runs. Reid went five innings in relief striking out three, walking one, and giving up 11 hits for six runs and the ball game. Halloran went the route for Corbys wakling one, striking out 10, and scattering nine hits for nine runs.

Line-Ups: ....

Hung on Grimly

Provincial Engineers took a commanding lead in their game with McFarlane's Woodenware and then hung on grimly to outlast a determined drive by the losers.

A walk to F. Donovan, and home runs by St. Dennis and Burley got the Engineers away to a flying start in the first frame as they pounded over three runs.

McFarlane's got two back in the second on two errors and a single. Engineers added a single tally in the bottom of the second and wound up their scoring in the fifth, getting three on a homer by McGuire, a double by Hanna and singles by Watson and Carr.

McFarlane's put together two runs in the sixth and loaded the bases with none out in the seventh. Peters hit to short and Young was thrown out at the play in a force play. Moore struck out, and pinch hitter Frank Baldwin walked to score Scanlon. Boyce went down swinging to retire the side with the bases loaded.

Young toiled in a losing cause for McFarlane's, walking four, striking out six, and giving up 11 hits for seven runs. Bawden pitched a sensational game for Engineers, walking but three, striking out twelve, and giving up only five hits for six runs.

Line-Ups:

McFarlane's: Young p; Scanlon ss; Holland rf; Peters 3b; Moore cf; Skinkle lf; Boyce 1b; Marsh c; J. Moore 2b;

Engineers: F. Donovan lf; St. Dennis, 2b; Burley ss; E. Donovan cf; McGuire c; Watson 3b; Hanna 1b; Carr rf; Bawden p.

BORDER TRAFFIC HEAVIER

Ottawa, June 17 (CP).—Traffic at international border points was 14 per cent heavier in April than in the same month last year mainly because of returning Canadian traffic, the Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday. During the month, the number of Canadian vehicles returning to Canada increased by 40 per cent, while the United States traffic entering Canada increased five per cent.

Jamieson Bone Describes Trip To Y's Men's Club

Jamieson Bone was the guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Y's Men's Club held in the Y.M.C.A. on Thursday night. Recently returned from a five weeks tour of the West Indies he gave impressions of this dreamland of the tropical seas, carrying his audience with a picture of Bermuda, St. Kitts, Montserrat and Dominico, Martinique, St. Eustache, St. Lucia, the Barbados and Venezuela. He made these lands live in the minds of the club members who were reminded, however, that Canada still held a charm and freedom to which none of these places could attain.

Max Matthews of the Canadian Legion, spoke to the club on the responsibilities of citizens to exercise the franchise using as his theme the motto of the Y's Men's Club "To acknowledge the duty which accompanies every right." The speaker emphasized the privileges of our democratic way of life but pointed out that these privileges were accompanied by responsibilities. "The Legion," he said, "was endeavoring to foster loyalty and patriotism among citizens and at this time directing their energies to an encouragement of the use of the franchise in the forthcoming election." To this end he called on the Y's Men's Club to join with other service clubs and the Chamber of Commerce in a campaign to procure a record vote. Only in this way can we be sure that our democracy will not be forced to give way to dictatorship.

A third speaker of the evening was Leo Marcus, a collegiate student, who, in a brief and timely address and in well chosen words pointed to the duty of every Canadian for fulfilling good government and good citizenship. He defended young people against the adverse criticism of adults who might consider them as carefree and irresponsible. He indicated that they were well informed and prepared to take on their responsibilities and hoped that those who had the privilege of voting would do their duty.

President Gerald B. Hyde was chairman of the meeting. Joseph E. Shortt introduced Mr. Bone and he was thanked by Vernon Weir. Rev. Donald Amos was sergeant-at-arms.

Projects Announced.

Several projects of the club were announced. Financial support will be given to two members of the Phalanx Club of the Y.M.C.A. to aid them to attend the National Y.M.C.A. Young Adult Conference at Y.M.C.A. Park, Lake Couchiching, Ontario in July. Another contribution was authorized to help support the bringing of an overseas delegate to the Y's Men's International Conference in Minneapolis at which the local club will be represented by President Hyde and Austin Watkins.

Purchase of power tools to equip the craft rooms at the Y.M.C.A. was also authorized. The club is also giving consideration to additions to the waterfront equipment at the Y.M.C.A. Camp at Moira Lake.

The next meeting will take the form of an outing to the Moira Lake Camp on Thursday, June 23.

COUNTERFEIT BILLS OUT

Ottawa, June 17 — (CP) —The post office warned postmasters Thursday that counterfeit United States $100 bills "of excellent workmanship" are in circulation. They belong to series 1934 of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and appeared in February and March. Counterfeits of series 1934A and 1934 from the Federal Reserve Banks of New York and Atlanta are also in circulation. The post office says they are "extremely deceptive."

GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Edmonton, June 17. (CP) — Leo Burke, 42-year-old cripple, Thursday was found guilty of manslaughter in the penknife slaying May 10, of his brother-in-law, James Holmes. Burke was remanded to Saturday for sentence. Evidence at the four-day murder trial of the Edmonton advertising salesman was that Holmes died of a knife wound in the neck after the two men quarreled in the victim's home.

FATHER'S DAY

In May there has been for years what is known as the observance of Mother's Day. Sunday June 19th has been designated as Father's Day when sons and daughters will acknowledge their devotion and obligation to the fathers. Especially in the churches the time will be observed. Back of the observance is the view held by the Canadian Father's Day Council that if the younger Canadians paid more attention to father and the grown-up citizens gave fatherhood more respect, there would be less delinquency among the young, less family troubles and fewer divorces. They know that the modern freedom of this age does not give a licence to show disrespect for the paternal head of the family.

The setting of a day to the rank of Father's Day is the aim of a plan "for Better Citizenship Make Dad Your Pal." The mothers of the race have been likewise honored and the honoring of the fathers is gaining prominence.

Honor to both days places before the young especially the high ideals which have been fortunately inculcated in most homes and on which have been built lives of importance and blessing to not only parents and the other members of the family but the entire community and even to the world.

As life stretches on its way, more and more people feel the nobility of the lives of their parents which have made of their homes an earthly paradise for the growing young as well as a shelter from the storms and problems of early life while the families are growing up and gaining their training to fit them for the places they will be called upon to fill in the days ahead.

Sons and daughters ever owe a debt to their mothers and fathers. In most homes the relationship is the ideal one.

Such a day with the observance centred in the home and the place of worship can have only the richest blessings for that home and the neighborhood and community. It means a sort of dedication of the children to a pledge, their duty to honor and respect the family, the father, the mother and the children themselves. It brings prominently before the father and the mother and children the duties each owe to the family and to home, and to the religious ideals which have there been inculcated.

A PEEP INTO THE PAST

Something of the life of the prehistoric and mysterious world is being steadily unfolded. New Yorkers and visitors in the American city have been afforded the opportunity to look into an age when life was different from what it is today. At the American Museum of Natural History they are able to see fossilized animals found in the frozen tundra in Alaska during gold mining operations last fall. The animals' bodies had been washed after myriads of years from their frigid prison-house the tundra with hair and skin attached to the skeletons. To preserve these creatures brought from the early history of the world was no small task and every means was taken to maintain in their receptacles a temperature as low as in the Alaskan tundra where they have been held for nearly half a million years. Modern refrigeration was the answer. It saved the forms intact.

Some of the animals have been extinct for 400,000 years. Among the specimens were the entire carcass of a musk ox, the face, and forepart of one leg of a baby mammoth and the foreleg of a horse, these being anywhere from 15,000 to 400,000 years old. There are also parts of an adult mammoth, which was an early relative of the modern elephant, and a "super" bison, a huge relative of the modern buffalo or bison. The hair and skin are very clearly visible and in one case the hair is a fairly bright red.

This showing of the prehistoric world may be the forerunner of later exhibitions of long disappeared animals. There is now hope of finding entire carcasses of such ancient beasts of the world when it was not so old as it is now.

The frozen tundra of the Arctic had held these creatures long in their icy vaults and tombs to be discovered by modern man. Discovery has brought to light many new facts of the hidden past and there can be no doubt of further finds. Modern science is so advanced that it has the means to preserve these ancients' remains by means of refrigeration and keep them for the world of today to look upon with wonder at the course of world history on this planet llong, long ago.

EDEN OVER AGAIN

The third chapter of Genesis, which describes the temptation and fall of Adam and Eve, is a literary classic and a great chapter on human behavior. It tells how our first parents brooded over the fact that there was one tree in the garden, the fruit of which they were denied. The more they thought of it, the more they wanted the fruit of that tree. Nothing was needed to involve them in catastrophe but the suggestion of the serpent that they eat and be done with it.

Many years ago I remember watching a youngster who had been told by his parents that under no condition was he to leave the sidewalk and go out into the street. He rode down the sidewalk on his velocipede and then began cutting out into a driveway which led to the street. At first he went just a foot or two off the sidewalk; then a little more; then at last he executed a quick circle out to the street and came back again.

And right there in the youngster, the garden of Eden story was being enacted over again. He had been told not to go out into the street, so going out into the street became the most alluring adventure. "Of every tree in the garden thou mayest freely eat: but of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil thou shalt not eat of it'.' Trouble began right there.

MARY GOT HER IODINE

Mary Garden begins a lecture tour of the country in Detroit in October. She will reveal that one of her health treatments was to take a dose of iodine after each of her performances.

That's interesting but vague. It might mean that Mary took her nip of iodine every night for 100 nights consecutively when she made her debut at 23 in the title role of Charpentier's "Louise" at Opera Comique, Paris, or, more likely only once every week or two, when she sang "Marguerite," "Salome," "Thais" or "Melisande" in New York, Chicago or Penn Yan maybe.

I'm afraid to mention here the quantity of iodine Mary took after each of her performances. But I am glad to know that the incomparable Mary believed in getting her iodine.

The quantity of iodine Mary took after each performance was considerably greater than I recommend as a daily ration of iodine for everybody. But it would not be too much for a mature adult to take twice a week the year around of for an adult with any of the earlier manifestations of cardiovascular degeneration (heart and artery wearing out) to take daily for one month in each of the four seasons of the year.

I shall not state the quantity here. Afraid some readers would get it wrong. Those with early manifestations of cardiovascular degeneration will find my recommendations of iodine in a regeneration regimen in the booklet C V D about arteriosclerosis and other conditions of the arteries and coronary occlusion and angina pectoris and slow heart muscle failure. For a copy of the booklet send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope.

Young people will find my recommendations in regard to an adequate daily intake of iodine for maintaining pep or vite in the pamphlet The Iodin Ration—for copy send stamped self addressed envelope and no clippng, please. I assume that any one who can't write can't read either.

Miss Garden seems to have taken her iodine straight. The old time chorus girl, one gathered from furtive glances at the Police Gazette when one grew old enough to get a store hair cut, was wont to take hers in the form of a lobster supper after the show. A serving of lobster or the more lowly (in those days) oysters, or salmon or tuna, fresh or canned, contains enough iodine to supply the requirements of some persons for several days.

In the Iodin Ration pamphlet I explain why everybody, man, woman and child, should get a wee bit of iodine in one form or another every day. Further, I mention some of the common manifestations of iodine deficiency in school children, in youths and in mature adults, especially women in their thirties and forties. In any case one thing is certain—it never does any harm to take a suitable ration of iodine, so, if in doubt, why not try it. By a ration I mean the quantity one should get but seldom does get in everyday food. Nutritional iodine, not medicine.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Living With a Nut

The nut lives on fruit and vegetable juices, figs, dates, dried herbs and sundry concoctions, of soy beans, roots etc., and assures me I'll die in a year if I continue eating meat, fish, fowl, fruits, vegetables, milk, eggs—on which I was raised. I enjoy excellent health, but the nut's ailments are many, too many to list. (Mrs. G. L. M.)

Answer—Takes all kinds of people. However, as long as the nut doesn't force you to follow his or her sad example, you can get a kick out of the performance —your letter sounds that way. A person who eats no animal protein (meat, fish, fowl, milk, eggs) may manage to maintain fair health but it is easier to do so on a diet including reasonable amounts of these foods.

Not So Fast!

It may interest you to hear the results of your suggestions on how to lose weight in my case. My wife said I was not heeding your advice when I reduced so rapidly, but I felt no ill effects. In 28 days I lost 30 pounds. I have passed the pamphlet along to a number of my friends and they are getting results approximating mine. (W. S. S.)

Answer — Your wife has good sense. Two to three pounds a week is plenty for any one to lose, if he or she has due regard for health, vite and personal appearance. Any oversize adult who asks for it in writing (no clipping please) and incloses self addressed stamped envelope, may have a copy of the pamphlet How to Lose Weight.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

Cigaret smokers are divided into two categories: those who stamp their cigaret butts out with purpose and decision; and those who give their butts a slither-fiddle in the ash tray, and leave them to smoulder and stink.

Character can be read in relation to cigaret butts as readily as in any other behavior. I know a bank manager who always gives a cigaret to the strange customer asking for a loan; and he reserves his decision until he sees how the customer disposes of the butt.

Gordon Sinclair, the writer and radio commentator, has travelled round and round the world exploring all the byways off the main highways. He has seen queer things, eaten strange food, slept in curious places. But nothing irks him except smouldering cigaret butts. It is his one irk.

He claims that the smoke from a smouldering butt in an ash tray will invariably drift to him, rather than to anybody else in the same room. He goes further than that: he says that the smoke will follow him around if he changes his place. In a radio studio one day—where you are commanded, of course, not to smoke by large signs on the wall, but where everybody smokes anyway— Gordon demonstrated this mysterious fact. One of us had left a butt burning, and Gordon uttered his customary malediction on the offender. He told us how the smoke would follow him. We challenged him. He moved to the far end of the table. The smoke from the butt quietly shifted its course and went to him. He moved to the opposite end. The smoke gently reversed, and wafted his way. We were transfixed. 'Maybe", we suggested "you are smoke-genic or something. . . ." But Gordon asserted that the more a thing irks you the more it will pester you. It's psychic, he said.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SMALL SPACE

The brain in the human head occupies small space, but think of the power that a single brain so often wields! Lincoln's Gettysburg speech was confined to 267 words, yet Edward Everett, the main orator of the day at the Gettysburg ceremonies later wrote Lincoln as follows: "I should be glad if I could flatter myself that I came as near to the central idea of the occasion in two hours as you did in two minutes."

I have seen about seven of the original paintings of Vermeer, outstanding as a favorite of mine of all artists, and yet these paintings are all small—things of rare beauty, exquisite, perfect in execution of color, arrangement and feeling.

I recently read of Louis Agassiz the great scientist and naturalist, that he spent one summer "almost halfway across his back yard." And my friend Edwin Way Teale has a regular world in small space in his back yard which he calls his "Insect Garden." Here it is that he watches, makes notes, and photographs the inhabitants of this world of his, later putting it all into a book, thus making us his honored guests.

The humming-bird takes small space, yet it is one of the most beautifully exquisite birds in all the bird world. At rest, viewed from one's field glasses, it resembles the rarest of jewels, matching the colors of an Australian black opal, or giving sun-reflected mystery as does the star in an oriental saphire.

Precious things take small space. So do great thoughts. Every great business usually starts in small space. You can plant an acorn in an inch of space—but how the years expand that space, finally bringing about a tree of large proportions and inviting the admiration and use of man, beast and bird.

A single shelf of selected books can be made sufficient for anyone to gain a liberal education. Indeed this was the idea of the famous Dr. Eliot 5-foot bookshelf. We can see a great deal, learn much, and do much—in small space. It isn't the space, however, so much as what that space represents, and what comes out of it.

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

The Resurrection Made The Difference

By ROY L. SMITH

There were two men whose preaching produced a vast tide of interest among the Jews—John, the desert prophet known as the Baptist, and Jesus of Nazareth. Both men attracted enormous crowds, both men preached a revolutionary gospel, both men were extremely popular with the people, and both were credited with having some special word from God for the people.

In several of the early records of the Christian movement we find references to small companies of Johnites, men and women who believed that the strange prophet from the desert had spoken some eternal word to the people.

At the confluence of the Tigris and the Euphrates valleys there is a small settlement of strange folk called Mandaens, about 10,000 of them, who continue to believe that John the Baptist was some kind of Messiah. In fact they have a series of very ancient writings which none of them can read, which they stoutly declare contain some of the original teachings of the Baptist.

But aside from the few words of the prophet's which have been preserved for us in the New Testament, and these highly dubious words saved by the Mandaens, nothing whatever of John's Gospel remains to us. Yet in Jesus' day the Baptist was the mightiest preacher of them all.

It was the Resurrection

What made the difference? Why did the religious movement which John originated end in oblivion, and that one which Jesus inaugurated sweep across the earth? The answer is very simple. When John was beheaded by the order of Herod Antipas, he continued dead. When Jesus died upon Pilate's cross he was buried and rose to live again. The followers of John had none but a dead prophet to whom to look. The Christian disciples declared their Lord was living and that He lived in them.

That Explains It

It has been declared many times that the things Jesus said had all been said before, and it is true that close parallels may be found between some of His most majestic utterances and the speeches and sermons of others who had gone before Him. But between those who said the same things, and Jesus, there is this difference. Jesus arose from the dead, and men became interested in anything He said because of the ressurection.

The Authority of the Resurrection

Why does the world take so seriously the Sermon on the Mount? It is true, of course, that it is a sublime utterance, but there have been other sermons which have also been sublime. The explanation is very simple.

The Sermon on the Mount has behind it the authority of the resurrection. The man who preached the principle of the other cheek and the second mile died and arose again from the dead. It is hard to ignore the things that such an one said.

> The Sunday School lesson for June 19: Jesus Rises from the Dead," Mark 16:1-8; John 21:1-17; I Corinthians 15:12-19.

Let any man who reads those words, "Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth," remember that the one who made them stick in the world's memory was one who lay in the tomb and then, by the power of God, came forth alive. It is incredible to believe that Heaven would lend such endorsement to one who was mistaken.

There is Eternity in Them

When we read our New Testament, let us never forget that back of those dignified sentences and profound utterances, there stands the sublime fact of the resurrection to give them validity. There can be no more powerful attestation of their truth than this.

Likewise, when we read our New Testament, let us remember that if it had not been for the resurrection that even the most beautiful of the promises would have been lost to us.

Without a doubt Jesus' words would have suffered the same fate as those of John's, except for that vast difference between them. When John died he continued dead. When Jesus died He arose from the dead and went on living. Indeed, He lives today.

All that is the core of Christian faith.

Mackenzie's Column:

Status of State Will be Changed On July 1st

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Out of mystic India comes a story so strange that it reads like fantasy. Attention is called to it here because it epitomizes a situation which I believe will play a vital part in the great war of the ideologies developing in the Orient.

On July 1 the old and princely State of Travancore will be combined with the adjoining principality of Cohin and the 36-year-old Maharajah of Travancore will become titular head. He will be responsible to the new government of India.

There's nothing startling in this transaction, of course, because some 565 principalities of India are being absorbed by the New Delhi government. The strange part is this:

For 200 years the real ruler of Travancore has been the Hindu god Padmanabha, and the Maharajahs have acted as stewards of the Diety. The princes have sworn allegiance only to the god.

It took the Indian government about a year to persuade the present Maharajah to change the status of his state. He was fearful that he would be committing blasphemy if he swore allegiance to the Indian constitution or agreed to alter the boundaries of his state.

Move Sincere

The skeptical reader may say that the prince was merely stalling to avoid changing the status of his state. However, your columnist accepts the prince's explanation as sincere, having spent much time in India and knowing how intensely religious both the Hindus and the Moslems are.

Religion plays a major part in the lives of both Hindus and Moslems. It not only is spiritual but in many respects dominates the ordinary ways of daily life.

Combat Communism

And how does this fit into the war of the ideologies? Well, Moscow is increasingly shifting to the Orient the weight of its world revolution for the spread of communism. A vital part of the red offensive is its attack on religion, which is obstructive to the communist movement.

A few days ago in Cairo a Moslem religious leader from Turkestan, in Soviet - Central Asia, charged that Russia has been conducting an anti-Moslem purge ever since the end of the war.

This Moslem is Al Sayed Nour Muhammed Ismail, head of the Turkestan Mission t Cairo's great Moslem University. He charged that in the Middle Asia areas of the Soviet Union there are virtually "no Moslem inhabitants left."

Of course the Hindu and Moslem religions are far from being the only ones in the Orient. There are numerous others, but one and all they probably represent communism's toughest enemy. Even the man who worships a stone idol isn't going to give up his god.

Lib. Supporters Urged to Work Without Stint

A well attended meeting of the Belleville Ladies' Liberal Association was held in their club rooms on Wednesday evening.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Herbert McCabe spoke briefly.

Meeting was addressed briefly by Mr. Wright of Trenton, who two months ago took over the Trenton Press. He said in surveying the area of Trenton he saw great progress in the Liberal party.

"There are ten days before election," he said, and workers should work twelve hours at least in a day. As work goes on we gain momentum. We are behind a worthy cause and have a capable candidate. Do not be satisfied to win with a small margin, make it a landslide. A vote for Frank Follwell is a vote for the progress of Canada."

Mr. I. McGaughey, president of Trenton Liberal Association also spoke.

He said Belleville Liberals have an ideal way of organizing and much real work has been done.

Candidate Speaks

The candidate F. Follwell also expressed his pleasure in seeing so many staunch Liberal workers at the meeting. He said success of campaign depended on cooperation between all the workers, both ladies and gentlemen.

A complimentary tea is planned at the home of Mrs. E. E. Follwell, 269 George Street where every one will have a chance to meet Mrs. D. Blair, executive secretary of National Ladies' Liberal Association of Canada.

Mrs. Blair will also be guest speaker at a meeting in club rooms later.

Favorable Report

Mrs. Tucker, treasurer of association gave a favorable report as regards membership fees being paid.

The workers were organized for inside and outside work in different wards for election day.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

HOLLOWAY CHURCH W.A.

Field Work Discussed

The guest speaker of the afternoon was Miss Marion Daniels, Foxboro, who has recently graduated as a deaconess from the United Church Training School, Toronto and will be stationed at Orillia, as assistant to the pastor of the United Church. In a very informal talk she related some of her experiences leading to her engaging for full time Christian service in the church. In an interesting manner the speaker described her active work as a mission student on the field last summer on a charge near Fenelon Falls She also vividly cited to her audience the experiences she had during this past year with the two city churches in Toronto. Miss Daniels held the rapt attention of all of the ladies present and the ladies thanked her for her very timely address, one long to be remembered.

'Healthful Eating' Booklet Gives Hints on Cooking

(Canadan Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, June 16. (CP)—Since one of the objectives in cooking food is to make it as nutritious as possible, consideration should be given to the proper methods of cookery.

Experts of the health and welfare department suggest that vegetables generally suffer most from improper cooking.

One of the department's publications, "Healthful Eating", points out that vegetables are rich in minerals and vitamins, the nutrients so readily affected by water and heat. Great care must be taken to retain as much of the food value as possible.

Vegetables should be prepared close to meal-time. If cut, the pieces should be large because when cut in small pieces a larger surface area is exposed to the water, thus increasing the loss of vitamins and minerals.

In cooking vegetables the booklet suggests:

1. Use the least amount of watee possible, since many of the nutrients will dissolve in water.

2. Have the water boiling before adding the vegetables. Experiments show vegetables started in cold water have almost twice the mineral loss that they have if boiling water is used.

3. Cover the saucepan tightly to shorten the cooking perid and to cut down oxidation of vitamin C.

4. Cook only until tender—not soft.

5. Use the remaining cooking water in the preparation of soups and gravies.

6. Serve vegetables immediately after cooking because if they are allowed to stand for any length of time high vitamin losses occur.

The health experts also have some suggestions for cooking meat:

1. Cooking with dry heat: roasting, pan broiling, and oven broiling. Shrinkage is reduced when meat is cooked slowly in an uncovered pan.

2. Cooking with moist heat: braising (cooking in steam) and stewing (cooking in water). These methods are used for less tender cuts in order to soften the connective tissues.

Eggs should be cooked at a low temperature to prevent the toughening and curdling of the protein. High cooking temperatures also toughen the protein of cheese and make it less digestible.

Pleasant conversation at mealtime is not just proper etiquette, it also is an aid to digestion. Health and welfare department officials say that tense nerves and frayed tempers at the dinner-table often lead to digestive upsets and, in the case of children, to the creation of a stubborn feeding problem.

Incidentally parents should never try to force food into a child against his will. Children do not always eat the same amount from day to day and their tastes sometimes change. Parents should try to fill their children's nutritional needs with the foods their children prefer.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

ONLY AN EMOTIONAL ADOLESCENT COULD BEHAVE THIS WAY

By Beatrice Fairfax

As contemptible a character as I have heard of in a long time is the husband described in the following letter from a deeply troubled wife.

She writes:

"My first husband was killed in the war and I have since married a man whom I love very much.

"Some time ago I received word that my first husband's body was being shipped home. When I told my husband he almost blew the roof off the house. I couldn't bear to tell you some of the things he said. It tore me apart to have him act this way.

"I have a lovely home and two wonderful babies from this second marriage and I was very happy until this problem came up.

"It shouldn't really be a problem, I know. After all I received my first husband's insurance so of course it is my duty to pay for the funeral expenses. My husband wants to know if I am going to the funeral when the time comes. My answer is yes. Don't you think I am right? Don't I owe some consideration to my first husband's parents.

"I am so upset and hurt over this situation that I can't begin to cope with it."

It is very hard to understand any man behaving as this husband is doing in a situation of this kind. One would think that any decent person would give his wife very special consideration, sympathy and understanding under such circumstances.

This man's reaction, of course, is one that unfortunately many men who married widows, and many women who have married widowers, exhibit toward the first mate of the person they marry. It is a form of jealousy that seems particularly mean and small. Jealousy is bad enough when the person against whom it is directed is living. Where the object of jealousy is dead, it is incomprehensible, and only a very emotionaly immature person would feel it.

Personally, I always feel sorry when a woman who was widowed during the war is forced to after to go through the dreadful experience of receiving her husband's body. It seems to me a uselessly cruel thing to have to endure. Since however, this wife is confronted by it, and will have to go through it now, she has no other alternative. She certainly cannot refuse to attend her first husband's funeral.

I hope that someone, somehow, can bring her present husband to his senses so that he might be some sort of support to her in her coming ordeal rather than increase her agony by the exhibition of childishness he is now putting on.

Cool comfort is offered by a housecoat of pique cut on softly tailored robe lines, with colorful chintz applique on the big patch pockets. Nice in black, white or pastels.

Swiss Organdy for Brides

By PRUNELLA WOOD

This charmer among filmy frocks is one that will not dent even a slender budget, and no June bride could better her garden wedding by wearing anything else, while for bridesmaids, so necessary and rife these days . . . what could be lovelier? The fabric is imported Swiss organdy with a permanent finish, including the embroideries which make stand-off collar, sleeves, and perky peplum. White, of course, but embroidery may be white or delicate pastel tint.

BURR'S

Large Congregation Attends Memorial Day Service

Burrs—Mrs. Ronald Burr was hostess to the June meeting of the W.A. at her home on Thursday afternoon, with a large attendance, including the guests, Mrfs. W. Burkett, Mrs. B. Anderson, Miss L. Anderson of Mountain View; Mrs. E. Bird, Mrs. C. Maxwell, Mrs. K. Wood, of Bowerman's; Mrs. V. Squire, Mrs. F. Purtelle, of Crofton W.A.; Miss S. Wallbridge of Saskatoon, Mrs. W. Soble, Miss P. Burr, Mrs. R. Feikema, Miss C. Tait, of Burr's.

The president, Mrs. D. Harns, opened the meeting with a devotional period. A brief business session ensued. Two invitations to afternoon teas were received, and accepted at Crofton, July 13, and Hillier, August 3. A letter of thanks from Mrs. D. Osterhout was read. Greeting cards ordered by the secretary were on sale. Pamphlets regarding the Quinte Co-operative Plan were distributed. The Reverend J. F. Lane gave an invitation to church membership candidates to attend classes at the Bowerman church.

Mrs. A. Chase read the W.A. convention report as noted by Mrs. O. Diggins. Mrs. H. Hall and Mrs. F. Huffman gave readings. A pleasant feature of the afternoon was a miscellaneous shower for Mrs. R. Feikema, recently arrived from Freisland, Holland, from the W.A. members, as an expression of welcome to her from the church. Mrs. Feikema warmly thanked the ladies and showed appreciation for their kindness.

The July meeting was invited to the home of Mrs. K. Blekely.

Fashion Flashes

Pretty Plaids are of course a feature of the well-handed ginghams so liked this season. Blue and green plaided gingham makes the high-necked blouse top of a nice daytime dress. The gathered skirts is of the same plaid, but with a bold overplaid of white.

Best Bet for informal summer evenings in town is the dark sheer, now back in all it's beauty All-over shirred elasticized chiffon in navy or black is used for a pretty dress made with a deep oval neckline and short sleeves. Sash of silk satin ends in a flat bow at the side that is held by pink chiffon roses.

Interesting techniques are used to create fabric surface interest For instance, a dress of silk crepe in beige with a scattered print in cerise, black and dark green, has a simple bodice with deep draped sweetheart neckline and short sleeves. The skirt has all over bark-crinkle pleats achieved by close stitching, then removing the stitches.

Picnics are Fun!

Warm weather is here again and soft breezes drag us out of doors. "Let's have a picnic," will be an oft-repeated phrase for the next three months. Whether it is a hurriedly packed lunch or a carefully planned menu, food seems to taste better in the open air than in the most beautifully appointed dining room.

Even in summer meals there should be some hot food. If there is an open fire some cooking may be done over it. No one cares if there is a faintly smoky flavor or a slight scorch on one side. If no fire is possible at the chosen spot, the hot food goes to the picnic in a thermos jug. Stews, baked beans, and thick soups carry well in an insulated container, when no thermos jug is available if the hot cooking pot is taken from the stove and wrapped in several thicknesses of newspaper, it will keep hot for an hour or so. Beverages, hot or cold, carry best in a thermos bottle. Chilled tomato juice carried in this way makes a refreshing drink to start off the meal.

Sandwiches are usually the back-bone of a picnic lunch and they should be substantial with a generous quantity of filling. Vary the appearance of sandwiches by combining different kinds of breads such as white and whole wheat, raisin with white or rye or use fancy breads, such as cheese, date or orange. Use wiener rolls, hamburger buns, or scones for variety.

There are several things to remember in estimating supplies for sandwiches. One small sandwich loaf (1½ lbs.) cuts into 30 or 40 slices. Picnic sandwiches should not have crusts removed. Chill the loaf of bread in refrigerator before slicing and use a very sharp knife, to make even thin slices. ¼ lb. butter is needed for each loaf of bread. Butter will go further if creamed until light and fluffy. ½ lb. or slightly less of moist filling spreads one loaf. Cold meat, sliced thinly, yields 15 to 20 slices per pound. 1 doz. hard-cooked eggs, chopped, will fill 20 to 25 sandwiches.

The salad part of a picnic is sometimes best when confined to finger food. Wee crisp carrots, radishes, green onions and pickles are good for this purpose. If lettuce or other green, leafy salad if preferred, the salad-dressing should be carried separately and tossed in at the last moment so that the salad will have all its fresh crispness.

For desert, fresh fruit is usually relished. Cake with fluffy icing does not always carry well so the home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, suggest baked-on toppings for either cup cakes or loaf cakes.

Egg and Bacon Sandwich

- 6 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- 3 slices bacon, cooked crisp
- Few drops onion juice
- Salt and pepper
- Mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing

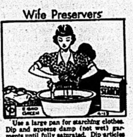
Combine chopped eggs, bacon and onion juice. Moisten with salad dressing. Season with salt and pepper. Spread thickly between slices of buttered whole wheat or white bread. Yield about 1½ cups.

Praline Topping

- ½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- 2 teaspoons flour
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 tablespoon water
- 1/3 cup chopped nuts

Mix all ingredients, spread over a hot 9 x 9 inch cake, return cake to oven and bake 5 minutes in a modern oven 350°F. Yield: enough for a 9" x 9" cake.

Wife Preservers



Use a large pan for starching clothes. Dip and squeeze damp (not wet) garments until fully saturated. Dip articles in order of stiffness desired; white pieces first. Wring out each piece over pan containing starch so it can be used again for remaining pieces.

Women's Activities

WEST HUNTINGDON W.M.S.

West Huntingdon.—The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Burgess entertained the W.M.S. ladies of West Huntingdon United Church on Friday last. The president called the meeting to order and the minutes of last meeting were read and approved. The roll call was answered by 19 members and two visitors each giving a verse of Scripture.

During the business part of the meeting, it was decided to send for two blue books Mrs. P. McInroy thanked the ladies for cards and letters sent her while away for the Winter. Mrs. G. Ashley thanked all the ladies who helped with the dinner for the Sunday School Convention and the proceeds were most gratifying.

The July meeting is to be in the form of a pot luck dinner at Mrs. G. Cooke's where the W.M.S. entertains the Mission Band and the Mission Band are to help prepare the program.

Mrs. J. Moorcroft gave a reading, followed by Mr. Burgess giving a very detailed and interesting account of the last chapter of the study book.

Mrs. McCurdy and Joan sang a duet which was much appreciated.

Mrs. P. McInroy and Mrs. Burgess led in prayer.

Collection was taken and refreshments were served by Mrs. Burgess and her helpers and the usual social half-hour spent.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Burgess for opening their home and the warm welcome they gave.

MOUNT PLEASANT W.M.S.

Mrs. H. C. Vaclavik entertained Mount Pleasant Rawdon Woman's Missionary Society at the Rawdon parsonage for their June meeting. Twenty ladies and three children attended.

The pianist, Mrs. Ross Hoard, played quiet music and Mrs. John Holmes gave the call to worship on the theme 'Neighborliness".

1 So Quick — So Easy. It takes no more time than to make a simple dessert. First, crush thoroughly 2 quarts fully ripe berries. (Use ripe fruit, not the under-ripe fruit called for in old-fashioned recipes.) Measure 4 cups crushed fruit and 7 cups sugar into large saucepan or kettle, mix well, bring to full, rolling boil over high heat.

2 Short Boil Keeps Fresh-Fruit Flavor, Color. Stir constantly before and while boiling. BOIL HARD ONE MINUTE ONLY (No long boiling to dull the natural color or spoil the luscious fresh-fruit taste.) Remove from heat, stir in half-bottle of Certo Fruit Pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly and prevent floating fruit.

3 50% More Jam! Because you don't have to "boil down" your juice to make it set, you'll have about 10 glasses to ladle and paraffin instead of the 6 to be expected from "long-boil" recipes. ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

ONLY AN EMOTIONAL ADOLESCENT COULD BEHAVE THIS WAY

By Beatrice Fairfax

As contemptible a character as I have heard of in a long time is the husband described in the following letter from a deeply troubled wife.

She writes:

"My first husband was killed in the war and I have since married a man whom I love very much.

"Some time ago I received word that my first husband's body was being shipped home. When I told my husband he almost blew the roof off the house. I couldn't bear to tell you some of the things he said. It tore me apart to have him act this way.

"I have a lovely home and two wonderful babies from this second marriage and I was very happy until this problem came up.

"It shouldn't really be a problem, I know. After all I received my first husband's insurance so of course it is my duty to pay for the funeral expenses. My husband wants to know if I am going to the funeral when the time comes. My answer is yes. Don't you think I am right? Don't I owe some consideration to my first husband's parents.

"I am so upset and hurt over this situation that I can't begin to cope with it."

It is very hard to understand any man behaving as this husband is doing in a situation of this kind. One would think that any decent person would give his wife very special consideration, sympathy and understanding under such circumstances.

This man's reaction, of course, is one that unfortunately many men who married widows, and many women who have married widowers, exhibit toward the first mate of the person they marry. It is a form of jealousy that seems particularly mean and small. Jealousy is bad enough when the person against whom it is directed is living. Where the object of jealousy is dead, it is incomprehensible, and only a very emotionaly immature person would feel it.

Personally, I always feel sorry when a woman who was widowed during the war is forced to after to go through the dreadful experience of receiving her husband's body. It seems to me a uselessly cruel thing to have to endure. Since however, this wife is confronted by it, and will have to go through it now, she has no other alternative. She certainly cannot refuse to attend her first husband's funeral.

I hope that someone, somehow, can bring her present husband to his senses so that he might be some sort of support to her in her coming ordeal rather than increase her agony by the exhibition of childishness he is now putting on.

Cool comfort is offered by a housecoat of pique cut on softly tailored robe lines, with colorful chintz applique on the big patch pockets. Nice in black, white or pastels.

Swiss Organdy for Brides

By PRUNELLA WOOD

This charmer among filmy frocks is one that will not dent even a slender budget, and no June bride could better her garden wedding by wearing anything else, while for bridesmaids, so necessary and rife these days . . . what could be lovelier? The fabric is imported Swiss organdy with a permanent finish, including the embroideries which make stand-off collar, sleeves, and perky peplum. White, of course, but embroidery may be white or delicate pastel tint.

BURR'S

Large Congregation Attends Memorial Day Service

Burrs—Mrs. Ronald Burr was hostess to the June meeting of the W.A. at her home on Thursday afternoon, with a large attendance, including the guests, Mrfs. W. Burkett, Mrs. B. Anderson, Miss L. Anderson of Mountain View; Mrs. E. Bird, Mrs. C. Maxwell, Mrs. K. Wood, of Bowerman's; Mrs. V. Squire, Mrs. F. Purtelle, of Crofton W.A.; Miss S. Wallbridge of Saskatoon, Mrs. W. Soble, Miss P. Burr, Mrs. R. Felkema, Miss C. Tait, of Burr's.

The president, Mrs. D. Harns, opened the meeting with a devotional period. A brief business session ensued. Two invitations to afternoon teas were received, and accepted at Crofton, July 13, and Hillier, August 3. A letter of thanks from Mrs. D. Osterhout was read. Greeting cards ordered by the secretary were on sale. Pamphlets regarding the Quinte Co-operative Plan were distributed. The Reverend J. F. Lane gave an invitation to church membership candidates to attend classes at the Bowerman church.

Mrs. A. Chase read the W.A. convention report as noted by Mrs. O. Diggins. Mrs. H. Hail and Mrs. F. Huffman gave readings. A pleasant feature of the afternoon was a miscellaneous shower for Mrs. R. Felkema, recently arrived from Freisland, Holland, from the W.A. members, as an expression of welcome to her from the church. Mrs. Freikema warmly thanked the ladies and showed appreciation for their kindness.

The July meeting was invited to the home of Mrs. K. Blekely.

Fashion Flashes

Pretty Plaids are of course a feature of the well-handed ginghams so liked this season. Blue and green plaided gingham makes the high-necked blouse top of a nice daytime dress. The gathered skirts is of the same plaid, but with a bold overplaid of white.

Best Bet for informal summer evenings in town is the dark sheer, now back in all it's beauty All-over shirred elasticized chiffon in navy or black is used for a pretty dress made with a deep oval neckline and short sleeves. Sash of silk satin ends in a flat bow at the side that is held by pink chiffon roses.

Interesting techniques are used to create fabric surface interest For instance, a dress of silk crepe in beige with a scattered print in cerise, black and dark green, has a simple bodice with deep draped sweetheart neckline and short sleeves. The skirt has all over bark-crinkle pleats achieved by close stitching, then removing the stitches.

Picnics are Fun!

Warm weather is here again and soft breezes drag us out of doors. "Let's have a picnic," will be an oft-repeated phrase for the next three months. Whether it is a hurriedly packed lunch or a carefully planned menu, food seems to taste better in the open air than in the most beautifully appointed dining room.

Even in summer meals there should be some hot food. If there is an open fire some cooking may be done over it. No one cares if there is a faintly smoky flavor or a slight scorch on one side. If no fire is possible at the chosen spot, the hot food goes to the picnic in a thermos jug. Stews, baked beans, and thick soups carry well in an insulated container, when no thermos jug is available if the hot cooking pot is taken from the stove and wrapped in several thicknesses of newspaper, it will keep hot for an hour or so. Beverages, hot or cold, carry best in a thermos bottle. Chilled tomato juice carried in this way makes a refreshing drink to start off the meal.

Sandwiches are usually the back-bone of a picnic lunch and they should be substantial with a generous quantity of filling. Vary the appearance of sandwiches by combining different kinds of breads such as white and whole wheat, raisin with white or rye or use fancy breads, such as cheese, date or orange. Use wiener rolls, hamburger buns, or scones for variety.

There are several things to remember in estimating supplies for sandwiches. One small sandwich loaf (1½ lbs.) cuts into 30 or 40 slices. Picnic sandwiches should not have crusts removed. Chill the loaf of bread in refrigerator before slicing and use a very sharp knife, to make even thin slices. ¼ lb. butter is needed for each loaf of bread. Butter will go further if creamed until light and fluffy. ½ lb. or slightly less of moist filling spreads one loaf. Cold meat, sliced thinly, yields 15 to 20 slices per pound. 1 doz. hard-cooked eggs, chopped, will fill 20 to 25 sandwiches.

The salad part of a picnic is sometimes best when confined to finger food. Wee crisp carrots, radishes, green onions and pickles are good for this purpose. If lettuce or other green, leafy salad if preferred, the salad-dressing should be carried separately and tossed in at the last moment so that the salad will have all its fresh crispness.

For desert, fresh fruit is usually relished. Cake with fluffy icing does not always carry well so the home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, suggest baked-on toppings for either cup cakes or loaf cakes.

Egg and Bacon Sandwich

6 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
3 slices bacon, cooked crisp
Few drops onion juice
Salt and pepper
Mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing

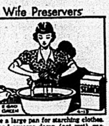
Combine chopped eggs, bacon and onion juice. Moisten with salad dressing. Season with salt and pepper. Spread thickly between slices of buttered whole wheat or white bread. Yield about 1½ cups.

Praline Topping

½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
2 teaspoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon water
1/3 cup chopped nuts

Mix all ingredients, spread over a hot 9 x 9 inch cake, return cake to oven and bake 5 minutes in a modern oven 350°F. Yield: enough for a 9" x 9" cake.

Wife Preservers



Use a large pan for starching clothes. Dip and squeeze damp (not wet) garments until fully saturated. Dip articles in order of stiffness desired; white pieces first. Wring out each piece over pan containing starch so it can be used again for remaining pieces.

Women's Activities

WEST HUNTINGDON W.M.S.

West Huntingdon.—The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Burgess entertained the W.M.S. ladies of West Huntingdon United Church on Friday last. The president called the meeting to order and the minutes of last meeting were read and approved. The roll call was answered by 19 members and two visitors each giving a verse of Scripture.

During the business part of the meeting, it was decided to send for two blue books Mrs. P. McInroy thanked the ladies for cards and letters sent her while away for the Winter. Mrs. G. Ashley thanked all the ladies who helped with the dinner for the Sunday School Convention and the proceeds were most gratifying.

The July meeting is to be in the form of a pot luck dinner at Mrs. G. Cooke's where the W.M.S. entertains the Mission Band and the Mission Band are to help prepare the program.

Mrs. J. Moorcroft gave a reading, followed by Mr. Burgess giving a very detailed and interesting account of the last chapter of the study book.

Mrs. McCurdy and Joan sang a duet which was much appreciated.

Mrs. P. McInroy and Mrs. Burgess led in prayer.

Collection was taken and refreshments were served by Mrs. Burgess and her helpers and the usual social half-hour spent.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Burgess for opening their home and the warm welcome they gave.

County Council Ratifies Agreement With Corporation Over Management of Home

Ratification of the agreement between the City of Belleville and the County of Hastings regarding maintenance of inmates of both municipalities in the new County Home for the Aged was completed at the Thursday morning session of the county body.

County council ratified the agreement with not a dissenting voice after it was read in its entirety by Reeve Wilfred Spencer, chairman of the Advisory Board of the Home for the Aged. There was very little discussion.

The agreement drawn up for ratification by the Advisory Board of the county and the City Welfare Committee, was endorsed by the City Council some time ago.

Plans for the new home call for 175 beds, 50 of which will be allotted for city use.

Extends 20 Years

The present agreement will extend over a period of twenty years. After that period the city will have the option, after giving six months notice, of renewing the agreement for a further period of ten years. Upon the expiration of the ten year-period, if not terminated previously by either party, the agreement will continue until it is terminated by either party on twelve months notice.

The agreement, which comes into effect immediately upon completion of the new Home for the Aged will be subject to the approval of the Minister of Public Welfare, Toronto.

The County of Hastings will have full control and authority in the operation of the new home, and the city will pay full maintenance costs of its inmates. All city inmates will be admitted subject to the approval of the superintendent of the home and the Board of Management.

Report is Tabled

Prior to the ratification of the agreement, the report of the Advisory Board was read by Chairman Spencer and adopted by council as a whole.

The report stated that the committee heard with sincere regret of the passing of the late J. Arnold Thomson, architect engaged to produce the plans for the new county home. However, Chairman Spencer pointed out, arrangements had been made whereby the services of Major Craig of the architects firm of Craig and Madill had been secured, and consequently very little time had been lost.

Plans and specifications for farm buildings had been prepared and tenders called for. The tender was awarded to Harry Montgomery, Frankford, and work of construction is already under way. The superstructure of the barn has been completed and work on hog pens and other farm buildings started.

Members availed themselves in the afternoon of the opportunity to inspect the new property and buildings.

Tributes to the work of the Advisory Board of the Home for the Aged consisting of Chairman Spencer, Reeve Charles Buskard, and Warden S. A. MacCarey were paid by various members of council.

Council Making Effort to Speed Up TB Test

Hastings County Council in an effort to speed up its T.B. test of cattle yesterday recommended to the Department of Agriculture that assistance be furnished departmental veterinaries here.

A. O. Dalrymple, county agricultural representative, told council Thursday afternoon, that efforts are being made to complete the test in the northern townships before cold weather sets in.

Of 54,000 head tested thus far 563 were found to be reactors, or 1.48 per cent. This was not a high percentage but too high to get a T.B. tested area.

While Reeve Harry Harrison contended the test had not been completed in southern townships Reeve W. J. Davis told council that it was progressing splendidly in the north.

People Co-operating

"People are co-operating well and are losing no time in getting the test completed. My municipality will complete the test this week. If the test people travel at the same rate, and get more help from the department, people in this county are in for a pleasant surprise. It will be a far greater success than anyone hoped for," he said.

"I'm not belittling the Department but I'll be agreeably surprised if the test is ever completed," said Reeve Harrison.

"The Department told us years ago that lack of veterinary help was the reason for incompletion of the test. This council should take some action".

At this point Mr. Dalrymple told council that a recent graduating class from the Ontario Veterinary College some 124 new veterinaries, refused to work with the department and said they would do as they pleased.

Council to Petition

Council will petition the Department of Agriculture for assistants to the senior veterinary here in an effort to speed the T.B. Test.

Prior to his reference to the T.B. test, Mr. Dalrymple introduced Douglas Harry, Hastings County's leading junior farmer in 1948, who won a trip to Chicago this year and who gave council an informative description of his trip.

He was one of 18 boys and seven girls selected as a delegation to attend the National Four-H Boys' Club Congress in Chicago.

Twelve hundred delegates from several countries of the world attended the Congress which lasted four days.

Banquets, floor shows, sightseeing tours and trips through large industrial plants, visits to museums, art studios, etc., made up the four-day trip.

Interesting Highlights

Mr. Harry detailed some of the interesting highlights of his trip and received a fine ovation from council at the conclusion of his address.

He expressed his appreciation at being selected to represent the county, and to the county for making the trip possible for junior farmers.

Mr. Dalrymple, referring to junior farmer trips, said they proved very valuable to the boys and girls. Many practical tips are secured through this medium.

This year, he said, he plans a chartered bus trip for county top boys and girls, to Ottawa and Kemptville.

She continued to whisper as if she might be overheard.

"I don't know—yet. Nothing tonight. Nothing when they come in. It's a good idea never to do [illegible] deciding when you are [illegible] Tomorrow is another—oh [illegible] says he wants all of us to go on a deer hunt. Joy included. He told you?"

"Ward nodded. "That sounds good""

"Yes. I'll think up a plan, Ward. If you're up first in the morning tell Pancho to saddle my horse. I'll want to ride."

"Okay."

"Remember—no talk tonight. Ken hasn't brought Joy back out yet anyway, so you just go on to bed."

From the time he had picked up his date at the Paradise Ranch this evening, big Ken Palmer had been a young man technically sitting on pins.

He had never been to a dance before, save to peak in.

He had never before attended any sort of masquerade.

He had never attended any other kind of social function where so many people were enjoying themselves at one time.

The "Indian girl" at his side during the ride in somehow had awed him. He tried to say a few casual things at first, but when she had kept up the act of just grunting or giggling he had been amused, and so had cast himself more deeply into his role as Coronado the conquistador. He, an expert historian, had thought it particularly apt that Polly chose an Indian costume. Coronado 400 years ago had dealt constantly with the Arizona Indians. Only—Coronado this night didn't know that the redskin maiden beside him wasn't really Polly McMurray at all.

Except for his self-consciousness he probably would have discovered Joy Boone's presence beside him. But a heavy black wig, a half dozen petticoats, a huge dress, a blanket, grease paint and a mask, all served to hide her. He might even have called her Polly except that he began calling her, poetically "Estrellita." He saw that she was little and dainty, and colorful, like a "Little Star" indeed. The name pleased him and it pleased Joy.

But when that dramatic moment came in the vast Civic Auditorium and the people all unmasked, he could only point a finger at Joy Boone and murmur in consternation. Other dance couples, musicians. Other paper reporters and photographers, all manner of merry makers had then engulfed them. Excitement had seized Ken. Excitement as well as confusion.

He had been photographed with her in a dozen poses, smiling when ordered to. He had shaken hands with countless folk, He had been slapped on the back. He had been kissed by four or five impulsive girls and seen Joy cling possessively to him, while laughter and music and noises seemed to permeate everything.

On the way back to Paradise Ranch where Joy was a guest for the night, he thought to once ask her about the substitution of Joy for Polly. But —confusion by now had verily triumphed in him. In Kenyon Thomas Palmer, Jr., son of the University president, whose studious nature had been jarred quite out of its routine this night. He actually wasn't quite sure what to say, here at 2.30 a.m.

So he just drove his jalopy and listened or answered in vague monosyllables while Joy talked incessantly and snuggled close to him. Polly McMurray came to meet them on the front porch. There werre little speeches of thanks, little courtesies said, while Ken frowned in bewilderment at Polly, his eyes momentarily holding hers.

Then he drove away wondering —as countless other men have wondered since Time began— at the enchantment that is Woman, and at the baffling mystery of her ways.

Buck McMurray, Paradise Ranch owner and one of the seven men who were trustees of Frontier University, announced the deer hunt the day after the masquerade.

"Miss Joy, ma'am," he grinned happily at Polly's guest, "you look over our rifles and take yore pick. I aim for you to get the biggest buck in the Bradshaw Mountains."

"Oh swell. Thank you, Mr. McMurray."

"Yes'm. And your Miss Carlson, I invited her. And Dr. Palmer, I want him to get around the back country more. Ward and Polly will see to it you get explained everything. Now—"

"Ken Palmer going?" Joy asked

"Who? Oh, the boy. Why if you folks want him."

"Ken would love it," Joy assured him.

Polly and Ward exchanged glances, but Ward immediately spoke up for Ken, too. Polly made no comment.

Date of the hunt was Friday. A weekend out would not interfere with school affairs. Anticipation grew in all the party as the starting hour approached.

They rode in one touring car and one station wagon, the latter having abundant room for camp duffel and for bringing home the venison, if any.

"It's so quaint," Joy Boone told them.

"What is, ma'am?" Buck McMurray asked.

"Everything. The——trip. I've never been on a deer hunt before. The red coats and hats we have to wear. The camp things. The adventure."

"You're just a dude being initiated," he warned, genially "Look out we don't mistreat you. You and Miss Carlson and Doc Palmer. And young Ken. My own younguns are part wild from birth."

They made camp on a high granite mountain. Slender aspen stood like sentinels with fingers shaking constantly in the breeze. Their silver trunks framed a landscape of lesser mountains extending at least 100 miles. Ground here was carpeted with gold and crimson—leaves from the "quakies" and from the sugar maples nearby. Splashes of darker green were firs in Christmas-like profusion. Lush underbrush showed down the slopes.

"It's magnificient Bettina Carlson breathed, in tribute, Dr. Palmer spoke agreement,

'Best deer country in the west," their host said. "Now we got a snug little camp set up here. Fire wood in. Water in the spring there. Air cold, but not too cold. Everything set. We'll cook up some grub and sleep on it, then get an early start come dawn. Deer go to water about daybreak then browse for a while. We ought to connect sure."

Dinner was cooked over the open fire by the three McMurrays.

"I'll cook the breakfast," Ken Palmer volunteered.

Mr. McMurray, Sr. looked approvingly at him. "Thank you son. You'll fit in out here in this country, I can see. Willing to do your part. Now you just ask any questions you need to. And roust us out to help in the morning, if you want."

Sleep was in bed rolls right down on mother earth. That itself was an experience for the four easterners. Bettina Carlson, Joy and Polly changed to pajamas in the privacy of the station wagon. but the men merely pulled off their hunting boots and their coats. The night air was frosty when every one turned in.

"Just put the canvas flap right on over your heads," Mr. McMurray explained. "Your bed rolls are water and wind proof, but enough air will seep in the cracks to breathe."

"I won't sleep a wink." Bettina Carlson protested.

Her prediction went awry, however. Approximately five minutes after she said that, seemingly, Ken Palmer was calling them to breakfast. Even Miss Carlson confessed she had heard nothing, seen nothing felt nothing but extraorinary comfort for eight consecutive hours. Daybreak air was cold but exhilirating.

Ken had fried bacon and potatoes, boiled some dried apricots, made a pot of coffee, and—with Ward McMurray's help—made dutch oven biscuits. Ward had gotten up to give tactful assistance on Ken's first outdoor meal.

Dr. Palmer exclaimed, squatting for a second re-fill of his plate.

Polly was gazing raptly at Ken. He didn't have to be told many things. Camp routine, after all, is largely a matter of common sense. Ward did but little coaching. The two boys appeared to be enjoying the work immensely. Polly watched the power with which Ken swung the axe, cutting firewood under Ward's instruction. Ken had rolled up his sleeves despite the icy morning, and looked like a handsome young god there at work on the high mountain side. Polly felt again the misery of yearning. This was intensified when she noted the proud look on Joy as the blond girl watched Ken too.

EVERYONE benefits from FAMILY ALLOWANCES

PARENTS—

• The monthly arrival of the Family Allowances cheque is a blessing in countless homes, enabling parents to provide extra milk, eggs, fruit and other nourishing foods for their children.

MERCHANTS—

• Food, clothing, shoe and all other types of retail stores reap a rich harvest of business through the millions put in circulation by Family Allowances.

BUSINESS—

• Every commercial and manufacturing enterprise in Canada, large and small, has benefited from the billion dollars already poured into circulation by this far-sighted Liberal measure.

LABOUR—

• Jobs are created in every type of industry — to produce the tremendous quantities of goods that Family Allowances buy every month.

FARMERS—

• More than any other single domestic factor, the extra purchasing power created by Family Allowances has helped build steady, profitable markets for farm products.

AND MOST OF ALL— Canada's Children!

• When a courageous Liberal Government started paying Family Allowances four years ago, Mr. Drew called it an "iniquitous bill" and said he opposed the "very principle" of paying money to the parents of Canada's children.

How short-sighted Mr. Drew was! Family Allowances mean much more than just monthly cheques to provide food, clothing, dental treatment, medical care, future university education and other benefits for our children. It means hundreds of millions of dollars in regular circulation . . . creating jobs and opportunity and profit for all citizens. In four years, more than a billion dollars has been distributed . . . keeping the wheels of industry turning . . . spreading prosperity across the land.

Now that an election is on, Mr. Drew changes his tune and says he is in favour of Family Allowances. But remember, in 1945 he threatened to do "everything in his power" to prevent Family Allowances. Don't give him the "power" now!

Three-Game Series Against Leading Yankees May Show Strength of Cleveland Team

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Have the world - champion Cleveland Indians awakened from their season - long lethargy and gone on the warpath The answer should be forthcoming after their three - game series with the league - leading New York Yankees which starts today.

Heartened by five straight victories over the Yankees and Boston Red Sox, the teams generally regarded as their toughest opposition, Cleveland followers today were certain that their favorites finally had straightened themselves out.

The Cleveland die - hards also pointed out that the Tribe's vaunted pitching staff appeared to be coming around.

Rookie Mike Garcia gained his second decision in five days Thursday when he pitched the Indians to a 6-3 triumph over the Red Sox. However, he needed help from Alton Benton in the seventh when he wilted from the intense heat. Benton allowed only one single in 2 2/3 innings after Garcia gave up seven in 6 1/3. It was Big Mike's sixth victory against two defeats.

The victory enabled the fourth-place Indians to pick up half a game on the Yankees, who were held to a split in their double-header with Chicago White Sox. A gap of 6½ games separates the clubs.

Yankees Split

Fred Sanford, purchased from the St. Louis Browns for $100,000 last winter, went the route for the first time this season as he pitched the Yankees to a 5-4 victory and a split with the White Sox. The Sox had won the opener, 10-6, scoring nine runs in the first two innings against Tommy Byrne and Clarence Marshall.

Eddie Joost, Philadelphia's sensational shortstop, hammered his 15th home run, drove in two runs and scored three to lead the Athletics to a 7-3 triumph over Hal Newhouser and the Detroit Tigers. The victory moved the A's up to within a game of second-place Detroit and 5½ of the top. Lou Brissie allowed eight hits to register his sixth triumph.

Sid Hudson doled out five hits in pitching Washington Senators to a 5-0 victory over the Browns in the only night game in the majors. It was the Senators' second straight shutout win over St. Louis.

The National League race tightened up when the second - place St. Louis Cardinals whipped Brooklyn Dodgers 6-2 while third - place Boston and fourth-place Philadelphia also won their games. The Cards now trail the Dodgers by one game. The Braves and Phils are two games off the pace.

Cards Win Rubber

New York's scheduled double-header with the Reds in Cincinnati was washed out by rain.

Chasing Lefty Joe Hatten with a four - run barrage in the seventh inning, the Cards won the rubber contest on the three-game series with Brooklyn.

Lou Klein, the first of the Mexican League jumpers to appear in a big - league box score, slammed a single while pinch-hitting for winning pitcher Red Munger in the seventh to keep the rally alive.

Pete Reiser homered in the fifth to break a 2-2 tie and send the Braves on their way to a 7-2 victory over the Pirates in Pittsburgh. Vern Bickford spaced five hits for his eighth victory.

Relief pitcher Jim Konstanty singled across the run in the ninth inning to win his own game as the Phils nipped the Cubs in Chicago, 4-3. It was their fifth straight victory, four of them coming at the expense of the Cubs, who now have dropped five straight.

Hamilton Sets Course Record In Detroit Open

(By The Canadian Press)

Lanky Bob Hamilton, former P.G.A. champion, Thursday cashed in on his devastating short game as he fired an eight-under-par 63 to set a course record and grab an early lead in the $15,000 Motor City Open golf tournament.

Hamilton's 31-32—63 was achieved in large part by his accurate short iron which consistently left him with putts less than eight feet.

Hamilton's performance gave him a three-stroke lead over Dr. Cary Middlecoff, who won the National Open tournament last week, and Henry Ranson of St. Andrews, Ill.

The line-up for the semi-finals in the European zone's Davis Cup tennis eliminations was completed Thursday when Yugoslavia ousted Sweden, three matches to two, at Zagreb, Yugoslavia.

Drago Mitic, ace of the surprising Yugoslav team, polished off Lennart Bergelin, No. 1 Swedish star, 6-3, 10-8, 6-4 in the fifth and deciding match.

Yugoslavia now meets Italy and France plays Hungary in the semi-finals, which must be completed by July 12. The ultimate winner will take on the winner of the American Zone's competition for the right to challenge the United States for the trophy.

At Boston, welterweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson and his manager, George Gainsford, Thursday night were suspended indefinitely by the Massachusetts Boxing Commission "for failure to fulfill contract in co-operation with Texas."

There were no immediate details about the Texas incident.

At Seigniory Club, Que., Mrs. J. C. Whitelaw of Laval Sur-Le-Lac Thursday won the Seigniory Club's 18th annual invitation golf tournament for the seventh time. She defied intense heat on both days of the tournament to turn in an 84 for Thursday's final round which coupled with her first round three over par-80 gave her low gross honors with 164.

The New York Herald Tribune, in a dispatch from Cincinnati, says today that Bucky Walters will resign as manager of Cincinnati Reds within the next month. But the report was promptly denied by Warren Giles, president of the Club.

"If Bucky plans to resign it's in his own mind", Giles said in Cincinnati, "but that is the most absurd rumor I ever have heard."

The Herald Tribune said Walters would quit because of ill health and would be replaced by Pepper Martin.

Walters shouted "there is absolutely nothing to it," when told of the story.

The major league All-Star baseball game on Brooklyn July 12 will be broadcast in Canada and the United States over the Mutual broadcasting system, it was announced Thursday at New York.

At Oklahoma City, a Dallas midget automobile driver was killed Thursday night before a crowd of 3,000 at the fair grounds speedway. The victim was Leon Peavy, 28. His racer crashed through the rail.

At Fairmount Park, Ill., Lusty Song, a two-year-old brown mare which had won just one previous race in her career, Thursday night made a show of the eight-horse field in the divided 3,000 trot by winning both ends of the purse on the grand circuit card. Lusty Song, piloted by Doc Parshall, won as she pleased, both times by five-length margins.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Belleville and District Baseball League at a special meeting last night requested the Trenton town team to withdraw from the league for the remainder of the season and suggested that it affiliate with the Prince Edward County Class "C" grouping.

The meeting was called to investigate complaints of other teams regarding the attitude of the Trenton team manager, John Haffey, and to deal with what the governing body termed his lack of co-operation with the league executive. It was charged that Haffey failed to file a list of umpires as required by league regulations — failure on one occasion to reimburse an umpire supplied by another team, on the field, failure to file scoring records with the league secretary and on another occasion asked the umpire to "call" the game when the score was 16-2 against him in the sixth innings and, it was alleged, because he had no more baseballs with which to play.

President Malcolm Robb ordered another special meeting on June 28th when Manager Haffey will be asked to be present. The executive ruled that failure to comply with its request to withdraw and seek a lower classification will result in suspension for the season. The Trenton team, it was stated, has no home grounds, and cannot play its home games on the Belleville Fair Grounds until certain requirements have been met, nor on the Point Anne playing field.

If that attitude of Manager John Haffey, of the Trenton Intermediate entry in the Belleville District Baseball League and we repeat "if" because we do not know, was "if they won't play for me they won't play for Batawa" when he refused to waive three Batawa players, then it boomeranged badly at the Fair Grounds last night.

The Ontario Baseball Association upheld Haffey's claim, and rightly so, that the three players involved were residents of Trenton, and incidentally certain players of the 6 R.D. come under the same waiver rule, and as a result the Trenton team had first claim on their services.

We don't believe that Haffey insisted on his rights in order to weaken the Batawa team, but rather to strengthen his intermediates. What actually happened as a lot of fans will agree, that the Shoemen reinforcements, mostly Belleville Juniors, played one of the best games or six innings ever seen here by players in Batawa uniforms. With a little more luck and some clutch hitting, the Shoemen veterans and their young shock troops might have snatched victory from the mighty Petes.

As it was, they played sparkling defensive baseball behind the one-hit flinging of Frankie Dyer who held the vaunted bludgeons of the men of Murphy to one measly punch for six chukkers. Mouse Bush put a new punch into the Batawa shortstop position. Peter Jones, playingw his first game of the season, stood out at first base like a blackhead on a blonde (and we still maintain that the redhead is the best first baseman in these parts and faraway places, too.)

Solmes at second and Rankin at third, Batawa veterans inspired by the sparkling play of their new infield mates, cooperated to perfection and the result was some brilliant baseball until the roof fell in, in the fateful seventh. Mouse Bush, for this corner's money, was the star of the game. He smashed out a mighty triple and a pair of singles for four and fielded his position near-perfectly. He was tabbed with an excusable error.

This young Dadson, beardless, fork-side flinger of the Petes should go places. He has a nice pitching style, a neat delivery and can deliver needed blows at times. Last night he turned back the Batawa threats time after time striking out ten and issuing four walks. In addition he blasted out a mighty triple to aid his own cause. He'll do, on any man's baseball team.

Solmes came up with the start of a neat twin-killing in the eighth, just after the deluge. Stewart, Peterborough first baseman, had pounded out a hit and was parked on first. Wilson drove a scorching line-drive between Solmes and second base. The fielder turned quickly, snatched the ball on his wrong side, whirled and heaved the pill to Jones for the two-ply put out. 'Twas nice to watch.

Brockville Memos are here tomorrow night for a floodlight game and the down-easters make their Belleville debut against the Batawans. 'Tis said the Brocks are well-stocked with UNS collitch stars and have a lefthander who is some pumpkins in pitching circles. Just what team the Shoemen will field we do not know, but with the material at hand they can't do much better than the line-up fielded last night. They should, however, inject Keith MacDonald in the line-up somewhere, because the "Spaniard" from Picton way, can hit, field and run like a scared deer.

Gordie Muffitt will likely get the pitching assignment and he should go well after a lengthy rest. However, Brockville has plenty at stake for they have only won one out of four starts, splitting a doubleheader with Oshawa and dropping a twin bill to the Petes. They have been practicing hard and you can bet grandpappies' store molars they'll be a fighting team when they make their debut at 8:30 tomorrow gloaming.

That connoisseur of golf balls, links, birdies, niblicks and sand-traps "Spike" Pryke of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club informs us that the lads and lassies of the fairways and sand-traps are due for entertainment of a different nature in the clubhouse tonight.

S'welp me, they're going to enjoy motion pictures — and there'll be no Mickey Mouse or Bugs Bunny. Featured in one of the films will be that famous golfer or golfess "Babe" Didrickson who has been dubbed "Mrs. Golf" in the flicker. The "Babe" disports herself over the links as only she can and the result is very interesting golf-looking. The other film pictures highlights of the 1947 Canadian Open, and that, too, should prove of more than passing interest to the club linksters. Show gets under way at 8:45 and members and friends are cordially invited.

Two soccer games are slated for tomorrow afternoon. Northern Electric's eleven meet the powerful 6 R.D. team which appears headed for the faraway places at the top of the heap. Their win on Wednesday gives them three wins against one defeat, gives them a second place tie with Northern, so tomorrow's game has plenty at stake. At the moment the Batawa Shoemen ahe leading the pack with four wins as against a single setback. Northern can steeplechase 6 R.D. with a win tomorrow right into the top slot as the victory will give them 4-1 against the Shoemen's 4-2. Bata is idle tomorrow. In the other game, Trenton meets Belleville at Trenton.

'Weakened' Bata Team Shows Surprising Strength for Six Innings Then Bows to Petes 6-2

A Batawa Shoemen team, holes in its ranks plugged by district players, held the league - leading Peterborough Marines to a one-all tie for six brilliant innings last night at the Fair Grounds, then folded in the seventh and ninth to drop the decision by a 6 - 2 score.

The Shoemen were without the services of Bridgeman, Beckstead and Watson who were unable to play due to an OBA edict which upheld Manager John Haffey, Trenton Intermediates' mentor's refusal to waive them to Batawa because of residence in Trenton.

Manager Bill Easton sent Frank Dyer, Picton, to the mound, Mouse Bush to shortstop, Pete Jones to first, later sending in Keith MacDonald, Picton as a pinch hitter.

And at that the improvised infield played one of the best defensive games for six innings seen here this season.

It was a sturdy pitchers' duel between Dadson, Pete's junior southpaw and Frank Dyer for six innings. Dyer allowed but one hit for one run up to that time while Dadson was touched for 4 clouts for a single tally in that period.

Roof Fell In

Then the roof fell in in the unlucky seventh, as the Pete's bats suddenly exploded and five solid clouts went soaring out to account for a trio of runs. Dyer was helped by a sparkling double play in the eighth when Solmes made a brilliant one - hand stab of Wilson's line drive to double Stewart off first.

The Petes came back in the ninth with four more hits to shove over a pair of runs and clinch the pastime. Some loose throwing and errors did not help Dyer's cause any. He struck out four and issued but one walk.

Dadson was nicked for nine safeties but he scattered them except for the first and eighth, the Shoemen nicked him for pairs. He whiffed ten and walked four.

Mouse Bush was one of the best players on the field. He heaved out a mighty triple besides helping himself to a brace of singles while his defensive work at short was near brilliant. Peter Jones turned in a brilliant effort at first base and pounded out a safety for good measure. Keith MacDonald pinch - hitted for Peacock in the ninth and banged out a single in a lost cause.

Garvey, Crowe, Estlick, Pagett, and Menzies hit two - baggers for the Petes with Crowe and Garvey adding singles. Lowrey got a pair while Dadson hit a mighty triple.

"Ere's that dinkum Austrylian, from down under, Freddie Atkins" the hardrock champion of the British Empire who will attempt to give the old heave - ho to sensational Tug Carleson in the main bout at the Memorial Arena tonight. That is enough for any main bout and there should be fireworks, but plenty. Then in the semi - final is our old pal John (The Scowl) Katan, master villain of them all who tackles popular Al. Lovelock, handsome Texan who made a hit here last week. In the opener the well-liked Pat Flanagan will toss his torso at the bewhiskered Cardiff Giant. Nuff sed. That's good enough ring entertainment for anybody.

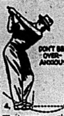
Better Golf

By Sam Snead

Most golfers are so eager to belt that ball way out yonder that they rush the swing. Don't do that. Swing back rather slowly. You sort of "gather" a golf swing.



You don't rush in and snatch hit. And as the club reaches the top in the backswing, there should be a momentary pause—like the one that refreshes. Your club can't go two ways at once. Be reasonable, children. That pause gives you a fresh rhythmic start. And be sure to start down slowly so that the weight of the clubhead doesn't pull your left hand open at the top. By starting s-l-o-o-w-w your hands keep control and your bring that clubhead down the same path it went up. Then, at impact, your clubhead will be travelling just slightly inside - out across the direction line, the club face will be at right angles to the line of flight and your ball will travel, gosh-a-mightly, look at it — straight and far. The reason the slight inside - out clubhead path is desirable is because this will give a faint hook at the far end of the ball's flight and this hook, giving an overspin action, will cause the ball to roll ten, possibly fifteen yards farther than you would otherwise get. You can often collect on that.

NO LAWN WATERING

Peterborough, June 17 — (CP) Utilities Commission ordered yesterday that the watering of all lawns and gardens be completely suspended. The reason for this restriction was said by R. L. Dobbin the general manager to be that water pressures are dangerously low on the higher levels in the city.

Wright Hurls Toronto Leafs To 2-0 Victory

(By The Associated Press)

One of the reasons why Toronto is in third place in the International League today is the strong right arm of Ed Wright

Wright, a former major leaguer with Boston Braves, hurled the Maple Leafs to a 2-0 victory over Syracuse Chiefs Thursday night

It was his eighth triumph of the season, his first shutout and seventh complete game. Only Baltimore's Al Widmar, with nine, has won more.

The 30-year-old righthander held the Chiefs to four hits and struck out five.

Until the ninth inning Ken Burkhart kept pace with Wright both hurling eight scoreless frames. Then a single by Johnny Welaj and a brace of doubles by Ed Sanicki and Bill Glynn gave Wright the decision.

Rochester whipped Jersey City 7-2 to take the opener of their five-game series with the Giants.

Cloyde Boyer registered his fifth victory, limiting the Giants to nine hits. He fanned six. Wes Bailey, trying for his ninth win, was charged with his fourth defeat instead. Johnny Bucha homered for the Redwings, and Fred Gerken and Dick Culler hit four-baggers for the losers.

Newark's Bears climbed out of cellar, knocking off Montreal Royals 8-6. Baltimore, rained out of its game with league-leading Buffalo, took over the cellar berth, a half-game behind the Bears.

The Bears overcame a 6-3 deficit with a three-run uprising against Omar Lown in the eighth.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Batting—Eddie Joost, Athletics, smashed his 15th home run, drove in two runs, and scored three to lead the Athletics to a 7-3 triumph over Hal Newhowser and Detroit Tigers.

Pitching—Sid Hudson, Senators, allowed five hits in pitching the Senators to a 5-0 victory over St. Louis Browns.

NAMED AS MANAGER

Griffin, Ga., June 17 (AP)—Rudy York, former first baseman with the Detroit Tigers and Boston Red Sox, today was named playing manager of Griffin in the Class D Georgia-Alabama League.

York, who left the major leagues after the end of last season, has been taking it easy this summer at his farm near Cartersville, Ga.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

He may be a leader of men or a follower of women or a squatter. But his bridge partner is interested only in how he plays the game.

By mail came this hand:

♠Q 8 5 4 2
♦8 7 5
♣K 7 6 2

"I opened with a heart," says the letter, "and my partner made a response of one spade with the hand shown. But when I then bid two hearts, he passed. Shouldn't he have bid again?"

"Even according to your system," the letter continues, "partner has a count of four tricks. His spade response was not a raise. With two unused tricks, shouldn't he have bid clubs?"

The answer is no. North should not bid again. His pass on the second round was correct. He was not forced to bid again. His hand contained no honest second bid. His pass was correct.

A rebid in the same suit without a jump is not a forcing signal. Partner may pass unless he has a true bid for showing undisclosed values. North had no such true bid on the second round.

After bidding spades once, north has no more takeouts. His spade suit is not rebiddable. His club suit is not biddable. He lacks adequate support, even for a rebiddable heart suit.

This leaves only a no-trump bid, if any. But his hand contains no more than two high cards (no-trump tricks). These are not enough for a voluntary no-trump bid. Therefore, north should pass.

Not always do you use up all the tricks your hand counts. If you have additional or unused tricks, you are guided by T-A-N; takeout, assist, no-trump.

You do not T without a takeout. You do not A without an assist. You do not N without enough no-trump tricks. With none of these you pass. Unless you are forced with a signal, of course.

Bata, 6 R.D. Win League Soccer Games

Two games were played in the Bay of Quinte District Association Football League Wednesday evening, both of which were out of town fixtures. Excellent weather prevailed and some excellent football was displayed.

At Batawa, the Batawa Shoemen defeated Trenton town 6-0 in a game that had a late start because of the absence of the referee. However, both teams agreed upon a local man to do the job and a good game resulted. Batawa held a decided edge in the play and it was not long before they broke into the scoring column. Bensley, Broughton and Ceryinka were outstanding for Batawa with Jones, and Helyer starring for Trenton.

At 6 Repair Depot Bob Angus of the Airforce squad held the limelight as he broke through the Belleville defence to score three goals. The Repair men played all-round ball and were the stronger team as the score would indicate. For Belleville Boyd, Reid, and Farrar were outstanding.

Two games are scheduled for this coming Saturday afternoon, 6 R. D. will be the visitors at the Fairgrounds as they play Northern Electric. Belleville United will travel to Trenton where they will be entertained by the town team. Alex Williamson will referee the former match with Les Digby handling the latter. Both matches are afternoon fixtures.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma sighed a big sigh to herself, saying to pop, Roberta Harlow, that's the kind of a woman I'd like to be.

I never heard of her, my dear, but if she has any branes I'm sure she'd like to be the kind of a woman you are, pop said, and ma seaid, Roberta Harlow is the leeding caracter in a novel for the same name, 'Roberta Harlow."

Just imagine, finding yourself in a book that happened to be named after you, pop said. By gollies that's quite a coincidence, he said, and ma said. Of course it's only fiction, but I'm sure Roberta Harlow was taken bodily from an actual woman in real life. She's a private secreterry, and she's so clever and able and brilliant that the president of an enormiss corporation depends on her slightest nod. Oh dear, I wonder if I could ever earn my own living in the herly berly of bizdness affairs, or whether my naturel level is to be a slave to hum drum household duties, she said.

My dear, I have a confession to make, pop said. Do you remember the time you came down to the office to help me out when my secreterry was sick? Well, I didn't mention it at the time, because I coluldn't bare the thawt of having you desert the home you grace so bewtifully and taking up a bizznes career, but you were the most outstanding secreterry I ever had, he said, and ma said, But William, fou know very well I put at least 3 letters in the wrong envelopes and made a perfect shambles of the filing cabinet.

Petty details, my dear, pop said. No other secreterry but you ever managed to change a typewriter ribbin without either going into hysterics or smugging ink all over her hands and face, he said, and ma said, Why William, what a nice compliment.

And she quick got up and kissed him like somebody feeling better insted of werse.

Briefs From Britain

Manchester, England (CP) — Manchester's Free Trade Hall, almost demolished by bombs in 1940 is to be rebuilt at an estimated cost of £378,000 ($1,512,000). The new hall will accommodate nearly 3,000.

Sunderland, England (CP) — One of every four persons of Sunderland's 180,000 has had an eye test since the National Health Service began 10 months ago. An estimated 60,000 pairs of glasses will be needed as most prescriptions require two pairs—one for reading, one for distance.

Reeves Critical of Condition Of Madoc Road as Report From Committee is Adopted

Unusually warm weather in early May dried out county roads to the extent where calcium coloride was applied much earlier than usual. About 200 tons have been applied to date, according to the Roads and Bridges Committee report to County Council, Thursday.

Seven tank cars of asphalt primer have been used with two more en route.

Approximate cost of snow removal from Dec. 15 to May 1, is between $12,000 and $13,000. This is not the total cost for prior to Dec. 15, snow fences were erected and sand stock piles put out. Machinery suffered no major breakdowns.

The Department of Highways has started to continue reconstruction of the Coe Hill road which has been going on for two years. Grading has started on the two-mile stretch between Highway No. 62 and Ormsby.

Bridge Repaired

The report stated that steel work on the Boldrick Bridge which partially collapsed last May, has been repaired and delivery of timber stringers for reflooring is being awaited.

Repairs have been made on the Anderson's Island Bridge.

The report recommended that a 5.2 mill rate be levied for maintenance and construction of county and suburban roads and bridges for 1949 and that a competent man be engaged for duty in the engineer's office to relieve the engineer of many clerical duties.

Madoc Road Aired

Speaking to the report, Reeve J. A. Kincaid, Madoc village, urged that repairs be made to the Foxboro-Madoc road, which he said was "in a disgraceful condition".

"Why wait 15 years before something is done about it. I do not see why some people a few years ago who wanted to divert traffic, did nothing about it."

Several complaints from his ratepayers had been received, and yesterday a delegation of 15, who travelled the road daily, had demanded some action, he said.

"I know it is not the fault of any one person, but the condition is there. It is an important road connecting Belleville with No. 7 highway and it is up to us to do something about it. Why is it left in this shape?"

Everybody Yelling

Due to the dry weather everybody was yelling for dust-layer County Engineer Langlois said, and the regular patching gang was taken off the job which was given to one with less experience. That is the reason for the bumpy patches. He said repair of the road was a financial problem which could not be overcome this year. It would cost $13,000 a mile for eight miles.

The contract for the Madoc-Marmora road has been let, Reeve Kincaid declared. "When work starts on this road, why not do at least a little on the Madoc-Foxboro road. We would really appreciate it if the Roads Committee would make a start."

Bancroft Reeve Critical

"The words are not in the English language, which would express my feelings about this road", Reeve T. Tryon, Bancroft, said. "If the reeve of Madoc keeps hammering away, he might get something done and if he does I'm out of the market for a horse and buggy. I intended to buy one."

Reeve Chas. Rush, Hungerford, told council a Marlbank delegation had requested the county to take over the old railway track between McGraw's Corners and Larkin's Station. He appreciated what it would cost but it would not cost any more than repairing the present road, besides cutting down mileage.

The report was adopted.

John Anderson and Mrs. Anderson and Wor. Bro. R. A. McFarlane, County Master of South Hastings.

The auditorium of the Orange Hall was taxed to capacity and many unable to gain admittance.

Instructive addresses were given by the Grand Lodge Officers and outstanding addresses by R. W. Bro. Corrigan and R. W. Sister Gillespie.

The program was interspersed with several musical numbers after which supper was served by members of the Order, concluding a pleasant and profitable evening in the history of the Order. Visiting members were present from Ottawa, Peterborough, Trenton and many other outside points.

Five Feared Lost, Thousands Isolated By Flash Floods

Unleashed as Torrential Rain Hits Virginia Valley

First reports said at least five persons were feared lost and the toll was expected to rise, but disrupted communications prevented confirmation from official sources.

Fed by incessant downpours on Friday, the Potomac river's north and south branches swirled over their banks, isolating entire communities and sweeping away the smaller dwellings.

The danger zone was the heart of West Virginia's eastern panhandle.

Petersburg, nestled between the Shenandoah and Allegheny mountains on the Potomac's south branch, was reported almost completely submerged.

Reports from the downtown section said three feet of water covered the business district.

Distress calls for aid to 300 families were sent to Red Cross headquarters in Washington, and word was received that disaster units could be expected today.

State police predicted the flood itself would subside today, but rescue efforts were hampered by severed telephone lines and power failures.

Besides a state police radio hookup with Romney, some 50 miles northeast, emergency telephone service to Moorefield was the main link with the outside world. Moorefield is 25 miles away in the same general direction.

Both Moorefield, with a population of 1,300 and Romney with 2,000, expected to receive the brunt of the southern branch flood later today.

Officials expressed fear for the safety of tourists who invaded the area for the opening of the bass fishing season today.

CHRETIEN WILL HANG SEPT. 29 FOR SLAYING

Found Guilty of Shooting Sudbury Man With Hunting Rifle

Sudbury, Ont., June 18 (CP)—Gerard Chretien, 23, will be hanged Sept. 29 for killing 29-year-old William Wilson last Dec. 9 with a hunting rifle.

The former Ottawa Valley resident was convicted late Friday of murder. Mr. Justice P. E. F. Smily of the Ontario Supreme Court passed sentence immediately after the jury foreman announced the verdict.

Evidence was that the shooting affray arose from a lovers' quarrel between Chretien and 19-year-old Gertrude Lamothe, a district girl who broke her engagement with him and returned his ring. Witnesses said Chretien went to the home of Mrs. Rose McRoberts, for whom the girl worked, in search of the girl. Wilson, a brother-in-law of Mrs. McRoberts, was killed while protecting the girl from Chretien.

Throughout the trial, which started Tuesday, Chretien sat quietly, yet carefully listened to the testimony. Occasionally he would lean forward in the prisoner's dock to confer with his lawyer. L. A. Landreville of Sudbury. He had nothing to say when sentence was passed.

The defence tried to show that Chretien bordered on insanity at the time of the shooting. Witnesses said that after an accident in 1940, in which an automobile knocked him from a bicycle, he had been subject to sudden and violent outbursts of rage.

Mr. Landreville, summing up for the defence, said:

"My plea is not that Gerard Chretien should be released but that he should be put in some institution."

Box-Cars Strew Landscape in Freak Wreck

Sudbury, June 18 (CP)—A crashing train wreck a half-mile south of Bigwood station, some 40 miles south of here, left box cars strewn all over the area Friday afternoon. Nobody was hurt.

The wreck occurred when one freight car jumped the tracks. Fourteen followed immediately and three lines were torn up. The main line and the passing track were completely wrecked. The town siding escaped with minor damage.

Two Union Men Shot, Two Beaten In Strikers' Melee

Fairmount City, Ill., June 18 (AP).—Two union men were shot and two members of a rival union were beaten in a melee that broke out Friday night among a crowd of striking American Zinc Company employees.

Shot were Joe Petroski, former financial secretary of Local 82, Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union (C.I.O.)), which called a strike at the company's plant here last August, and Colmaro Rodriguez, a member of the local's strike committee. Both were taken to hospital for treatment.

Roughed up by a crowd of about 300 which included wives of the strikers, were Angelo and Joe Verdu, brothers, who led a revolt of midwestern locals in June, 1947, from the Smelters Workers' Union.

The Verdus head the Progressive Metal Workers Council (C. I. O.), which last Tuesday lost a National Labor Relations Board Union by 34 votes.

Petroski was shot in the chest, Rodriguez in the abdomen. Both were in a serious condition.

The Verdu Brothers were attacked by persons in the crowd, police said. Neither was hurt severely enough to require treatment.

ACTION SAVES GIRL

Lindsay, June 18 — (CP) — Thanks to the prompt action of George H. Hunking of Oshawa, 15-year-old cyclist Donna Paquette, of Lindsay, is uninjured today. Hunking was travelling south of Lindsay when Miss Paquette swung her bike. He swerved his automobile sharply, missing the girl, but his trailer ripped out several highway sign posts.

Seamen's Union Offers Four-Point Proposal for Strike Settlement

Montreal, June 18 (CP). — A letter offering a four-point proposal for settlement of the east-coast deep-sea shipping strike is en route today to Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Harry Davis, president, and T. G. McManus, secretary of the Canadian Seamen's Union, signed the letter which they "hope may end the strike".

Their proposals are:

1. That striking seamen be re-hired in their former positions without discrimination.

2. That all wages owing to the striking seamen for the period they worked on their ships, prior to the strike and in returning their ships to their home port, as well as personal belongings, be paid and returned to them as quickly as possible.

3. That a government supervised vote be held aboard all Atlantic ships two months after the end of the strike and after the strikers will have returned to their jobs so the seamen themselves may decide what union they select as their bargaining agency.

4. That all court charges laid against striking seamen be dropped.

In the letter, Davis and McManus said if the prime minister accepts the proposals they, as the two chief officers of the C.S.U., will be prepared to advise the striking seamen to call off the strike at once and return to the ships.

The letters stated the proposals were made following discussions in Ottawa Thursday among representatives of the C.S.U., the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and a senior official of the Federal Labor Department.

The strike began Mar. 31 when C.S.U. officials, while negotiating with Canadian National Steamships, learned east-coast operators had signed contracts with the strongly-rightist Seafarer's International Union (A.F.L.).

The C.S.U. was suspended from the T.L.C. June 3 after being charged with violating the constitution of the 400,000 member congress and failing to accept its responsibilities as an affiliate.

SECRET BALLOT MAY END STRIKE AT ASBESTOS

Workers to Take Vote On Settlement Proposals

Quebec, June 18 (CP).—Some 2,500 asbestos workers, on strike since Feb. 13 at Asbestos, Que., are to take a vote on a new settlement proposal submitted by the Canadian Johns-Manville Company Limited.

The announcement was made Friday night by Girard Picard, president of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor.

Mr. Picard did not give the date of the ballot which, he said, would be secret like the vote taken last Tuesday by 2,000 Thetford miners who turned down a joint settlement proposed by three mining concerns.

In all, 5,000 workers have been holding out for a 15-cents-an hour increase, to raise the basic pay to $1.

With the settlement proposal of the Johns-Manville contained was not announced by Mr. Picard.

Meanwhile it was reported that Lewis H. Brown, president of the Canadian Johns-Manville arrived in Quebec Friday to confer with provincial government officials on asbestos deadlock.

No announcements were made following the conferencee. Mr. Brown was not available for comment on company proposals.

Simultaneously, Jean Marchand, secretary of the C.C.C.L. charged that the Thetford Mines Companies had ordered their foremen to recruit "strike-breakers". He said violence was used in some cases.

Marchand also denied a "citizens committee" statement saying the Catholic union had not told their miners at Thetford Mines of a 10-cents-an-hour wage increase offer.

Marchand said that the settlement proposal at Thetford Mines "contained no offer of a salary increase."

BUILD FOUNDATION ON UNDERGROUND RIVER BED

Toronto, June 18 — (CP) — It looks as if everybody in Ontario wants rain — except a group of Toronto workmen. The men are building a factory foundation on an underground river bed and have already set up two pumps to clear water from the excavation. They would hate to think of what would happen if Ontario gets the much - needed heavy rain.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, June 18 (CP)—Synopsis: Continuation of very warm weather in Southern and Central Ontario is indicated for the week-end. Cooler air invading north-western Ontario is setting off showers and thunderstorms and dropping temperatures sharply, but the advance of this cooler air will probably not extend further south than the Georgian Bay and Haliburton regions. The cloudy skies over southern regions this morning are expected to clear Sunday and maximum temperatures reach the high 80s.

U.K. Reported Standing Fast On Proposed Trade Agreement With Argentina for Five Years

By DON WHITEHEAD

Washington, June 18 (AP).—Britain today was reported standing fast on its proposed trade agreement with Argentina, despite strong objections from the United States.

Senator Guy Cordon (Rep. Ore.), describing the agreement as "an aminous threat" to world recovery, said the senate appropriations committee will call on James Webb, undersecretary of state, for a full report on the American position.

Under the pact, Britain and Argentina would exchange goods and commodities for a five-year period.

Officials here are fearful this would give Britain a stranglehold on the Argentine food market. In addition, they argue, it is the type of trade agreement which could hurt Europe's recovery.

Cordon told a reporter the freedom in world trade desired by the United States never will come about if the world faces barriers thrown up by a government "which feels it must protect itself in some particular field."

John Taylor, commercial minister of the British Embassy, was reported to have insisted during a State Department visit yesterday that the Argentine agreement—due to be signed Tuesday—is essential to British recovery.

That statement, delivered to Assistant Secretary of State Willard Thorp, was taken as a tentative rejection of American protests.

Paul Hoffman, economic cooperation administrator, bitterly denounced the pact Friday.

Hoffman told Senators E.C.A. will use "every pressure" possible against the British-Argentina type of trade pact. Two days ago he said such trade barriers must be wiped out if European recovery is to be considered a good risk in the fiscal year starting July 1, 1951.

PRIME MINISTER READY TO ASSIST HOUSING UNITS

Claims P.C.'s Using Two Types of Advertisement in Their Campaign

(By Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Ont., une 18 (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent speaking before an audience described from the platform as the largest political meeting London has known, Friday night accused the Progressive Conservatives of using one type of advertisement to appeal to Quebec and another to court English-speaking Canada.

Between 4,000 and 5,000 people congregated in the arena of this city of 92,000 to hear Mr. St. Laurent climax a one-day invasion of western Ontario, his second of the campaign, with an appeal for support of Liberal candidates in 18 ridings which went predominantly Conservative in the last election.

He was introduced by Health Minister Martin, who earlier in the day predicted that the area will elect a record number of Liberals.

Mr. St. Laurent swung over to a renewal of his attacks on Conservative conduct in Quebec towards the end of a speech in which he said that "unless we can restore and maintain our international trade it will be difficult to maintain prosperity," and that the supply of homes will not equal demand even in two years.

He speaks in Kingston and Brockville today.

He said here he "would be sorry to be a Liberal if our party name appeared over advertisements such as those that have borne the name of the Progressive Conservative party in Quebec." The Liberals chose to use the same ads all across the country.

In "special Tory ads in Quebec" that party had "tried to compare us (the government) with governments behind the iron curtain." That party's advertisements said "Stalin also governs by order-in-council" and that Mr. St. Laurent governered the country "without consulting parliament."

Mr. St. Laurent said President Truman is "as anxious as we are" to get started on the St. Lawrence seaway and is bending every effort" to get approval at Washington.

U.S. Air Force Plane Crashes in Mountain, Four Occupants Die

New Cumberland, Pa., June 18 —(AP)—An air force training plane today crashed into Cumberland Mountain killing all four occupants of the craft. The plane, a twin-motor T-11, crashed, burned and exploded about 150 yards from the summit of the tree-covered, 1,000-foot mountain two miles southwest of here. The area was shrouded in a heavy mist at the time.

THREE KILLED AS BUSH PILOT'S PLANE CRASHES

Plunges Into Abandoned Cottage Near Nakina Shortly After Takeoff

Nakina, June 18 (CP) — Three men died Friday in the flaming wreckage of an aircraft which crashed into an abandoned cottage a few seconds after taking off from an airfield near this village, 160 miles northeast of Fort William, Ont.

Dead are: Felix Cryderman, 32, of Sudbury, pilot for Austin Airways; Robert Scott, 24, of Toronto, a first year forestry student from the University of Toronto employed by Longlac Pulp and Paper Company; and Sherman B. Scott, 25, no relation, of Picton, Ont., employed by the same company.

Observers said the plane, piloted by Cryderman, had just become airborne when it went into a spin and plummeted into the cottage, 2½ miles from the airfield.

The plane burst into flames when it struck the cottage, burning the bodies so badly that they could be identified only after airways company officials arrived at the scene. The plane was a twisted mass of blackened metal.

Provincial police said the plane, used in transporting men and equipment in Northern Ontario mining areas, had just begun a tree - spotting mission for the Longlas Pulp and Paper Company. The passengers were to have marked off areas where cutting would take place.

Cryderman was the pilot whose plane crashed through the ice south of Geraldton last December while on a mercy mission to take food to Indian women and children. He was the object of a five-day search before he made his way to a lone cabin on Big Long Lac. He had been flying for Austin Airways, Sudbury, for the past year and a half.

During the war Cryderman served first with the RAF as a Hurricane pilot operating from British merchant ships equipped with launching catapults. He completed a second tour on Typhoon dive bombers supporting the Canadian Army on the continent. He transferred to the RCAF in 1945.

Cryderman leaves a wife and son, both of Sudbury.

'MR. AND MRS. NIAGARA HONEYMOONERS'

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 18 — (CP) — The crowning of Mr. and Mrs. V. M. Exner as "Mr. and Mrs. Niagara Honeymooners" by the Greater Niagara Chamber of Commerce after the couple's wedding Friday had an international touch. The bride, the former Mary Tyrrell, is a native of Ontario and her husband is a resident of the United States.

BULLET MISSES YOUTH BY INCHES

Toronto, June 18 (CP)—Joseph Gabriel, 19, escaped death Friday night when a .22 calibre bullet ripped through a window screen and lodged in the wall four inches from his head. Police said they later questioned a 17-year-old boy and found a home-made rifle in his home. No charges were immediately laid.

BIG-FOUR TO TRY TO SETTLE ISSUES OVER AUSTRIA

May Discuss 'Code of Air Play' in Germany

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

Paris, June 18 (AP) — Western-born diplomats concentrated today on removing obstacles delaying agreement with Russia on an Austrian independence treaty.

The foreign minister of Britain, the United States, France and Russia, after a recess, will reconvene tomorrow to try and settle the problem in what may be the last secret session of their 4-week conference.

They also are expected to discuss a "code of fair play" which would eliminate the barriers to trade and transportation in Germany.

The western diplomats continued today to study in detail every aspect of Russia's price for reestablishing Austrian independence. They were seeking to determine just what assets in Austria Russia is likely to claim as part of her settlement.

Meanwhile, leaders of the pro-Tito "Slovene Liberation Front," a minority group supporting Yugoslavia's territorial claims against Austria, have been called to Vienna for an emergency conference with officials of the Yugoslav legation. It was believed the conference was called to discuss the Austrian treaty negotiations.

However, the issue of an Austrian independence treaty was still in doubt here after a week's secret negotiations, but diplomats asserted the odds slightly favored an accord.

Vishinsky Consulting Kremlin

Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky of Russia was reported in close contact with the Kremlin over the western plan for a way of east-west life in Germany. The plan is said to call for:

1. Formation of a four-power liaison committee in Germany (comprising each power's occupation chief) to develop economic, trade and financial relations between the eastern and western zones.

2. Promotion of a free flow of goods, people and information between the east and west.

3. Full and lasting implementation of the New York agreement for ending the blockade and counter blockade of Berlin.

Mystery Wraps Police Probe Into Accusations

Toronto, June 18 (CP).—Still shrouded in mystery, the Toronto Police Commission inquiry into accusations against Det.-Sgt. Arthur Keay stands adjourned until June 24.

Mayor Hiram E. McCallum, Commission chairman, said Friday following adjournment of a brief hearing:

"There may be something (in the accusations) but I have to be shown. There has not been enough evidence yet to warrant the laying of charges."

The hearing was closed to the press.

Det.-Sgt. Keay, (rhymes with way) suspended Tuesday pending the investigation, flatly denied the accusations and termed them "fantastic".

It was learned from a man who attended the hearing in the office of Chief Constable John Chisholm at police headquarters that the investigation may extend to other persons. The man said:

"This involves more people than Art Keay."

He was not elaborate.

Formerly Active In Drug Cases

A veteran officer who has been attached to the headquarters detective squad, Det.-Sgt. Keay, before being promoted to his present rank, was active in prosecuting drug cases.

Indication of the scope of the investigation came when Police Chief Harold Nash of Guelph, present at the hearing told reporters: "The incident I was questioned about occurred more than a year ago. It is not easy to speak against a fellow officer, but when they get you in that room and you are sworn to tell the truth, you have to give all the facts."

T. B. Horkins, counsel for Keay, said Keay had no intention of resigning from the force because all the charges could be cleared up.

Prelate Will Try To Leave Palace Some Time Today

Newspapermen are Denied Access to the Archbishop

Prague, June 18. (AP) — A close friend of Archbishop Joseph Beran said the prelate will try today to break the police net that binds him prisoner in his palace.

Despite secret police guards at the entrances and telephone switchboard of the palace this friend said he has been in communication with the top Roman Catholic prelate in Czechoslovakia.

He quoted Archbishop Beran as saying:

"Now I am angry. I plead with you to tell someone in authority that things that have been written are true.

"I intend to try to leave the palace late today to go to Strahovsky Cloister (this is a huge monastery high on a hill above Prague) and preach there."

All the archbishop's old staff of porters in the entrance lodge have been sent away and replaced by new "Catholic" Action committee or security police members.

His friends, including those in the diplomatic corps, have been turned away. Newspaper men have been denied access to the archbishop.

His friends, including those in the diplomatic corps, have been turned away. Newspaper men have been denied access to the archbishop.

The decision to preach at the Strahovsky monastery on the eve of the celebration of Corpus Christi Sunday moved up the deadline for a showdown between Archbishop Beran and the Communist government of Czechoslovakia.

If the archbishop is unable to leave the palace then the world would know that the government, which is fighting him as the principal representative of a tree Roman Catholic Church here, had succeeded in making him prisoner.

A reliable diplomatic report said an official of the central action committee of the National political front has been placed in charge of the archbishop's palace.

Archbishop Beran for some months has led the campaign against the government's plan to take over schools and abolish church papers.

In recent weeks he has sent out a number of letters breathing defiance of government decrees.

Youth is Killed, 10 Others Hurt As Truck Ditched

Sydney, N.S., June 18 —(CP)—One youth was killed and 10 others injured, three of them critically, near here early today when a truck left the highway and rolled over in the ditch.

At least 14 teen-agers were riding in the truck from nearby Glace Bay to Sydney after the annual Morrison High School prom at Glace Bay. One of the youths said the truck tried to pass a car and left the road.

Killed was Bernard Currie, Jr., 16, nephew of Attorney General L. D. Currie of Nova Scotia. Critically injured were Herbert Stevens, 18, Stanley Wadden, 18, and

Board Rejects Resolution To Separate Inspectorship And Administration Office

At the final meeting of the Board of Education meeting held last night a motion was introduced by Dr. Austin Walters that the dual position of Business Administrator and Inspector of Public Schools and of Secretary-Treasurer of the Board of Education be dissolved and that Mr. L. A. Kells who now holds both of these positions be given his choice of one of the two jobs.

To this motion the members of the Board voted 2-7 against because in their view another man is not needed at the present time and there likely will not be need of one for about two years when a High School Board may be formed.

Dr. Walters debated the question at length and when the motion was defeated he gave his unofficial resignation and announced that his reason for resigning would be made public in the near future.

Use of Area For Play

Miss Mason and Mr. Murphy, two delegates from the north end of the city, last night asked the board for permission to use the Evans St. area near the King George School for use as a playground for the children in that section. Permission was granted them the use of this land pending investigation by a member of the Board and it was also learned that the Parks Board had given them 150 foot of fencing, slides, swings and sand pits for use there and they have also managed to obtain other equipment for the playground. The children will also be given use of the King George School washrooms.

Steps are also being taken by the Board for the alteration of the Ritchie playgrounds at the corner of Bridge and Bleecker Sts. after reading a letter of complaint from a citizen in that area that the dust and debris from the baseball diamonds was making it almost impossible to keep the area in a state of proper cleanliness.

A request by the Board is to be made to the City Council to have this ground watered during the week and a trash can will be placed there for the depositing of waste papers. Investigation will also be made to see if the baseball diamond cannot be moved to the northeast corner of the grounds.

A list of the salaries for the teachers for the year was put before the board. Most salaries are the same with a one hundred dollar cost of living increase.

Swimming Instructions

It was also announced that arrangements are being made for grades six, seven and eight of the public schools be given one hour swimming instruction at the YMCA next week at different intervals.

The Board have been asked by Variety Village in Toronto for prospects for their school for crippled boys. It is a vocational school that will accommodate 24 boys and will commence in mid-September.

MERELY IN HIGH SPIRITS

Reports that a man was trying to throw a woman into the river at the Canadian Pacific bridge sent police officers in a hurry to that locality last night. On arrival at the scene police found that a local resident and a feminine companion were having a difference of opinion after apparently having consumed some spirits. The two were brought to the police station and later released.

Two Student Graduates Of B.C.I. Winners of Wrist Watches

Two students of the Belleville Collegiate graduating class are the proud owners of brand new wrist watches as the result of their names being on the lucky spot where the hand of a clock stopped. The new watches are being presented on behalf of the Bulova Watch Company.

A week ago, Paul Mercier, Front St. jeweller, obtained all the names of members of the graduating classes at the Belleville Collegiate and St. Michael's. These were placed on a card resembling the face of a clock. The spring was wound and the clock set in motion. The names of the above two students were opposite where the hand stopped.

New Potatoes, Peas, Make Market Debut

Garden peas and new potatoes were offered on the local produce market Saturday morning for the first time this season.

Strawberries were quite freely offered at prices ranging from 30 to 40 cents the box with the majority asking 35 cents. Farmers reported pickings so far have been considerably less than half what was expected.

Eggs took another two cent hike to 60 cents the dozen for firsts with mediums bringing 58 cents the dozen. There was a fair offering of fowl with 55 cents being asked for top grade chicken. Fifty cents was the general price asked.

Radishes sold at eight cents or two bunches for fifteen with new beets bringing the same price. Onions sold at a dime and rhubarb two for 15 cents. Head lettuce was a dime and spinach 40 cents per peck. Old potatoes sold at $1.75 to $2 per bag, or at from 45 to 50 cents per peck.

A few whitefish were offered at 40 cents per pound, with pickerel selling at 35 cents.

Young pigs were plentiful with prices ranging up to $15.50 each and down to $13. Larger sized shoats sold at prices up to $18 each.

Flyers Defeat Point Anne by 10-3 Score

A six-hit pitching effort by RCAF chucker Martyn, held the Point Anne Cementmen to three runs as the airmen notched a convincing 10-3 win on the Point Anne diamond, last evening.

The airmen lashed out four hits in the first frame to take a three run lead and they were never headed. They came back for five more tallies in the second and added single runs in the third and fourth to coast to victory.

Point Anne counted once in the first frame and twice in the 4th. Martyn set the Cementmen down with one hit over the last five frames.

Both pitchers went the route. Martyn walked three, struck out three and scattered six hits for three runs. Green was tagged for the loss walking three, striking out five, and giving up 13 hits for 10 runs.

Arthur J. Hills Will Address Clubs in City

On Monday, June 20th., the Rotary Club will have as guest speaker at their luncheon meeting a prominent figure in the railway life of Canada and in other capacities, Arthur John Hills, chairman of the Joint Conference Board of the Construction Industry. Mr. Hills has been active in railway work for 45 years and still is connected with the railways and is a nominee of the Railways Association of Canada on the Canada Labor Relations Board. Mr. Hills will address other clubs in Belleville during his visit here, speaking to the Kinsmen on Monday evening and the Kiwanis on Tuesday.

In 1908 Mr. Hills became superintendent of the Canadian Northern Railway at Toronto and in 1914 general superintendent and in 1917 assistant to the executive. On information of the Canadian National Railways he was appointed assistant to the president, D. B. Hanna, and also assistant to the president of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine. In 1923 on reorganization due to absorption of the Grand Trunk into the Canadian National Railways under Sir Henry Thornton was appointed assistant to Vice President of Operations and Construction, S. J. Hungerford.

In 1940 he was on loan from the C.N.R. to the Dominion Government, being appointed chairman of the National Supply Labor Council. In 1941 he was also chairman of the National Joint Conference Board of Construction Industry. During the late war he was in other offices of the war effort.

In 1945 he was offered and accepted the chairmanship of what is now the Canadian affiliate of the World Calendar Association International.

Well-Known in Belleville

He is no stranger in Belleville having been in charge of the Canadian Northern Railways when it was taken over for operation from Toronto to Trenton, then through Belleville to Ottawa.

He has piloted many notables over various sections of the line and later was with the Canadian National Railways. Mr. Hills conducted the Duke of Windsor and the Prince of Wales down the Nipigon River. He continued to look after distinguished personages for the Canadian National Railways during Sir Henry Thornton's regime. The most pleasant assignment Mr. Hills enjoyed was when Sir Henry put him in charge of the building of a golf course for Jasper Park Lodge.

Mr. Hills, who is 70 years of age, has many other activities and belongs to seven different clubs. Golf is his favorite pastime.

Radio Assists Police Nab Erring Driver

Another example of the efficiency of the police radio system in assisting officers in their police duty was seen in the Napanee area last evening when an alleged hit and run driver was apprehended in a matter of nine minutes after the complaint was laid.

Kingston police had been advised of an accident west of that city and the patrolman from that city on his arrival at the scene radioed the description of the hit and run car.

Napanee police picked up the call and nine minutes later had apprehended the driver.

District Canners Attend School In Picton

Bay of Quinte district canners representatives went back to school for a few days at Picton recently to take a refresher course in the operation of can-closing machinery. The Picton school is conducted by the American Can Company as an aid to the canning industry.

The "scholars" attended daily classes of instruction conducted by Canco servicemen. The course included brief talks on the construction of the tin can and the importance of proper sealing techniques.

Practical instruction was also provided with several types of Canco semi-automatic and automatic closing machines which had been set up. Mel. Roberts and Chris Risto, of the American Can Company's Niagara Falls equipment service station, were in charge of the school.

Howe, Hagerman, Northern Electric Softball Victors

A stellar six-hit pitching performance by Rex Young in front of an air tight defence gave Northern Electric a resounding 13-0 victory over CNR Nationals last evening in the first game of a Commercial Softball League doubleheader at the Alemite Field. In the nightcap, a harassed and battered Howe and Hagerman nine, eventually downed a rejuvenated Anti Tank crew 12-10.

Northern Electric batted around in the top of the first, collecting six runs on three singles, three doubles and an error and the issue was never in doubt. The planters added three more in the second on a single, double, and two errors. Two doubles and two singles meant two more in the sixth and they wound up their scoring in the seventh getting two more on a double by pinch-hitter Jim Barriage, a triple by Herby Henn and an error. A smart double play by CNR nipped the rally at this point without any more damage being done.

CNR threatened to score in the second frame when the two lead-off men singled but a strikeout, a caught foul and an easy grounder retired the side. They had two men aboard in the third with none away and failed to score again.

Northern pulled off a double-play in the sixth to keep the trainmen under control.

Rex Young went all the way for the winners, walking four, striking out three and scattering six hits for no runs. He fielded his position perfectly as well. "Demp" Young toiled vainly for the losers walking one, striking out one, and giving up 13 hits for 13 runs.

Line ups:

Howe-Hagerman 12, Anti-Tank 10

A hard fighting Anti-Tank team showing more spirit than in any of their previous games, said it with home runs as they gave Howe and Hagerman quite a run for the win. Play see-sawed back and forth with errors eventually ruining the Anti-Tank bid for a victory.

Howe and Hagerman scored one run in the first frame and were nursing this lead into the third when a single, an error and a home run by Hancock gave Anti-Tank three runs. They added three more runs in the fourth on Gardiner's home run to right field and that was all for Howe and Hagerman starter Al Adams. Wilf Fitzgibbon came in to put out the fire.

The plumbers jumped on the slants of Emmerson in the bottom of the fourth blasting him out with four hits and six runs. Wright came in and toiled the rest of the route for the Anti-Tankers.

K. Kimmett blasted out a homer to lead off the fifth for Anti-Tank and Seames clouted another four master in the sixth with one aboard. Rogers tripled with two on to produce two runs for Howe and Hagerman in the fifth and three errors and a double gave the plumbers three runs and the victory in the sixth.

Adams started for the plumbers and in three innings walked one, struck out six and gave up six hits for six runs. Fitzgibbon walked one, struck out six and gave up five hits for four runs in relief. Emmerson started for the Tank crew and in three and a third frames gave up six hits for seven runs. Wright went the rest of the way being nicked for three hits, five runs, and the ball game.

Government's Deal for Vets Criticized at CCF Meeting, Candidate Heard at Trenton

Sharp criticism of the Liberal government for its failure to give a square deal for the veterans and for its tardiness in setting up a suitable national health program was levelled Friday evening by two speakers at a C.C.F. meeting held in Trenton town hall.

Arthur C. Cole, C.C.F. candidate for Hastings South and Mr. Harry Walters, M.P.P. of Brackendale, Toronto, and executive officer of C.B.R.E., were the speakers.

As guest speaker for the evening Mr. Walters stated that the only real difference between the C.C.F. party and all other political parties was that the C.C.F. was democratic.

He said that every C.C.F. plan is discussed democratically by every member and is agreed on by discussion and research before it is submitted This is in contrast to the other parties whose program is "something dreamed up overnight for election propaganda."

Attacks Regulation

The speaker attacked the regulation which called for 51 per cent of the "eligible" workers in a factory having to approve before their bargaining agency could be determined.

"That is not democracy," he said. "It should be the largest number of voters." By the above regulation he said the government was trying to weigh the law against the worker in favor of the employer.

Swinging his attack against capital, the speaker declared there was a political democracy in Canada but not economic democracy. "When was there ever economic democracy in Canada?" he asked.

He said that big money interests controlled the two old line parties and that a large share of the wealth was controlled by the same 50 men who were on the directorate of nearly all big firms.

Racial discrimination was also attacked, the speaker criticising the government for its failure to bring in a bill of rights.

Housing and Health

Housing and health were also touched on by Mr. Walters who said that emergency housing had become a political football and that the government was failing to do much about housing because it would be against the interests of the real estate association. "They are doing fine," he said.

"Canada needs a million houses" he said, "but those being built are costing from $7,500 to $15,000—far more than the working man can afford.

Establishment of a national health plan according to the need was urged by the speaker who pointed to the health plan in England as an example. This health plan, brought in by the socialist government, had general approval he said.

Mr. Walter also referred to political action declaring that it was necessary for labor to have a voice in the legislation—if only for their own protection.

Mr. Cole regretted the "smear" campaign which he said was being carried on against the C.C.F. by the two old line parties.

Calling for a better deal for the veterans Mr. Cole said the policy of the Liberal government with respect to veterans' pensions was to "pay as little as possible to as few as possible". The Progressive Conservatives were in the same category as it had been that government which during the depression had cut pensions 20 per cent.

Health Measures

Turning to health Mr. Cole assured that the C.C.F. would put health practices into effect which would give medical assistance to every Canadian. The C.C.F. valued human life more than a dollar bill, he assured.

He referred to the indigent patients who crowded hospitals and asked what use hospitals were if people could not afford to pay their way. "And that," he said, "is the health scheme of the Hon. Paul Martin."

He went on to say that doctors owed something to the country as it cost the country $5,000 for every medical graduate who came from a medical college.

"The C.C.F. will say that the doctors will operate under discipline. It is their duty to treat the sick—and they will be paid for it," he said.

The speaker again referred to the veterans, claiming that standards of education had been set so high by the Liberal government that many veterans had been "weeded" out of university.

He denied the assertion that there were communists in the ranks of the C.C.F., but stated the only way to combat communism was to afford decent living conditions.

Turning his attack directly against Liberal candidate Frank S. Follwell, the speaker asserted that during Mr. Follwell's term as mayor he had done nothing to obtain low cost housing for Belleville.

Housing

"We have 100 rental houses now and another 100 are being built but they are too late," he said. Rentals are now $42.50 per month instead of $28 and veterans could not afford the high rental being asked. Already there are several evictions pending in Belleville because veterans could not pay their rent, he said.

"Liberal candidates say they will fight for adequate housing but their leader Mr. St. Laurent has said that as long as he is Prime Minister there will be no subsidization for housing," said Mr. Cole.

He declared when the Charitable Gifts bill had been introduced in the legislature it had been the alert C.C.F. which had caused its amendment.

Aims of Party

Mr. Cole closed by stressing three points for which his party stood—old age pensions without a means test, hospitalization and health assistance according to need and education according to need and education according to the pupils' ability to receive.

Horace Wright, Belleville grocer, acted as chairman for the meeting.

41st District Annual Meeting Held by North Hastings W.I.

The 41st District Annual Convention of the Women's Institute of North Hastings was held in Trinity United Church, Madoc, last Tuesday. The day was ideal and a good number was in attendance.

The District President, Mrs. Clifford Clancy, welcomed the members and delegates. She visited eight of the branches this past year and expects to visit the remaining eight in the coming year. A special welcome was extended to Bancroft and vicinity, who chartered a bus for the 75-mile trip to attend.

The Reeve of Madoc, Mr. Kincaid graciously welcomed the Women's Institute members and Mrs. McCarey of Eldorado, replied.

Mrs. W. J. Barlow sec.-treasurer, read the minutes of last year's meeting held at Eldorado and also the financial report which showed a substantial balance on hand.

Ten Reports Received

In the absence of Mrs. Ken Thompson, Mrs. G. Thompson brought in a report of Agriculture and Canadian Industries. Ten reports were received. Some of the topics were—Agriculture in the different provinces; the fairness of the Income Tax to the farmers; rain clouds may hide the sun, but they bring what is better. Dr. Hammond showed films on "Canadian Homes", before and after planting shrubs and flowers, stressing the artistic.

Mrs. Meiklejohn of Harold, reporting on social welfare, stated eight branches reported. She stressed the importance of health as the foundation for happiness. She spoke of cancer research as an outstanding subject. Projects included planning for a skating rink, providing food and clothing to needy families, donations and showers to newcomers in community.

A full report on publicity was given by the convener, Mrs. George Foster, in which she stated having received nine reports, all of which made good use of the local press. One's own enthusiasm is the best publicity. Printed programs were used in all branches. This year had been one rich in publicity. Among special speakers were Miss Anna P. Lewis, of Toronto, and Mrs. Ida Brains of England. Use the mediums of press, telephone and radio to keep the Institute's objective before the public so their aims would be accepted and their resolutions carried out. Live up to this year's theme "Let your light so shine that men may see your good works".

Home Economics

Home Economics report was sent in by Mrs. M. Baker of Gilmour, as she was unable to be present. Nine reports were received. Splendid exhibits were shown and some demonstrations. Silver spoons were presented to each girl in the Home Making Clubs and prizes given to each exhibiting at Fall Fairs.

Mrs. F. McKeown of Springbrook, gave a splendid report on Citizenship. Seven branches heard from. She stressed that intelligence, integrity and Christian principles are outstanding characteristics of good citizens.

At this stage a paper, prepared by Mrs. C. Sills of West Huntingdon on the origin and qualifications of the Rhodes scholarship was given. She stated that one who had won that scholarship this year in Ontario was Mr. Ralph Campbell, whose grandmother, the late Mrs. George Hollinger, was born and had lived her early life at Ivanhoe in this North Hastings District. Ralph had been selected as fulfilling all requirements for this coveted scholarship and expects to go with his bride, to England, in August to attend Oxford University for the two-year term.

Plan Work Intelligently

In discussing the reports Miss McKercher of the Department of Agriculture, Toronto, urged system and action. Launch out and state objectives for next year's work. Have a purpose in discussions to bring good results.

Mrs. Milton Shaw of Ivanhoe, favored with a solo, "Cruising Down the River", accompanied by Mrs. Jas. Black.

The Provincial Director, Mrs. Jas. Black, of Campbellford, brought greetings from the Federated Branch. The Provincial Board of which she is a member meets twice each year, Spring and Fall. At the Fall meeting the reports of Provincial conveners are given.

She urged the use of the new hand books in making them a part of the programs. She stated the officers' conference held in May at the O.A.C. was a huge success, 600 being in attendance. An oil painting of Adelaide Hoodless, the founder of Women's Institutes, is to be sent to Dominion Archives at Ottawa. The new book "Fifty Years of Achievement" should be in each branch. Fifty-two new branches were organized this year.

Should Study Nfld.

She urged the study of Newfoundland. Send in requests for film "Let There be Light" at least six weeks beforehand. More funds are asked for girls completing six projects to attend MacDonald Institute, Guelph. It takes $3,000 for each girl. Make requests to Minister of Education for the teaching of true democracy to all students to thwart the spread of Communism. Study the flag and what it stands for. Request Minister of Agriculture for girls' short courses two to six weeks at Guelph and Kemptville.

In the president's address she mentioned visiting eight branches this year and expects to visit the remaining eight branches next year. She stressed using more educational features of the Institute and to get more information on Agricultural subjects. She urged each branch to send in $2 to Area Convention to help defray expenses after District Annual. She also gave a demonstration on flower making as it might prove useful as a hobby.

After a splendid dinner served in the basement of the church, the afternoon session opened with Marmora branch leading in community singing.

The roll call of each branch brought the response of their greatest achievement of the year. One minute allowed for each.

Stresses Need for Leaders

Miss McKercher of Dept. of Agriculture gave an informative address. She stressed the need for leaders of the junior clubs. The busy people are the best ones as they are best suited for challenging tasks. Group effort accomplishes much. Leaders must have loyalty from the group, one whom all trust and who stimulates each to take on tasks and responsibilities. They must be willing to sacrifice personal pleasures, give service, assume responsibilities and make decisions. In this way they become thoughtful of others and grow themselves.

It was decided to have a district short course of one afternoon at each of the following centres: Ivanhoe, Springbrook, Paudash, Eldorado and Carlow. The subject "Developing Community Enterprises."

Mrs. Ross then favored with a solo, "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings," accompanied by Mr. Hawthorne. A report on girls' work was given by Mrs. D. Fox. She stated Eldorado and Queensboro girls' clubs completed two courses each. Rylestone girl's club catered to a banquet, and at Cooper one course was completed and four girls received county honors.

Miss Irvine, Girls' Work coach, gave a full report, stating there were ten clubs with four girls completing. Achievement Days were held at Stirling and Belleville.

Project for this year, "The Girls' Club stands on Guard." The girls of the northern part of county hold their own achievement day. Mr. S. Hawthorne favored with a pipe organ selection.

Mrs. C. Sills gave a comprehensive report of Ontario Federation of Agriculture meeting at Peterborough. Folk schools originated in Denmark. One was held last winter in Foxboro. When agriculture prospers everyone propers. Farming requires long hours of labor.

Ontario is divided into five zones. Mrs. Rutherford is chairman of the one at Peterborough. Of the 50 countries represented at Guelph during recent conference there, only Canada has women voting on the Federation of Agriculture.

The election of officers followed with Mrs. McMurray of Queensboro presenting the list. The installation was conducted by Mrs. Black.

President: Mrs. Clifford Clancy, Harold.

1st Vice President: Mrs. Lewis Green, Marmora.

3rd Vice President: Mrs. (Dr.) Beatty, Madoc.

Secretary Treasurer: Mrs. M. J. Barlow, Springbrook.

District Delegate: Mrs. Arthur Parks, Cooper.

Alternate: Mrs. Maurice Reynolds, Madoc.

Federation Representative: Mrs. E. Irwin, Campbellford.

Alternate: Mrs. J. F. Baker, Bonarlaw.

Jr. Institute Activities: Mrs. John Thompson.

Press Secretary: Mrs. Geo. Foster, Moira.

Appreciation was extended by Mrs. Slater of McArthur's Mills to all who had been responsible for the splendid program and good dinner.

DAYS IN JUNE

In these days as nature is about to usher in the fulness of the summer season, Canadians have the richest opportunity to enjoy nature in all her loveliness and beauty, in the mystery of color, fragrance of flowers, songs of birds and life itself. They must be truly grateful. For nature has placed us in a Paradise in which to live and grow. On every side come the intimations of the meaning of life spread with such bounty around us, the signs that what we have here is heaven-sent to bless our days.

We look around in this wealth of life in its countless forms and find everything designed by a kindly Power that makes life new around us every day. The visible nature we see and enjoy in the miracle of that life that lives on and on and on. And all we need understand and know is the assurance that in and behind all this beauty and this reign of life and law is the Divine.

BELT OR BRACES

There is a step being taken to discard the waistcoat or vest. Numbers of men have already of their own volition seen fit to go around without this under garment, claiming it is of no value except as a place in which to store pens, pencils, car tickets and other things which the average man must carry around with him. Some manufacturers are leaving out the vest and every man knows that there is such a dress as a two-piece suit especially for the summertime when of the usual three pieces, coat, vest and trousers, only the trousers are worn by a great many.

To find a place for the small articles that men carry in the vest pockets is one of the problems facing them. But there is another, the question of holding up the trousers, whether by braces or by belt.

Now the Ottawa Journal thinks "the real problem of the two-piece suit is the social disfavor superior circles visit upon a man who wears braces and lets them be visible."

After weighing the advantages and disadvantages of the braces and the belt, the Journal writer comes to the conclusion that "altogether a simple pair of braces is the most satisfactory means yet devised by man for preventing trousers collapsing about his ankles, and if we are not to hide them by a vest, their wearers must demand for them sartorial equality with the belt."

But others will say "no." They prefer the belt and the belt they believe looks well on them. These men will hardly come over to the custom of wearing braces. So there seems a real cleavage in the fashion, especially in the summertime.

UNIVERSITY HAS MODEL MINE

Several British universities give degrees in mining but Birmingham is the only one in the world, so far as is known that teaches students in a model mine. This mine is under a hill in the university grounds and is about an acre in extent. It gives students a very good idea of conditions underground, although entrance to it is down a long flight of steps and not by a cage as in a real mine. Hundreds of yards of passages, approximating to mine workings, some of reasonable height, others very low, wind about under the hill. Here students go with their safety lamps to study mine ventilation, rescue and other problems, becoming thoroughly familiar with conditions underground.

Recently the West Midland Division of the Coal Board held its main rescue competition in this model mine and teams from Cannock Chase, North and South Staffordshire and Warwickshire competed, with fourth year mining students from the university acting as injured men. David Gretton, of the BBC's Mildand staff, went down the mine with a microphone to describe the operations. He is a tall man and the low passages and the smoky atmosphere in which he worked, bent almost double, combined to give an effect of breathless excitement to his commentary program.

Modern types of school buildings in rural and suburban areas chiefly vary greatly from the old style structures in which so many received their education. The new schools are made practical to make possible their adjustment to modern conditions and modern education. These buildings and their equipment are meant to be of the best so that the work of education may progress under conditions suiting this age.

Soon Canada's school-age boys and girls will be free for the vacation which they have the privilege of spending in one of the finest climates of the world. Children of today have access the year round to the open air life but soon they will be free to enjoy it fully as with books aside they begin their holidays to build their four-square nature to its fullest.

A DAY

From sleep to wake,
  From toil to sleep;
Some things to make;
  Accounts to keep;
To sell; to buy;
  To teach; to pray;
To laugh; to cry;
  For all—a day!

The hours the same
  As all before,
And none to claim
  One second more.

A date to mark
  Each passing day,
From dawn to dark
  For work and play.

Yet from the rise
  To set of sun
By him who tries
  Can much be done.
Before the end
  Who will can say:
He dared to spend
  A useful day.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

Men are better tea-makers than women. This is not private opinion it is pretty well shared by those in the tea business all over the world.

Some women are born cooks. These are also good tea makers. But the majority of women, in order to be good cooks, have to have a recipe before them. which they watch step by step the way a drug clerk watches a prescription. Take away the recipes, and a great many women become just hash slingers. This accounts for the mottled, bilious, baggy-eyed look of so many men. They are married to hash slingers.

And here is the way hash slingers make tea: they grab the kettle and hold it under the hot water tap. That saves time! As soon as a little steam starts feebly rising from the spout—long before even the tasteless hot water boils—they dump a rough estimate of tea into a cold tea pot and pour the barely-hot water onto it.

When they serve this wet-hay flavored brew to their poor bald husbands, with the baggy eyes and the liver spots, the hash slinger wives pour milk into it, soak in a spoonful or more of sugar. It is soup, not tea. Hay soup.

The way to encounter tea is the way Hudson's Bay canoe men, northern trappers, guides and Mounties brew it. They get the fresh water in the tea pail just starting to roll on the boil. As it starts to foam over they heave in a handful of tea and instantly lift the pail off the fire. In four minutes, they dip their cups. No milk, no sugar. Both destroy the keen brilliant flavor and feel of tea. You might as well put an Oxo cube in beer, or Coca Cola in vegetable soup.

Fresh cold water, freshly boiled and poured bubbling on the tea in a hot pot—why, it's enough to make a hash slinger start reading recipes again!

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

KEEP ON GROWING

As one studies the life of George Washington, he is impressed by the fact that Washington was a man who continued to grow to the last day of his life. He was not a genius, and except for his rugged qualities of mind, which multitudes of people in this and every other country possess, he was not a person of unusual endowments. But from boyhood to old age he continued to grow He was like Henry Wadsworth Longfellow who, when he was past seventy, said that he tried to grow little new wood every year.

There are some people who, mentally, stop growing in infancy; such persons are retarded and defective. There are others whose intellectual growth stops in the adolescent period; these make up the great mass of people who never make much out of their lives and who do not seem concerned about lack of achievements A person truly conspicuous is a person who keeps growing as long as he lives—ripening experiences every year, sounder judgements every decade. Reading helps one along this line but listening helps more. The people around us are better than many books. Open ears, open eyes, open minds, and hearts open to the revealing power of infinite wisdom will produce for us all a little growth each year as long as we live.

70-Year Dream of Modern University in Nottingham Finally is Taking Shape

By DON GILBERT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Nottingham, England, June 17 — (CP) — The 70-year dream of a fine modern university is now fast taking shape in this prosperous East Midlands city which excels in the making of hosiery and lace.

Although Nottingham has been important in British history since Saxon times, its beginning as a seat of learning dates back only to the 1880s.

In Gladstone's day, University College was founded. And at the opening ceremonies the grand old man of Victorian politics ventured a prophecy. The college would grow and develop into a great university.

What Gladstone foresaw, an illustrious son of Nottingham helped well along the way.

That was Jesse Boot, a poor herbalist's son. He was left with the family druggist store while still a schoolboy. Slowly he built up the business. When he died it was a £20,000,000 ($80,000,000) concern with 1,200 stores.

Sir Jesse Boot became Lord Trent. Twenty years ago he gave University College £1,000,000 worth of buildings and grounds. These included one of the finest university sites in Britain. The future university began to take shape.

A year ago a Royal Charter made the college Britain's 18th full - fledged university. The first Lord Trent's son was installed as Chancellor and the task of developing a first - rate seat of learning begun.

The over-all aim is a residential university of 3,000 students. It is planned to group new faculty buildings around an American - style campus across the crown of the ridge on which the existing buildings stand.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ONE'S BOOK A "CIRCULAR LETTER"

Instead of dedicating his book, "Travels with a Donkey in the Cevennes," with a single line or so, to his friend Sidney Colvin, Robert Louis Stevenson wrote a letter in its place, and in it he said: "Every book is,in an intimate sense a circular letter to the friend of him who writes it. They alone take his meaning; they find privite message, assurances of love, and expressing of gratitude, dropped for them in in every corner. The public is but a generous patron who defrays the postage.

I have just returned corrected proofs to the publisher, who is to publish some two hundred or so of these daily talks in a book, called "Better Than Gold," and as I read each one, this thought of Stevenson came to me in a striking manner, for that's what these Talks are from day to day—just a "circular letter" to the one who reads them—a silent friend whom I shall never meet face to face, but nevertheless one whom I shall look upon as a friend.

Many a book in my library, that has given to me untold joy throughout the years, has that about it which makes me feel that the writer is talking to me. It may be a book on history, or the story of a great character, or a series of essays, or one in which a great problem is discussed, or an enlivening discussion of some phase of nature. It matters not, there is always something that is written that hangs upon a personal thread, and which you take to heart, as though that writer sat with you and talked to you as your guest.

I have just been reading the latest collection of poems by Robert Frost, America's greatest and most beloved poet. Having but recently spent long and delightful evening with him at a friend's home, each poem now read seems more than ever a "circular letter" to me in poetry form. I love these lines:

"So all who hide too well away
Must speak and tell us where they are

Nearly fifteen years ago Marvin Lowenthal gathered together the autobiographical notes from Montaigne's essay and formed them into a wonderful complete autobiography of this great man—and understanding him, and human nature as well. He said that if you wanted to know about him to go out and buy his book. His talk is himself.

'Hoppers Being Exterminated in Western Canada

Winnipeg, June 17 — (CP) — Grasshoppers which yearly threaten to eat away grain grown on the Canadian prairies, are being fought successfully by Agriculture Department officials and farmers in all three provinces, a survey shows.

All are using either chlordane or poxophene chemicals to combat the 'hoppers. Some damage has been reported, but the officials say it is not extensive.

Some Damage Done

Saskatchewan officials say some damage has been done, but that a large number of the hoppers has been killed by chlordane, used both in bait and as a spray.

Manitoba started its fight against the insects two weeks ago and the situation is said to be fairly good.

Widespread spraying with chemicals is being done. A mixture of from three - quarters to one pound of chemical and five gallons of water covers an acre of land.

On Southwestern Manitoba, the situation seems well under control. Officials said grain is well advanced, and rain which has fallen over the infested areas has been helpful.

Big Supply Bait

Alberta has distributed 200 railway cars of grasshopper bait, of which 400 per cent has been used. The largest quantity was sent to the Medicine Hat area in the southeast, Drumheller district in Central Alberta and Provost, 170 miles southeast of Edmonton and near the Saskatchewan border.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

(Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis or treatment will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letter should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.)

THE ACETANILID QUESTION.

Believing that acetanilid phennacetin and other less familiar coal tar derivatives, widely employed as painkillers or sensedeadeners, are contributing causes of CVD (cardiovascular degeneration, premature hardening of the arteries, slow heart muscle failure). I devote a chapter in the booklet CVD to the subject of popular abuse of analgestic (pain killing) drugs. For a copy of the booklet send twenty-five cents and self addressed envelope.

Probably most of the unwary customers who indulge in these sense--deadening drugs habitually, frequently or just occasionally would be more cautious if acetanilid were sold under its own name rather than under the many proprietary names of nostrums in which it is the main ingredient. These nostrums are freely available everywhere without prescription or restriction of any kind, although many deaths from the acetanilid in such nostrum are on records, Coroners' verdicts, that is.

Any one who feels a need or a desire for an analgestic (pain, ache or distress relieving) medicine daily, weekly or even monthly ought to have his or her head examined—and the rest of the body to. It is a fool's way to ascribe such ache, pain or distress to such plausible but meaningless things as fatigue, worry, strain, indigestion, or nervousness and to benumb consciousness of it for a while instead of consulting a physician. This is the history of the worst cases of acetanilid addiction.

If one must take a pain-killer the least dangerous one to take in my judgement, is acetyl-salicylic acid, commonly known as aspirin. When I take aspirin—I have taken a dose two or three times in my life—I want the cheapest aspirin the druggist has, for aspirin is aspirin no matter who brands it, and I lie or sit at rest for at least two hours after taking it, for that way I get the fullest effect from the smallest dose and I am less likely to suffer untoward effects that I would be if I kept moving about while under the influence of the drug. As for acetanilid or any of the numerous nostrums containing it, no thank you, I'll endure considerable pain, ache or disress rather than take chances with that.

I saw a friend die of acetanilid poisoning a few hours after we had played together on the bowling green, or I saw him a few minutes after he died. He had taken several doses of a nostrum heavily loaded with acetanilid, for some vague stomach upset. Because there are no restrictions on the sale of the nostrum the poor fellow had assumed that it was harmless and he had used it for years as a cure-all.

It seems that a good many with the various aches, pains or derangments which the acetanilid nostrums purport to relieve or cure, actually hesitate to consult a physician for this peculiar reason: They are not sick! They are afraid the doctor would laugh at them for coming to him with such trivial complaints, or that a busy doctor can't be bothered with people who are not really sick. That may have been so in the good old days when doctors were kept on the go night and day attending typhoid fever, malaria, cholera infantum and other diseases which have become so rare that they are almost unknown in some communities.

Some of these people who recklessly take acetanilid nostrums put off consulting the physician because they hardly know how to tell the doctor what is the matter. This is ridiculous. When you consult a physician just tell him or her your complaint—if you have no complaint—a pain here, soreness there—whatever made you think you need medicine or medical advice. Leave it to the doctor to find out what is the matter.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Asparagus

We all love asparagus and have a bed in your garden but it acts violently on kidneys. Is this harmful. I can't enjoy asparagus at all, as it causes severe pains, sometimes extending down into legs (B.L.A.)

Answer—It is harmless. Perhaps your trouble is due to allergic sensitivity, although your description suggest oxaluria—calcium oxalate crystals form in urine. Asparagus, however, contains very little oxalic acid—much less than tea, coffee, chocolate, strawberries, plums, dried figs, potatoes, spinach, beans rhubarb or tomatoes. Some persons subject to oxaluria find that they can indulge in the particular food that causes their trouble with impunity if they take some lemon juice at the same time.

No, No, No,

I would like some information about ——disease—what causes it is there any remedy, if so what. (M.C.A.)

Answer—Ah, ah! remember this is a health column.

Big Word, Little Meaning

Doctor said my daughter has sub-involution. She has a four months old baby. We are worried. (Mrs. W.J.)

Answer—Involution is a term sometimes applied to the normal return of the pelvic organs to their original condition following childbirth. If the process seems at all slow the doctor may call it sub-involution. Nothing for anybody to worry about—usually nothing for the doctor even to mention.

A quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the groom's daughter, Mrs. Albert Wart, Perth, Ontario, when Bertha Mary Connagham was united in marriage to James Stanley Dale.

Recommends Pupils Improve on Parents

Winnipeg —(CP)— Rev. Allen R. Huband thinks it isn't enough for children nowadays to be merely "as good as your parents."

In an address to the pupils of Mulvey School, Mr. Huband of Westminster United Church said adults today have reached an all-time high in excesses of drinking and abuse in home life.

"You need to strive to be better than your parents," he told the pupils. "As good patriots, it is not enough for youngsters to plan to be just as good as their parents.

"This generation is by no means the finest the British Empire has ever had. More than any other generation, it has been given to drinking and to neglect of the church, and it has allowed the breakup of home life.

"Young people just above your age group have been willing to die for their values in the Second World War. You must preserve those ideals and live them constantly."

The Commonwealth's greatest wealth lay in its citizens, Mr. Huband said.

Women's Institute

CHATTERTON W.I.

Chatterton.—The June meeting of the Chatterton Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. B. Bleeker, the president. There was an attendance of fourteen members and three visitors. The roll call was in the form of a question on "Newfoundland". Mrs. B. Mitts rendered a delightful piano solo. Mrs. D. Rose led in the singing of some songs.

The W.I. were pleased to have Mrs. M. J. Waller, Foxboro as guests speaker. She spoke on the tenth province, Newfoundland and it being her homeland, she was able to give a first hand description of that country. All feel they have been enriched by Newfoundland coming into confederation and the dream of the Fathers of Confederation has come true.

Mrs. Leonard Prest, on behalf of the members, kindly thanked Mrs. Waller, for her contribution to the program which was for this month based on "Agriculture and Canadian Industries."

A sale of house plants followed after which refreshments were served by the hostess.

QUINTE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

About 35 members of Quinte W. I. motored to Deseronto for the June meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. S. Geddes. The president, Mrs. H. Greatrix opened the meeting. Mrs. D. Atkins, secretary, read the minutes of the May meeting. Business discussed included plans for a pot luck dinner and picnic at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Sandercock. Mrs. J. Garbutt gave a fine report of the district annual meeting.

A thought provoking paper was given by Mrs. J. Donaldson on the motto "The family that prays together stays together". Roll call, "A kindness shown to me" was well responded to.

Mrs. Geddes cordially welcomed everyone to her home. It was exactly 24 years ago Mrs. Geddes joined the institute.

Mrs. Fred Parrott, convenor of community activities took charge and introduced Miss H. Sulman who gave a humorous reading, "The cheerful little carful". Mrs. M. Ryan introduced Mrs. H. Bender of Deseronto who had arranged a display of arts and crafts. These included clay modelling, knitted articles, coffee tables, hand smocked dresses, oil paintings, hand woven articles, sewing and knitting done by the junior and senior pupils of the public school, and a wonderful collection of dolls which were designed and made by Mrs. Ritchie. These dolls were dressed in the national costumes of different countries. Mrs. Ritchie told of her hobby of making these dolls and of the pleasure she had in showing them.

Mrs. L. McCullough gave a splendid address, her subject being "hobbies". She told what they are and why they have become so popular. Interesting arts and crafts will be shown in Toronto soon from all over the world.

Mrs. Bender told of the beginning of the Hobby Club in Deseronto and how it became a community activity. She stressed the fact that when young people are interested in hobbies there are very few problems in juvenile delinquency. It also fosters greater community interest when all work together to create something that all may enjoy.

Mrs. E. Sandercock graciously thanked the ladies for their splendid program. Mrs. Parrott and Mrs. Greatrix also thanked those who had helped with the meeting.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Geddes, Mrs. N. Brown, Mrs. A. Mitchell, Mrs. A. Greatrix, Mrs. E. Leeming, Mrs. T. Brown and Mrs. Howes.

Does Not Want To be Cowboy On West Ranch

Calgary, June 18 — (CP) — A petite, tweed - clad English woman stepped off a train at Calgary Friday, a little upset about the stories that she wants to be a cowpuncher on a western ranch.

To Mrs. Joyce Mack of Wareham, Dorsetshire, her aims are quite simple. She said she liked Western Canada when she visited it in 1936. She prefers an outdoor life to city life, and she knows more about horses than most things.

"If I can get a job looking after horses on a ranch or a farm, that's all I want," she said.

In Britain Mrs. Mack turned her hand to a variety of jobs. During the war she was in the marine division of the British Overseas Airways Corporation. Following that she got a job as a deckhand on a harbor tug, on the strength of her wartime training.

When she is settled, Mrs. Mack will send for her two children, Sara, eight, and Nicholas, seven, now in Wendover, Buckinghamshire.

Mrs. Mack's husband, a wing commander in the R.A.F., was killed during the war.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEAGUE

The season's final meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in John Street High School, with Mrs. Doyle presiding. There was a large attendance and a most interesting meeting was held.

Right Rev. Monsignor Nicholson was present and spoke briefly.

Reports were presented by the various conveners.

The announcement that a statue of the Blessed Virgin had been given to the Belleville sub-division, in recognition of having the greatest number of memberships for the Magazine League, was of special interest to all. Mrs. Doyle congratulated the convener, Mrs. Boyd for the splendid work that she has already accomplished and for the loyal support given by the publicity convener, Miss McAvoy.

Receipts from the successful tea held at the home of Mrs. Jim Boyle were most gratifying, as well as the receipts from the rummage sale which was convened by Mrs. Kennedy. Members were reminded of the home-cooking sale which is to be held in the market building on Saturday, June 25. Hospital visitors were appointed for the months of July and August.

The president outlined an interesting Fall program. Preparations are under way for the bazaar, and the members are working on the project. A bridge and euchre tournament is to be organized in September.

Miss McGeary the V.O.N., nurse gave the annual school health service report. This report showed extensive work on the part of the school nurse. Miss McGeary, stressed the need of co-operation of all groups such as teachers, parents, janitors, nurse and boards, which helped in making the V.O.N. work a success.

"Undies" Wanted By British Women

Washington, June 18 (AP) — Paul Hoffman, Economic Co-operation Administrator, has been given the task of finding some spare under-things for a British housewife.

The director of the European Recovery Program has disclosed he received the request from Mrs. Dorothy M. Rockliffe, 35, Mitcham, Surrey, England.

Hoffman had once remarked that most Britons have only one set of cotton underwear — and his statement found its way into a British newspaper. Mrs. Rockliffe wrote:

"It was really your comment on the 'one set of cotton underwear' that 'got' me. How right you are. Our clothing coupons are so few that it is quite essential to keep the top layers looking fairly presentable, but regarding the underneath I walk about every day with my fingers crossed hoping I don't get knocked down.

"So if you know any ladies who have any undies that they no longer need, and they would like to send them over, I would have no false pride about accepting them and if they don't fit me, there are hosts of people who would be glad of them."

$4,320 in Grants to Various Municipalities and Projects Awarded After Long Argument

Lengthy discussion featured the Hastings County Council Ways and Means Committee's verbal "battle of the grants" at Friday's closing session, but in the long run, the "yeas" won and $4320 was awarded in various amounts.

Largest grants were those of [illegible]0 each to Canadian Legion branches in Bancroft and Madoc with similar sums given to recreational projects in Frankford and Cooper. Belleville Fair, Rawdon Recreational Centre and Mayo Township Roads Committee received $300 each.

Junior Boys' Work was given a grant of $400 while $50 was allocated to projects for Senior Boys.

Not In Favor Of Grants

Discussion was precipitated by Reeve Wilfred Spencer, Rawdon, who told council he was not in favor of the grant business, and at present it was getting out of hand

Reeve Bartley Walsh, Tyendinaga, said it was a cry of "grant, grant, grant" every year. "I think," he said, "every municipality is entitled to a grant for recreational centres. We have young people too, yet we're unable to get a grant."

Grants are all right, said Reeve Harold Wells, Stirling, but each municipality should get one after the other fellow. There is too much of one getting two grants to the other fellow's none.

The grant business was established a year ago and it's out of hand, yet council cannot give grants to one and turn down another, was Reeve Ben Bleecker's opinion.

Should Investigate

"Investigation of grants and what subsidies are obtainable from the government should be learned before grants are handed out," said Reeve Sauer, Deseronto. Municipal committees should make some effort to raise money and when sources are drained request grants.

Reeve Vincent Lynch agreed. He felt the municipalities should raise ten times the amount of the grant requested.

"Too many municipalities are getting grants, spending the money and doing nothing else about it."

Grants should be made to large projects only. Reeve Sauer maintained. "Small projects should be financed entirely by the municipality."

"I will withdraw my request for a grant of $300 if the others will cut their requests by the same amount," declared Reeve W. Spencer.

He had no takers.

Should Pay Percentage

Municipalities benefiting from recreational centres where they are central should pay a percentage of the cost, Deputy Reeve Seldon Homan said.

"We of the larger townships don't mind playing the big brothers but where this council is going to save money is when the four largest townships asked for grants, for they will be turned down," he said.

Grants were authorized by the council as follows: Junior and Senior Farmers, $450; Belleville Fair, $300; local fairs, $100; British Empire Cheese Show, $200; tree-planting prizes for county schools, $25; Canadian Cancer Society, $200; Women's Institutes of North, East and West Hastings, $15 each; Salvation Army, $150; Belleville Film Council, $200; Branch 181 Canadian Legion, Bancroft, $500; Madoc Branch 363 Canadian Legion, $500; Frankford Recreational Centre, $500; Cooper Recreational Arena, $500; Rawdon Recreational Centre, $300; Mayo Township (roads), $300; Dungannon Township (roads), $100.

County Council To Throw Party On Civic Holiday at Tweed To Celebrate Its Centennial

Hastings County Council will throw a great big party on Civic Holiday, August 1st at the Tweed Park in honor of the 100th birthday of county council government in the county—and the whole durn county will be invited, for free.

The party which will take the form of a huge picnic with a thousand and one attractions for young, old and middle-aged, is being held at Tweed in honor of its Reeve, S. A. McCarey, who is the 00th warden of Hastings County.

A strong committee was formed at the closing session of council yesterday afternoon with both north and south well represented. This committee of which Warden McCarey is a member, will work in close conjunction with the Tweed Parks Board and other organizations of the village while other members of county council will put their shoulders to the party wheel whenever necessary.

To Be Gala Affair

"It will be a gala affair. There will be speeches (brief) boat races, a military band, races, prizes given for the oldest warden present, oldest county councillor present and oldest person present. In fact there will be all kinds of entertainment, and the county will go all out to celebrate its century birthday.

Special guest of honor and guest speaker at the birthday testimonial party will be the Ontario Minister of Municipal Affairs Mayor D. L. Storey and council of the City of Belleville will be other special guests, while high ranking civic and political figures from all parts of the district will be present to wish Grand Old Mother Hastings "Many Happy Returns" as she round the century-mark.

One of the outstanding sports features of the party, and guests are urged to be present as the event may not last too long, is a challenge softball game between members of the present County Council.

The Northern Tigers will be captained by Reeve Clarke Rollins, of Wollaston Township and Coe Hill, while the southern "Wildcats" will be mentored by Reeve Sauer, of Deseronto.

Congratulate Warden

Prior to the sessional adjournment late Friday afternoon, Deputy Reeve Harry Coulter, Hungerford, expressed the appreciative feelings of the council as a whole to Warden McCarey.

"We deeply appreciate," he said, "the able and efficient manner in which you have conducted the business of this council during this June session. You have been very prompt in calling all committee meetings, and it is our wish that this, Hastings County Council's Centennial Year will go down in history as one of the best. We are sure you will be the happiest man in the county on August first when the county pays tribute to this anniversary."

Warden McCarey thanked his council for their remarks and added "anything that has been accomplished has been done by your fine co-operation and unselfishness rather than my own humble ability. There has been contentious issues, but everything has been congenial."

Referring to the Centennial Picnic, the warden said. "This is not my picnic, it is yours and Hastings County's. Bring all your friends and let us make this 100th anniversary of this body, a happy one."

Council adjourned to meet in December.

Children Show Severe Emotional Tension, Anxiety

Toronto, June 18 (CP) — A mental health expert said Friday that more than 10 per cent of Ontario school children are showing signs of severe emotional tension and anxiety.

Dr. J. D. Griffin, medical director of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene, told the annual conference of the Ontario Association of Children's Aid Societies that children are bewildered because "life is changing so fast." A survey had been taken in Ontario schools to determine the size of the problem but results have not yet been made public.

"In one Toronto high school, more than half the students showed emotional disturbance." Dr. Griffin said.

"These children are timid, excessively shy, excessively worried about themselves and the way they get along with other people. Or they're over-aggressive, hostile, always getting into trouble because they can't control their hostility.

"Life is changing so fast that a child hasn't a chance to develop a clear idea of it. He doesn't know what kind of person he is, what he wants to be, or what the world expects him to be . ."

Cause is Conflict

Dr. Griffin said the basic cause of the emotional disturbance is conflict between a child's inner urges — need for security, love, protection — and outside pressures of environment.

"A child who can reconcile the things he is taught in Sunday school with the things he is taught in their neighborhood gang is doing a pretty big job."

Emotional difficulties sometimes arise when children are removed from their own homes, Stuart Sutton, director of the Toronto Children's Aid Society told the conference. He said pressure of public opinion occasionally forces Children's Aid Societies to move children from homes and in some cases such action meant the children lost a sense of security and affection."

Dr. Griffin joined Mr. Sutton in a plea to keep children in their own homes.

"We pay too much attention to external forces and not enough to a child's inner drives," said Dr. Griffin.

Finance Chairman Gives Accounting Of Disbursements

Since the first of the year, $9,148.35 was paid to various hospitals for indigent patients' care. Of this amount $4,613.50 was paid to Belleville General Hospital, Finance Committee Chairman Reeve Jas. Sprackett told County Council in his committee report Friday morning.

The cost of Children's Aid Societies since December, 1948 amounts to $9,187.86. The report pointed out that most societies have applied for increased rates and although the law has set a minimum of 75c per day, there is no maximum and it is possible costs will increase.

The committee authorized grants of $600 to the Red Cross Society in February and $300 and $200 to the Salvation Army. A new addition to the Registrar's office has been completed at a cost of $5,045.73 which does not include cost of remodelling the old part, nor that of heating and wiring.

Considerable remodelling work has been done in the Court House. At a recent visit of the jail inspector, he gave a good report on the condition of the jail. He recommended minor items which have been completed.

The report was adopted.

Five Municipal Forests Set up In Quinte District

Increased interest in reforestation, woodlot management and conservation has been noted this year, says a report in the weekly bulletin of Dept. of Lands and Forests. In this connection it will be of interest to learn that five municipal forests are now established in the Quinte district as follows: County of Hastings—Two areas, one near Actinolite and one at Bird's Creek; County of Lennox and Addington — one area near Flinton in Kaladar township; township of Camden two small areas, and the township of Hungerford one area in the Potter Settlement.

The management of these municipal forests is an important part of the zone forester's work at Napanee. Each year planting plans must be prepared well in advance and orders placed for the necessary planting stock. To record plantings, large scale plans of the property showing individual plantation units, usually about 10 acres in size, are prepared. Complete records are kept of the year, species, method of planting, etcetera; for each unit, which ultimately will furnish an excellent means of comparison, different rates of growth and the factors involved.

REFUSES TO SELL LOT

Toronto, June 18 — (CP) —The hermit of nearby Musselman's Lake refuses to sell his cherished 50-acre plot — even when a civic delegation makes special visits to him.

William Linton Friday told members of York County Council and some 80 followers, that he wouldn't sell his property. Council had hoped to use the property for reclamation purposes.

PLANS ON VIEW

Summer Theatre Time Attracts Big Name Stars

By PAT USSHER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, June 18 (CP).—It's a summer theatre time again and usual galaxy of big stage names is taking to the countryside to keep the show world throbbing.

Some 400 vacation-time playhouses scattered across the United States have announced production plans which will mean roles for 50 per cent more actors and actresses than are normally employed during the winter season in the Broadway and road theatres.

Helen Hayes this summer has her own travelling troupe. She is making the rounds in William McCleery's new play, "Good Housekeeping", which is due for Manhattan in the fall. Her daughter, Mary McArthur, also is in the cast. Tallulah Bankhead is taking Noel Coward's "Private Lives" on a two-month summer tour.

Other big names headed for the hayloft houses are Jose Ferrer, Gregory Peck, Kay Francis, Sir Frederick Hardwicke and Maureen O'Hara.

Canadian Tours

Two actors well known to Canadians shortly are undertaking tours in the Dominion. George Formby, the Lancashire comedian, is to make a cross-country tour starting in September — his first visit to Canada. He will stage a variety show of the London music hall type. The itinerary, covering six or seven weeks, includes Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, Kingston, Peterborough, Hamilton, London, Windsor, Port Arthur, Winnipeg, Regina, Brandon, Man., or Moose Jaw, Sask., Saskatoon, Edmonton, Calgary, Penticton, B.C., Vancouver and Victoria. Charles Laughton will tour Eastern Canada cities early in October in a series of dramatic selections from the Bible, Shakespeare, Dickens and other literary sources.

Warm Reception.

The new musical, "Miss Liberty", with music by Irving Berlin, was enthusiastically received by the audience and by most of the critics in its premiere this week in Philadelphia. Allyn McLerie, a native of Grand'Mere, Que., and Mary McCarty are the feminine stars of the show.

AIR-MINDED AT 84

DISCUSS OLD ROAD

St. Thomas, Ont. — (CP) — Designation of one of the oldest pioneer roads in the district as part of the county roads system is being requested by Dunwich Township Council. The road leads through "Little Ireland" past fine old pioneer homes.

THE RIGHT MAN
For A Most IMPORTANT JOB

RICHARD D. "DICK" ARNOTT needs no introduction to the electors of the Riding of South Hastings. A young man, who is known for his outstanding ability, he has established a reputation for "Getting Things Done."

Born and educated in the city of Belleville, his career includes experience as Alderman and Mayor, and he was the able Representative of West Hastings Riding in the Provincial Legislature from 1937 to 1945. He had developed one of the most successful legal practices in this part of Ontario, at the same time, working diligently in many civic activities.

R. D. "DICK" ARNOTT

THE PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVES OF THE RIDING OF SOUTH HASTINGS are prpud to present R. D. "Dick" Arnott as their candidate in this campaign. His proven ability is your guarantee of capable representation at Ottawa. CONSIDER THE ISSUES AND VOTE . . .

R. D. "DICK" ARNOTT
PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE
CANDIDATE IN SOUTH HASTINGS

There is every indication of a change of Government in Canada on June 27th. George Drew gave Ontario the best administration this Province ever had. He will do the same thing for the Dominion. The people are tired of Government by "Order-in-Council." They want the business of the country conducted by Parliament — not by The Bureaucrats.

Parliament was not dissolved for the convenience of the country .... but for the convenience of The Liberal Party.

Nationalized Marketing has cost the farmers millions of dollars . . . and over-taxation has cost the working man many more millions. Now the Government returns a small fraction of it as subsidies and tax refunds . . . JUST IN TIME FOR AN ELECTION . . . DON'T BE "BOUGHT WITH YOUR OWN MONEY."

VOTE — R. D. ARNOTT
PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE

By Oren Arnold

"All right, folks." Mr McMurray boomed after dishes were done. "Time to get moving. I'll take the two grownups. You four kids beter split up, dang it, or you'll talk and laugh too much to get any deer. Scare all the game off the mountain. Polly, [illegible] take young Palmer there,

"Me? Take Ken, daddy?"

"Sure. You been guiding him everywhere for a month anyhow. Been teaching him to ride and shoot and dance and throw a rope—damn if he ain't become practically a rope expert, Dr. Palmer. I watched Sis and him one morning. You ought to be proud of the way he catched on to things. Polly cottoned to him right off and took him under her wing. He—"

Her genial dad talked on, but Polly's mouth had dropped open in surprise. She glanced quickly at Joy——and met Joy's gaze bang on.

"I——I——" Polly tried to speak.

Joy Boone was frowning a trifle angrily. Mr. McMurray had talked too much. And was still going.

"Son, you beter look out for [illegible] let me tell you," he grinned [illegible] young Ken now. "My Polly's likely to set her cap for you seriously and if she does——you're sunk. She gets everything she goes after." He paused to chuckle. Out teaching you to rope — ha. Look out, or she'll rope you in. She——"

"Daddy, For pete's sake." Polly shrieked at him.

The older folks all laughed, and even Polly and Ward had to pretend amusement, knowing at least their dad at least meant well. This was his idea of teasing.

But as Ward McMurray and Joy walked off together with their guns a few minutes later, Ward tried to smooth matters out. He had seen the reaction on Joy's face.

"You don't want to pay attention to dad," Ward assured her. "He just likes to hear himself talk."

Joy was a little severe. "I'm [illegible] I don't know what you mean."

That act didn't get across, though. Ward looked glumly ahead. "Yes you do. You live on the range where I live, Joy, you get to notice everything, every little detail. You get to study people's eyes and all. Now I know things. I see the way you're sold on Ken. Back at home At school. The dance. All the time. You are sold on him...Aren't you?"

She didn't deny it. She just walked beside him, ever so serious.

"What about Polly?" she asked then. "If she— if Ken and she have been together a lot, and—"

"Well, wouldn't it be natural? Sis isn't any mud fence to look at, either! Now I don't mean—"

"But, Ward!" Joy spoke almost vehemently. Ward looked close. And all at once— without any tangible reason— a crumb of renewed hope was born in the young ranch man.

The dainty person beside him was so exquisitely beautiful, so overwhelmingly so that the fierce longing for her surged within him again, and he dared to think he might have a chance!

"I don't know a thing about their business," he avowed. "But I do see things. It happens that Sis was the first girl he met after coming to Phoenix. They banged into each other there on the Administration Building steps one day, they told; a sort of head-on collision. That was the day you brought [illegible] all the excitement in your plane. Well, Sis and Ken naturally got along pretty well.

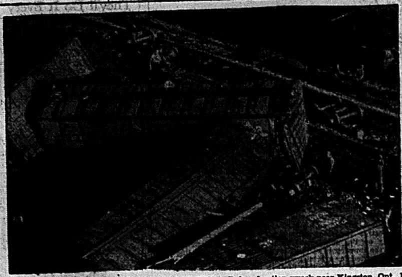
"He was a greenhorn. New to the country. She took him in hand. Began coaching him. Teaching him everything a man needs to know out here. He even hadn't learned to dance, so she taught him. Naturally, he fell—"

"Naturally!" Joy's thinking was ahead of him now.

Ward stopped abruptly. "I've talked too much," he murmured.

But, doggedly, he felt no regret. He was a little hard about it. And he was thinking rapidly now.

He had put in a deliberate piece of propaganda. Truthful propaganda but purposeful even so. In his way— naive as he was so far as women's hearts were concerned— he thought he had sown a seed that might bear fruit for himself, and without being disloyal to a friend either.



CAR STRIKES FREIGHT, CAUSES DERAILMENT—Delayed action wreck near Kingston, Ont., left these loaded freight cars strewn like scattered stacks of straw. Auto ran into fast 65-car Toronto to Montreal freight eight miles from the city without the train crew knowing anything about it. The freight jolted along eight more miles before sections of the wrecked car jammed the wheels, threw 14 cars from the central section in zig-zag heap. No one was injured.—(CPC).

He figured that Joy Boone was as fine a person as his sister. His sister had been willing to sacrifice herself in a crisis, so probably Joy would be willing to do likewise. If Joy could feel that her friend, Polly had some prior claim to Ken—"

"Then the way might be open for me!" Ward told himself. "Maybe Joy just thought she wanted Ken. Maybe I still have a chance!"

He hoped fervently that his wasn't merely wishful thinking. He was baffled now by the odd expression on Joy's face.

That first morning's deer hunt brought no results.

"We saw two bucks and later some does," Mr. McMurray, reported at noon. "But all were out of rifle range. You ought to be tuckered out by now, Miss Carlson. We'll eat and rest. High altitude walking gets anybody's wind."

They didn't phrase it so and perhaps didn't even analyze it to themselves, but Polly and Ken in one unit and Joy with Ward as another hadn't been intent enough on deer hunting. These four young folk had personal matters on their minds. Ward sensed that when all came back empty handed.

"Tell you what," he said at lunch. "You all rest up a bit after eating. I'll just trek down to the Dos S ranch and borrow some saddle horses. It's only four miles."

"I'll go with you", Ken volunteered.

"Nope. You stretch out here. You don't have—"

"I can stand it," Ken assured him.

Ward liked him for that and Polly smiled her approval. As for Joy Boone, she said nothing. Indeed she was abnormally quiet. Polly observed. Polly came to her and tried to talk, but Joy's response was none too cordial. She just gazed at the campfire as if thinking.

"You're more tired than you realize," Polly ruled then. "Take off your shoes and warm your toes good, even if you don't actually take a nap, Joy."

"I'm never tired, thanks. I'm all right."

Ward and Ken were back with horses in about two hours, but the three older people elected to stay in camp and try their hunting again next day.

"The kids'll find something," Mr. McMurray declared. 'You four go on out and get some meat, doggone it. We'll stay here and fix supper for you."

Polly and Joy, Ken and Ward, took rifles then and went off horseback, threading single file through the aspen and maples and fir and pines.

'Keep your eye to windward; across the canyon yonder," Ward instructed them a bit later. "And let's concentrate on seeing."

They hadn't gone a half mile further before Ward himself, in the lead reined in his horse and held up a hand in signal. He dismounted and edged back to the others.

"Get down!" he murmured. "You girls! We're screened here but from right yonder you can see a swell buck. You're the company, Joy; you crack down first. Sis can have the next one."

Trembling a bit in excitement, Joy walked forward with Ward, grasping her rifle. Polly and Ken tip-toed behind them. All peered at once. Through an opening in the trees about 290 yards away stood a buck so large that Ward himself gasped, "Whew!" in hunter's admiration.

"Careful aim!" he whispjered to Joy.

She lifted her gun, held her breath.

Crack!

The gun thumped her shoulder, hard.

Across canyon the deer leaped.

"Shoot again! Quick!" Ward urged.

She emptied her repeating rifle then, firing as fast as she could aim at the fleeing game. But still the buck raced on, bounding and snorting unharmed. It was tearing along a steep slope, trying to climb but blocked by a rock wall for a ways, moving at an angle away from them.

"Take him, Sis! Before he's gone!" cried Ward.

The buck was not visible, though, for another few seconds. They could hear his crashing through low brush. Polly said nothing. She lifted her rifle, trained it on a point considerable distance ahead of the buck's probable path. Then when there was a momentary flash of tan through the leaves again, she pressed her trigger.

Pollly shot just once.

The four youths, transfixed there, saw the buck leap upward, somersault and fall in a heap. No more noise of plunging, no more commotion in the brush. Ward hurried back to the horses.

"That's a good 350 or 400 yards, Sis!" He complimented her, proudly.

They rode over there to find it a 12-point buck in excellent condition. Polly's shot had been a clean one right through the neck sco as to crack the spinal column. Instant, painless death.

"Surprise, Chum, You Lose" Says Dazed Ref. After Carlson Gives Him, Atkins, Heave-Ho

By GEO. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Blonde Tug Carlson, from the lone - star state half - blinded after his eyeballs were rolled around at least eight complete times after treatment from the bandaged elbow of the British Empire champ Fred Atkins in Memorial Arena last night ran near - berserk in the third fall and not only heaved Referee Ernie Powers and Atkins out of the ring, but turned a crowd of shrieking fans into a ringside mob of near-maddened fanatics.

The crowning point of the bedlamish finale came when Tug was hurled back into the ring by Atkins and his foot caught in the ropes. Atkins promptly flattened him while the referee was lying outside the ring looking for his noggin. Powers staggered back in the ring and promptly awarded the fall and match to Atkins. The crowd went wild.

Actually Powers awarded the fall to the champion because of the sudden Carlson attack upon his rotund body which ended in his crashing through the ropes to the floor outside.

There was not a dull moment all night. Crowds of irate fans thronged around Atkins when he left the ring and pelted him with everything but the box office, Pat Flanagan's trunks, the Post Office and their wedding gifts. Don't be surprised to see the pair matched again next week.

Atkins the Bad Man

Atkins earned the ire of the crowd practically from the start. Formerly he was one of those goody type of rasslers who lift their eyes in shock if they as much as move a hair on the foe's cranium.

But Fredrick, by gum, has changed. He's developed into the arch-villain type of pachyderm who stops at nothing, and uses everything inside and outside the wrestling calendar. He toted a bandaged elbow, legitimately enough, but he used the heavy flannel bandage to great advantage on occasions when he tried it out as a bow on the Carlsonian optics.

He pulled hair, finger-waved the Tugs' ears; tried to make a two-way stretch garment out of Carlson's trunks. He kicked, gouged and snarled in Australianese. He won the first fall after he held an armlock on Carlson's left flipper that had the Texan picking his right ear with his left arm via the backway route.

Carlson objected to the elbow garment in the second fall but the referee ruled it was legitimate, so the Tug promptly used it as a target. Making Atkins look like a juiced-up pretzel, he tore off the bandage and played "Way Down in Texas" with his knuckles until Atkins gurgled "Waltzing Matilda" in Indo-Chinese.

'Chase Me, Charlie'

Then by way of diversion the boys played "Ring Around Rosy" heaving each other out of the ring and applying gentle taps from size 20 tootsies to any part of the foeman's anatomy that was vulnerable.

Atkins by the simple expedient of pulling his right forearm across the Tug's eyes had him so cross-eyed he had to cross his arms to see straight. Then La Tug's Texan blood stirred. Yelling "Remember the Alamo" he leaped into action. He slung the Aussie across the ring and back again. He flung him hither and thither. Finally he slung him against the ropes as Frederick bounced off Carlson, came up with a beautiful two-hoofed kick that caught Atkins just south of the molars, and "e'd 'ad it."

Came the third with the crowd yelling for a Carlson victory. The boys jockeyed for position with Powers being the pole horse. Action flashed and Carlson took over hurling first Powers through the ropes and then Atkins. That started the fireworks.

Pat Flanagan after absorbing terrific punishment from the stiff-necked pear-shaped Cardiff Giant in a bout that was full of thrills was awarded the fall after the "gi'nt" did him dirt.

Al Lovelock and Bulldog Drummond staged a thriller in the preliminary. The "Bull" used everything but the public library, and the Horse Guards in an attempt to subdue the agile Al. He strutted and pranced and used the usual tactics attributed to the villain of the piece. Unfortunately for the Bulldog he failed to remove his person from the path of the flying feet of Lovelock when they came up in a beautiful drop-kick and it was bye-bye for the "bull". All-in-all it was one of the best cards seen here in some time.

Guy Ambassador Trotter to Beat In Hambletonian

By CRAIG ARMSTRONG
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, June 18 (CP).—Guy Ambassador is the horse to beat in the Hambletonian Stakes, trotting classic for three year olds.

The bay colt, from the O. L. Mears Stable, Toledo, O., was third choice in the winter book. This season's Grand Circuit performances, however, have horsemen calling him "the most impressive candidate" to see action this year.

The colt's sire, the Ambassador, took the 1942 running in three heats. If Guy Ambassador wins this year's race, Aug. 10 at Goshen, N.Y., it will be the first time the son of a previous winner has captured the premier trotting event of the year.

Two other major contenders for the $67,000 purse, second-richest Hambletonian in its 24-year history, are Bangaway and Miss Tilly, winter-book co-favorites.

Miss Tilly, owned by C. W. Phellis of Greenwich, Conn., already is at Goshen. Bangaway, a Saunders Mills entry and Guy Ambassador are expected soon to work out on good time's one-mile triangular course.

Although Miss Tilly hasn't started yet this year, the filly ran up an impressive record last year earning a record $49,876 for two year olds. She will first show her 1949 form in the Coaching Club Trotting Oaks at Goshen, July 4.

Bangaway, second in juvenile earnings last year with $20.305, raced in the recent Matron Stakes at Fairmont Park, which Guy Ambassador won in four heats.

All three meet, with several other Hambletonian eligibles, in the $10,000 Dickerson Cup at Goshen's historic track, July 8.

Last year's Hambletonian was won by Harrison Hoyt's Demon Hanover in 2:02, the first time an amateur ever had top honors. The Bethel, Conn., Hatter is entered again this year with his Elaine Stirling still among the 74 eligibles.

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Cardiff Giant, Falstaffian graduate of the College of Applied Pachydermy, was a very surprised bewhiskered young man during his joust with elusive Patrick the Flanagan, darling of the gods, the faithful everywhere and when he was younger with his cranium less exposed to the exigencies of the weather, the gals, bless 'em, in Memorial Arena last evening.

The pear-shaped exponent of the bash-bang and bunkem art was doing right merrily, toying it seemed, with the slimmer, more agile son of the Flanagan clan. At one time when the Hon. Patrick essayed a battering-ram charge across the ring, the Giant stood firm, folded his arms and allowed La Flanagan bounce off his Gibraltar-like torso.

Tiring of this seeming boy's-play, the Giant let down his guard. Flanagan sensed one of his few opportunities, wound up both legs, flipped on his back and came up with a daring but effective twofooted drop-kick that caught the Giant squarely on the upholstered chin. The curly spinach that adorns the lower part of the Giant's handsome (no fooling) physiog, parted for a brief moment. He exuded a lusty gust of air that drew a thin line through the blue of the smoke above, emitted a gentle noise that sounded like the snore of a tired elephant, rolled his ponderous form over and to its feet, and glared malevolently at the foeman.

"This," he filtered through the quivering shrubbery on upper and lower lip, "as we say in Wales, 'ain't cricket, bub'."

So "'e tooks t'Flanagan's 'ead underneath 'is ahm" strolls friendly-like to the ropes, inhales deeply, and coughs. The rebound of the equatorial part of the Giant anatomy tossed the Flanagan over the ropes. It was a "flangover." Pat, coming from a good diving family, decided to hit the sawdust — pardon floor — with his unshingled noggin. It was half successful.

Just as he spread his arms to meet the floor, his foot became entangled in the ropes. There he hung like a Christmas turkey outside a London butcher shop. A white streak flashed for a moment in the dark shrubbery of the Giant's face. He actually smiled, but it wasn't a pretty smile. He lowered his ponderous form through the ropes, stood over Flanagan for a moment, gloated like a rookie cop making his first capture, and proceeded to massage the helpless Flanagan with fist and knee.

The crowd rose in righteous anger. It howled its derision of this Brobignagian Behemoth in his treatment of the helpless scion of the Flanagan clan. Referee Cliff Fox argued, cajoled, and argued again. But the knee of the Giant swung monotonously with sickening thuds into the stomach of the upside down Irisher. With every Giant grunt came a Flanagan groan and the Faithful's moan. It might have gone on forever until the Giant wore out a knee cap or the Flanagan stomach closed partnership with his backbone.

Then help came from an unexpected source. Like the arrival of the United States cavalry when the little garrison was being slowly massacred by the Injuns, in the old silent pictures, came the relief. Down from the top row seats galloped a bold David to do battle with the bewhiskered Goliath. He was a slim youngster, but he raced clear-eyed, down the tiers of seats like Man-o-War over an asphalt track. He did not hesitate. He did not wait for the bugles to sound the "charge." He swept into sudden and decisive action.

The roar of the faithful dimmed suddenly. Then it swelled into a hoarse crescendo as the one-man army struck suddenly, swiftly. He raced up behind the unsuspecting Giant who was placidly picking his teeth and placing his number 19 tootsies into the helpless umbilicus of the strung-up Flanagan.

"Wham" and our hero's fist smote right lustily the exposed part of the Giant's neck. Without halting his stride, he turned and galloped back to his stall. He cleared the first two tiers of seats without knocking wood and regained his seat, while a surprised Giant, his face twisted in a malevolent grimace, tried to pick out his assailant. Meanwhile Referee Fox had freed the Flanagan from his reverse status and by the time the Giant had recovered from the shock a limping Patrick was awaiting the next assault. It wasn't long in coming. Furious, the Giant swarmed over the Flanagan but he overdid it and was forced to accept defeat when the fall was awarded to the amiable Pat.

Better Golf

By Sam Snead

As the clubhead swings into the ball, as you see pictured here, your hips and shoulders should be virtually parallel with the desired position at impact and at the address. That is the left shoulder will be starting to rise up as pictured and the left hip will have a slight upthrust. This puts the weight forward so you can hit against it at impact and the rising left shoulder and arm to pass under the chin, carrying the clubhead through and after the ball on a smooth, efficient follow-through. I have pointed out before that the follow-through in and of itself, doesn't affect, the flight of the ball. But the follow-through does show that the correct body, arm and hand action up to impact has been correct. And the purpose in emphasizing the importance of the follow-through is to make certain that what you do before impact is correct all the way up to and through the contact. That's the reason golf instructors always emphasize the importance of the follow-through. It's a means of insuring that you swing properly down to, and through, impact. — (Copyright 1949, John F. Dille Co.)

New York, June 18. (AP)—When Patty Berg won the Women's Western Open Golf title last year, she presented her $500 winning cheque to the Association for the promotion of golf among the younger girls. That's one reason why the women's western junior championship will be held this year for the first time since 1941. . . .The United States Golf Association replies only "no comment" to queries about Bud Wards amateur status. Story is that its under investigation because of a report thta he has applied for a professional job . . . Tickets for the Notre Dame-Michigan State Football game Nov. 5 were sold out eight days after they were put on asle June 1 . . . Now that Jake Lamotta has won the middleweight title, how about a little scrap wih Rocky Graziano—with Lee Oma as referee?

Misplaced Sympathy

Ernie Lanigan, the baseball historian, tells one about the time the old Pennsylvania League broke and the players couldn't collect their pay . . . One team finally found a sympathizer in a local bartender, who couldn't feed them or pay carfare home but did invite all the players to have on beer on the house. . The Athletes gladly accepted—that is all but one who plaintively asked: "If you don't mind, could I have five two-cent stamps instead?" . . . Ernie has it figured out this was the only smart one of the bunch. With the stamps and hotel stationery, he could apply for five jobs.

Sportsmention

Harry Heilman, the broadcaster, tells Detroit fans to keep their eyes on Johnny Groth in August and September. By that time, says Harry, he will have seen all the American League pitching and will know how to hit it.

Fightin' Phillies Continue To Move up League Ladder, Gain Respect of Other Teams

(By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

It's about time somebody started paying attention to those "fightin' Phillies" from Philadelphia.

And while they're at it, they could also give the double-o to the Phils' young bonus pitcher, 22-year-old Robin Roberts.

A chronic second-division club since 1932, the Phils weren't given a tumble in pre-season polls.

Well, here it is in the middle of June, and genial Eddie Sawyer's scrappy bunch are in the thick of the pennant fight—a mere two games from the top. They've won 15 of their last 19 games.

The Phils achieved their most noteworthy feat of the year Friday night, cooling off a hot St. Louis Cardinal team in their own back yard with an 8-0 shutout.

New Six Straight

The victory extended Philadelphia's winning streak to six straight games and moved them into a virtual tie with the Red Birds for second place.

The victory was Roberts' eighth of the year to tie him with Brooklyn's Ralph Branca for the league leadership. He has lost only three.

He held the Red Birds to five hits while the Phils collected 16 against three Card pitchers.

The Dodgers snapped a two-game losing slump, winning a 2-1 decision over the Chicago Cubs. Don Newcombe outpitched young Warren Hacker with a six-hitter for his fourth victory against no defeats. Gil Hodges' single which scored Duke Snider from second broke up a 1-1 tie in the ninth. The defeat was the cellar-dwelling Cubs' sixth in a row.

Braves Down to Fourth

Cincinnati dumped the Boston Braves into fourth place, knocking off Billy Southworth's crew 7-2. Howie Fox, aided by Walker Cooper's first-inning home run with two aboard, won his fourth game. Johnny Sain was the loser again, his seventh defeat. He has won only four.

Shelling Clint Hartung from the hill with a four-run barrage in the first inning, Pittsburgh Pirates went on to defeat the New York Giants 6-4 in a night game in Pittsburgh. Big Ernie Bonham spaced seven hits for his second victory.

The uprising Cleveland Indians whipped the New York Yankees 10-4 to extend their winning streak to six games. The Indians now are only 5 1-2 games from the top. Ken Keltner, emerging from a protracted slump, hammered two homers and a single. Larry Doby and pitcher Bob Lemon also homered. Lemon gained credit for his sixth victory against one defeat.

Boston Wins Two

Boston Red Sox won both ends of an afternoon-night doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox, 4-3 and 10-8. Joe Dobson survived a three-run first inning to win his fifth game in the opener. The Red Sox won in the ninth when Vern Stephens singled to score Johnny Pesky with the winning run.

Boston pounded out 15 hits in the nightcap. Stephens smashed his 16th home run, and Williams his 115th.

Philadelphia Athletics moved to within a half-game of the second-place Detroit Tigers, defeating the St. Louis Browns, 6-5. Joe Coleman weathered two bad innings to go the route and registered his sixth victory.

The scheduled night game between Detroit and the Senators in Washington was postponed due to rain.

Fly-Rod Lines and Line Tapers

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT

(Noted Sportsman author and creator of Solunar Tables)

For the past ten years or so, the fly rod has been gaining in popularity among the bass fishermen. More and more the bass plug is giving way to the streamer fly and the popping bug.

Very recently--since the sum&mer of 1947, to be exact--the fly rod fans have found "green fields and pastures new" for their activities in the in-shore shallows around salt water. Down among the Florida Keys, along the Gulf Coast, and up and down the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards the fly fishermen are finding rare sport.

The sand flats, inlets, bays and passes, where a great many game fish live and feed, much to offer to the devotee of the fly rod. Let's take a closer look at the tackle that these men use.

Two schools of thought

For a while there were two radically different schools of thought among the fly fishermen--the light-tackle school and the "big-rod" school. The former group maintained that it was not necessary to burden one's self with oversize gear and that small rods--eight and one half feet or even eight feet--would do all that was necessary when it came to handling a bass bug or a streamer fly.

The "big-rod" men took the opposite view. They claim, and rightly, that it is the casting job that determines the rod, not the size of the fish to be caught. After all, you can land a ten-pound fish on a two-ounce rod but you certainly can't cast a bass bug or a big streamer fly with that same rod.

Gradually the light-tackle advocates are going over to the other side and buying rods that are big enough to turn out adequate casting jobs on bass waters and the bonefish flats.

Change taking place

At first the big-rod men wanted their rods stiff and with fast action to supply maximum power. Here again a change is taking place. Stiff, powerful rods place a tremendous strain on the casting hand. By using rods that have slower action, well distributed throughout the rod, casting hands will grow less weary and fishing becomes more pleasant.

For bass bug and big streamer fly, I am definitely a charter member of the big-rod school. The way we see it, the ideal rod for this type of casting is one that measures nine and a half or ten feet and weighs around seven ounces or, perhaps, slightly less.

For some reason, not satisfactorily explained by the tackle companies, these big rods with slow actions are not very easy to find in the tackle shops. Take my advice and go slow when you lay out good money for a "bass-action" rod. Most of them are arm-wreckers. Take your time and find one that has "slow power"--an "automatic caster." Then your days of fly fishing will be happy ones.

Choice of lines

For these rods, the nylon three-diameter lines are what you want. After all, either the bass bug or the streamer fly calls for long casts. You may just as well have a line that is designed to give extra distance with less effort.

For orthodox dry-fly fishing or, for that matter, any sort of trout fishing, the regular double-taper is tops, but these lines serve merely to place extra and unnecessary line load on your rod when you make long casts.

The nylon three-diameter lines are tapered to handle reasonably heavy lures at greater distances than is practical with other types. At the forward end of the line is a short strip of level line, this to take care of the inevitable wear incidental to fastening on leaders.

Then comes a rather short taper between the fine end and the heavy forward section or "belly," which provides casting weight. The taper is made short purposely so that your cast will have a quick "turn over," enabling you to lay out leader and lure with little effort.

What to buy

Don't buy a line with a "belly" that is shorter than fifteen feet. Twenty feet is better. The short ten-foot heavy sections of the "torpedo heads" require the absolute tops in timing and are not pleasant lines to use.

Behind the "belly," between it and the "running line" or "shooting line," comes the longer rear taper or "counter-balance." The purpose of this taper is to make casting easy, at the time reducing line load on your rod.

The "running line" or "shooting line," usually one size larger than the forward tip of the line, is large enough to handle without tangling and small enough to slide through the guides with minimum friction, thus permitting longer shoots.

Added to these advantages is the fact that nylon lines of this type have low specific gravities and they float well. This is of vital importance to the bass-bug

As I say, good "big rod tackle" is not easy to come by but it can be had if you insist that your dealer provide you with what you want, not what he happens to have on hand.

Don't forget S.T.

And while you are getting your tackle together, don't forget to install a clip in your tackle box to hold your solunar tables for you. Then take the weekly schedules from your newspaper and place them in this clip, where you will have them when you want them.

The solunar tables are very important as any other item of equipment. Use them each day you go out. Before long we're betting that you will agree with us that it pays to keep track of the daily Solunar Periods.

Sam Jethroe, fleet Negro outfielder with Montreal Royals, is making International League fans forget Jackie Robinson.

The 29-year-old fly-chaser is burning up the basepaths and hitting hard and often in the Montreal bid to make it two pennants in a row.

Jethroe, in his second season of organized ball, enjoyed a field day Friday night as Montreal won a wild-and-woolly decision over the Newark Bears, 12-11.

He pounded out five hits in as many trips to the plate, drove in four runs, scored three and stole his 32nd base of the season. Two of his blows were home runs to boost his output in that department to six.

Righthander Clyde King started for the Royals and entered the eighth inning with a 12-0 lead. The Bears clipped him for three markers in the eighth, on Lou Novikoff's 10th homer and drove him to oover with an eight - run spree in the ninth.

The triumph enabled the Royals to take over third place from Jersey City Giants by three percentage points. The Giants dropped a 11-7 game to the fifth - place Rochester Red Wings.

Rochester ripped three Giant pitchers for 16 hits and clinched the game in the fourth with a seven - run rally against starter George Bamberger who was seeking his eighth straigh triumph.

The second - place Toronto Maple Leafs, led by Al Roberge, turned back Syracuse Chiefs 11-5. Roberge pounded out four of Toronto's 19 hits including a homer and double and drove home four runs.

Veteran Nick Strincevich started for the Leafs but left in the fifth, leading 6-5, in favor of Bill Smith.

Toronto trails the first - place Buffalo Bisons by 1½ games. The Bisons' scheduled games with the Orioles in Baltimore was postponed becaust of rain.

Cary Middlecoff Has Two-Stroke Lead at Detroit

TAKE 1—CARY MIDDLECOFF
(By The Canadian Press)

Dr. Cary Middlecoff proved himself a pretty good mudder as he moved into a two-stroke lead Friday at the halfway mark of the motor city open golf tournament at Detroit.

The Methodical Memphis dentist unruffled by a steady rain that fell through most of his round, bagged five one-under-pars and 12 pars as he sho a 67— our under par.

It gave him a 13 3total and a two-stroke lead over Bob Hamilton of Landover, Md., and Henry Ransom of St. Andrew's Ill., who tied for second place at 135.

Mrs. Cecil Gooderham of Toronto won her fifth Ontario Ladies' Golf Championship, Friday, over the Brantford Golf and Country Club Course, defeating her sister, Mrs. J. A. McDougald, also of Toronto, 3 and 2 in the 18-hole final. Mrs. Gooderham won her first title in 1928 and repeated in 1930, 1938 and 1948.

Mrs. McDougald won the title in 1929 when the tournament was last held here. Friday was the third time the two sisters have met for the title.

North Sydney Victorias of the Cape Breton Senior Hockey League Friday named Lex Cook of Weyburn, Sask, as coach for the 1949-50 season. Cook was playing coach of Kirkland Lake Blue Devils when they won the Allan Cup in 1940. Later he coached Quebec Aces of the Quebec Senior Hockey League.

The Bombay government Friday announced its decision to ban horse racing throughout the province would take effect in April 1953. The government will shortly prohibit publication and circulation of racing literature except on racetracks.

A Chicago, Eddie Waitkus, Philadelphia Nationals star first baseman, Friday underwent a minor operation to draw blood from a lung pierced when he was shot by a bobby-sox fan. Later the hospital said he was "breathing easier" and showing "marked improvement." Doctors explained that the bullet, fired by Ruth Ann Steinhagen, 19-year-old typist who idolized Waitkus from afar, had lacerated the right lung and caused internal bleeding.

Gay One, a four-year-old mare, set a track record for the mile pace at Buffalo Raceway Friday night, but failed to win the race. Gay One, owned by C. E. Burkepyle of Mt. Vernon, O., and driven by Bob Plaxico, paced the distance in 2:04 2/5. The previous record was 2:04 4/5. The judges ruled interference and put Gay One in fourth place in the $1,000 open pace, but the record stands. The winner was Royal Chief.

Walcott in Peak Condition for Bout With Charles

Kankakee, Ill., June 18 (AP)—At an age when most fellows get winded just running for a street car, Jersey Joe Walcott has run 300 miles.

This road work, plus 131 rounds against sparring mates, has left him as solid as a bull and as eager as one preparing to toss a matador.

Jersey Joe, age 35-40, is a trim 196 pounds and confident he will chill 27-year-old Ezzard Charles and win the world heavyweight boxing championship — National Boxing Association version.

They tangle in Comiskey Park Wednesday night. Advance sales thus far are reliably reported under $100,000. This is a far cry from the gate of $715,478 paid by 45,500 fans at the same site 12 years ago to watch Joe Louis capture the crown from James J. Braddock.

Louis, who at 35 has retired and vacated his heavyweight throne, finds a guy just as old — and probably older — in there battling to gain it.

That's the unique angle about Walcott, twice beaten by Louis and now getting a third crack at a world's title at an age when most of us are packing up.

Walcott is a Negro with huge biceps and a chest as big as the trunk of an oak tree. He was educated in the school of hard knocks, and has been hardened by them. During 19 years of fighting, he has made six or seven comebacks trying to keep his family of six children.

Between comebacks he was a garbage collector, cement mixer, ice truck driver, hod carrier and worked in a defence plant. When times got too tough even to find any type of work, Jersey Joe went on relief.

In the last three years under the piloting of astute Felix Cocchiochio, Walcott has found a new grip on life. He has $50,000 in the bank, a 10-room house and a well-fed family.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By TREVOR ICETON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, June 18 — (CP) — When Sudbury Wolves, Canada's representatives at the World Hockey Tournament at Stockholm last year, wound up second behind the Czechoslovakian team, one of the main reasons given for the defeat was the European system of refereeing.

Apparently this was a legitimate beef, because Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick, quoting J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne, head of the British Ice Hockey Association, writes:

"Canadian teams going to Europe must be 20-per-cent better than their opposition to win in the world's championships because of the refereeing . . . this is true, not because of any unfairness on the part of the referees. It is simply that since the C. A. H. A. code was adopted in Europe for the championships, the referees insist on giving out penalties called for in the book. In view of the elasticity in the Canadian interpretation nowadays, a team not accustomed to having penalties called in that fashion is bound to suffer."

Late in the game Kissell reached second on a long hit. Miller gives the details:

"Because he was in position with a run that could have meant the game, Kissell was reluctant to ask for a runner. He remained on. However, manager Kobesky walked from his dugout and waved in another man for Kissell, of his own volition, an act of sportsmanship that earned him the applause of the crowd and the respect of the Hamilton players."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Every bridge player with an expert complex wants to get into the ace. So, he invents a lot of screwy ideas, ties then into a bundle with well chosen words, and calls it a system.

Came a player who wrote a piece in the Bridge World. He devised, he said, a convention to the effect that a skip bid, opposite a suit bid, on the first round of bidding is not forcing.

He uses it for a trickless hand with a long suit of six or more, and with no support for partner's suit. Over partner's one spade opening his bid is three diamonds with this hand:

♠ None
♦ 10 8 7 6 5 4 3 2
♣ 8 7 3

Nobody has yet learned all there is to know about bridge.

The fact that it is new or different does not brand an idea as wrong. So improvements in bridge are bound to come.

But this is not what could be called an improvement by any of the standards we know up to now. It is just the opposite. It is like going backwards instead of forward in development.

His invention is simply divorcing the best signal from its most useful purpose. And for what? To satisfy an occasional urge. It adds one more impediment to standardization.

Customary use of an immediate one-jump takeout is to signal game help. The vast majority of hands are best served by it in this capacity. There are other signals for use with trickless long suit hands.

In answer to one spade, this hand should pass. It can back in with a diamond bid on the second round, if any. A pass followed by a back-in is signal for showing a long suit trickless hand.

This makes it unnecessary to relegate the jump takeout to some futile duty. Its efficiency remains intact. It does not kill the goose that lays the most golden eggs.

NEXT AT THE BELLE — Philip Friend is starred with lovely Phyllis Calvert and Melvyn Douglas in Paramount's daring drama, "My Own True Love," which features Wanda Hendrix, next attraction at the Belle Theatre. The companion feature is Warner Bros. "Homicide."

"Give me a Cedar gameroom"
"Save your gleaming whites and baby blues for upstairs," says the man of the house, "but for a real, down-to-earth gameroom give me the rich, mellow tones of cedar panelling."
Yes, among the world's distinguished woods, none equals cedar for gameroom walls. The soft tones and warm colors of this native Canadian wood match every mood, from the gay laughter of company to the restful quiet of an evening at home.

Scout and Guide Activities

The Cub leaders have held several meetings to prepare for the Cub Camp which is to be held at the W.C.T.U. Camp on Lake Consecon July 23-31st. Cub parents will be receiving, in the next few days, a letter giving all the information regarding the camp. They are asked to return the enclosed forms as soon as possible so that the final plans can be completed.

All Scouts are requested to complete the camp registration and health forms and return at once. They will be receiving a letter from Scoutmaster Eric Smith the Camp Chief which must be filled in and returned immediately if they wish to go to camp.

1ST. BELLEVILLE (St. Thomas')

The group committee held their regular monthly meeting in St. Thomas' Parish House Tuesday evening. Plans were discussed for the purchase of certain Cub instructional and games equipment. It was announced that the Men's Club would assist the group in any way possible and that the group have been granted permission by the wardens to use one of the smaller rooms in the Parish Hall as a leaders' meeting room. It is planned that the room will be decorated with Scout and Cub handicrafts and momentos.

Gilbert Mastine was invested into the Cubs by Akela Pat Nicholls. Cubs Harley Farnsworth, Bob Waite and Michael deLeeuw passed their knotting and David Ewald his flag . Cubs Harley Farnsworth and Bob Waite were presented with their First Stars.

2ND BELLEVILLE

The troop has been busy passing tests prior to camp. George Fairhead and Robert Owen were presented with their Second Class badges by Scoutmaster Eric Smith.

8TH BELLEVILLE

The Cub Pack held an Indian Night with an archery competition under the direction of Mr. Richardson and Mr. Symons.

Cub Richard Post gained the highest score and Cub Bruce Elmy was second.

THE QUESTION BOX

If you wish to have any question concerning Scouting or Cubbing answered kindly send the question along with your name and address to R. K. Smith 31 Hillside St. or to Mrs. Margaret Kemp 329½ Front St. or give it to anyone connected with Scouting and it will be answered in "The Question Box."

Q.—What age must a boy be to enter Cubs or Scouts?

A.—The age limit for Cubs is eight years. The boy will carry on in Cubs until he has reached the age of twelve, when he will be accepted into Scouts and will carry on his training in the Troop until he reaches the age of eighteen. Then he either becomes an assistant leader or joins the Rover Crew.

Q.—How much does it cost to join Cubs and Scouts?

A—The annual registration fee for Cubs is 25c and for Scouts and Rovers 50c. Each group generally sets a small amount for weekly dues for the purchase of badges and equipment. The dues for Cubs and Scouts is 5c while the Rover dues are sometimes more.

Q.—What is meant by investiture and when can a boy be invested into either Cubs or Scouts?

A—An investiture is a ceremony under the direction of the leader in which the assistant leaders and juniors take part. The boy is presented with his button-hole badge, Tenderfoot or Tenderpad badge, hat, and group neckerchief. He is required on his honor to live up to the Cub or Scout promise and law. Before a boy can be invested he must pass certain tests and in the leaders' judgment be an asset to Scouting. Until he has been invested he is not considered a member of the Boy Scout organization and is not allowed to wear any part of the official uniform.

4TH BELLEVILLE BROWNIES

The Brownies of the 4th Belleville Pack held their closing meeting last Thursday in the auditorium of King George School with their mothers present as guests. After the Fairy Ring, two Tweenies, Sandra Outingdyke and Linda Brown, were enrolled as Brownies. Then fourteen Brownies received service stars for attendance; for one year: Brenda Briscoe, Barbara Thrasher, Joy Butler, Louise Fisher, Sheila Stanton, Judith Daniel and Marjorie Bronson; for two years: Betty Easton, Marilyn Milligan, Marilyn Onderdonk; for three years: Beverly Brown, Betty Jane McLuskie, Faye Wagar, Frances Wagar. Brown Owl, Tawny Owl, and Mrs. C. A. Brown, president of King George Home and School Association for next year and former Brown Owl of the Pack presented the stars. Brown Owl Samuels of the 2nd Belleville Pack presented four proficiency badges to Beverly Brown, House Orderly, Minstrel, Booklover and Writer.

Mrs. M. E. Branscombe, Grey Owl to all Belleville Brownies, gave Golden Bar badges to Louise Fisher, Sheila Stanton, Judith Daniel Marjory Bronson, Barbara Smith, Wendy Water, Sylvia Wodzak, Faye Wagar and Frances Wagar, and Golden Hands to Joy Butler, Betty Easton, Barbara Thrasher, Marilyn Onderdonk, Betty Jane McLuskie and Brenda Briscoe. Grey Owl read the tests and for each test the Brownies had passed they took one step towards Grey Owl until the last step brought them to the Golden Land stretched in front of her and there they stood while she pinned on their badges they had earned.

Mr. E. Fairman, principal of King George School and Mr. M. Hackett, both spoke in appreciation of the Brownie organization and said how pleased they are to have a pack in connection with the school.

Brown Owl told the Golden Hand story, the Pack gave the Grand Howl in honor of the visitors and the meeting closed with Taps.

COMPANY 2 GIRL GUIDES

Company 2, Girl Guides, celebrated the King's birthday, June 6th by having a bicycle hike. Leaving the Armouries at eleven o'clock we bicycled out the Corbyville highway through Corbyville stopping along the river for our picnic.

On the way out one of the Guides remembered her sixth Guide Law, "A Guide is a friend to animals," by rescuing a bird with a broken leg.

Just beyond Corbyville we stopped and part of the Company went in for a swim which was much enjoyed, it being the first of the season for some.

After the swim we hiked another mile before we ate our dinner. Fires were built and dinners cooked and much enjoyed especially by the swimmers.

After dinner, the badges which had not arrived in time for the presentation at the banquet were presented to the girls. The remains of the dinner were then cleaned up and the fires extinguished. We then decided, as it looked like rain, we should start for home. It was a short hike, but it was fun.

Girl Guides joint picnic for Company Two and Company Seven on June 24. Meet at the Armouries at five o'clock with lunch for herself and twenty-five cents for bus fare. All girls in full uniform.

COMPANY 7, GIRL GUIDES

On Saturday afternoon June 11 barely giving the officers time to pack their kit, the Patrol Leaders and Seconds collected at the Captain's home all ready to go out to the Guiders' cottage for the weekend. Some of the girls went in a car, but a few, more ambitious, used their bicycles. Of course, on arrival, the first activity was a swim. In the evening the girls had a campfire on the shore, for no Guide gathering is complete without a campfire. The rest of the holiday was spent in swimming, boating and as the girls said, just plain loafing. Also in acquiring a sun tan, which seems to be the inevitable result of spending a weekend in the country, as you want to spend as much time as possible out-of-doors. Everyone seemed to enjoy themselves, and felt sorry the time was so short.

The company meeting on June 15 was very small as the majority of the girls were attending a Sunday School picnic, but there will be a meeting on June 22nd and a picnic on June 24th which will wind up the activities for this season.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

DEPENDENT ON OTHERS

Just as there are certain people unable to do things themselves, so there are certain birds dependent on others. Cowbirds could not exist at all were it not for the many species of birds which act as nursemaids for all their babies, and many kinds would never have comfortable homes if they were obliged to do their own construction work. Purple Martins, English Sparrows, Starlings and Pigeons let the eaves of our buildings give protection; Chimney Swifts make our chimneys serve as dormitories; Bluebirds and Wrens like the boxes we prepare especially for them; Phoebes fancy the supports of our bridges and foundations for their nests.

But man is by no means alone in supplying birds with accommodation for bringing up their children. There are various assistants (though quite unware that theyare being useful), including some of their own race, the Woodpeckers, which are actually the most important, because of their efficiency as carpenters. When these carpenters have no more need of holes that they have chiselled out of tree trrunks there is generally a waiting list. Birds not possessing suitable tools for making wooden dwellings are only too glad to occupy any discarded quarters.

Owls frequently move in, especially the Pigmy, the Elf, and the Screech Owls. Saw-whet Owls choose between these and old homes of squirrels; the American Hawk Owls also like Woodpeckers' cavities but may use abandoned nests found in branches of large trees. Long-eared Owls occasionally take up residence in homes formely belonging to squirrels, and any trees simply hollowed out by time will suit the taste of Barred Owls; nevertheless both these kinds also raise families in nest left empty by Crows or Hawks, preferring those of the Red-shouldered.

The requirements of Burrowing Owls are absoluteley different These nocturnal birds hunt for underground dwellings that have been vacated: fox dens, badger burrows, or prairie-dog holes; however, if the soil is sufficiently soft they may actually dig their own homes.

It sems strange that Great Horned Owls, so much feared by smaller feathered folk, should often rely on others rather than do all their own work. The nests of Eagles and Hawks, especially Ospreys, are valuable to them. Curiously enough, the member of the Flycatcher family that we would least expect to be dependent on others, the loud-voiced and frightening Great Crested Flycatcher, uses Woodpecker's holes.

Brighteners

Mcalester, Okla. (AP)— One hundered and fifty women in distress have hit the silk at the Oklahoma State Penitentiary.

The lady prisoners are wearing parachute panties — but nobody's bailed out yet.

Warden Clarence Burford nearly went into a spin himself when theprison matrons reported a pantie shortage in the women's ward. The state hadn't provided enough to go round.

So when Burford heard of an Air Force surplus sale he jumped at the chance.

the prison matrons reported pantes—two for each pantie-wearer. Matrons held sewing classes.

The result: Happy landings — on nylon.

Pittsfield, Mass. (AP)—Peek-a-boo skirts went into hiding today at a Pittsfield hotel (Sheraton).

Waitresses in the hotel's satire room, whose uniform normally includes a transparent skirt and a low-cut-top held up by a single shoulder strap, were told to ditch the glamour attire.

For the duration of the 29th annual encampment of Massachusetts veterans of foreign wars, the uniform will be simple black skirts and white blouses.

Los Angeles (AP) — Walter Fisher, 19-year-old New York upholsterer, Thursday was sued for divorce.

There were two plaintiffs, and sisters at that.

Helen Blanc Fisher, 20, stated that she eloped with Fisher to Las Vegas, Nev., March 16, 1948, and that he deserted her an hour after the wedding.

Evelyn Blanc Fisher, 21, said she married the same man July 3, 1948, in Baltimore. She said they lived together three months. Evelyn wrote her sister, telling her of her marriage, and was surprised to learn her husband was in reality Helen's.

Pottsville, Pa. (AP)—How'd you like to own a dog who turns on the radio and dials the programs? Raymond Klinger, 61-year-old Locust Gap, Pa., bachelor, said Thursday he thinks he has one.

Don't beleive it?

Klinger didn't either but he claims seeing is believing, and "I saw it with my own eyes."

Several times in the last month Klinger has left his house, turning over the radio. When he returned the set was going full blast.

Curious, he walked out and then watched through a window.

He said his dog, Skippy, jumped on the table, flipped the switch-hand then dialed with his paw.

ANCIENT JAWBONE FOUND

Johannesburg, June 18 (AP) —Dr. Robert Broom, South African paleontologist, Thursday announced the discovery of a jawbone which may have been from a human who lived nearly 1,000,000 years ago. If this jaw proves to be human it may be the oldest human one known," Broom said. "It cannot be said yet what its age is, but it may be in the region of 1,000,000 years."

SUDBURY MAN KILLS THREE AND WOUNDS FIVE

Gun Battle, Heat Wave, Drownings Swell Death Toll

21 Violent Deaths Reported In Ontario During Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

A berserk factory worker with "uncanny" accuracy Saturday night held off Sudbury police for nearly two hours in a gun fight during which he shot and killed three men and wounded five others before shooting himself to death.

The four deaths were included in the 21 reported in Ontario to The Canadian Press as a heat - wave sent thousands scurrying to beaches and resorts the province over.

Nine persons lost their lives by drowning as water accidents took the largest toll.

Police said Clarence Brosseau, 47, of Sudbury, apparently killed himself with a rifle after slaying two police constables, Ed Terrell and Gerry Dault, and by-stander Lloyd Germa during a gunfight with police. Thousands of persons watched Brosseau stand off 100 armed police for nearly two hours.

Joyce Lodge and Jerry Thompson, both 14, of Malton, near Toronto, were killed at Malton when the bicycle they were riding was struck by an automobile.

Two Polish immigrants, Edward Zwirko, 28, and Kazimierez Ginko, 37, both of Vanessa, suffered fatal injuries when the automobile in which they were riding collided with a truck at Waterford.

Woman Killed

Pembroke, in the Ottawa valley, reported three fatalities. Annie Kidd, 64, was fatally injured by a car. Mrs. Hedward V. Burwell, 20, of Ottawa, was killed when an out-of-control truck hit a parked motorcycle which she and her husband were about to mount. Philip Doyle, 31, of Fort Coulonge, Que., died in hospital of injuries suffered in a fall from a power line pole.

Danny Vandendriessche, seven, of Glen Meyer, was drowned in four feet of water near Port Rowan.

Howard Hird, 15, a non-swimmer, lost his life in the Grand River near Brantford. C. E. McDonald, 25, formerly of Sudbury, to escape the heat plunged into the Sydenham River at Alvinston, where the river is 18 inches deep, broke his neck and died.

Drowned While Swimming

George Clement, 27, of Wilberforce, was drowned while swimming in Dark Lake, Haliburton county. Another swimmer, Jimmy Bell, 14, of Lindsay, slipped off an inner-tube float and was drowned at the Tullys Landing swimming hole near Lindsay. A swim in the Niagara River near Queenston, claimed the life of Paul Carroborg, 20-year-old farm worker.

Two brothers, John and Andy Trussa of Crow Point, Ind., were drowned 60 miles southeast of Kenora, when their canoe capsized in Beach Lake. A canoe upset near a Toronto breakwater took the life of Harry Warren, 18, formerly of Belle Isle, Nfld.

Injuries suffered last Wednesday in a collision between a motorcycle and a car proved fatal Saturday to Jimmy Richardson of Capreol, Ont. He was a passenger on the motorcycle.

BRITISH AND U.S. OFFICIALS SEEK COMPROMISE

Issue Over Argentina Most Serious Trade Problem to Arise

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, June 20 (AP). — British and United States officials apparently are searching for a face-saving compromise in their row over a proposed British-Argentine trade agreement.

While the issue is the most serious which has thus far entered United States relations with any country under the European recovery program, officials discounted speculation that the United States might actually cut off some Marshall Plan aid to Britain.

Rather it appeared from information available here that a compromise is shaping up along these lines:

1. Britain and Argentina will not sign the treaty until after the state department and E.C.A. have had a chance to study and comment on it.

2. Britain intends to go through with the five-year agreement but concedes that such two-country deals are contrary to the principals of free international trade and should be avoided whenever possible.

Argentina To Decide

3. While Britain will make a firm agreement to buy specified quantities of meat from Argentina for five years, Argentina will decide each year what she wants from Britain. Thus, Argentina's purchase contracts will be renegotiated every year so that almost any time an American seller theoretically could enter the market.

This latter point is perhaps the most important now under study here. British Embassy officials stressed it to the State Department last week with the argument that Britain is not trying to sew up Argentine trade or exclude American goods from Argentine markets.

That has been one of the American objections to the treaty.

On the other British point there seemed to be substantial United States agreement already — that is that a trade deal between Britain and Argentina was natural, since each has goods the other wants and neither has the dollars to supply its needs in the United States.

Don't, If Over 45 Go Sunbathing Or Over-Exert

Toronto, June 20 — (CP) — Chief Coroner Smirle Lawson today urged all citizens over 45 not to over exert themselves or to go sunbathing.

"It is only through the cooperation of all our citzens that our heat victim toll can be kept down," he said. "It is dangerous for a person over 45 years of age to take too many sunbaths during this sweltering heat."

There were three sudden deaths in the city over the weekend. The heat was blamed as a contributing factor in one of them.

3000 VISIT SHRINE

Midland, June 20 — (CP) — More than 3,000 pilgrims attended an open-air mass at the famed martyr's shrine here Sunday to mark the 300th anniversary of the slaying of Jesuit martyrs by the Iroquois in 1649.

PILE OF CLOTHING STILL BAFFLES MONTREAL POLICE

Former Tennis Ace Cannot be Located

Montreal, June 20. (CP) —The mystery of a pile of clothing on a wharf and a sheet of paper bearing the scribbled name "Marcel Rainville" continued to baffle police today as they tried to determine whether the one-time Canadian tennis ace was a drowning victim.

Discovery of the clothing and the paper Friday night coincided with a report from a ship that a body had been sighted floating in Montreal harbor.

Efforts to find the body, however, were unavailing and attempts to get in touch with the little former Davis Cupper, who has been living in various Montreal hotels recently, were fruitless.

Members of his family and friends said they last saw him Thursday night when he went to play tennis.

"We have nothing much to work on, beyond knowing that an unidentified man drowned." an official of the Missing Persons Bureau said.

"The victim cannot be identified until his body has been recovered, and so far it has not. As to whether he is Marcel Rainville, the tennis player, there may be more than one person by that name in the Montreal district."

Known as Pee-Wee Rainville. the tennis player was top man of the Canadian Davis Cup team during 1932-36 and once put the British Davis Cupper Fred Perry to the limit before he was edged out. Rainville practised law in Montreal.

Very Warm and Humid Declares Weatherman

Toronto, June 20 (CP).—Scattered thundershowers are forecast for northern sections of Ontario today but another hot day is in sight for drought-stricken regions of the south.

"Very warm and humid" is the weather prediction for Southern Ontario, with the temperature generally expected to reach 85.

Many areas of Southern Ontario have had no rain for more than three weeks. Lawns in cities and towns are turning brown, particularly where use of garden hose is restricted. More serious, however, is the crop loss, expected to run to more than $100,000,000.

The Ontario Agriculture Department said Sunday night a survey it made showed that drought and frost have made severe inroads of Ontario crops of strawberries, lettuce, potatoes and tomatoes.

Indian Fishermen Make Bold Attempt To Cross 30 Miles of Ocean by Raft

Vancouver, June 20 (CP). — A daring attempt to reach civilization by a raft trip across 30 miles of Pacific Ocean was related Sunday night in a radio-telephone interview with three survivors of a fishing mishap.

Three Indian fishermen. Wilson Walla, Abel Dickson and Louis Watkus were shipwrecked by a savage northwestern gale off the northern tip of Vancouver Island.

The men set out to fish salmon, when they were blown on Triangle Island about 30 miles off course. The island lies 30 miles north of ed to get through the huge waves to shore with a bit of food and spent three days waiting to be rescued.

The sea had calmed by the third day and they improvised two rafts to try to get back to the mainland.

"We left Triangle six days after we had landed and were out of grub," they said.

They said they realized the fourth day out that they were heading out to sea. The next day the trawler Surf Point found them. They are not in serious condition.

All Members Catholic Action Movement in Czechoslovakia Excommunicated by Vatican

Vatican City, June 20. (Reuters)—The Vatican today decreed the excommunication of all members of the "Catholic Action" movement recently organized by the Czechoslovakian government.

The sacred congregation of the Holy Office issued a decree which condemned the group as a schismatic one fraudulently labelled.

The decree, published in Osservatore Romano, the Vatican newspaper, declared:

"Recently the opponents of the Catholic Church in Czechoslovakia founded a so-called Catholic Action by which they tried to induce the Catholics of that republic to desert the Catholic church and to deny obedience to the legitimate pastors of the church."

Archbishop Joseph Beran, head of the Roman Catholic Church in Czechoslovakia, has denounced the Communist-led group Sunday at Mass in the Cathedral of St. Vitus in Prague, he was shouted down by hecklers when he began a sermon continuing his denunciation of government acts against the church. Church-State tension is high in Czechoslovakia, reminiscent of the conditions which existed in Hungary before the jailing of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty on charges of treason. Hungarians connected with that were excommunicated by the Roman Catholic Church.

The Vatican decree continued: "Such 'Action' (referring to the Catholic Action group) is most unfair because its patrons did not hesitate to compel many by force or by fraud to give their names, and even dared to list and publish among the adherents many priests and laymen who never gave their adhesion and had even expressed their dissent.

"For these reasons, the supreme sacred congregation of the Holy Office in its duties to protect the integrity of the faith and of the morals in name and with the authority of the supreme Pontiff, reproves and condemns as schismatic the aforesaid 'Action' fraudulently called "Catholic Action' and similar declares schismatic and apostate all those with clerical or lay status, who deliberately or by their own will have already given their adherence and especially the authors and patrons of it."

Summer Resort Areas Packed As Thousands Seek Cool Relief

The weather man paid Ole Sol overtime on Sunday, and the blazing bloke sent down his heat waves in such a consistent manner that a gasping populace sought the comparative coolness of lake, river, camp, cottage, in fact anywhere where a breath of cool air could be had. True he tempered the atmosphere in these parts with a reasonable facsimile of a thunder-shower, but it was just a lot of noise and nothing else.

A steady exodus from the city started early Sunday morning with many of the more fortunate leaving on Saturday afternoon to escape the forecast Sunday heat.

Summer resorts, beaches, parks and lakes were crowded to capacity from morning until night.

Wellington Park Filled

The park in Wellington was filled to "the gates" with automobiles and a breeze - seeking populace. The sand beach was dark with swimmers. Picnic tables were crowded and many ate lunches from grassy coverlets under the shade of large trees.

The Outlet near Picton had a near-record crowd. The popular beach there was a mecca for thousands of children and grown-ups.

The Sandbanks drew its quota from nearby towns and communities, and many Belleville residents were noted enjoying the cool air as it drifted in from Lake Ontario.

Northward, camps and cottages were crowded. Roadside picnic tables were popular and one was fortunate to secure "eating space".

The bay bridge was a popular spot especially in the evening.

Highways teemed with vehicular traffic. A steady stream of cars passed through the city all day and late into the night.

Roadside 'cafeterias' and booths did a land-office business all day as a thirsty transient population sought relief from the heat with cold drinks. Many were sold out of stock long before evening.

Temperatures generally hovered around the eighties with northern lakes cottages reporting the mercury at 86. Near Lake Ontario it was slightly lower.

Heavy Water Consumption

At the purification plant water flowed in a steady stream from the bay through filters to consumers.

During the present hot weather 4,000,000 gallons have been flowing daily through the plant. Sunday, however, established a Sunday record for pumpage, 3,696,000 gallons passing through the plant's facilities.

But don't worry about those fur coats. You won't need them, tomorrow, at least.

For the weather man has had no change of heart. He's revelling in sending his heat legions to the attack on a drought - weary earth.

Tomorrow, he says, it will be clear, humid and hot.

Quick, Murgatroyd, the ice water.

Dives 30 Feet Into 18 in. Water, Youth is Killed

Alviston, June 20 (CP) — A youth identified tentatively by police as C. E. McDonald, about 25, formerly of Sudbury, was killed Saturday night when he dove 30 feet from the Sydenham River bridge here into 18 inches of water.

A post-mortem showed that death was caused by a broken neck and internal injuries. An inquest is undecided.

McDonald came here from the Sudbury district about a week ago looking for work. From his conversation with acquaintances police beleive he had worked in the mines and also once lived at Sydney, N. S.

Accompanied by construction workers, Lawrence Ferrari of Windsor, and Mike Stevanov of Petrolia, McDonald walked to the bridge about midnight Saturday to escape the heat. McDonald said he was going swimming but his companions declined to join him.

Becoming alarmed in a couple of minutes, Ferarri and Stevanov hurried to the water's edge and found McDonald slumped unconscious in the shallow water. He died before a doctor arrived.

Arm Severed Near Shoulder as Car Hits Bridge

Peterborough, June 20 — (CP) —Cecil Finley, Napanee, whose arm was severed when his car crashed into a steel girder late Saturday night on Highway 28, eight miles south of Peterborough, owes his life to the clear thinking and quick action of a Toronto motorist.

A tire blow-out forced Finley's car across the road and into a cement bridge. His left arm, which he had been resting on the window frame of the front door, was pinned by the girder and was completely severed above the elbow, four inches from the shoulder.

Travelling alone to Belleville, where he was to have reported Sunday morning for duty as a railway patrolman, Mr. Finley was lying on the road beside his wrecked car, fully conscious for about seven minutes before Frank Bowen of Toronto found him.

Taking an old handkerchief, Bowen applied a tourniquet to the bleeding arm. When other motorists arrived Dr. Herbert Young and an ambulance were summoned from Peterborough.

Hospital officials say Finley is "resting satisfactorily."

HECKLERS DRIVE ARCHBISHOP FROM CATHEDRAL

Communists Tighten Guard Around Palace

Prague, Czechoslovakia, June 20 — (AP) — The Communist government's security police today apparently tightened their guard on Archbishop Joseph Beran's palace while Roman Catholics weighed the meaning of organized Communist heckling of the prelate at Sunday's cathedral services. The heckling drove him from his cathedral and prevented him from completing his sermon.

Attempts of many persons to talk to the archbishop today were foiled by security police supervising the palace reception desk and telephone switchboard.

Shrill Communist interruptions of the archbishop's Corpus Christi Day sermon in St. Vitus Cathedral Sunday brought the long battle between church and state to its highest tension. The archbishop, defiantly resisting Communist efforts to control the church and break the spiritual rule of the Vatican over Czechoslovakia's 9,000,000 Roman Catholics, had to leave the pulpit and return to his palace, already under the watchful eyes of the security police.

Many in Tears

The whistling and jeering broke out from demonstrators bunched near the altar as the archbishop started a denunciation of the government's moves against the church. The rest of the congregation, many in tears, burst into a hymn in an attempt to quell the disorder.

The archbishop was back in the seclusion of his palace, facing the prospect of even more surveillance because he had been able to send a pastoral letter out of the palace to be read in churches throughout the country yesterday. The letter declared there would be no "compromise" in any further church-state negotiations. Police had been withholding his mail and turning away most callers, including priests bent on assuring him of their loyalty.

The Archbishop, poiting from his throne to the hundreds of white-robed, flower-decked children gathered for the celebration of Corpus Christie Sunday, said: "There are children present. Under the present circumstances it is impossible to conduct mass."

He made no further attempt to speak but left the cathedral, followed by thousands of the faithful.

To be Made Cardinal

Meanwhile, an informed source at the Vatican said it is "very likely" that Archbishop Beran will be made a cardinal at the next consistory, expected to be held before the end of the year.

It is also likely, the informant added, that Msgr. Aojzijc Stepinac, imprisoned Archbishop of Zagreb and head of the Roman Catholic Church in communist Yugoslavia, will be elevated to the Purple.

Scores of security police in the square made numerous arrests during and after the interrupted services. No reason for the arrests could be learned.

Strike Threat Faces Coal Industry As Lewis Miners Return to Work

Pittsburg, Penn., June 20 — (AP) —John L. Lewis' 430,000 United Mine Workers today trooped back to the pits as the U.M.W.'s contract negotiations neared the showdown stage.

Just as U.M.W. district leaders predicted, the week-long "stabilization" walkout ordered by Lewis ended on schedule. The few mines operating midnight shifts reported full-scale production under way. Little absenteeism was expected as 7 a.m. shifts began.

The U.M.W. members can use the money they earn this week. Saturday they quit work again—this time for their 10-day paid vacation. But the loss of last weeks wages offset to a considerable degree the $100 each of them will receive for their vacation.

The miners, too, aren't sure just when they'll return to work after the end of their vacations. That's because the current U.M.W. contracts run out June 30.

If Lewis and the operators can't come to terms it's a foregone conclusion there will be a strike.

Last week's walkout didn't hurt the United States' economy. Despite the fact it was the second walkout of the year for the U.M.W. —In March Lewis ordered a two-week shutdown—there's more coal above the ground than ever before.

As Lewis and his strategists prepared to meet with three separate groups of operators this week, the operators hadn't yet been told just what Lewis wants in his new contract. But it will come as no surprise if Lewis asks that the current 40-hour work week be reduced to 30 or 35—with the same rate of pay prevailing.

Commits Suicide In Own Home As Police Close In

Held off Armed Posse Of 75 For Over Two Hours

Sudbury, June 20 — (CP) — An enraged factory worker shot three men to death, wounded five others and then killed himself Saturday night in a twilight massacre which stunned this Northern Ontario mining city.

The deadly marksman was 46-year-old Clarence Brosseau, who barricaded himself in his neat, frame home in Sudbury's western suburbs and held off an armed posse of 75 policemen and volunteers for more than two hours before ending his life by putting a bullet through his abdomen and another through his head.

His victims were two police constables and a by-stander.

The reason for the eventide battle — it began shortly before 8 p. m. — was obscure, but neighbors said Brosseau had been quarreling with his wife, apparently over his drinking.

Mrs. Brosseau and their two young children sought refuge in a neighboring apartment before the shooting started and escaped harm.

Firing through his windows with dead-shot accuracy, Brosseau killed and wounded these persons:

Dead:

Constable Ed Terrell, 29, married and the father of one child;

Constable Gerry Dault, 32, married and the father of two;

James Germa, about 50, felled when he moved into Brosseau's line of fire. Germa formerly lived in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Wounded:

W. J. Pellerin, a by-stander, shot in the left foot;

Detroit, June 20 (AP).—Robert J. Plante, 19, was held today without charge for the shotgun slaying of the girl he loved, but who didn't love him. Mary L. Coleman, pretty and 16, was shot to death in front of her home here Saturday. Friends and neighbors, who knew her as "Mitzi", looked on in horror, unable to save her.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, June 20 (CP) — Synopsis: Southern Ontario is in for at least another two days of sweltering heat. The central regions of the province which enjoyed cooler weather Sunday will also be back in the heat Tuesday. Only in the most northern regions is it likely to remain pleasantly cool.

Rain which is falling in regions north of the Ottawa - Muskoka line this morning will be gradually displaced northeastward into Quebec. The only hope of rain for southern regions lies in the possible development of widely scattered thunderstorms in the late afternoon or evening today and Tuesday.

THREE YOUTHS SURRENDER AFTER BEATING CHIEF

Gang of 20 Zoot-Suiters from Toronto Joins Boys in Fight With Police

Queensville, Ont., June 20 CP). —Three youths from Toronto and Scarboro surrendered to Police Chief Joseph Jardine today after attacking and beating him Saturday night when he stopped their truck. This ended a two-day search by police from Scarboro and York County, all near Toronto.

Police said the youths surrendered after one of them was located in his home today.

Chief Jardine said he stopped the youths after seeing them weaving down the road in their truck. He tried to take a half-empty beer case from them and they attacked him. Shortly after he stopped them he said a gang of 20 zoot-suiters from Toronto joined in the fight against him.

"The driver seemed to go berserk," he said. "He threatened to tramp me into the ground.

Witnesses said the chief was grabbed by the men, slammed against the truck and mauled before aid could be summoned from town.

When a posse of 10 Queensville residents arrived to rescue the chief they were warned by the out of it or we will bring a gang youths standing around to "keep out of it or we will bring a gang from Toronto that'll fix your hash."

Chief Jardine said one of the men had drivers or owners licenses for the truck.

SNEEZING FIT STOPS

London, Juhe 20 (AP).—Michael Hippisley, Britain's 14-year-old "sneezing boy", Saturday night left a London nursing home, his sneezes gone. His six-week sneezing siege has been ended by a mysterious remedy which, a friend of the family said, has "something to do with psychology". She had no further explanation.

City and District News

BADLY NEEDED RAIN FALLS IN THURLOW

Sunday afternoon while the city was sweltering in temperatures ranging in the high 80's, a few miles to the north and east, Thurlow township residents were enjoying an hour's rain.

In fact one Thurlow township resident living in the 5th concession reported when he went for the cows in the evening he had to stay close to the fence to keep his feet dry.

Motorists passing through West Huntingdon, and Halloway reported rain in that district also.

LARGE TREE LIMB GIVES UP GHOST

One of the large limbs of an old maple shade tree at the corner of Bridge Street and Foster Ave., gave up the ghost over the weekend and crashed across the sidewalk and pavement, efficiently blocking traffic.

Police called the public works department which cleared up the wreckage while the Belleville Telephone Company and Public Utilities were also called to repair any damage which may have occurred to their lines.

F. Follwell Cites Benefits Given By Liberal Govt.

A social evening and "meet the Candidate" night held in the interests of Frank S. Follwell in Memorial Hall, Frankford, on Friday, saw a crowded hall give an enthusiastic reception to the Liberal candidate for South Hastings.

Introduced by Charlie Rush, the Reeve of Hungerford, Mr. Follwell spoke of the social benefits which the Liberal government has been responsible in securing for Canada. He spoke of the Unemployment Insurance Act, Mother's Allowance and reduction of Income Taxes as examples of what the present government has done for the country.

Mr. George Jordan, president of the South Hastings Liberal Association, reminded the people of Drew's 22-point platform and other promises which he had not fulfilled.

Old and young alike enjoyed cards and dancing. Earl Bonisteel acted as chairman.

Cars Damaged, One Injured In Collision

Property damage amounting to approximately $750 and injuries to one passenger resulted Saturday afternoon when two cars were in collision at the corner of Victoria Ave., and George Street. One car turned on its side and the other attempted to climb the guy wire of a telephone pole before it was halted.

William Stork, 281 Church St., was driving west on Victoria Ave. with Thos. Kerry, R.R. 1, Corbyville, driving north on George Street. The Kerry auto struck the Stork car which was forced up George Street and against the guy wire. The Kerry auto turned on its side.

The Stork car was damaged to the extent of about $500 with the Kerry car having all four fenders, running board and tire damaged.

Metro Mundrey, R. R. 1, Belleville, suffered skinned knees in the accident. Kerry was charged with failure to stop at the "stop street."

Motor Car Stalls On Railway and Wrecked by Train

After stalling her auto on the Canadian National Railways double track east of Brighton, Mrs. Frank Dayman, R.R. 2, Brighton, saw the family auto completely wrecked Saturday afternoon when it was struck by No. 5 passenger train to Toronto.

The car was carried down the track 350 yards on the tender of the locomotive. No one was injured in the accident.

Mrs. Dayman had been driving with her four-year-old daughter, Dorothy Jean, when in passing over the track the engine stalled. It would not start again and Mrs. Dayman unsuccessfully attempted to push the car from the tracks.

Failing that she ran 100 feet to the highway where she flagged down two motorists to get their assistance in shoving the car from the tracks.

Just as Mrs. Dayman and her commandeered motorists approached the track the fast passenger train flashed past and wrecked the auto.

Provincial Constable George Coling of Brighton, investigated.

Speaking in support of Mr. Arnott were Harry Rollins, his campaign manager, Warden S. A. McCarey of Tweed, Dr. A. N. Walters of Belleville, and Harry Coulter, Deputy Reeve of Hungerford township.

Mr. Roscoe Robson, M. P. P., in one of the best speeches of the campaign said that it might not be too long before another extension would be let out by contract for four or five miles of highway extending to Roslin on No. 37.

Mr. T. C. Graham, president of the South Hastings Progressive Conservative Association was chairman of the meeting. Mrs. W. Grant and her daughter Helen, rendered several musical numbers.

Prime Minister and Party Welcomed by Cheering Throng Saturday at C.N.R. Station

Residents of this city and district to the number of 1,000 journeyed to the C.N.R. north station on Saturday afternoon to greet Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and his entourage as they passed through the city on their way to Kingston where he addressed a meeting that night. Frank S. Follwell, candidate for Hastings South, and Gordon Bell, candidate for Prince Edward-Lennox, headed the welcoming committee.

The introductory ceremonies were brief due to the short time that Mr. St. Laurent had to spend in this city. His private car was attached to the rear of the first section of No. 14 and as soon as the train came to a halt, the welcoming party went aboard. Mrs. Herb McCabe, president of the Women's Association, Miss Lillian Cournyea, Mrs. E. E. Follwell, Mrs. Gordon Bell and others were hastily introduced to the Prime Minister, his gracious wife and their daughter. Mrs. McCabe then presented Diane Ford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ford and Mary Beth Follwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Follwell who presented bouquets of roses to Mrs. St. Laurent and her daughter.

Welcomed by City

Immediately Mr. Follwell introduced Ald. Claude D. Tice who welcomed the Prime Minister. He thanked him for taking time out of a busy life to pay the city a call and hoped that on another occasion he would be able to pay a lengthier visit, when the hospitality of the city would be extended to him. The speaker informed the Prime Minister that the Bay of Quinte district of which Belleville was the hub was founded by the United Empire Loyalists and that the district had sent many sons to fight for free institutions in two great wars.

Mr. St. Laurent stated it was a great pleasure for him to visit the city and was particularly impressed with the reference to the United Empire Loyalists "In the riding of Quebec East in Quebec, which I have the pleasure to represent," said the speaker "they, too, are descendants of U.E.L. and for them and many more, Canada has banded with eleven other countries to form the North Atlantic Pact, not as a reason for more war but to prevent war so that all can live in peace and security. I think the Pact will have the backing of all serious-minded people and I am sure that other countries not signators to that treaty, will think twice before involving the world in another horrible conflict."

"Your candidate says that "it is time for a change" in South Hastings. That is a very apt saying here and I hope it will be borne out when the votes are counted on the night of June 27th. As far as the government of Canada is concerned, I think there have been enough changes in recent months. I have been there only a few days over seven months as Prime Minister and I do not think it is quite long enough to require a change and although there are assertions being made" continued the speaker "that we are (a lot of us) old and tired men, who should be retired from the cares of office. Well you can form your own conclusions. But after having a very strenuous travelling experience from one ocean to the other throughout this land, I feel that, if it is the desire of the Canadian people, if there are efforts I can still put forth in behalf of the whole Canadian population to implement that principle of Liberalism, we should make the best possible use of our immense resources to increase our standard of living, but to do it for the whole Canadian population."

Continuing the Prime Minister said," benefits from Providence were intended for the Canadian people and that doesn't mean any small group or privileged class, that means every Canadian everywhere in every part of our vast lands. That is what we aim to do and, I hope, will be possible for us to accomplish and which will be easier to accomplish if you send to Ottawa, to help us your candidate, Frank Follwell, in this Dominion election."

Mr. Follwell was very brief in his remarks in order that the Prime Minister might have the full time to address those assembled. He stated "My friends, It is certainly a great pleasure to hear the Acting Mayor deliver that address to our Prime Minister and let me say to you, Sir, that the slogan 'It is time for a change" is very apt in South Hastings and I am sure that the people in South Hastings will not only send a Liberal representative to Ottawa, but see that you, Sir, and the Liberal government go back to Ottawa as the government."

Mrs. St. Laurent received the bouquets from the two little girls and then tore them apart and started to distribute them among those assembled. She tossed the roses to the crowds and they were eagerly snatched up. Mr. St. Laurent stepped down to the bottom steps of his car and as the train was pulling away he shook hands with as many as possible. Mr. Follwell accompanied the Prime Minister to Kingston where he was present at a meeting that evening.

Robert Temple To Head Young Liberal Assoc.

'Bob' Temple was elected president of the Young Liberal Association at their organization meeting held Saturday evening at the Liberal Club rooms, 123 Front Street. Other officers in the newly organized association are: 1st Vice President, Joan Morgan; 2nd Vice President, Isobel McCabe; Secretary, George Manjuris; Treasurer, Jack Scanlon; Press convener, Boyd Upper.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Herbert McCabe, regional president of the Central Ontario Women's Liberal Association, who introduced Mr. Vernon Singer, of Toronto, president of the Young Liberal Association of Ontario, and Mr. George Shewitt, Kingston, president of the Central Young Liberals.

Jack Smith, vice president of the association in Hastings South, outlined the work of the Young Liberals and stressed the importance of the club to the party, to the country, and to the participating members.

Liberal candidate, Frank Follwell, addressed the gathering stating that "it is the free-thinking young people, who will win this election for the Liberals."

Taking as his theme the Conservative slogan "It is time for a change" Mr. Follwell went on to say that "indeed it is time for a change in Hastings South This change can be brought about by the support and enthusiasm of the young men and women in this riding."

"Politics, which is the art of governing and being governed, can be, and is, the cleanest and most important business in the country", the speaker said. ' 'In the past the Liberals have entrusted this business to outstanding leaders, Wilfred Laurier, Mackenzie King and St. Laurent".

Mr. Follwell outlined the policy of the Liberal party, pointed to their record of past achievement, and urged the members to work to return a Liberal administration to Ottawa.

Summer Fun Club Attracting Youth Of the City

Applications for the Summer Fun Club of the Y.M.C.A are beginning to pour in as the girls and boys of Belleville prepare themselves for an active summer's activity in this program. Swimming, hikes, crafts, movies, are but a few of the many activities planned by Drummond C. McDonald, director of the Clubs activities. The warm weather of the past weeks has done much to remind one and all of the coming summer weather. The wiser girls and boys are preparing themselves by enrolling in this program where they will have daily swims at the Y or at some selected outdoor pool.

The first registration form from the girls was that of Carole Jean Marner. Carole is well known around the Y as she has been a member for the past two years. Maurice Huddleston, another active member of the Y was the first to enroll in the boys' section of the club. These applications were the first of many to arrive and daily the number is increasing.

Information folders with application forms have been distributed to as many girls and boys as possible, but it might be that some are without them. Additional folders are available at the Y and will be sent on request. The club is limited to girls and boys of ten years of age and over. Gifts Presented Rev. A.L. Shorten

Halloway—On Wednesday last a pot-luck dinner was served in the church to members of Halloway congregation. At the close of a bountiful dinner, Mr. Earl Snider called the gathering to order and Mrs. Don Rose read an address to Rev. A. L. Shorten, who leaves soon for his new work in Toronto. Mr. Coleman Townsend made the presentation of a beautiful wristwatch. Mr. Shorten graciously expressed his thanks for the gift and good wishes.

Mrs. Ed. Emerson then read an address to Mrs. Shorten and Mrs. Ernest Wilson presented her with a silver cream and sugar set. Although taken completely by surprise, Mrs. Shorten thanked all who had so kindly remembered her.

In the afternoon Mrs. Harry McMullen president of the W.M.S. opened the meeting with the call to worship the theme being "The Sabbath." Mrs. Ed Emerson read the scripture lessons. Miss Bessie McMullen read the minutes of the last meeting.

In the business discussion it was decided the ladies of the W.A. serve sandwiches, cold drinks at the ball games.

Prayer by Mrs. Ernest Wilson closed the meeting.

Start Canning Of Early Peas About June 22

Canning of early peas will commence in the Bay of Quinte district about June 22nd it [illegible] stated today by a fieldman [illegible] local canning company.

Lack of rain had destroyed hopes for a good early pea crop with crop expectations now estimated to be half a ton per acre. In the normal year the crop would run up to one and a half tons and two tons per acre.

Late peas are looking better as result of the rain received a week ago—but a good crop was still dependent on more rain being received.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, June 20 (CP)—Price movements were very narrow and small in a very dull session here today. Golds showed slightly firmer tone on small gains and industrials opened firmer but sagged in later dealings. Base metals were about balanced.

Kerr Addison led the stronger senior golds on a gain of ¼ at 15. Juniors marked up advances of about five cents as action picked up slightly in mid-session.

Early fractional advances in industrials were practically wiped out in later dealings and the list was about balanced. A few key issues were ahead. Bell Telephone Massey-Harris and McColl Oil were among the gainers. Montreal Locomotive widened an early loss and B. C. Pulp Pfd., was down $5 to a new low at $145.

Canada Needs New Government Says Maj. Foote

Picton, June 20—Canada needs a new government at Ottawa so that the Dominion and the provinces may get together and harmoniously work out agreements among themselves, declared Major John Foote, V.C., M.P.P., speaking before a large audience here Saturday night. Tracing the background of Dominion-Provincial relations, he declared that under the Liberal government there could be no general agreement.

"George Drew was too courageous, honest and clever to be bamboozled by the offers made by the Dominion. It is necessary that there be new agreements so that each province may carry on the essential services which concern the welfare of the people. Ontario does not want everything, she is willing to share with other provinces," said Major Foote.

Defends Drew's Record

Major Foote strongly defended the record of Mr. Drew as Premier of Ontario, pointing out that the province had assumed fifty per cent of the over-all cost of education had not introduced new taxation, had given special aid to agriculture, inaugurated advanced labor legislation, revised the educational system to benefit pupils and teachers, had inaugurated a 30-million dollar plan to aid housing, extended the hydro system and good roads. Pensions had been increased and rehabilitation services been offered veterans.

The Saskatchewan government, under the CCF, cannot compare with the results achieved in Ontario, said Mr. Foote, as he instanced the lower pensions and salaries in effect there and business losses when operated by the CCF government.

Deplores Govt. Delay

Major Foote deplored the delay in dealing with veterans' problems, giving illustrations of delays in cases he was handling. He promised that a Progressive Conservative government would deal promptly with such matters and said their platform called for greater benefits.

"In this election we have nothing against the traditional Liberal party. We want the two great parties and need a vital, vigorous opposition. But the present government at Ottawa is not a truly Liberal government," said the speaker.

Would Abolish Radio Fee

George J. Tustin, Progressive Conservative candidate in Prince Edward-Lennox, elicited cheers when he stated his party would abolish the radio licence fee. He briefly enumerated highlights of the party program, including the increasing of income tax exemptions, reduction of taxation by economy of government, a more adequate program of housing, social security program, pensions at 65 without a means test and a program designed to assure stability of income for farmers.

Presiding as chairman, Philip Dodds reported that reports indicated that the CCF would make a strong big in the riding on June 27. "The only way t defeat socialism is for all voters opposed to that creed is to get behind the candidate most likely to be elected and make sure the socialist candidate does not slip in through a three-cornered fight. The candidate most likely to be elected in this riding is George J. Tustin and all should rally to his support," he said.

Has Close Escape From Cataract

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 20 — (CP) — James Prygon, of Wheatfield, N.Y., was rescued from the Niagara River here Saturday after he had clung to a clump of woods 30 minutes in the river shallows, 200 yards above the Canadian Horseshoe Falls. The American said the outboard motor of his boat had failed while on a fishing trip two miles up the river from the falls. He rowed frantically for half an hour but was carried to within 200 yards of the fatal drop before an eddy swung him inshore close enough to grab a clump of weeds in the shallows of the river.

TO THE RESORTS

Thousands of motorists turned from the beaten highways, the arteries of traffic and travel, and found their way into other places on Sunday. The intense heat drove them to these sideroads where they might find the secluded spots still fresh in their memories from the visits of last summer. So the sideroads called with one voice to the thousands of people who sought to escape the intense heat. So the appeal of the countryside and the secluded areas was heard again as it is always heard at this time when the public seeks the relaxation of change as summer draws near with all its warmth and power.

The goal was not mileage but the old summer camp grounds, it was enjoying the relief which nature can give in presenting to their eyes and other senses something ever new. There is nothing like a familiar resort along lake or river or stream to charm the motorists's heart, for it tells of festivities, happy feastings and the inspiration which always comes when people are under the full sweep of the appeal of the Canadian summer. Such spots are in great number along the waters and streams of this part of Ontario. Yesterday they were thronged. Not a spot of the kind was missed by the alert motorist.

THE GREAT CHARTER

It was in mid-June seven hundred and thirty-four years ago at Runnymede, outside London, that English barons in confederation and their followers who comprehended all the yeomanry and free peasantry and the support of the capital London as a pledge of the adherence of the citizens forced King John to the signing of the Great Charter of English liberties or Magna Charta. No political document in world history has become more famous. What was won there by the barons and their followers was the great foundation of freedom as the English-speaking peoples know and practise it today.

It set on a firm foundation public justice. It pointed against the abuses of King John, among them the tyranny of the forest laws and grievances of the feudal tenure which were mitigated or abolished. At the same time it provided for the benefit of the people at large and it is hard to overestimate the importance of this promulgation by royal authority of the rights of the people in regard to just government at all places and in all times.

In this cornerstone of modern liberty are such provisions in the Magna Charta which forbid arbitrary imprisonment and punishment without lawful trial, and which lay the basis of modern taxation under the provision that taxes should not be imposed without the consent of the Common Council of the Realm. These safeguards are in the 39th article which also contains the writ of habeas corpus, and trial by jury, looked upon as the most effectual securities against oppression which man has been able to devise and the principle that justice is the debt of every government which cannot be paid without rendering law prompt and equal.

Down the course of history there has been confirmation of the Great Charter by monarchs from age to age.

Not so long ago the world had the terrible example of tyranny which cost the lives of millions of men, women and children through Hitler's aggression. In view of the orderliness of the progress of Britain and of nations whose liberties are framed upon the same principles of justice Britons might well be proud of their laws which as promulgated at Runnymede offered an example to the world of good government and orderly processes of development. Gifted indeed have the Britons been who could far back in the early thirteenth century lay the foundation of laws that endure until this time. The gift of Runnymede is not limited but has the quality of a living something that fits every stage of the life of nations. A thousand years hence Magna Charta will still be a cornerstone of systems of free government. This has been one of the many great gifts from the English people to the world.

NOT BY WAR . . . BY EXAMPLE

A big man, who was not big only because of his office, made the Atlantic pact a vibrant reality the other day.

Standing before a huge labour gathering in Blackpool, Britain's blunt Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin warned against deception by a Russian aggressor that today is building the greatest military force in the world. "Do not be misled," he urged. "I want to see that power brought to an end not by war, but by example — by remaining firm ourselves. The onrush and effort to suborn the whole of Europe to Communism by strikes, interruptions and chaos was one we could not stand idly by and see go on."—Hamilton Spectator.

FLAG DAY

This morning for a moment stand,
Hat off, and on the heart the hand;
Then to the red, the white, the blue
Allegiance once again renew.

At staff or mast, where'er it flies,
With grateful heart and shining eyes,
Look up and constant vow to be
Unto the cause of liberty.

Hope of the world and all oppressed!
Symbol of everything that's best!
Thank God today for those who gave
Their lives the flag for us to save.

Salute it now with prayer or cheer!
See it through smile or shining tear,
Then vow to guard it long to be
Flag of the brave, the fair, the free.

THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS

The French historian Ernest Renan once wrote, "when people complain of life, it is almost always because they have asked impossible things from it." This statement expresses a great truth that many people never realize that happiness based upon unreasonable desires can never be atained.

Most of us like to think that we would be perfectly happy if only we could get enough of whatever we want most: money, power, popularity, fame or some other thing. Yet our common sense tells us, if we but look about us, that to attain such a goal is no guarantee of happiness. We have all known of rich men, possessing more wealth than they could spend, who nevertheless struggled and worried and fought to become still richer. The local politician is restless to become governor; the governor is unhappy that he is not president; the national ruler, like Alexander, Napoleon, or Hitler, may attempt to rule the world. The movie star with a million admirers may still be jealous of every rival's success.

If happiness will not come from the fulfillment of great desires, how should we seek it? One way is to shun the pursuit of the unattainable. As John Stuart Mill, the English philosopher, put it "I have learned to seek my happiness by limiting my desires rather than in attempting to satisfy them."

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ALWAYS WHERE IT'S SPRING

There is no study so fascinating as that of birds—their habits, colorings, songs, characteristics, and intelligence, though perhaps the latter is merely God-given instinct. Every bird is interesting even those which we do not fancy.

I do not like Crows, yet their study is intriguing. They seem to have an instinct that almost to intelligence. They are tricky. They like to play jokes on their enemies! There is to the study of all birds, however, a joy and interest that stand apart. This nest building, rearing of young, and joyous song, from these feathered friends, give a touch of heaven to our cosmic consciousness.

To me, one of the most interesting of all facts about birds is their moving from South to North on their regular migrating tours —wanting always to remain where it is always Spring. Of course there are certain birds that remain with us in the colder climes, but the majority move from warmth to warmth. These could always remain in a warm climate, but apparently there is something adventurous about most birds, because of food or of advantages gained in nesting and the rearing of their young that would not be theirs in a continuous warm or tropic atmosphere.

There are some fifty species of birds in Hawaii which are to be found in no other place, and I don't blame them, for in Hawaii is eternal Springtime! There is one bird, however, I learned about when there a few years ago, that nests in Alaska, and whose young fly the entire distance to the original homeland of their parents.

We humans are about as restless as the birds. But we are that way through no rhyme or reason. The weather affects us Trivial disturbance annoy us. We worry. We take too little time off to think Few of us have learned the great art of relaxation. How very wonderful if we could only take a tip from the birds and find a place in our philosophy where our thoughts could play around and be where it is always Spring within the heart.

WORKER KILLS

Grazed by Bullet

Ontario (Red) Venturi, Sudbury, grazed by a bullet on the left shoulder;

Carlyle Germa, 21, Copper Cliff, grazed on the head by the bullet which killed Constable Dault. He is a nephew of James Germa.

Police Chief Jack McLaren suffered severe burns to the eyes and chest and was temporarily blinded when a bottle of tear gas exploded in his face. He had thrown it but it failed to clear a window and fell back on him.

Brosseau, described by relatives as a quiet, pleasant man who had been subject to intermittent fits of rage since an illness two years ago, was a keen hunter and police said his accuracy during the blistering gun fight was "uncanny."

Moving from room to room and from window to window in the two-storey home on west - end Lorne Street, he peppered the roadways and nearby buildings with a deadly fire for more than two hours. Police and volunteers, armed with borrowed neighborhood weapons, crouched behind every available cover and exchanged shots with Brosseau, but failed to hit him.

Suddenly, the firing petered out. Policemen edged cautiously through the doorways.

They found Brosseau sprawled in a thickened pool of blood on the kitchen floor. He was dead. There was a scarlet patch where a self-inflicted bullet had gone through his abdomen and his chin was torn where a second shot had gone through his head to emerge from the skull. Brosseau's weapon, a .303-calibre rifle, lay near his body.

Sequence of Events

This is the sequence of events which police said led up to the shootings:

Brosseau and his wife began quarreling, presumably at or after supper. Mrs. Brosseau called her brother, who lives nearby, and Brosseau bundled their two children, Clarence, 10, and Melbourne, six, into his car with a neighbor's youngster, 11-year-old Bobby Gauthier.

As his wife and his brother-in-law, Lorne Rollins, appeared on the front porch, Brosseau pulled a shotgun from the car. Rollins and Brosseau struggled, and the shotgun was fired, but no one was wounded. Rollins disarmed Brosseau and handed the shotgun to a by-stander.

Brosseau went into the house, where he had the .303 rifle and a store of ammunition. Rollins went to his home to call the police. A crowd, attracted by the shot, began to form.

A police cruiser arrived and Constables Terrell and Dault, their guns still holstered, were moving up the walk when Brosseau opened fire. Terrell pitched to the ground, dead, a bullet in his chest. Hanwell, Dault and Rochon dashed for cover. As Hanwell edged around the corner of the house to open fire, Brosseau snapped a shot through his gun arm.

Circled Store

Dault circled an electrical store adjoining the Brosseau house and sprinted up an intersecting street to warn by-standers. He was about 100 yards away at the rear of the house, when Brosseau felled him with a shot through the head. He died almost instantly.

Brosseau then fired at the corner of the store as Sgt. Hanwell was ordering passers-by to cover. German too, was shot through the head and killed.

A Roman Catholic priest ventured into the open roadway and knelt beside Dault to administer the last rites of his church. Brosseau withheld his fire until the priest had completed the sacrament and retired.

Mackenzie's Column: Correspondents Have Hard Time Getting News

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

(Associated Press News Analyst)

Some of the United States correspondents covering the Big Four Foreign Ministers Conference in Paris have voiced dissatisfaction over the United States State Department's arrangements for supplying the American version of developments.

Most of the information available regarding western plans is said to have come from British and French sources. The Russians, of course, don't talk.

As one who has spent most of the past generation reporting international events, your correspondent has a sympathetic ear for this plaint. It's the old, old story.

American diplomatic circles exalt freedom of the press and subscribe to a fully informed public. Despite this some high diplomatic quarters long have pursued the idea that if important problems can be worked out secretly there will be a better chance of success.

On the other hand Britain, and to some degree France, always has the latch string out for news gathering. London and Paris take a different view than do many American officials, recognizing the propaganda value of presenting the news from their own standpoint.

So the life of a reporter abroad is no bed of roses.

On the whole British diplomats, both at home and abroad, are about the most Liberal about giving out news, as I have found in many parts of the globe. For example, during a trip to India in 1943 I made an exhaustive study of the political situation which then was red hot, with the Indians pressing for independence. When I left for home I had 50,000 words of notes.

Under the wartime security regulations I had to submit all these notes to the British censor. I got them all back but the censor asked permission to delete one 50-word memo regarding a delicate situation. He also called attention to a memo I had made of a conversation with an unnamed individual who actually was the Viceroy.

"There's no mistaking the source of that memo," said the censor. "I trust you won't forget that it is high-explosive."

An ambulance pulled up and McKenny and another attendant, Alf Dawson, went to remove Dault's body. Brosseau peppered them with four shots and McKenny was wounded.

Venturo and Carlyle Germa, both of whom were wounded, were by-standers. Their wounds are not serious.

During the long gun battle, Melbourne Rollins, another of Mrs. Brosseau's brothers, tried to enter the house, but was held back.

DEATH STRIKES TWICE

Sudbury, June 20 (CP)—Violent death has struck twice in six months at the family of Mrs. Edward Terrell.

Mrs. Terrell's brother, William Wilson, was shot last Dec. 9 while defending a girl in a Sudbury Chretien, was convicted last Friday of murder and sentenced to be hanged.

Saturday night Mrs. Terrell's husband, Constable Ed Terrell of the Sudbury city police, was shot and killed by Clarence Brosseau.

"MONSTROSITY" TONED DOWN

Blakeney, Norfolk, England — (CP) — Inhabitants of this fishing village, proud of their flint cottages, won their battle against a "monstrosity" of pink bricks which "grew up suddenly" in their midst. The new house now will be painted with cream wash and its asbestos roof replaced with tiles.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

We who ride in buses and trains live in constant fear of crangs getting the seat beside us. Fe become skilled in spotting a crank the minute he boards the bus and glances with his beady eyes over the passengers to select his victim. At each bus stop, we peer apprehensively over the top of our newspaper or magazine. If one of the hatred breed comes aboard, we dive back down behind our paper and pretend to be intensely engrossed in what we are reading. But a really malignant crank takes no account of that. He moves down the aisle, slowly, checking over the prospects...

The only possible defence is to try and get a seat alongside somebody who obviously is not a blatherskite. But this does not protect you from a frontal or rear attack. A good crank thinks nothing of turning around and craning his neck; orleaning forward fro mthe seat behind and muttering in your ear.

With elections so close, bus and train travel has become torture to those of us who love to travel peaceably and alone. The cranks are in their glory. In these hot times, they don't even confine themselves to muttering in your ear. They make speeches for the benefit of everybody within a six heat radius. It is agony.

It ill becomes any of us to make light of such human afflictions as deafness. But I have discovered a little trick for the handling of cranks that I am happy to pass on. I pretend I am hard of hearing. When I am trapped into occupying a double seat with an empty seat beside me, and when the inevitable crank, with his beak open like a vulture, comes and sits beside me, I pay no attention to his opening remarks. When he increases his volume, I turn, with that slightly startled and apologetic gesture the deaf use, cup my off ear with my hand and regret to inform my seat mate that I am hard of hearing. It is a pleasure to sit there and listen to him whimpering like a dog left out all night.

ALCOHOL AND UNHAPPINESS

Experts estimate there are 50 million moderate or social drinkers, 3 million excessive drinkers in the United States, plus about 750,000 persons with the disease chronic alcoholism.

Social or moderate drinkers generally can, if they wish, become total abstainers. Excessive drinkers, too, can swear off and, in many instances, be happy without alcohol for the rest of their lives. Chronic alcoholism, however, is a disease, according to the medical authorities, and one subject to it has only a small chance of getting well, even under proper treatment.

A substantial number of moderate and excessive drinkers recognize, in their sober moments, that the pleas of relatives, friends, employers, wives, children, physicians or others that they swear off drinking are reasonable, and they may still have sufficient health or strength of body, mind and character to heed the advice. But in nearly all cases of excessive drinking the weakness, habit or self-indulgence sooner or later becomes diseases, and then only medical treatment can save the victim.

Medical treatment of chronic alcoholism includes of course physical therapy, nutritional or dietotherapy, psychological care and other remedial measures as well as drug therapy. The cost of such treatment is great, for the treatment must be continued for a considerable period of time. There are no quick cures for the chronic disease. Merely getting the intoxicated individual over the effects of a bout is no part of such treatment.

If treatment for chronic alcoholism is costly, failure to provide treatment is far more costly to the public. It would be less costly to build and maintain institutions to treat and rehabilitate alcoholics than it is to build and maintain jails where we throw them to sober up. In one metropolitan city, according to City Council estimates, no less than 56% of the police department's $20,000,000 budget is spent for police costs directly attributed to liquor.

The inconsistency and downright stupidity of dragging chronic alcoholics before the magistrate for a brief sobering-up confinement, again and again from season to season until the victim qualifies for a casket, seems to make no impression on public consciousness. It is the way we have always handled the alcoholism problem, so we carry on like that because we know no better.

When I say that one subject to chronic alcoholism has only a small chance of getting well I do not mean to be unduly pessimistic. On the other hand, unwarranted optimism keeps a good many chronic alcoholics from receiving the help which good treatment offers.

Steady or excessive drinkers in process of becoming chronic alcoholics are prone to resent the idea that they need treatment or help of any kind, they insist sullenly that they can quit drinking in their own way. This difficult attitude keeps many a man or woman from attending meetings of the Alcoholic Anonymous group in his or her community and seeing the tremendous help the members give each other — every individual member has been an alcoholic or is trying, with the understanding, sympathy and encouragement of all the members, to make a comeback, and Alcoholics Anonymous has achieved a great many complete and lasting cures.

I regret I am not prepared to give addresses of A. A. groups—there are groups in hundreds of cities, several groups in some cities. Look up Alcoholics Anonymous in the telephone directory or write, enclosing stamped self addressed envelope to Alcoholics Anonymous, Box 658, Church Street Annex, New York City. In any case, remember, it is all strictly anonymous and must be kept so for the good of the order.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Bicycle

I am ten years old. Mother won't let me have a bicycle because she's afraid I might get run over. I don't think I will. What would you do?. (Shirley F.)

Answer—It would depend on how strong and careful you are, Shirley. I'd be inclined to give you the bicycle, but only if there is a place other than a busy traffic street where you can ride. Bicycle riding is fine exercise for any girl. There should be much more bicycle riding and much less automobile, bus and streetcar riding.

Rich Foods and Acne

Congratulations on your stand in reference to rich and greasy food and acne. Your contention that such diet has no bearing on the condition appears to be borne out by recent textbooks on Dermatology. (——, M. D.)

Answer—Thank you, Doctor. That is just one of the old fishwife notions the old timers in the profession are reluctant to relinquish.

Owen Sound Retains Ban On Liquor Sale

Owen Sound, Ont., June 20 (CP)—Residents in this Grey County city Saturday voted heavily to retain the 43-year ban on sale of beer, wine and liquor.

A 60-per-cent margin was required to authorize the legal sale of alcoholic beverages.

The highest favorable vote in the five questions was for the Brewer's warehouse, which had a 49-per-cent "yes". Liquor stores were close behind, while the three others, dining lounges, women's beverage rooms, trailed in that order.

Of the 16,500 residents voting in 33 polls, many voted "wet" in the northeast section of the city. But only one poll gave a 60-per-cent majority of the five forms. Another poll gave a 50-per-cent "yes."

Golfers Split First and Second Money in Tourney

Detroit, June 20. (AP)—Cary Middlecoff and Lloyd Mangrum, two of the United States' top pro golfers, today headed homeward with $2,250 each after playing all even in a unique sudden death tournament extra.

The two were tied at 273 at the end of the regulation 72 holes on the four-dsy motor city open golf competition Sunday.

Then they set out on the sudden death playoff that went 11 thrilling holes before it was called by mutual agreement with the two splitting the championship and the $2,600 and $1,900 first and second prize money.

Local golfing authorities said it was the first such overtime match in P.G.A. tournament here and the first time there had been co-champions in any P.G.A. big-time event.

Middlecoff, the Memphis, Tenn., dentist who won the national open title at Chicago last week fired a final round of 69—two under par—Sunday to get his 273 total.

Mangrum, the Niles, Ill, star who started his last regular round with a 54-hole total of 204—the same as Middlecoff's score.

Coming into the 18th hole Sunday, Mangrum was two under par and needed a birdie to take the title. He had a 12-foot putt for his birdie, but the ball was a bit short and he settled for the par that sent the match into overtime.

The tournament booster Middlecoff into the No. 1 spot among the money earners of the United States' pro golfers. He has won $14,249.57 since Jan. 1. Sammy Snead, who did not play in the motor city tournament, dropped to the No. 2 spot with $13,806.83. Bangrum is third with $13,802.30. on the airmen's goal. Leach fired

REMEMBER
what happened the LAST time the Tories gave you "A CHANGE"

Instead of expanded foreign trade, as promised, exports fell off by over $500 million a year.

Instead of prosperous times, as promised, small businessmen were forced to the wall by cut-throat competition.

Instead of adequate labour laws, as promised, labour got sweat-shops, speed-ups and denial of the right to organize.

Instead of jobs and good wages, as promised, workers got unemployment and starvation dole.

Instead of lower taxes, as promised, business was burdened with the payment of staggering relief bills.

Instead of security in later life, as promised, many elder citizens lost their jobs, their homes and their independence.

Instead of fair prices and good markets, as promised, farmers dumped crops or sold them at a loss.

Instead of education and opportunity, as promised, young men "rode the rods" or worked in relief camps.

Instead of enjoying a fair chance for healthy growth, a generation of children knew only malnutrition, privation and want.

DON'T CHANGE BACK TO THESE CONDITIONS!

If you have forgotten the last depression, tie a string around your finger to remind yourself on voting day that hard times was the "change" the Conservatives gave you in 1930, the last time they took over from the Liberals.

Maybe the Tories didn't cause the depression, but they certainly made it worse and worse by their "do-nothing" policies. The vast resources of Canada lay idle, while hundreds of thousands begged for work in vain. Courageous leadership, like Roosevelt gave in the U.S.A., would have beaten the depression. But the Tories were pledged to protect wealth and vested interests . . . even at the cost of human welfare.

THEN came the change — in 1935. The past 14 years of Liberal government has seen the most prosperous times in Canada's history. Family Allowances . . . Unemployment Insurance . . . cyclical budgeting . . . increased exports . . . farm price stabilization . . . high purchasing power for labour . . . dozens of wise Liberal measures have helped keep Canada going constantly forward.

Now the Tories say "14 years is too long — it's time for a change".

Do you think 14 years of good government and good times is too long? Do you want the Tories to "march" you back to conditions of the early 30's?

If not . . . if you want to keep going forward to even greater prosperity in the future — vote LIBERAL on June 27th.

WEDDINGS

CAMPBELL — WINCH

Knox College Chapel, Toronto, was the setting Saturday for the marriage of Muriel Joy, daughter of Mrs. Leslie Winch, to Mr. Donald Ralph Campbell, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Campbell, of Foxboro. The chapel was decorated with white delphinium and stephanotis, in tall standards. Rev. Glenn D. Campbell, of Seaforth, officiated at the ceremony, and Mr. Charles Tisdale, of Toronto, played the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by Dr. James Metcalfe, of Edmonton, Alberta, wore an original gown of white French frosted organdy over white taffeta, with large hoop skirt ending in a chapel train and trimmed with deep pleated frilling. Her finger-tip veil was of fine tulle illusion and she carried white roses and stephanotis and maiden hair fern.

Mrs. James Metcalfe, Edmonton, was matron of honor for her sister, and the bridesmaids were Miss Audrey Ross, of Toronto, and Miss Lorraine Baecheler, of Waterloo, cousin of the bride. They were gowned alike in Puritan frocks of white organdy over apple green taffeta, the bodices having low-cut necklines accented by double collars and the very full skirts caught in at the waistlines with apple green sashes. They carried cascades of white daisies with matching daisy halos in their hair.

Mr. Edward Leadley, of Port Colborne, was the groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. George Rutledge, of Toronto, and Mr. James Cairns, of Galt.

The reception was held at the Alpha Gamma Delta Fraternity, where the bride's mother received in navy sheer crepe with white accessories and was assisted by the groom's mother, in dusky rose with navy accessories. They wore corsages of white gardenias and forget-me-nots.

For travelling, the bride wore a pale blue dressmaker suit with white crocheted straw hat and navy snakeskin shoes and purse.

After a wedding trip to Montreal and Quebec the couple will return to Foxboro before leaving for England where the groom plans to attend Baliol College, Oxford.

MILLIKEN—MACKLEM

Albert College Chapel was the scene of a pretty wedding on June 18th, at 3 p.m., when Jane Eleanor Macklem, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy H. Macklem, became the bride of Donald Fraser Milliken, Regina Sask, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Milliken. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Bert Howard before an altar banked with field daisies and the wedding music was played by Mr. Alec Gordon.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin, with Peter Pan collar and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. Her fingertip veil fell from a coronet of seed pearls, and her shower bouquet was formed of white roses and bouvardia. Attending the bride was her cousin, Miss Mary Whitton of Toronto, as maid of honor, and Miss Mary Doyle, of Belleville, was the bridesmaid. Miss Whitton wore a gown of mauve taffeta, fashioned with a wide V neckline and bustle skirt, with matching mitts. Miss Doyle's gown, in the same style, was of yellow taffeta. Both attendants wore tiny shirred brims of tulle, matching their gowns, and carried Colonial nosegays of mauve sweetpeas and yellow roses.

Mr. W. G. Milliken, Toronto, was his brother's groomsman, and ushers were, Lyle McDonald, Winnipeg; Ronald Macklem, of Belleville, brother of the bride, and J. D. Milliken, Regina, brother of the groom.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in The Manor, Albert College, after which the couple left for their wedding trip to the west, the bride wearing a navy blue suit with a wide-brimmed straw hat trimmed with multi-colored flowers, and a corsage of gardenias. Mr. and Mrs. Milliken will reside in Regina.

THORNTON—WALLACE

A quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, June 18, at 1 p.m., in Christ Church, Belleville, when Dorothy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Wallace, Charles Street, became the bride of John Orval Thornton, Belleville, R.R. 3, son of Mr and Mrs. Walter Thornton, Belleville, R.R. 3. The Reverend J. Grant Sparling, Rural Dean, officiated, before an altar banked with peonies, snapdragons and ferns.

The bride was lovely in her ivory silk eyelet dress, trimmed with black silk ribbon, black picture hat, black accessories and white baby doll shoes, with a corsage of red roses.

Mrs. Harry Harrison, Baby Band Superintendent extended welcome to the mothers and babies. The regular W.M.S. meeting was held with the worship service conducted by Mrs. C. Treverton, assisted by Mrs. F. Hall and Mrs. Clarence Hall. The study period was taken by Mrs. Clayton Hall. The theme of the meeting was "Keeping the Lord's Day". Mrs. Wm. Sills sang a solo "My Heavenly Father Watches Over Me."

Most of the little ones were seated on the verandah where they were served sandwiches, cake, lemonade and candy, At four-thirty the party broke up and the tired but happy little ones and their mothers said "good bye and thank you for a very delightful time."

"Playground supervision is a community project of the residents of Foster Ward", stated Art Keegan. 'The mothers of the children using the grounds will alternate as supervisors."

The public school band entertained the gathering with several selections.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Prefers Car to Wife and Children

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 20 years old and have been married three years. Since my marriage I have been working to help my husband along, and so we can get a home together.

We own a car, and my husband had a bad accident with it which cost me all the money I had. I begged him to give up the car and start saving for the home again, but he will not hear of it, even though I have promised to get him another car in a few years when we can afford it. He has told me he prefers the car to me or to a home and children and will never be without one. He has said all this in front of his parents and they did not say anything to him as they do not care for me.

He has been very nasty to me in the past few months since the accident and has even struck me several times.

I am tired of living in furnished rooms, and see very little future with my husband.

—"Disgusted."

Dear "Disgusted" — First, let me ask you this: If your husband has changed towards you since the accident he had, do you think he might have suffered injuries in it that are affecting him? You don't say whether he was hurt or not, but it sounds to me a little as though he might have been, since you say it was a 'bad accident. This might be something to think about.

In the second place, how is it that you had to assume the financial burden connected with the accident, and why should you promise your husband another car later if he gives this one up now. Is it the money you make on which you and he are mainly dependent, and why should this be? Is he not dependable from an economic standpoint?

Naturally you do not want to go on living in furnished rooms indefinitely and of course you want your own home, and, no doubt, children, and if your husband were the kind of man he should be, he would want all this too.

How would you like to go to someone you could talk to, and to whom you could give all the facts of in the case, so that thru' a careful discussion of the whole matter you might be able to arrive at some workable solution to your problem? If you would like to do this, write me again and give me your name and address, so that I can send you a personal letter.

Stick to Your First Decision, Mary

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl 18 and in love with a boy 19. He is going into the Army soon and wants me to marry him before he goes. I want to wait till he comes back and so have not accepted his ring. But he was so anxious that we have decided to marry now.

Do you think I am doing right?

—"Mary"

Dear "Mary" — I think your idea of waiting is wiser than marriage at this time. You are both very young, and the separation that would result from this boy's army service might well cause both of you to feel differently about each other before you were able to be together permanently.

If I were you, I would stick to the decision you made earlier.

Fashion Flashes

OFF TO TOWN and sure to look smart all through the day is the wearer of a suit in very light weight men's suiting flannel. The skirt is all-around knife-pleated. The jacket, worn loose or belted, has two big patch pockets.

TRAVELLING LIGHT is getting easier all the time with the aid of that wonder fabric, nylon. Charming full-skirted, slim-bodiced dresses of crinkle nylon taffeta, with detachable shoulder pads, go into the tub, wash and dry in a jiffy, and there's no ironing. A two-piecer and a couple of these frocks, plus nylon tricot lingerie and a nylon sheer robe, plus soap flakes, and there you are! Don't forget gloves and hose, either!

NEAT NUMBER for daytime wear is a dress of rose colored cotton damask with self buttons down the snug, high neckline bodice. Side pleat on each side of centre seam makes for a graceful skirt.

A FRESH AND NEW look to a trim black two-piecer of triple sheer is offered by a deep calot of pasted white plumage trimmed at the side centre with big pasted wings in bird effect, and frosted with sheer white veiling.

NOT SUCH A LUXURY, since it lasts for years and is always a distinctive fashion, is the softly tailored suit of pure tie silk. Deep blue, with a tiny geometric figure in black, white and red, makes a handsome suit, a softly tailored, double-breasted model, the jacket lined in thin white China silk.

SUCH AIRS as the cottons are giving themselves this season! Handsome enough for any smart afternoon event is a frock of white voile delicately printed in a brown lace tracery. The snug bodice fastens down the front with tiny self buttons and has full sleeves that bell in just below the elbow. Brown velvet for a sash with long streamers that fall over the unpressed pleats of the skirt.

Picturesque Pill-Box

The early run on straw has given way to fine summer felts, especially as handled by the really talented hat designer. Robert Dudley, who has such a flair for the dramatic hat, contributes his talents to an exquisite pill-box hat of mauve felt is a nice melange of the modern and medieval. The hat is trimmed with a self-color, silk-wool veiling drawn through slits in the crown to drape gracefully around the shoulders.

Aqua Blue For Daytime

Town or Country Frock

By VERA WINSTON

AQUA BLUE rayon spun in a linen-like weave is used for this neat little daytime dress. A black silk scarf polka dotted in aqua slips through two buttoned down tabs at the deep neckline. The buttoned down tab detail is repeated at the pocket on one side of the moderately full skirt. It is a good little number for town or country. Incidentally, don't forget the excellent rayons because of the big emphasis on silks and cottons. They are still very much with us, giving their usual good service.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Old-Looking Eyes in Young Faces

Youth has its own laws. On the day a girl graduates from the eighth grade, is ready for high school, she is entitled to ply the lipstick. How did that come about? Nobody knows. But there it is. Parents can scold and fuss and nothing happens. Of course, pretty girls are prettier without artifice, but they don't think so. After all, it is not of great importance.

Along about this time a girl may fancy that she can go to bed when she pleases, no matter how late the hour, tip-toe into the house along toward dawn after a Friday or Saturday night party. On this practice parents should put down their individual and collective feet. A child's health is imperiled by loss of sleep. Mothers stay awake and worry. Some of them seem to be afraid to approach their children. If the bond of love between them is close, and the mother is tactful, these things need not be.

Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

Appearance is about the most important matter in the life of a teen-ager. She wants to look lovely, be the envy of other girls, have the boys date her up. Unless she feels well, she won't look well. If she is tired, her eyes will lack lustre. One often sees old eyes in young faces. Weary eyes that have neither sparkle nor animation.

Young girls have an idea that they are made of wire and fiddle strings, can't wear out. In high school, activities can be pretty strenuous, especially if a girl is popular, is a demon party-goer. Over-activity is tough on the nervous system. It may mean under-standard health. Sometimes a girl may be bored with parties, fed up with them. But she must run with the pack. She feels she can't take a chance of losing popularity. If she doesn't care about her health, she should — and usually does — care about how she looks.

No artifice will hide fatigue, or the facial shadows and drawn look caused by lack of sleep. Of what avail the uptilted eyelashes, the perfectly arched eyebrows, the peaches and cream complexion if the eyes are dull and listless? Eyes tell tales. The doctor knows. When one is in splendid health, eyes sparkle. Something is wrong somewhere when they are clouded.

Expressionless eyes cause the face to appear masklike. There is no responsiveness in the countenance. Even very little girls may have old-looking faces if they do not get sufficient rest.

Certain beauty chores must be done. You must brush your teeth morning and night without fail, have your daily bath. Nothing like scrupulous cleanliness to make a girl appear sweet and dainty. Hair must be shampooed frequently, fingernails kept groomed. But that is not the whole beauty story. One must keep well, strong, highly energized.

Dramatizing by Spotlight the Cutting of the Bridal Cake

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At my wedding reception there is to be no seated service at all, not even a bride's table. But my uncle, who is also my godfather, is giving us a very handsome and elaborately designed bridal cake, and I would like to feature this cake in the reception proceedings. I know that I cut the first piece of this cake and share it with my bridegroom. Then what is the next step .. do I cut more slices of the cake, or if not, who takes over? And what is the correct order to serve the pieces of the cake?

— Josephine S.

After you have cut the first slice of cake and shared it with your bridegroom, you may, if you wish, cut a few more pieces (to be served to those next most importantly concerned with the wedding), or you may (as is more customary) give over this procedure to a caterer's assistant or waiter or perhaps to a devoted relatives or friend who would like to take over this delightful responsibility. The cake will be passed first to the members of the bridal party, then to your mother and father with the bridegroom's mother and father, and then to the other wedding guests.

Since you particularly want to feature and dramatize this beautiful gift-cake, you might like to follow the plan of having the wedding photographer have a spotlight play on the table where the bride and bridegroom are cutting the cake .. then turned on the individual members of the bridal party, your mother, the bridegroom's mother and other special guests as they are receiving their slices of the cake. And you yourself cutting and serving the cake to your devoted and generous godfather.

Signing Gift Card to Son's Fiance

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My son is very serious about a girl, a very charming girl, and I imagine that they will soon be engaged. If they are, I would like to send her an engagement gift, and probably other gifts later. How should I sign my name on the card enclosed with such a gift? For instance, should it be "Marion Jones" or "Mrs. John Jones?"

—Mother

Never sign your name to any kind of letter or card with the title of "Mrs." ("Mrs. John Jones" for example). Sign the card enclosed with the gift "Marion Jones." Or perhaps write on the card enclosed with the engagement gift. "Here's a little gift to you from your Bill's mother, and it's wrapped with my dearest love and all best wishes for your's and Bill's happiness always! Affectionately, Marion Jones.

A Gathering for Sister Entering Convent

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister is entering a convent in the near future, and I am planning to have a gathering of her friends here before she leaves. Would it be proper to decorate the living room with crepe paper? If it would be, what color would you suggest?

—M.C.

It isn't necessary to have this type of decoration, and instead, at this season of the year, it is lighter and gayer to have flowers artistically arranged in a few vases in the livng room. You could honor her by using her favorite flowers or by using flowers of her favorite color, and then keying the dining room table setting to this color. Or, if you will be happier decorating with crepe paper, you might use a combination of white and gold or silver, or white with her favorite color as an accent.

Bill: "I don't see how you keep so cheerful, Dick. I should think a life insurance agent's job would be humdrum."

1. "At the office I found a claim cheque ready for delivery to a widow who needed that money. Don't you suppose her gratitude made me feel I'd done something important?"

2. "Then, on the way back, I stopped off to see Tom Black — he and a partner have just opened a new garage. Now, if one of the partners should die prematurely, the other will be able to carry on that business."

3. "From there to see George Williams who's retiring soon. Our company will start paying him to relax and enjoy himself. You should have seen him smiling, just like a happy kid!"

4. "Coming out, I met Jim Trimble who's going to college — thanks to the policy I sold his Dad. Believe me, I shared his excitement."

5. "Next, I helped a couple bring their life insurance programme up to date. They've just had an addition to their family. They were happy before, but now they've got peace of mind, too!

"That's the way it goes.

HAPPY REUNION WITH SAVIOUR—Accompanying picture describes more adequately than mere words the joy felt by 11-year-old Felicia Gruenfeder in this moving reunion as she rushes into the arms of Mrs. Joseph Arens. Eight years ago when the Nazis were exterminating Jews in Poland, Mrs. Arens, a Christian, risked her own life by harboring the little girl for five years. The girl and her mother, Maria, arrived in New York on a D.P. ship, last week. Reunion was staged today at the Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society shelter.—(CPC).

PICTON

Stately Elm Tree, Town Landmark, May be Cut Down

Picton—The stately elm which hasbeen a landmark on East Main street for hundreds of years, and is believed the oldest in Ontario may have to come down. This was revealed yesterday when one of the huge limbs fell and in doing so landed on the top of a new car owned by Crown Attorney Gordon Walmsley. That the tree is rotting badly despite attention from tree surgeons was revealed. The top of the car was badly damaged and may have to be replaced. No one was in the vehicle at the time, but a car driven by Reeve J.C. Cooper had passed by the tree a few seconds earlier. The tree stands in front of Major Walmsley's home.

Given Additional Year

Leslie Pringle, who escaped from Picton jail will have an additional year to serve. Appearing before Magistrate T.Y. Wills in weekly court here, he was given an additional year in jail. The magistrate commented that the sentence should be one that would act as a deterrent and that the escape had apparently been well planned. Pringle was waiting transportation to the reformatory after being sentenced to one year on a charge of perjury. He made his escape while the jailer was attending a patient who had been taken ill. After an allnight search he was found at the home of a girl friend who persuaded him to give himself up.

Prince Edward Yacht Club inaugurated its first of a series of special social evenings with boat races and entertainment at the club dock Wednesday night. Several hundred enjoyed not only the program but the cooling breezes.

After the races for outboards there was a colorful display of fireworks which was particularly effective over the water. The Tennessee Trio gave a group of vocal numbers, Misses Dorothy Nourse gave solos and Jimmie Hunter two songs. Feats of magic by Herbert Hyatt also proved popular. Chief Petty Officer H. Rawling, using colored lights, gave a demonstration of club swinging to music. Ross Maxwell was master-of-ceremonies. Later in the evening, the Mello-Dees played for dancing.

Winners in the races were Beasley, McLean, Istead in 5 h.p. class; Thomas, LeHeup, Fitchell of Napanee in 7 1-2 h.p. class; Beasley, Watson, Thomas in bang and go back; Watson, Roblin, Thomas in free-for-all. Herb McCabe, Napanee, who had entered his plywood constructed boat, was unfortunate in hitting a submerged log and puncturing the hull.

One Can Keep Cool Visiting Cold-Weather Testing Rooms

By HAROLD MORRISON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, June 17 — (CP) — B-R-R-R! It's cold.

Crazy with the heat? No, just writing about a little Arctic spot we've discovered on the eastern outskirts of Ottawa.

Did I say one spot? Actually, there's three—all within a radius of 200 feet. They're the cold-weather testing rooms of the National Research Council.

A secret project is being developed among the scientists, they say, to move all the desks and filing cabinets into the rooms—purely for research, of course!

While the rest of Canada is wilting in the sun, thoughts come cool and quiet here. There's plenty of space, too. One room is 50 feet long and 15 feet wide. The other two are 10 feet sqare.

Cooling Off

Aircraft fuselages, tanks, vehicles, guns and clothing all get a cooling off in simulated Arctic temperatures. Some times they come out loaded with ice.

N.R.C. has spent thousands of dollars to keep these spots cool. The chambers are built of 13 plates of metal, each spaced a half-inch apart and sealed tight.

On the roof is a refrigerator system with coils and big fans that push the cold air into the vault-like rooms.

One disadvantage, they've found, is that to keep alive, a person has to dress pretty warmly—sheep-lined flying suits for instance.

So if you feel a little warm, just come down to this mecca for polar bears and move around a bit among the railway tool systems, fire extinguishers (getting the cold-weather test, too) and the oil dilutions. You'll find yourself freezing in no time.

Another Spot

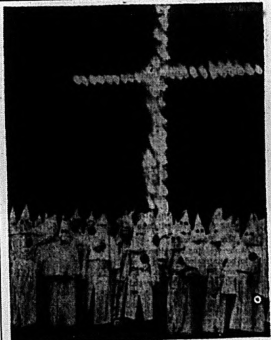
Talking of cold spots, there's another comparatively cool haven in town. Not many tourists have overlooked it.

It's the stone-waller Parliament Buildings. While members are out in the heat fighting election campaigns, hundreds of tourists are walking through the cool corridors of the Centre Block. They are getting a close-up of the stately chambers where the laws of the land are made.

HANDY FIRE PUMP

A fire-fighting pump which can be carried in a knapsack, for fighting bush and grass fires has been designed by a British firm.

CLAIMS UNION HERO WAS THUG—While New York police were holding three men as material witnesses in the telephone booth slaying of William Lurye, garment workers union organizer, a new twist was given the mystery by Diego Panzica, war veteran. Sitting beside a cot, Panzica identifies a photo of Lurye as one of an organizing group which he claimed set up and beat him last April. Holding the picture is Attorney Bernard Samuels. The shooting of Lurye was widely publicized in union circles. Thousands paraded at his funeral in New York, and he is listed as one of the great martyrs of the union cause.—(CPC).



DISAPPOINTING TURNOUT FOR KLAN—Hooded members of the Ku Klux Klan stand around the huge cross they burned on the side of Stone Mountain, Atlanta, Ga., in what was to be the grand initiation ceremony for 1,000 new members. Grand Dragon Samuel Green, who had predicted that figure, was sorely disappointed when a mere 125 candidates turned up for the nightshirt brigade.—(CPC).

BIG BIRTHDAY PARTY

Winnipeg — (CP) — Visitors to Winnipeg's 75th birthday celebrations have been estimated at more than 20,000 persons. An estimated crowd of 150,000 persons — the largest here yet—lined the streets to witness the anniversary parade.

RHINOS DRAW CROWDS

Calcutta, India — (CP) — Two rhinos, Raja and Ranee, from the Assam forests en route to Cairo, are drawing large crowds at the local zoo. Among other exhibits sent from Assam was a baby elephant.

Brighteners

Barre, Vt., (AP)—Even bossy mutely conceded Friday that the method she worked out for escaping the current heat wave had its drawbacks.

The cow simply smashed through a covering over a pasture well and submerged herself in six-feet-deep water. This probably gave bossy a stiff neck, so she had to hold her head up at an angle all night to get air.

A wreckage truck, gently hoisting with a sling, raised bossy—and her surface temperature—and, incidentally, lowered her humidity.

Joliet, Ill., (AP)—Thirty-six grammar school pupils who were graduated Friday near Joliet didn't even expect to be told that the world is their oyster.

There were no flowers, music, pretty frocks or beaming parents at the ceremonies. The commencement address lasted three minutes.

The dungaree-clad grads are inmates of Stateville penitentiary. Their teachers also are prisoners.

The graduates, ranging in age from 20 to 44 years, sat quietly as Warden Joseph E. Bagin delivered the brief address. He stressed the fact that their diplomas bore no identifying mark to show their alma mater was a penitentiary.

One lucky graduate was paroled two weeks ago. He did not come back for his diploma.

Sacramento, Calif. (AP)—Mrs. Fay Logan said Friday she's had six replies to her classified ad for "a sincere dad for handicapped, intelligent small boy."

And she has interviewed one gentleman—"a very nice person". It wouldn't be fair to divulge his name, she said, but she hinted she may see him again.

The 32-year-old mother's previous marriage was annulled. Her son, David, two, needs medical care she cannot afford, she explained.

David went along on the dinner date with the gentleman, Mrs. Logan added, and "acted like a little demon."

FORMER BODYGUARD DEAD

Baltimore, June 1— (AP) — Col. Harry Cooper, 52, former head of the Washington District of the Secret Service and one time presidential bodyguard, died in hospital Friday night 45 minutes after he was admitted with a bullet wound in the head. He was found lying on a bedroom floor in his suburban home with a .45 calibre automatic nearby and notes to his wife and daughter on the dresser.

Feller Confounds Experts By Return to Top Form by Defeating Yanks in 11 Frames

By JOE REICHLER

Bob Feller is up to his old tricks again. He is engaging in his favorite pastime of making the baseball experts eat their words.

It was only a couple of days ago that the experts predicted, for the umpty - umpth time, that the erstwhile great Cleveland pitcher was through — finished as a winning hurler. And as he did on all previous occasions, the 30-year-old righthander has proved them wrong.

He stilled them Sunday with a brilliant 11-inning pitching performance as the Indians defeated New York Yankees 4-2. Feller allowed six hits, only one in the last seven innings.

Feller, who won 122 games in five straight complete seasons for the Indians, reached the nadir of his pitching fortunes just eight days ago. June 11, the Yankees handed him the most humiliating defeat of his career. They shelled him out in the first inning with a nine - run attack that saw Bob retire only one man. It was his fifth straight defeat.

That was the signal for many of the scribes to start writing Feller's baseball obituary. They were forced to hold up when Bob came back three days after to beat the Red Sox in Boston with a six-hit effort. Sunday's showing by Bob probably made them chuck the whole idea for a while.

Feller's victory was an important one for the fourth - place Indians. It gave them the series from the league - leaders — two games to one — and moved them up to within 5½ from the top. They've now won seven of their last eight and trail the third - place Philadelphia Athletics by only one game.

Homer Broke up Game

A home run with one on by first baseman Mickey Vernon broke up the game in the 11th. Tommy Henrich drove in one of the Yankees' two runs with his 13th homer.

Helped by homers by Ted Williams and Dom DiMaggio, each with two mates aboard. Boston Red Sox walloped Chicago White Sox 9-2 to sweep the four-gamt series. The victory moved Boston past Washington into fifth place, 6½ games off the pace.

The second - place Detroit Tigers, behind the superb pitching of Virgil Trucks and Fred Hutchinson shut out the Washington Senators in both ends of a doubleheader 9-0 and 7-0.

Third baseman George Kell of the Tigers increased his league leading batting figure to .353 with four hits, three in the nightcap. He batted in a pair of runs in each game.

Philadelphia and St. Louis divided a doubleheader, the Athletics winning the first game 8-2 and the Browns taking the second 7-3. Rookie Alex Kellner won his ninth game for the A's, scattering six hits. He drove home three runs with a couple of singles.

Single in Ninth Helps

Chuck Diering's ninth - inning single scored Lou Klein with the run that gave the second - place St. Louis Cardinals a 6-5 victory over Philadelphia. Diering earlier had slammed a two-run homer. Stan Musial also hit two homers for the Cards.

Johnny Schmitz pitched Chicago Cubs to an 8-2 triumph over the Dodgers to snap a seven-game losing streak for his club. Andy Pafko, helped him with two homers. It was the first game the Cubs won since Frank Frisch became manager, but he was not around to see it. He was ejected in the third inning by umpire Larry Goetz for protesting a decision too vigorously.

Boston Braves regained third place from the Phillies by taking both ends of a doubleheader from Cincinnati Reds, 5-2 and 3-2.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, June 20 (AP)—Don Budge, now 34 years old, is going into this week's pro tennis championships with the idea of bumping Ted Schroeder out of the most lucrative spot in next winter's tour…Schroeder won't add a great deal to pro tennis," Don proclaimed the other day. "He's not improving with age and is only a big shot amateur because Jack Kramer stepped out."… Of course, Ted hasn't turned pro, but it seems pretty certain that he will if he has a successful summer season. He didn't do it before because the pros wouldn't meet his price, but with his buddy, Kramer, becoming the promoter the price may have come down … Don's idea, of course, is to look so good that he'll get to play Kramer in the big match every night while Ted drops into the preliminary.

Perfect Strategy

Bill Harris, the Giants' southern scout, tells this one about his best job of coaching in the International League. Bill was on the coaching line for Jersey City in a game against Buffalo when the pitcher got into difficulties… Manager Bert Niehoff called him over and said: "Bill, you used to pitch for Buffalo and you know their weaknesses; go out and tell Jones what to throw."…Harris strolled out to the mound and advised: "Breeze a hard, fast one down the middle."…Jones did and the surprised batter struck out…"Actually," Bill confessed now, "I wouldn't have bet a plugged nickel that Jones could throw that pitch."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Whoever did the master-minding for the Batawa Shoemen senior baseball squad on Saturday gloaming — and we have a sneaking suspicion that we can throw a stone and noggin the gentleman from where we are sitting in the office at the present moment, apparently knew what he was doing. The shake-up in the Shoemen squad, especially in the infield which has been the team's weakest spot all season—and the outfield looking as if it needed a few vitamins at times, paid off handsomely. The "strangers" came up with a sparkling 7-5 win to lift themselves out of the cellar and for the first time in weeks feeling someone breathing down their necks.

The injection of Keith MacDonald into the lineup provided a lot of the spark necessary for the team if it's going to be up there with the leaders by the time the playoff bugles sound "They're off." The lad from the little Spanish Town replaced Solmes at second base and he cavorted around the keystone sack with all the verve and dash of a veteran of the senior wars. He played a flawless game and in addition pounded out a couple of clouts to wild blue yonder that were about as welcome as a bucket of suds to a homecoming desert rat.

Solmes appeared to be perfectly at home in the new spot in the outfield and the change of locale didn't appear to cast any gnats in his batting optics. He merely lashed out a trio of clouts one of them a soaring two-baser.

* * *

Peter Jones played his usual effective game at first with the "Mouse" turning in a neat effort at shortstop despite the fact he bobbled the pill on one ocasion. The infield as a whole clicked neatly turning in a pair of fine twin-killings and but for a slight let-up on the part of one of the fielders should have had a third.

* * *

In fact the whole team had a different spirit to former games. They went in there fighting and came out the same way with the scalps of the down east foemen tacked to their collective belts. It's an ill wind that doesn't dry somebody's washing, so mebbe the Shoemen master-minds had better send Manager John Haffey of the Trenton Intermediates a letter of appreciation for sticking to his demands that Trenton-domiciled players of the Batawa team play for the home-town squad. The squad Saturday was a great improvement on any team seen in Shoemen uniforms thus far. Let's hope something can be done to keep it that way.

That occasional humming you radio fans might have heard issuing from the loud-speakers on Saturday eve during the baseball game was nothing mechanical. A pair of baseball-minded mosquitoes, glutted with large juicy portions of man-meat, neatly and not messily extracted from that portion of the radio-press anatomy situated just below the collar, were holding a confab. Seems they're trying to arrange a cheering section for the Batawa team. All they ask is salt-and-pepper shakers with the occasional jug of ketchup distributed through the stands for the more fastidious gourmets of their tribe.

As a matter of fact, the cussed pests were so big in the radio-press booth that at the end of the seventh they were murmuring "Shove over, bub, d'ya wanta hog the whole seat?" And they emphasized the request with smartly driven barbs, or whatever they use to enforce an argument, into whatever part of the anatomy that was vulnerable at the moment.

Tonight at the Fair GFrounds the Northern Electrics take on Kiwanis Juniors in a Belleville District League clash. Juniors went to a three-all tie with the strong Napanee team the other night and with Northern all set and ready to go, tonight's tilt should be worth seeing. The Trenton R.C.A.F. Flyers, fresh from their victory over Point Anne the other night, take on the 1948 champions in the Gibbardville park in a twilight tussle. Flyers are beginning to hit their strike after a couple of webbly games, so the doughty Napanee gang will likely be in for an entertaining evening.

Baseball fans at the Northern Electric - Kiwanis Juniors tilt this evening will be treated to an exhibition of foot-racing by the local lads who did so well at the Canadian High School Track and Field Championships held recently in Montreal.

* * *

Their trainer, Mr. John Bennett of the Northern Electric Company, has secured permission of the league to stage several races between innings. Those taking part will include Jim Dowsett, Canadian High School 440 champ for this year and George Ewald who finished third in the 880 yard run and second in the mile.

* * *

Also showing their wares will be George Locke who finished third in the running broad jump; sprinters Vince and Merle Massey, Don Carter and several employees of the Northern Electric.

Toronto Leafs In Fourth Place Of Int. League

(By The Associated Press)

Bobby Morgan, heir - apparent to Pee Wee Reese's berth as shortstop on Brooklyn Dodgers, is banging International League pitching in healthy fashion for Montreal Royals.

Morgan, saved from drowning by Brooklyn's Gene Hermanski while at the Dodger training camp this spring, is hitting at .354 gait and is one of the main reasons the Royals are in the pennant battle.

The Royals' star enjoyed his greatest day of the season Sunday as the Royals swept a doubleheader from the last - place Newark Bears, 5-3 and 12-0.

Morgan collected three hits in each game, belted three homers and drove home 11 runs, eight of them in the night cap.

Pat McGlothin stopped the Bears on five hits in the opener with Lou Novikoff's two homers and one by Lew Riggs accounting for all of the bears' runs. Dan Bankhead breezed to his seventh victory in the nightcap, limiting the Bears to five singles.

The twin triumphs enabled the Royals to remain 7½ games back of the league - leading Buffalo Bisons who took two games from Baltimore Orioles 9-3 and 8-0.

Ray Coleman's grand - slam homer and Chet Laabs' three run double allowed Glen Hausmann to coast to his fourth victory. Ken Wood drove home all Baltimore runs on a pair of homers.

Saul Rogovin blanked the Orioles on two hits in the nightcap. Rogovin also blasted a three-run homer.

The Jersey Giants took over third place from Toronto Maple Leafs, beating Rochester Red Wings, 5-4 and 3-1 while the Leafs split with Syracuse Chiefs, winning the first game, 8-4 but losing the finale, 3-1.

Joe Bracchitta singled home Ray Noble from third base with the Giants' winning run in the eighth inning of the first game to give George Bamberger his eighth victory. Neil Watlington's 2-run single in the sixth inning snapped a 1-1 tie in the second game. Lefty Roger Bowman held the Wings to three hits, one of them a homer by Steve Bilko to gain his seventh conquest.

The Leafs scored five runs in the ninth inning to beat the Chiefs in the first game. Ed Sanicki of the Leafs crashed his 17th homer with a mate on in the fourth.

Dixie Howell blanked the Leafs on six hits in the nightcap. The Chiefs collected only five safeties off three Toronto pitchers but two of them were four-baggers by Sam Meeks and Al Rubeling.

CHAMPION WINS

New Hamburg, June 20 (CP)—Some 2,000 race fans at the Kitchener-Waterloo Motorcycle Association midsummer meet saw Ted Sturges, Canadian champion win his qualifying heat and then go on to easily win the four-mile expert final. The keenly-contested races saw another Hamilton rider, Pete Schwedyk, win the three-mile senior event and E, Stillwell, of Wilson Grove, coming first in the three-mile expert.

Better Golf

By Sam Snead

Why it is so important to keep the head in fixed position until after the hit is made? You're asking me? Brother— and sister— here's why: The head is the top anchor of the swing. If you move it down and/or backward in the backswing and forward and/or up in the forward swing —both of these are tendencies with beginners —you present yourself with the problem of getting your head back to the correct position at the instant of impact. Except by pure accident this can't be done. If the head bobs or sways that same motion is contributed to the clubhead and the chances of error in the swing are multiplied. And to specifically answer the reader's question, you keep your head down until after the hit is made, the ball is away and the follow-through finished, because no human being is so well co-ordinated, muscularly, that he can raise his head at the correct mechanical instant. Instead keep your head fixed in the address position until your (right shoulder passes under your chin. Then you may let your) head turn slowly to look after your flight. But keep your head where it was until your hands have passed up and over your shoulder in the follow-through.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP
is a lot of little things

GIVE SIRENS THE RIGHT-OF-WAY
As soon as you hear the warning siren of a fire truck, police car or ambulance, pull over to the curb if you're driving—stay on the sidewalk if you're walking. Your quick action, multiplied by that of your fellow, citizens along the route may help save a human life, prevent property damage, or capture a criminal. To aid in this way, may seem a little thing—but it's one of the "little things" that make up "Good Citizenship".
You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citizenship.

Revamped Bata Shoemen Gain Third Place in COBL Standing, Defeat Brockville Memos 7-5

They're getting better all the time. Another shake-up in the Batawa Shoemen line - up on Saturday night paid off handsomely and the Men o' Easton came through with a sparkling 7-5 win over the Brockville Memos in a scheduled Central Ontario Baseball fixture.

It was one of the best games played this season with Keith MacDonald replacing Solmes at second base. Peter Jones was at first again. 'Mouse' Bush at short and Rankin at third. The infield played a fine defensive game, highlighting a fine effort with two sparkling double plays and nearly clicking on another.

The teams battled at a one-all tie for five innings with Jones driving in Spencer who had walked and gone to second on MacDonald's sacrifice and Dafoe who tripled racing home in front of Seeley's drive for Brockville in the fourth.

The Shoemen swung into a three run lead in the sixth. Solmes got a life on Rowe's error and Spencer laced out a single to centre field. Both runners scored when MacDonald's smash went for a clean hit to right field and the second baseman romped home on a fielder's choice.

Brockville came back in their half of the seventh for four runs on the shoddiest plays of the game. Only one hit was registerer and this coupled with Bush's error, a walk and two players hit by the pitcher accounted for the score. That was all for Brockville however.

The Shoemen tied up the score in their half of the seventh when Solmes, who had lashed out a two-bagger came home on a put-out. The winners clinched the game in the eighth, shoving over a pair of runs off three clouts. Peacock lined out a single to centre and Bush and Smith went down on infield outs. Solmes came up with his third hit of the pastime, driving home Peacock. Spencer drew his second free ticket and Keith MacDonald poled out a timely single, his second clout of the game to send Solmes across the plate. Brockville went down scoreless in their half of the ninth.

Solmes Gets Three

Solmes' potent bludgeon paced the Shoemen attack with his switch to the outfield apparently not bothering his batting eye. He poled out three solid smashes, one a two-bagger. Keith MacDonald was one of the stars of the game, turning in a flawless effort at second base and helping himself to two hits, one of them very timely in the eighth. Spencer, Jones and Peacock were the other hitsmiths for the winners.

Dafoe, Brockville rightfielder, lashed out a stinging triple in the fourth to pave the way for the Memos' first run.

Gordie Muffitt started on the mound for the Shoemen and yielded up five hits for as many runs before he was replaced by Smith in the sixth. Smith held the Memos to one hit over the remainder of the route.

Rowe, opening pitcher for the Memos went well until the sixth, giving up four hits for as many runs. He was replaced by Tomlinson who was just another pitcher to the Shoemen who nicked him for four hits for three runs in the remainder of the game.

DRIVER SEEMS PLEASED

Gravenhurst, June 20 (CP) — Miss Canada IV, Canada's entry in the Harmsworth trophy races, scheduled for this summer, had her first trial on Lake Muskoka yesterday. Harold Wilson of Ingersoll, Ont., builder of the 33-foot racing boat, seemed pleased as the craft manouevred around the lake on a slow test run.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, June 20 (CP) — It might surprise a lot of people, psychiatrists excluded, to know there are hero-worships among women, but these types of ladies have been known to sport editors for many years, says Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara.

The shooting in Chicago last week of Eddie Waitkus, popular first sacker for Philadelphia Phillies of the National League, by a girl who admired him from afar, caused the veteran Montreal sport-writer to comment on the subject.

Says Baz: "The boby sox brigade ardently worships many athletes . . . from afar. It isn't unusual either for (them) to marry ball players in particular . . . hockey players are not so much molested, so to speak, by ensnaring females . . .

"Strangely enough they follow wrestlers and bike riders. When Jules Audy rode around here he had quite a following from the distaff side. Jules could always count on a few letters a day from female fans who were intrigued by his blond head. He actually dyed his hair . . . in approval of their interest."

Baz goes on to tell about a lady who years ago called him up every night to find out how George "High Pockets" Kelly was doing. She wanted all statistics on the former International League baseball player. Apparently she had once met Kelly.

". . . Once," says Baz, "We got up enough courage to ask the lady why she was so interested in the ball player." This was her reply: "He looked so handsome in his business suit, he must be marvellous looking in his baseball uniform."

Hamilton Runner Sets New Mark For 6-Mile Run

(By The Canadian Press)

Walter Fredrick of the Hamilton Olympic Club, a member of the 1948 Olympic track team, set a new Canadian record Saturday in the six-mile run at the Ontario track and field championships in Hamilton.

Fedorick won the race in 32.58 3-5, bettering the mark set by George Berry in a Montreal meet in 1934.

Team prize went to the North Toronto Track Club with 33 points. Hamilton Olympic Club was second with 26 and University of Western Ontario Third with 16.

At Toronto, Pete Stewart 17 Ontario's 3rd-ranking Junior Tennis player, Saturday took the spotlight at 83 matches were completed in the opening rounds of the Provincial Tennis championships here.

The speedy Stewart defeated veteran Reg Little of Toronto 2-6, 6-3, 7-3. He then moved into the third round with an easy 7-5, 6-1 win over Ralph Ander.

In the ladies' Single Miss Jacqueline Merner of Waterloo defeated Gwen Lugar of Toronto, 6-4, 4-6, 6-0.

Consider only a sprinter, the daughter of Archworth and Spion crest covered the 1 1-16 miles in 1.45 3-5. Victory Arch ran as an entry with Filis, which finished second in the no-wagering race. Bunty line was third. The race carried $3,000 added. Speedy Irish, carrying top weight at 126 pounds, failed to prove a serious threat.

The Canadian Marathon Champions, which also will be a British Empire games trial, have been awarded to Hamilton Olympic Club, Ken Yost, secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, announced Sunday night at Winnipeg. The championships will be staged at Hamilton Stadium July 9.

The Edmonton Maple Leafs Athletic Club has signed a working agreement with Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, Stan Ward, Club President, announced Saturday.

The contract of Eddie Cutts, under suspension for two years by Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, has been purchased by Montreal Canadiens, Frank Selke, Habitants' general manager, announced at Edmonton. Cutts will be turned over to the Edmonton Flyers of the Western Canada Senior Hockey League next season, Selke said.

At San Jose, Calif, Charley Gehringer famed former major league baseball player, and Josephine stillen of Detroit, were married Saturday after switching plans to avoid publicity.

While news camera men and reporters waited at St. Clare's Church in nearby Santa Clara, where the wedding was to have been performed, Gehringer, a former Detroit player, and Miss Stillen were married in St. Patrick's church here by Rev. William F. McNally.

Ont. Amateur Baseball

(By The Canadian Press)

St. Thomas Legionaires will have to acquire some know-how about protecting early-game leads if they want to get out of last place in the senior Intercounty Baseball Association.

In an afternoon game Saturday the Legionnaires industrioulsy built up a 7-0 lead against the third-place Galt Terriers by the third inning and then watched Terriers come from behind to score an 8-7 victory.

It was their 13th loss in 15 starts for St. Thomas.

In other intercounty games during the weekend, London Majors blasted Terriers 15-5 in a night game at London, Stratford Nationals gained a 6-1 win over the leading Waterloo Tigers and Brantford Red Sox defeated Guelph Maple Leafs 4-1. In another game the Nationals lost to Kitchener Legionnaires 7-4.

In the Central Ontario Senior League, a revamped Batawa Shoemen team moved into third place when they turned back Brockville Memos 7-5 while Oshawa Merchants downed Peterborough Marines 4-1.

In a Niagara District game St. Catharines Stags won their seventh straight victory, defeating Niagara Falls Fords 9-1.

Only Two Return To Majors After Reinstatement

New York, June 20 — (AP)— Two weeks after Commissioner A. B. Chandler's edict forgiving all Mexican League jumpers, only two of the score of reinstated players have reclaimed their old baseball jobs in the majors.

They are Lou Klein, St. Louis Cardinals infielder who is filling in for the aching - back Marty Marion at shortstop, and George Hausmann, who has taken over second base for New York Giants.

A half-dozen other athletes granted amnesty expect to return to organized baseball in the next few days.

The rest appear temporarily stymied — either they don't want to come back or there's no "welcome" mat out for them.

Mickey Owen, the onetime Brooklyn catcher who spearheaded the movement to have the five-year bans lifted, said he planned to join the Dodgers tomorrow in Cincinnati.

Also headed for the Dodgers is Luis Olmo, who has been playing outfield for the Pastora Club in Venezuela. He expects to join Brooklyn by next Saturday.

In the Quebec Provincial League, two former "outlaw" pitchers — Fred Martin and Harry Feldman — announced they would return to United States baseball jobs shortly.

Martin, former St. Louis Cardinal righthander, said he planned to report to the Cards' manager Eddie Dyer. Feldman, the onetime New York Giant who has been given his outright release by the New Yorkers, said he would go to either Seattle or San Diego in the Pacific Coast League.

Martin's old mound mate, Max Lanier, still is balking. He says he is not willing to leave his Quebec post for the $11,500 salary and "earn-your-spurs" proposition offered by the Cardinals.

Former New York Giant outfielder Danny Gardella — has announced he doesn't want to return. He's also playing semi-pro ball in Quebec.

The way Klein and Hausmann have come back should furnish encouragement to those essaying come backs.

The 30-year-old Klein, who also played in Quebec during the banishment, is batting .364 in 11 appearances and hasn't an error. Hausmann has played in two games for the Giants. He's batting .286 and also is flawless so far in the field.

Oshawa Beats Petes by 4-1

Oshawa, June 20 (CP)—Oshawa Merchants defeated Peterborough Marines 4-1 Saturday in a Central Ontario Baseball League. It was Oshawa's win in as many games with Marines.

Bill Gingerich, the Oshawa hurler, allowed only four hits, two of them in the seventh when a double-play throw from the outfield prevented a run. One of the other hits came in the ninth when Fred Garvey's single and Jack Lowrey's double produced Marines' only run.

Three of Oshawa's runs came in the fifth. Dell was safe on an error by Stewart when Gingerich tripled. Bill Cook drew a walk and George Ticony came through with a hit that drove in Gingerich and Cook.

YOUNG GIRL RISKS LIFE IN SPECTACULAR RESCUE

WINS DOW AWARD
JASMINE LOWE
of Glace Bay, Nova Scotia
runs in front of train to save child

This declaration was made by railwayman Clyde Hickman:

"We were rounding a curve when I saw a child on the tracks. It was impossible to stop. I signalled the engineer, (the engine was at the rear) set the brake on the car and started to get down —expecting to find the child under the train — when a young girl suddenly ran out and carried the child from the tracks with just a second to spare."

We are proud to present The Dow Award to 16-year-old Jasmine Lowe.

1. The train, carrying a load of stone, was rounding a curve when foreman Hickman noticed a small boy who had wandered onto the tracks.

2. Signalling back to the engineer, Hickman set the brake on the car — then climbed down, expecting to find the child under the train.

3. In the nick of time, young Jasmine Lowe snatched the child from the tracks. Thanks to her brave and unselfish action, the boy's life was saved.

THE Dow AWARD

THE DOW AWARD is a citation presented for acts of outstanding heroism and includes a $100 Canada Savings Bond. The Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Canadian daily newspapers, selects winners from recommendations made by a nationally known news organization.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Among many good bridge players there is a tendency to keep the bidding low. This is a very good trait. But like many good things it is too often carried to extremes.

This keep-the-bidding-low policy can be abused. It is being abused. It is creating a growing fault of keeping it too low. Some now do it at the cost of withholding needed information.

In a recent championship, some pairs failed to reach a slam in this deal:

NORTH
♠J 10 7 6 5
♥A 5
♦K 9 3
♣A Q 7

WEST
♠Q 4 3 2
♥J 10 7 3
♦10 8 6
♣J 8

EAST
♠9
♥K Q 9 8 4 2
♦J 5
♣9 6 5 2

SOUTH
♠A K 8
♦A Q 7 4 2
♣K 10 4 3

Here is how the bidding should go:

South	North
1 D	1 S
3 S	4 NT
6 H	6 S

South has a count of seven tricks. The moment north responds with a bid, more than two tricks are promised there. South then sees at least ten tricks in the pair; enough for a spade game.

To show enough for game, south should jump his assist. There is no reason why north should misread this. A jump shows enough for game. In this case it promised seven tricks with spade support.

With five tricks, north thus sees 12 that must prompt him to probe for a slam. His four no-trump is simply the convention for asking south how many aces and kings he holds.

Reply of six hearts is Kibitzer convention signal for showing two aces and two kings. This discloses the fact that the opponents hold one king. Therefore, grand slam should not be tried.

Several tables did not reach slam because of the desire to keep the bidding low. South, in such cases, failed to jump on the second round. Don't be so tight.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Batting: Mickey Vernon, Indians —Slammed a home run with one on in the 11th inning to give the Indians a 4-2 victory over New York Yankees.

Pitching: Virgil Trucks and Fred Hutchinson, Tigers — Pitched the Tigers to a double shutout victory over Washington Senators 9-0 and 7-0. Trucks gave up four hits and Hutchinson eight.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 20 (AP)—The day may come when all American movies bear the legend "made in Hollywood U.S."

That's the hope of film bigwig Dore Schary, who has put the tag on all forthcoming M.G.M. pictures. I asked the reason for this and here is his reply:

"We are going to miss on some of our product. It is normal that we do. But, generally, we are confident that we are going to be very proud of our product, and that it will reflect the best in motion pictures making and reflect much of the best things about the American personality.

"Because our films also play overseas a good deal, and because we are going to be generally proud of them, we have put the legend 'made in Hollywood U.S.' on our product.

"I would like to see it on all Hollywood films, because over the long pull and on the record, I think we do a damned good job."

Carson Gets Papers

Jack Carson receives his final citizenship papers within a week. He's from Carman, Man., and he hopes to fly back there after "Good Humor Man." The latter is a good role for Jack; he's a three-quart man himself. "Ice cream, you understand," he adds hastily.

Jane Powell is working in "Nancy Goes to Rio," after a film lapse of almost 1 1-2 years. She's denying rumors of a rift with her fiance Gary Steffen. "I've seen him every day since February and we've never had an argument," she says. It must be love.

Lauritz Melchior was lunching with producer Joe Pasternak, so I asked him what he thought of colleague Ezio Pinza's success in "South Pacific."

"I don't envy him," said the sizable Scandinavian. "Imagine singing 'Some Enchanted Evening' eight times a week!"

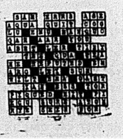
Answer to Saturday's Puzzle:



Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking to himself with a sattisfied expression, and ma said, Really, William, I mean really, anybody looking at you mite actually think you were injoying that silly cigar.

Anybody mite be rite, pop said, and ma said, On the contrary, William, just the opposite. I was reeding an article on smoking by an expert sycologist, if I could only remember his name. I think it was Dr. Summer Welby, or was it Welby Summer? she said.

It was probably Summer Welby, because according to the proverb, it takes more than one welby to make a summer, pop said, and ma said, Anyway, according to the article, the so called plezzure of smoking is 99 tenth imaginary, because you would not even be sure whether or not your cigar was lighted if you shut your eyes so you couldn't see the smoke, unless of course you delibritly choked on it.

That's quite a thawt, pop said. But of course men dont smoke for perposes of personel enjoyment. Their principal aim is quite unselfish. For instance, women never let enough fresh air into a room except during the summer munts when fresh air is so hot it's not werth breething. But if a thawtful husband leeves the extinct end of a cigar lying around, he knows that sooner or later his wife will rush in and fling open all the windows until good pure air bathes everything in the room including her own poor superheeted lungs. And then there's the question of keeping the ash trays neet and brite. All a man has to do is sprinkle a few ashes in each tray and the next time he looks they'll all be empty and polished like new, he said.

There would be no necessity for ash trays if no smoking went on, ma said. I hope I never hear sillier logic, she said.

Being the end of the subject.

Halifax Recalls Colorful Events of Storied Past

By ARNOLD AGNEW
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax, June 16 — (CP)—The name will be the same and so will the uniforms, but just about everything else will be different on the old parade ground behind Citadel Hill June 21.

Lord Cornwallis, a direct descendant of Edward Cornwallis who founded Halifax in 1749, will be here when the port city celebrates its 200th anniversary. The Northern Nova Scotia Highlanders will don the same style uniforms for the day as the founder's soldiers wore.

The troops will take part in a military display, including a mock battle to be staged on the Commons. The pageant will be an appropriate introduction to three months of Halifax Bicentenary celebrations.

Halifax has seen plenty of history in its 200 years — and most of it has been military. The city was founded by the British as a result of New England pressure for an outpost to offset the formidable French fortress of Louisburg in Cape Breton.

The "North Novies" colorful uniforms, borrowed from Britain, will strike a vivid contrast with rumbling tanks and zooming jet planes. But they will serve to remind onlookers of Halifax' role in the development of British North America.

Canada's oldest English-speaking city housed imperial garrisons and sheltered Britain's North American fleet until the early years of the present century.

Wolfe at Halifax

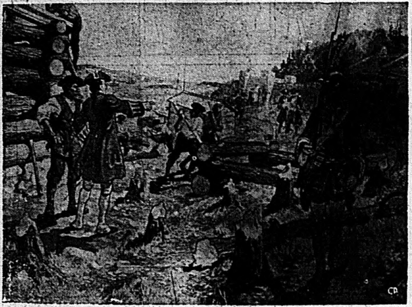
Such famous soldiers as General James Wolfe and Sir John Moore have been stationed here. At times, the military population outnumbered the civilian.

During the "cabbage planting" expedition of 1757(some 15,000 men cultivated vegetable gardens for two months while their officers debated the wisdom of attacking Louisburg and Quebec. The operation was first abandoned, but finally pushed through to success with Wolfe in the vanguard.

Expeditions set out from Halifax during the American Revolution and the War of 1812 to attack United States ports.

In the two world wars of this century, Halifax boomed — and groaned — as the majority of Canadian troops and large numbers of American forces going overseas passed through the port. Uncounted tons of war supplies and arms were shipped from here.

Haligonians say, and most servicemen will agree, Halifax was not at its best during the war. Now, four years later, they want them all to come back and see the city at its best — on its 200th birthday.



[illegible] Canada's largest east coast seaport, marks the 200th anniversary of its founding this year with a three-month long celebration. This drawing from the public archives of Nova Scotia is based on historical accounts of the founding by Col. Edward Cornwallis, governor of Nova Scotia. On June 21, 1749, Governor Cornwallis landed on the shores of Chebucto Bay, now Halifax Harbor, and began to build a settlement which through the years became the busy port of today. The city was named in honor of George Montague, Earl of Halifax, who, as president of England's Board of Trade and Plantations, took personal interest in the establishment of the first English-speaking colony in that part of Canada.—(CP Photo).

Candidates Ready For Last Week Before Voting

Ottawa, June 20 — (CP)—It's the now-or-never week for the 851 Canadians who want to be members of Canada's 21st Parliament.

This is the last chance they'll have to plug any gaps in their political fences and make sure their organizations are in good working order for the all-important federal vote June 27.

The four political leaders will be spending the time where they think it will do the most good. Prime Minister St. Laurent and George Drew, the Progressive Conservative leader, will concentrate on the 156 Commons seats in Ontario and Quebec. Mr. St. Laurent will also campaign in Newfoundland for the first time since it joined Confederation.

M. J. Coldwell of the C. C. F. and Solon Low of the Social Credit party wind up their campaigns in the provinces where their parties form provincial governments — Saskatchewan for the C. C. F. leader and Alberta for Mr. Low.

Behind them are nearly two months of arduous political campaigning and a session of parliment that proved to be a curtain-raiser to the actual campaign.

Also behind them are provincial elections in Newfoundland, Nova Scotia and British Columbia — widely - heralded as possible indications of the federal result. But what those provincial elections mean depends largely on what party you support — there's a different interpretation for every party.

C.C.F. Disappointed

But C. C. F. leaders frankly said they were disappointed at the results of the B. C. vote where the party's membership in the legislature dropped from 11 to six seats. On the basis of a string of federal by-election victories in British Columbia, the C.C.F. counted on gaining seats there. It had seven members from B.C. in the last House. The Liberals and Progressive Conservatives had four each.

The C. C. F. set-back in the provincial election, however, does not necessarily mean a set-back in the federal election where the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives are opposing each other. They formed a coalition in the provincial election.

Sometime this week, Trade Minister Howe is expected to give a detailed answer to the charges of Mr. Drew that the $22,000,000 government - built Canadian aircraft plant in Montreal had been sold to an American firm that belonged to a "sinister" international arms ring.

Mr. Drew first made the charges two weeks ago in Mr. Howe's own constituency — Port Arthur — and the minister said he would wait until his return to the lakehead before giving a detailed answer. He's due back at Port Arthur early this week after campaigning last week in the west.

Prague, (AP)—A Czech Communist editor pulled a boner and as a result his paper was confiscated by Communist-controlled police—presumably for "security reasons".

The paper was the weekly Kveten. Police swooped down on newstands and grabbed all copies. Stand owners said the reason was that Kveten published a map showing the exact location of hams and hydro electric stations built and planned on the Vltava river. It also gave their power production capacities and some other details. It did not say how many actually had been built.

MISS CALIFLORIDA — A forthcoming marriage exciting interest in the U.S. is that of Barbara Manning, above, of Los Angeles, Calif., and Fuller Warren, governor of Florida. U.S. humorists are comparing their marriage to that arranged by medieval kings who made one peaceful kingdom out of two warring ones by marrying their sons and heirs to daughters of the enemy. California and Florida, long-standing opponents in the publicity war of superlatives, may now emerge as a single state. Califlorida, perhaps?—(CPC).

Briefs From Britain

(By The Canadian Press)

Newbury, Berkshire, England (CP) — A cafe has for 15 years given a free loaf daily to a poor family in the town — more than 5,500 loaves.

Bridgewater, Somersetshire, Eng. (CP) — D. Rowe, Somerset Agricultural executive officer, told a National Farmers' Union meeting that central Somerset plain's rich 150,000 acres could produce between 50 and 100 per cent more food .

Auklington, Northumberland.—Eng. (CP) — An osprey, a rare bird in Britain and which preys on fish, was caught on the River Coquet. It apparently had been in difficulties and died soon after. Its wingspan was 5 feet 8 inches.

Southport, Eng. (CP) — Amphibious vehicles, bought by Southport and nearby Bolton-le-Sands fishermen to collect shrimps and cockles, will not be allowed on roads between the beaches and garages says the Transport Ministry.

Looking Ahead in Ottawa:

Canadian Buyers Likely to Find U.K. Cotton and Rayon Fabrics More Expensive After July 1st.

(By The Ottawa Staff of The Canadian Press)

Ottawa, June 20—(CP)—Trade experts, predict that when Canada reimposes tariff barriers on United Kingdom cotton and rayon fabrics July 1, Canadian buyers likely will find these British commodities more expensive than at any time since May, 1948.

That was the date temporary tariff concessions were made with the result that United Kingdom textiles entered without paying customs duties, averaging about 15 per cent of value.

The U. K., a big textiles exporter, took advantage by shipping about 300,000,000 pounds of cotton and about 2,800,000 pounds of rayon to Canada and obtaining more than $20,000,000 in hard—dollar—currency.

That concession placed the U.K. in a favorable price position, compared with the United States, another big textiles exporter which ships to Canada under quota restrictions.

When the temporary tariff concession was made, Canada gave some of its benefits to countries receiving Most Favored Nation tariff treatment, which includes the United States.

But the U. S. also pays a further duty of about 40 per cent on top of the customs duty. Nevertheless the U. S. during a 12-month period shipped 31,000,000 pounds of cotton and 5,000,000 pounds of rayon, obtaining about $43,000,000 from Canadian buyers.

The most favored nation concession also will come to an end July 1. Thus the U. K. still will be in a more favorable tariff position, but there is no indication this will apply to price competition.

Stargazers

The capital is host to more than 100 members of an old and honored association of celestial experts from all over the continent this week.

The group, more formally known as the American Astronomical Society, is holding its 81st annual meeting here at the invitation of Dr. C. S. Beals, Dominion astronomer. The Society has met in Canada only three times previously, in Ottawa in 1911 and 1929 and in Toronto in 1935.

FRONTIER U.

By Oren Arnold

"G—reat day!" murmured Ken Palmer, in admiration. "That was sure 'nough shooting!"

"Lucky," Polly declared.

"Lucky nothing!" Ken faced her, beaming. "You've been telling me yourself that rifle luck is a matter of steady nerves, miss! Gosh but you had the slant on that one, Polly! Ow!"

He couldn's say enough. He was a young man beside himself with excitement, almost as if it had been his own first kill. Obviously his pride in Polly was genuine.

Joy said nothing.

If a touch of jealousy assailed her, that was because she was only human here. In a sense, it is true, she had excellent alibi; she was new in the west, a city girl not experienced at hunting. And yet she had been cocksure on the university rifle range. Her target work had been rated excellent. And she had done some duck hunting back east. But hunters take little recognition of alibis, and youth is even less prone to maintain "excuses" in such matter. Joy Boone stood convicted of inefficiency here!

Ken himself addressed her first. "Look, Joy, where you missed was in not leading your game," he presumed to coach her. "I watched where your bullets hit. Polly has told be about it. She says you have to watch the speed of—"

"Yeah." Ken wide-eyed with enthusiasm, was insensitive to Joy's mood. "Look here, Polly said to squeeze the trigger like this, too. I think you gave it too much of a jerk. She said it's a common mistake for beginners, and I tried it last week on the desert. It takes a lot more self control than you realize but Polly showed me just how to save motions so as to—"

He had a great deal more to say. Much more of Polly's expert instructions to pass on, giving her what he would have felt was justified credit.

But Polly was quick to sense the tactlessness of his coaching here! "It's nothing," she tried to soft-pedal. "What I showed Ken, Joy, was what your already know, of course. I happened to be exceedingly lucky after you were unlucky with your shots. You'll get the next one."

"It's not luck, I tell you!" Ken almost shouted, like a small boy insisting excitably on his point. "You've just got what it takes! Gee!"

Ward, grinning, had to tone him down. "Here, Ken, take this piece of rope and help me, and stop arguin' the wimmin! We have to gut this critter and then get the carcass on a hoss. Lordy, he weighs plenty!"

Ward sent the other three back to camp with the kill so that there might be fresh venison for supper and so that he might ride on unhampered. Back in his mind, he whispered to Polly, was a hope of making one or two more kills so that they could have enough venison to feed Polly's entire senior class when they got back to school. Polly heartily approved that idea. Ken's horse could pack this first kill in, Ken leading it afoot.

With Ken to "squire" the girls and with Polly a safe guide for them, Ward waved to them in farewell and rode off alone. An hour or so later there was due excitement in camp when the three older people inspected the game.

Supper was ready by 5.30 p.m. but Ward had not returned.

At six Mr. McMurray made those present eat anyway. They were all famished, and there would be plenty to keep warm for Ward.

At 7.30 he hadn't returned, but at 8 they heard his voice through the forest. "E-yea-a-a-a-ho!" he sang out.

Ken shouted back exhultantly, then with Polly and Joy walked out to meet him. When he rode into the glow from Ken's flashlight, Ward was grinning broadly. In his arms he carried a spotted fawn!

"Won't find a thing like this once'n a hundred year!" he declared, to the group now excited anew. "Young fawn this late in the season. The mother had been killed by mountain lions, just before I got there. They'd of got this little feller in a few minutes more. He was crouched in the leaves near her, hiding. My horse just happened onto him. He's starved."

Joy was most distressed of all. "Aw-w-w-w!" she ran to it, took it from Ward, cuddled the dainty arm full as if it were a child. Its hair was ever so delicate. Its great eyes were pleading so that Joy quite shed tears of sympathy. Nobody laughed at her. On the contrary, every one was sympathetic.

Ward mixed some condensed milk and water, warmed it over the fire.

"He's too little to drink, so how — how can we—?" He squatted there holding the pan and frowning a little.

"Wait!" ordered Joy.

She ran to one of the cars, hastened back carrying one of her grey kid gloves. With Ward's aid she poured warm milk into the glove, they cut a tiny hole in the end of the middle finger. In a matter of seconds the baby deer was greedily nursing!

"Well, I'll be doggoned!" Ward murmured. "I'll just be eternally doggoned! Look, Joy; just look a there!"

"Oh, Ward!" she whispered it.

Ward looked at her a long moment. "They raise easy, Joy, would you — like to have him. For your own?"

The blond eastern girl, holding the wilderness orphan on her lap now, looked up at Ward McMurray and smiled a bit. Her eyes were misty as she nodded.

"He's yours. I wanted you to have him!"

o

The spotted fawn which Ward McMurray so tenderly presented to Joy Boone up in the mountains of Arizona, became in time the most renowned deer in America.

Back on the Frontier University campus on Monday morning, Joy appeared leading her pet with long blue and gold ribbons. By Tuesday she had caused a band of blue and gold, Frontier colors, to be dyed around its midriff, because ribbons to lead the tiny fellow were unnecessary now. It followed her much as a dog would, having learned that she fed it.

"It's positively the darlingest thi-i-i-ing". Some Frontier girl had gushed that Monday, and she in substance summarized what literally hundreds of girls said at every turn. In short, Joy Boone was in character again; she had created another sensation.

The Aroniza Republic, Phoenix morning newspaper, pictured Joy and the fawn on Tuesday. Both were beautiful.

The Evening Gazette had a larger display Tuesday afternoon. By Saturday, newspaper syndicates had sent the photos to every corner of the nation. Within a few weeks colochrome pictures came out in the more elaborate Sundays newspaper sections—most of them "playing up" America's Number One beauty and her fawn in full page illustrations. Mentions of Ward McMurray, Polly, Ken Palmer, and others on the hunting trip in Arizona, was quite incidental if given at all; it was always Joy who had the spotlight. But it did give little Frontier U national attention again.

One immediate result was an arrangement by a radio chain to interview Joy on its "Interesting Personalities" programs, coast-to-coast. Technicans and narrators came to the Frontier Campus with expensive equipment and much fanfare for the broadcast.

"Hello, New York!" the bright-voiced announcer began into his microphone. "I am speaking to you in the presence of a girl who has left you behind her — Miss Joy Boone. And where is she tonight? Away out west! Even now Squaw Peak looms over us in the Arizona moonlight. On this very spot a battle with Indians was fought within the memories of men and women still living. And what does Manhattan's glamorette think of Arizona?"

That was Joy's pre-arranged cue. "I love it!" she declared.

"Better than the cities? Better than Broadway?"

"Oh no! They are grand, too. But this is different, and new!"

"Ah-h-h-h!" The smooth-voiced radio man was flowing on. "America's adventure girl in her newest adventure of all. She came west in her own plane and landed in a breath-taking, death-defying escape from a desert thunderstorm — we'll be telling you about that again in just a moment—and in short two months she has seen the west, lived it, loved it! conquered it! Lovely Joy Boone, in action! The Personality Girl! And now at this moment, ladies and gentlemen of radioland, Miss Boone is cuddling a tiny orphan from the wilderness, a spotted fawn which—"

He poured it on pretty thick, as the listener in Phoenix agreed. But it was characteristic of his program, and good in its way. At any rate the 15-minute interview made snappy entertainment, and the world heard Joy Boone's pleasant speech and laughter.

The narrator closed with a deft touch that merely colored the program for the outside world, but which gripped a part of the Phoenix audience as nothing else had done.

"Before our farewell to Arizona for this evening," he said, rather unctuously, "it is heartening to note that youthful romance is again to be triumphant. Off the record, so to speak, I am able to report to you that Miss Boone, America's blond beauty, is 'that way' about the only man in Frontier University — none other than university president's son, himself! It's the talk of the town out here! And remember, all the world loves a lover!"

He spread it on a bit more, signed off the air. Sleepy little Frontier had experienced another topnotch thrill.

A great many schoolmates hastened to congratulate Joy. In the dorimtory where she had the choicest suite of rooms, more than a hundred girls all but engulfed her, demanding more details.

"When did he propose? When will you marry him? Aren't you just too excited? It's all so wonderful! Tell us, Joy!"

Questions and gushings on top of themselves. Joy basked in it, hearing it all as a happy sort of crescendo, answering none of them direct because she had no chance to for a while. It was not until the rush of excitement subsided and one calmer senior spoke, that she could answer direct.

"Well, Joy," the girl beamed happily at her, "you really do deserve congrats. You've got your man!"

Joy looked at her as if surprised, smiling a little dreamily. Have I ? Have I?, really?"

She tucked in her lower lip, a mannerism; and her violet eyes were starry now. She was gracious with it. Not cocky, not arrogant. Just a little girl, honest with herself; thrilled pink with the most exhilarating triumph any girl can know.

From a distance Polly McMurray was looking at her. But Polly was singularly quiet.

It was perhaps just as well that Ken Palmer didn't hear the broadcast that evening.

He and his friend Ward McMurray had ridden out on the north range of the vast Paradise Ranch that afternoon, helping with some branding work again. Ken had learned not only to rope calves with accuracy but to enjoy doing it. Ward taught him to apply the hot branding iron, and to make just the correct ear slits which further marked Paradise steers in customary manner. It was all vigorous, zestful man's work, and therefore delightful. Ken quite forgot his interest in books for the time being. The regular cowboys, moreover, were slowly developing a genuine respect for him.

Saunders Predicts No Power Cut-offs If Rainfall Normal

Two Main Developments Outlined by Hydro Head

Kingston, June 21 (CP)—Robert H. Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission, said here Monday that there will be no power cut-offs in the province next winter if there is normal rainfall this summer and early fall.

He told the annual meeting of the Kingston branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada that the hydro commission was planning ahead for future demands for power in Ontario.

Beyond the immediate program until the end of 1952 - which should be adequate barring dry periods this year — he says hydro planned two main developments:

1. Utilization of the St. Lawrence River to yield about 1,100,000 horsepower to Ontario.

2. If this should not be possible by 1952, hydro hopes that Niagara diversions of water flow will be completed and "efficient use of these water will be feasible."

If neither one of these alternatives is available, hydro may have to proceed with other steam units — or enlarge the ones now under construction in Toronto and Windsor — in order to meet the increased demand in the future, he said.

RAINVILLE'S BODY IS RECOVERED AT MONTREAL

Former Canadian Davis Cup Tennis Star's Identity Established

Montreal, June 21 (CP) — A body taken from Montreal harbor this morning has been positively identified as that of Marcel Rainville, former Canadian Davis Cup tennis star, city morgue officials said today.

A morgue official said a number of persons who knew the Montreal lawyer and athlete had identified the body which was found by a tugboat crew.

Morgue officials said that Rainville's wrists were slashed. No date was set immediately for an inquest.

The body was discovered near Victoria pier where bystanders Friday night found a pile of clothing and a sheet of paper with the name "Marcel Rainville" scribbled on it.

He was a law graduate of University of Montreal where he first starred as a tennis player.

Rainville was a man of small stature—so small he was known in the tennis world as "Pee-Wee" Rainville.

No. 1 Tennis Star

In 1930 and 1931 he was ranked as Canada's No. 2 tennis player.

By 1932 he was No. 1, the winner of the Canadian men's singles championship and perhaps his greatest effort for Canadian tennis was in the 1931 cup matches at Montreal when he won his match—a long-drawn -out, grueling affair with the United States star, Sidney Wood.

RURAL POPULATION

The population of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta is about 2,500,000, of which more than half live on farms or in rural areas.

Tension Mounts In Czechoslovakia, Arrests Reported

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

Prague, Czechoslovakia, June 21 — (AP) — Church - state tension mounted today as the communist government was reported seizing Roman Catholic opponents in Moravia.

Churchmen reported numerous clergy and prominent laymen arrested in that province. southeast of Prague near the Austrian and Hungarian border junction.

One source reported, without confirmation, that Archbishop Joseph Matocha of Olomouc, second city of Moravia, has been placed under a police watch like that maintained for the last five days over Archbishop Joseph Beran of Prague.

Britain's Skilled Handcraftmen To Get Govt. Support Says Cripps

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Treasures of craftsmanship, made in the cottage homes of Britain by men and women who have inherited their skills through generations, were shown to Sir Stafford Cripps recently when he launched the newly-formed British Handicrafts Export Organization.

Only a few hundred handcraftsmen are left in Britain, but Sir Stafford, chancellor of the exchequer, described them as "vital" to the country's export drive when he looked over their work.

Himself a spare-time woodcarver, the austere, bespectacled chancellor told how the dwindling band of cottage craftsmen has been organized by B.H.E.O. to bring in extra dollars and to give British designers and manufacturers a "high standard of artistic and functional quality."

He described the organization as a non-profit company "formed with government support."

"It aims to give our craftsmen opportunity to pursue vigorously their vocation by supplying them with the opportunity to export their vocation by supplying them with the opportunity to export their products . . . " he said.

Rare curios discovered in the rural backwaters of England, Scotland and Wales surrounded Sir Stafford as he appealed for £100,000 ($400,000) of public money by loan or gift for the enterprise.

Fine tweeds and shawls came from crofter cottages of the Highlands.

From the Shetlands came shawls of lambs' wool — fine as cobwebs and capable of being pulled through a wedding ring. Rare art pottery came from the little Welsh village of Ewenny.

Among other examples of home arts were gold, silver and glass engraving and stone cutting. These were given a corner to themselves in the galaxy of treasures seldom seen in city stores.

BIG FOUR PLEDGE HARMONY, AGREE ON AUSTRIAN PACT

Soviet Says Blockade Will Not be Reimposed

By JOSEPH DYNAN

Paris, June 21 — (AP) — The Big Four Foreign Ministers ended four weeks' debate Monday night with a pledge for east-west peace in Germany and general agreement on an Austrian independence treaty.

As the conference closed, the following results were announced:

1. A six - point statement of principles to guide negotiations in Germany. This featured a Russian promise not to reimpose a blockade of Berlin, in return for exports to revive east - west trade in the former Reich.

2. A joint communique announcing a series of agreements on the outstanding issues in the Austrian treaty and instructing the deputies to wrap up the document by Sept. 1.

3. Agreement among the four ministers to maintain contact and hold another meeting in New York next fall during the United Nations General Assembly.

An American deputy, Samuel Reber, told reporters he is confident the four powers will agree on an Austrian text in time for the fall session, when it presumably will be adopted and the Allies will pull their forces out of Austria.

The way toward Austrian agreement was cleared after the west met a $150,000,000 Soviet claim on Austria for German assets, and Russia dropped her support of Yugoslav claims on Austria.

On Germany the four countries were less definite. They acknowledged they had failed to unify the country politically and economically, but promised to try to do better in the future.

They pledged themselves not only to encourage inter - zonal trade and commerce in Germany but also to facilitate the movement of persons and information

They also agreed, according to Robert Schuman, the French foreign minister, to respect each other's political set-ups, even though they do not agree with them.

Austrians were jubilant when they heard the news about their independence treaty.

In Vienna, Chancellor Leopold Figl said the Big Four decision is "a big step toward peace and the freedom of humanity."

RESCUES CHILD FROM WELL

Dresden, June 20 — (CP)—Alvin (Buck) Wicks, 19-year-old grocery clerk, Saturday rescued four-year-old Ronnie Johnson from drowning in a well. The child had fallen through the crumbling concrete cover of the well. Wicks heard the child's screams and dropped through the 18-inch opening to the water 14 feet below. He grasped the boy and climbed back up the rough sides of the well unaided.

U.K. Commission Urges Tax Relief For Middle Classes For Families' Sake

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, June 21. (CP)— Britain's Labor government has been advised to give the middle classes more generous treatment if it does not want to see the intelligence of the nation deteriorate.

Britain social arrangements should be such that the higher paid, better educated and more intelligent produce more children, says the report of a Royal Commission published Monday.

The report, product of a five-year study on population, says that it "is clearly understandable for the welfare and cultural standards of Britain for the well-paid, educated classes to "keep their families not only below the replacement level but below the level of others."

The first public reaction promises to be a controversy over the commission's suggestion that Britain embark on a program of "planned families". The obvious conclusion is that the commission would like to see the birth rate checked at lower social levels and increased at the top.

It recommends considerable tax relief for families in higher income groups. A government source said Britain's finances—strained to the utmost to carry the load of social security—will not permit such steps to be taken at present.

The commission said the average size of family among professional and administrative workers is about 1.6, while that of general laborers is more than twice as high.

There was an "impressive weight of evidence" that the difference in birth rate had a tendency to lower the average of the country's innate intelligence. More detailed study of the problem was urged.

'Colonial Month' is Opened In London by King George, Colonies' Builders Praised

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, June 21 — (AP)— The King drove today through flag-decked London streets to Church House in Westminster to declare open Britain's "Colonial Month."

Showing no signs of the leg ailment which first affected him last autumn, His Majesty delivered a 20-minute address standing at a lecturn. Later he stood to receive about 50 citizens from various colonies who were presented by Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech Jones.

Colonial Month is being staged by the Colonial Office with cooperation from various British societies and merchants with the idea of increasing the British public's knowledge of the vast Colonial Empire.

In the words of the King, the Colonial Office hopes that dissemination of such knowledge will "continue and prosper."

The King, dressed in morning clothes with a jaunty red flower in his lapel, spoke of the work of men who through long generations had built up the Colonies. He said he is confident that their work will continue and that Colonial peoples will draw increasing benefits from their British connections.

The Queen, wearing a smoke-grey dress and a matching hat, accompanied His Majesty.

Colonial Exhibition

Following the Church House ceremony the King and Queen continued to one of the major features of Colonial Month, an exhibition in Oxford Street showing many facets of life in the Colonies

The most spectacular thing in the exhibition is a bit of simulated jungle, heated to jungle temperature of about 110 degrees with the air moistened to give the visitor the feeling that swamps are just around the corner. The sound of monkeys chattering and tropical birds calling fills the fetid atmosphere.

Chinese Nationalist Planes Damage British Freighter At Shanghai, Protest Lodged

By FRED HAMPSON

Shanghai, June 21 (AP).—Chinese Nationalist planes today damaged the British freighter Anchises, injuring four members of her crew. The war planes also fired a Shell Oil Company warehouse.

Three fighter-bombers made the raid. It was the second attack on Shanghai in 24 hours.

The 8,000-ton Boue Funnel Lines Anchises was beached.

In the fire at the Shell warehouse, 20,000 tons of kerosene and other petroleum products were destroyed.

The raid resulted in the diversion of several foreign ships from this port, normally one of the world's busiest. All foreign shipping is likely to stop immediately.

A Nationalist blockade was announced Monday. It was to begin June 26. Communist ports from Foochow, south of here, 1200 miles northward into Manchuria were named.

Watson said there was no question in his mind that the attack was directed at the ship. He said the British flag was plainly visible. Most seriously injured among the crew was deck boy T. Edwards. He was hurt in the bomb blast. Fourth Officer T. D. Mothersill, Jr., Electrician McPhail (first name not available), Hand Seaman J. Hamilton were less seriously injured in the attack.

The Shell warehouse, a few miles upstream, was hit by another bomb from the raiders. No casualties were reported at the warehouse.

The raid lasted about 30 minutes.

The Anchises was the fifth British ship hit during the last two months of the Chinese civil war. The other four were warships: the cruiser London, the destroyer Consort, and the sloops Amethyst and Black Swan. They were hit by Communist artillery on the Yangtze above Shanghai. Forty-four British sailors were killed.

No Sign Congress Has Turned Thumbs Down on Truman Plan

By GEORGE RONALD
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, June 21 —(CP)— Congressional wrangling over President Truman's legislative program is not, in itself, an omen of defeat.

Each new delay is a setback for the "Fair Deal" platform on which Truman was elected last November. But there is no evidence so far that Congress has definitely turned thumbs down on either the program or the President.

It is true that little has been done about Truman's major proposals; it is true also that none of them has been defeated. At best, however, the Senate and House of Representatives are taking their own sweet time about things.

Trend Toward Economy

In the background is the fact that all 433 members of the House are up for re-election next year and that many "Fair Deal" items would provide good campaign material. Closer to the surface is the trend toward economy and the legislators' unwillingness to vote for big expenditures before learning at first hand what the people back home think about it.

Furthermore, whatever action is taken before Congress recesses will be on the credit side of the ledger when the law-makers meet again next January. It will be the same Senate, the same House and the same program — and votes may be more frequent when the life of the 80th Congress starts to ebb and the autumn elections appear on the political horizon.

Decision on the dates of the recess may touch off some fireworks. Truman and his lieuten- "Fair Deal" written into law before Congress breaks off. But many congressmen now are talking about a July 31 recess—regardless.

Some observers refer to three pieces of "must" legislation: the North Atlantic treaty, a substitute for the Taft-Hartley labor law and the reciprocal trade legislation.

One prediction is that the three "must" matters, together with Marshall Plan and domestic rent control legislation already passed, might be considered a "major part" of the Truman program. If the administration thought so, a July 31 recess might suit everybody.

MOTHER AND TWO CHILDREN DIE IN FARM HOME FIRE

One Child Throws Coal Oil Into Burning Stove

Shawville, Que., June 21 (CP) — Mrs. Gustave Bretzlaff and her two small children died Monday when the six-year-old daughter threw coal oil into a burning stove and flames razed their isolated farm home.

Mrs. Bretzlaff, 30, died in hospital Monday night. The children — Barry, two, and Beatrice, six — were trapped in the blazing frame house at Otter Lake, 25 miles north of here.

Shawville is 40 miles northeast of Ottawa.

Mrs. Bretzlaff asked Beatrice to stir the fire in the stove. Instead, the little girl threw coal oil on the fire. The stove exploded, spilling burning coal oil over the room.

The two children ran upstairs. Mrs. Bretzlaff slipped and fell into the stove. Hospital officials said every part of her body was burned.

She rolled along the floor, her hair and clothes afire, to the front door where she met her husband who had heard the explosion. He ripped off his wife's burning clothes, then tried to get the children.

Flames blocked his first attempt to climb the stairs. Then he got a ladder but again was stopper as he tried to enter a second-storey window.

The children's bodies, charred beyond recognition, were found in the ruins of the home.

Bretzlaff called a doctor and drove his wife towards Shawville. They were met on the road by Dr. E. E. McDowell who administered first aid and Mrs. Bretzlaff was rushed to hospital. She died some eight hours after the fire started.

Sixty - two boats were destroyed or set adrift. Police said a 2,500 - ton freighter went aground at the entrance of Hakata Bay in Northern Kyushu.

Heavy rains inundated Central Japan.

Rip-Roaring Birthday Party Will Mark Bicentenary of Halifax Port

Halifax, June 21 (CP). — This old, grey port forgot the scars of war, explosion and riot today and launched into a rip-roaring birthday party to mark its bicentenary.

Two centuries have not been easy ones for Halifax, but they have never been dull. It has known Indian raids, press-gangs, depressions and epidemics. It has been ripped apart by an explosion in 1917 that killed thousands. Its back has been almost broken by the strain of two world wars.

Halifax's history is the story of ships and the men who man them. Tragedy born of the sea has marched past Haligonians in a steady chronicle of ships that were lost and men who went down with them.

Today the city's 90,000 inhabitants, together with thousands of other Nova Scotians, began what will be probably the longest birthday party in Canada. It's going to last three months.

A 21-gun salute crashed out from Port George atop Citadel Hill to start off the proceedings officially.

A five-mile-long parade of armed services units, 18 bands and scores of floats wound through the narrow streets. Taking the salute was Lord Cornwallis, descendant of the Edward Cornwallis who founded Halifax 200 years ago today.

From ships in the harbor came blasts on whistles and naval craft played streams of water into the air. There were band concerts and sports and the army put on a mock battle. Tonight street dancing and a fireworks display from Citadel Hill were scheduled.

And today was just the beginning. The events—sports, theatre, music to mention three—will go on until mid-September.

Port Arthur Man Turns Gun on Self Following Attack

Was Appearing in Court On Charge of Non-Support

Port Arthur, June 21—(CP)— William Gray, 50, died in hospital here today from self-inflicted chest wounds shortly after a shooting affray in family court in which he killed his wife and Presiding Judge Bruce J. McKitrick.

Port Arthur, June 21 (CP).— Judge Bruce T. McKitrick died in hospital here today shortly after a bizarre courtroom shooting which also claimed the life of Mrs. Wm. Gray, 40. The latter's husband, named by police as having done the shooting, was reported in serious condition from self-inflicted wounds.

The sudden flurry of shots came shortly after Mr. and Mrs. Gray had appeared in the juvenile and family court here, where the 50-year-old husband was facing a charge of non-support of his wife and three children.

Acted Suddenly

Police say the case had just opened when Gray suddenly pulled a gun from his pocket, turned it on his wife and fired. He then turned the gun on Judge McKitrick, shooting him in the chest.

Witnesses said the 50-year-old Gray then pointed the gun at defence counsel S. H. Davis. Apparently recognizing his lawyer before pulling the trigger, Gray turned the gun on himself, inflicting a chest wound.

The wound did not appear to be serious and while spectators watched in frozen horror Gray reloaded the 32-calibre gun and shot himself again.

No Time To Prevent Attack

Witnesses said the shooting took place so fast that they had no opportunity to stop Gray, a ticket-taker at a local theatre.

Judge McKitrick, formerly of Winnipeg, was appointed judge of the juvenile and family court at the lakehead in October, 1945.

The Gray family came to Port Arthur recently from eastern Ontario, but their former hometown is not known.

STORMS FORECAST FOR SOUTH ONT. MAY BRING RELIEF

Bureau Warns That Wednesday Will be Warm With Temperature in 80's

Toronto, June 21. (CP)—Thunderstorms are forecast for tonight in Southern Ontario as that section of the province experiences its worst drought in years.

For Ontario residents who are undergoing a sweltering heat wave, the weather bureau promises some relief with a forecast that slightly cooler and less humid air is moving into Southern Ontario.

But the bureau warns that tomorrow will still be a warm day in Southern Ontario with temperatures (in the mid-80s. Maximum temperatures in Northern Ontario will be in the 70s.

Southern Ontario's long drought is not only parching and shrivelling crops but it is also affecting its wildlife.

Toronto bird experts say waterfowl probably suffer most of all the wild creatures from an extended drought, especially during late Spring and early summer. They return to the same breeding grounds year after year, and in time of drought, lake shallows and grassy marshland often become parched and desolate.

But birds which eat grasshoppers and beetles do well in hot weather. Hoppers and many other insects thrive during dry spells.

Few mosquitoes have been seen this year in southern parts of the provinces and the drought can be credited for their absence. Most of the swamp breeding grounds of the "skeeters" have dried up.

Scattered rains in Ontario during the last two or three days have helped to relieve the plight of the farmers but some sections, particularly around Toronto and York County, have had no rainfall for nearly four weeks.

The Ontario Agriculture Department said Monday that hay fields in York County are yielding only 25 per cent of their normal crop. Immediate showers might result in a 40-perecent yield of wheat.

Farmers in such Western Ontario counties as Dufferin, Grey, Huron, Waterloo and Wellington report that "good showers" have saved them from a complete crop loss. The same welcome rains also hit parts of Southern and Central Ontario.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, June 21 — (CP)— Synopsis: Air that is slightly cooler and a little less humid will move into Southern Ontario Wednesday but it will still be a very warm day with temperatures in the mid-eighties.

Southern Ontario will have scattered thunderstorms tonight.

Mostly clear weather is expected for Southern Ontario Wednesday.

JAM BOILS OVER, LITTLE DAMAGE DONE

With fruit at its present high price housewives might be well advised to take a little extra precaution when doing preserves.

At least a Bettes Street woman realized this yesterday when in doing some jam the pot boiled over with dire consequences. The fire department was called to the scene but reported no damage other than to the jam.

Early Monday afternoon firemen were called to 14 Bridge St. West, where a back step was reported afire. Damage was held by firemen to the step.

Busy with his papers, he did not miss the dog when he left on his route.

Circulation Manager Dick Cowan put his place in order for the evening and locked the office door.

This morning when the caretaker "opened up" there lay the collie peacefully snoring in the middle of the floor none the worse for its lonely all-night sojourn.

Council Will Not Rescind By-law Licencing Signs

City council took no action Monday evening on a request from a number of business organizations in the city that the recently passed by-law for the licencing of overhanging street signs be rescinded.

George DeVuyst, local restaurant proprietor, and head of the local restaurant association headed a delegation representing a number of business groups including the restaurant owners, druggists, hotel association, Belleville Independent food merchants, and the retail merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. DeVuyst claimed the tax on street signs was unjust and asked that the by-law be rescinded. Mr. Ted Schwab, representing the retail merchants, and Mr. George Forhan, representing the local theatre managers, also addressed council on the matter.

Later during council session Alderman Bruce Lattimer introduced a recommendation calling for the rescinding of the by-law but this was defeated.

Alderman Charges 'Politicians' Trying to Re-instate Certain Families in The City Barns

Charges that "local politicians" were using pressure to re-instate certain families in the city barns after the city health officer had ordered the building closed for sanitary reasons were heard in city council Monday evening.

The charge was made by Alderman Lummiss who said he would like to know just what was going on at the city barns.

"If the health officer put these families out of the city barns why have certain politicians re-instated them?" he asked.

Several of the aldermen wanted Mr. Lummiss to qualify his statement and name the "politician" but the matter was dropped at that.

Alderman Brown stated that Sanitary Inspector George Whitman had granted extensions to one or two of the families who had been living in the city barns.

Arthur Keegan, unofficial mayor of Foster Ward, earlier addressed council on the matter admitting that in some instances the quarters at the city barns were extremely filthy and he did not blame the health officer for closing them.

On the other hand some of the families were decent and clean and were really trying to get somewhere in life. If an extension was granted to some of these families Mr. Keegan said he would take it upon himself to see that there quarters were kept clean.

He said that several of the churches and other organizations were interested in the plight of these people and lumber was being obtained and quarters would be erected by community effort. He said there were 28 children among the families living at the barns.

Mayor Storey pointed out that council had no power to re-instate the families. He said the evictions were ordered by the Board of Health over which council had no control.

Juvenile and Family Court Soon Ready For Operation

After many months of formation the Belleville and Hastings county juvenile and family court will soon be ready for operation, members of city council were told last evening by Dr. Bert Howard who has done much work in getting the court underway.

Dr. Howard stated a probationary officer for the court had now been secured and the court would be ready for operation early in the fall.

The speaker was a bit worried about the financial arrangements for paying the city's share of the cost of the court, however. And this was increased when Alderman Clarke introduced a motion asking that the city withhold any participation in the family court until the necessary funds were made available.

When council decided earlier in the year to go ahead with the family court it was decided that licence fees for overhanging street signs would be used for this purpose. The recommendation suggested there was some objection to the payment of fees for street signs.

Must Give Support

"We cannot withhold our support from the Juvenile Court now," stated Alderman C. L. Hyde. "We have pledged ourselves now and it simply cannot be done.

Here Alderman Clarke pointed out there was no desire on the part of council to withhold support from the family court. It was just that council had to know where the money was coming from. He said the cost of the court had not been included in the year's estimates.

Mayor D. L. Storey stated the city was responsible of there were any injuries resulting from overhanging street signs and therefore was entitled to collect a fee to pay for protection.

Solicitor Gives Opinion

"The family court has nothing to do with the street signs," said Alderman Lattimer. The alderman also disagreed with Mayor Storey in the matter of liability with respect to the signs, stating the merchants were liable.

Alderman Brown said the family court was important and its cost should have been taken care of in the estimates. "We are duty bound and obligated to go ahead with it," he said.

Alderman Armstrong questioned the legality of the signs to which City Solicitor R. A. Pringle replied that in his opinion the licencing of the signs was legal. Alderman Tice wanted it clear whether the city or merchants would be liable. He was told that if there was any injury as result of the signs undoubtedly both the city and the merchants would be sued.

"The signs have nothing to do with the matter. It is either we want the family court or we do not want the family court," he said.

100 Out of 170 Pay Fee

On Question from Alderman Tice it was noted that approximately 100 sign owners, out of a total of 170 in the city, had paid their licence fee.

When the question was raised as to whether there would be sufficient funds from the sign fees Mayor Storey noted that the city cannot vote funds "unless it has the funds". He said that applying the money received from the signs had been a way out in providing funds for the juvenile court.

Alderman Brown again stressed that the city was obliged to support the family court but Mr. Pringle said in his opinion the city had no legal obligation although possibly there was a moral obligation.

Council Approved

"This situation is very embarrassing to me," pointed out Dr. Howard as he asked permission to again speak to council.

"When the family court was first discussed we came to city council first and the approval of your body was granted. Then we went to county council and had their approval. Now all legal steps have been taken, the probationary officer has been secured."

He said the family court was one of the most important things in the city and wanted to know what was going to be done about it. He said he was very unhappy that council saw fit to "kick it around."

Council voted almost unanimously against the recommendation calling for the city to withhold participation in the family court until it was decided where the funds were coming from.

Guilty Of Drunk Driving Charge Man Given 7 Days

"This is fantastic in my mind", said Magistrate T. Y. Wills in magistrate's court today "that a man can crawl out of a car without three police officers in the immediate vicinity seeing him."

The bench was commenting on a drunken - driving case in which Ross Sine, Holloway, was found guilty after the evidence of several witnesses was heard. Sine was sentenced to seven days in the common jail.

Sine pleaded not guilty and swore in evidence that he had secured the services of another man to drive him home. The accused was apprehended near the corner of Front and Bridge Streets early in the morning of June 13 after his car had crashed into a directional sign on the pavement near the Paragon Cafe.

Mr. J. D. O'Flynn, who represented the accused, stated that the fact that no car keys had been found indicated the presence of a second man in the car, when the accident occurred. Three police officers, one driving a cruiser, which followed the Sine car from Church and Dundas to the point of accident, swore that no second person was in the car.

Another witness stated that another man was with Sine when he (the witness) alighted from the car at the corner of Church and Dundas Streets.

Residents Asked To Water Lawns In Specified Hours

An appeal for residents of the city to cooperate with the local public utilities during the present heat wave by watering lawns only during specified hours was made yesterday at the regular meeting of the utilities commission.

For the past week the filtration plant has been operating at capacity, it being found necessary each day to draw considerably on the storage tank at the pump house.

Average daily use of water in the city during the past week was considerably over 3,800,000 gallons and with the wash water for filtration beds the average amount of water pumped was 3,900,000 gallons. In fact one day it was found necessary to pump 4,200,000 gallons to the city with nearly a quarter of a million gallons of this water coming from the pump house storage tank.

Enforce Regulations

Hours for watering lawns are from 7 until 9 in the morning and from 5.30 until 8.30 in the evening, it was stated. However, until the present emergency arose it was not found necessary to enforce the regulations.

Work is now underway at the filtration plant for extensions to the filtration beds and pumping plant, the St. Lawrence Contracting Company having been awarded the contract for the work at $88,525.25. Utilities manager O. H. Scott stated the work was proceeding satisfactorily. The contract was awarded at a special meeting of the commission late in May.

No action was taken on a request from Sidney Township council for the extension of water service to Holmes avenue, north of the Trent Road.

No Plan Received

It was pointed out that there was no plan of the sub-division nor had approval been received from the Department of Public Health. On motion of Mayor D. L. Storey it was voted the matter would be taken up when the township complied with regulations.

Chairman of the Utilities Commission Russell Wotten and Commissioners Mayor D. L. Storey and Frank S. Follwell attended the meeting, the last before the summer recess.

Protests Meters Being Placed in Front of Home.

Formal objection to the installation of parking meters in front of private residences was heard in council Monday evening when a Pinnacle Street resident complained that he had been given a parking ticket for parking in front of his own home. "It had cost him $3.50 to settle the matter," he said.

Addressing council on what he termed the unfairness of the matter, the resident stated he was not alone in his complaint and did not see why parking meters had to be placed in front of private residences. He said he had no driveway and therefore had no opportunity of getting his car off the street. Council took no action on the matter.

SECUNDUM ARTEM

It is a common enough phrase in medical Latin—secundum artem. And while it is "Greek" to the uninitiated, it conveys a world of meaning to the physician-pharmacist team on which you depend for protection of your health.

On your prescription the physician orders drugs in the specific amounts needed for treatment of a specific condition. But there is one element that goes into a prescription which he does not direct —that is the mode or method of compounding. This is implied in every prescription—misce secundum artem, or "mix according to the art."

There's more to filling a prescription than just weighing out the drugs. Some ingredients, for instance, have to be treated with heat, or cold, or filtered to render them effective. Some have to be suspended in liquids. Sometimes, minute quantities of potent drugs have to be carefully distributed throughout a mixture. In some prescriptions the ingredients have to be blended to bring about the desired consistency or bulk for proper dosage. In others, delicate special procedures are sometimes required to prevent the reaction of one chemical on another.

These are but a few of the many pharmaceutical practices your pharmacist has to know to put up a prescription secundum artem. Your physician trusts your pharmacist's knowledge and judgment in the preparation of your medicines.—Reprinted from a copyrighted advertisement published by Parke, Davis & Company.

Toronto, June 21 — (CP) — A firmer trend continued from yesterday in today's dull session here. Industrials and golds marked up the best gains as activity increased slightly.

Gains were held to fractions in the industrials with some early advantages in key issues disappearing in mid-session. Algoma Steel showed the widest advantage, up 1¾ at 38¼ and Powell River, Massey-Harris, Minnesota and Ontario Paper and Ford A were among the gainers.

Junior gold producers started the ball rolling in golds, marking up pennies at the opening. Kerr Addison, in the seniors, gained ¼ at 15¼, at the half-way mark while McIntyre, and Hollinger eased Advances ranged up to 10 cents in selected junior producers.

Consolidated Smelters and Hudson Bay added fractions in base metals while Sherritt, Waite Amulet, New Calumet and Golden Manitou traded actively for penny advances.

Swimming Pool Being Used by School Children

This is 'Beat the Heat Week' at the public schools in Belleville.

Throughout the whole week the swimming pool at the Y.M.C.A. will be filled to capacity during school hours as the girls and boys of the upper grades of the public schools spend many happy hours in the refreshing coolness of the pool. These classes are being held during school hours, when the heat is "at its best." The swim not only refreshes the children but also sends them back to school or to play as the case may be, refreshed and much cooler.

The physical department of the Y.M.C.A. is co-operating with the School Board in providing this service to the youth of Belleville. The department is making use of the opportunity to impress upon the boys and girls importance of swimming and water safety knowledge, especially in this hot weather. Then, too, the Y endeavors to coach and instruct the swimmers in whatever way possible so that when the swim is over the child feels that in addition to the coolness provided, he or she learns something new in swimming.

Senior Grades Included

All the senior grades of the public schools are included in this program. Yesterday all the grade 6 boys in Belleville were swimming. Today both morning and afternoon, the girls of grades six and seven were at the Y. Tomorrow the girls of grades seven and eight will fill the pool. The boys will attend on Thursday and Friday to complete the week. The girls and boys of grade eight who have graduated are reminded that they swim at the Y on Wednesday afternoon for the girls and on Friday afternoon for the boys.

The total program is under the direction of J. Douglas Eaton, physical director of the Y.M.C.A. Assisting him in the supervision of the classes are the girls and boys of the junior leaders corps of the Y.M.C.A.

Finance Committee Denies Inference That Grants Omitted To Keep Same Tax Rate

An inference that the finance committee of city council last February deliberately left certain grants out of their estimates in order that the tax rate may be kept at the same level was emphatically denied in council last evening.

The matter came up for discussion when a recommendation was tabled which would authorize the Y. M. C. A. to apply to the legislature for exemption from all municipal taxes. Earlier in the year the "Y" had applied to council for their regular tax refund but this was held up owing to the refund not being considered in the year's estimates.

"Has the Y. M. C. A. not been paying taxes all these years" asked Alderman Lattimer. He was told the "Y" had not paid taxes for 38 years.

"They always paid their taxes but the amount of the taxes was covered by a grant from the city." stated alderman Clarke.

"They why was this not considered this year," Alderman Lattimer wanted to know. "It looks to me as if the finance committee deliberately left out a number of grants in order to keep the tax rate down."

Resents Insinuation

"I resent the insinuation that the finance committee did anything underhand or that it was trying to pull a fast one," heatedly replied Alderman Duffy. "All the members of council sat around when the estimates were passed and asked no question. Now you are seeking alibis," he said.

Council voted 10 to 4 authorizing the Y. M. C. A. to apply to the legislature for exemption of taxes and later voted a grant to the Y. M. C. A. to the amount of the 1949 taxes.

Approving the grant to the "Y" were: — Aldermen Armstrong, Brown, Hyde, Lattimer, Liddle, Lloyd, Thomas, Tice and Wilbur. Opposing were Mayor Storey, Allen, Clarke and Duffy.

The Canadian National Railways Recreational Association was sold a wedge - shaped lot between Cannifton Road and Station Street for the sum of $1, the Association planning to establish a recreational field on the site.

No Action Taken

No action was taken on a request from the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club for a refund of their 1948 taxes.

A committee of Aldermen Hyde, Tice and Lummiss and the city solicitor, was named to go into the matter of repairing the Campbell Street wall east of Pinnacle Street, which for the past several years has been in a bad state of disrepair. The committee was given power to act in the matter.

The Port Hope Construction Company was awarded the contract for the construction of sanitary sewers in the county home housing sub-division north of the highway. The amount of the contract was $27,163.35.

The Inter-Service Club council was authorized to erect at their own expense a sign at each entrance to the city, bearing the names of each service club in the city and the time which they meet.

Asked to Use Funds

Subject to direction by the city solicitor the local Board of Education was asked to make use of the accumulated interest from the Ritchie Fund for the supervision of the East and West Belleville playgrounds this year or to make the funds available to some other organization for this purpose.

A recommendation calling for a grant of $300 to be paid to the Belleville Lawn Bowling Association from the Tourist and Publicity committee budget saw objection from Alderman Lloyd, member of that committee.

Alderman Tice on presenting the motion stated that the annual bowling tournament was a big sporting event and was well worthy of the grant. Clifford Argue had spoken to council previously on the matter and had made a request for the grant.

Alderman Lloyd said he favored the grant if the money was available and moved an amendment that the matter be taken into consideration by the committee. The amendment carried.

Authorized To Proceed

Consulting engineers Gore and Storrie were authorized to proceed with the preparation of plans for the construction of sanitary sewers in the rental housing subdivision south of the highway.

Mention of the proposed housing sub-division brought a comment from Alderman Tice who referred to a letter from the Department of Health in Toronto to city council which had appeared in the Chamber of Commerce bulletin. The letter had reference to the possibility of raw sewage creating an objectionable odor in the proposed sub-division.

"I have every respect for a man's opinion but when he gets vindictive after being defeated by a majority vote of council then that is going too far. Alderman Jack Allin had a lot to do to give that letter to the Chamber of Commerce before it was discussed in council," he said.

Other councillors made no comment on the subject.

Tender Accepted

Subject to the approval of Gore and Storrie, the tender of Albert Defosse, Trenton, was accepted for the construction of concrete sidewalks in the city. Amount of the tender was $31,860, this not including construction of walks in Churchill Heights or Parkwood Heights.

Temporary asphalt sidewalks will be provided for Parkwood Heights and Churchill Heights with a permanent concrete top on the walk to be provided next year. Council decided against constructing permanent concrete walks in the two above areas this year owing to the possibility of settlement of the new fill.

City Engineer Mott stated the temporary asphalt walk had the approval of residents in the Parkwood Heights area.

Provide New Signs

New street signs will be provided for Parkwood and Churchill Heights, the design of the signs to be left to the city engineer and to the traffic committee.

Council turned down a recommendation to refer to next year's council the payment of the balance owing on the installation of a new furnace at the Corby Public Library.

Under enquiries Alderman Lattimer asked regarding the poor quality of zone paint, which was being applied to city streets and the traffic committee was authorized to deal with local contractor Fred Elgie, and with the paint manufacturers regarding the replacement of the paint and recovery of the cost of labor in applying the paint. City Engineer Charles Mott stated the paint appeared to be of poor quality and would not adhere satisfactorily to the street surface.

Aldermen Thomas and Allen were named a committee with power to act in meeting with the board of health with respect to spraying local marshes and other areas for mosquitoes.

Included in Contract

Alderman Lloyd enquired when sidewalks were going to be built in Wellington Crescent. He was told the sidewalks were included in the contract for sidewalks awarded during the meeting.

The same alderman wanted to know when Wellington Street and Marshall Road were to be oiled. He was told the work would be done this week.

Alderman Liddle asked when "stop" signs were going to be put on Henry and Cedar Streets. Alderman Lattimer said the signs were now being painted and would be shortly erected.

Alderman Brown asked when a certain ditch in Foster Ward was going to be tiled. He said the stench from this open ditch was very disagreeable. As chairman of public works Alderman Lummiss noted that water would not run uphill and this was one of the reasons the ditch was not tiled.

Alderman Disagrees

Alderman Brown disagreed, stating that a few hours work in removing a shelf at the edge of the bay would provide the needed drainage for the ditch.

Alderman Brown also wanted to know when relief was to be provided for firemen who were acting as school guides at Pinnacle Street.

Alderman Clarke asked when the agreement respecting the transfer of the Alemite recreation field for other city property was to be completed. He said a circus had recently used the grounds and the rental should come to the city. Alderman Thomas assured the rental would come to the city as the use of the field had been authorized by Art Young of the Stewart - Warner - Alemite with the understanding the rental be paid to the city.

Alderman Thomas wanted to know if a bus stop on Front Street at the end of Victoria Ave., could not be moved further down the street. At the present time the bus driver coming off Victoria. did not have room to square his vehicle at the curb with result that traffic was blocked, while the bus was stopped.

Aldermen Claim Parks Board Received More Than $13,000 Mentioned in Recent Address

The local parks board received more money during 1948 for expenditure on the local parks system than was indicated in a recent service club address by the parks board secretary O. A. Pinkston, members of city council were advised last evening.

Commenting on the article with respect to Mr. Pinkston's address which appeared last week in the Ontario Intelligencer two city aldermen pointed out the parks board received considerably more money than the $13,000 which had been mentioned. Both Ald. Clarke and Ald. Thomas referred to the article.

They pointed out that according to the auditor's report, the total receipts of the parks board during 1948 were $17,713.70, instead of $13,484.25 from the city as provided through the parks allotment of one mill on the tax rate.

In addition to the one mill amounting to $13,484 the parks board received $1,900 rentals, this with other revenues bringing the total to $17,713.

Against this, however, the annual financial statement shows the parks board spent a total of $18,872, including $6.606, principal and interest on debentures. Direct expenditures on the various parks last year was $8,809, and undistributed expense $3,456. The $1,158.67 net expenditure was paid from a surplus account.

This year the city will pay the parks board $14,510.25, the increased amount coming as result of the increased city assessment.

World Calendar of Equal Quarters Advocated by A.J. Hills, Ottawa, In Speaking to the Rotary Club

"The World Calendar is scientific, uniform, stable and perpetual with but one unvarying calendar every year. It retains the present twelve months; the four quarters are always equal, each quarter has 3 months, 13 weeks or 91 days; each month contains 26 working days plus Sundays; days and dates always agree from year to year and holidays are permanently fixed, A. J. Hills, Ottawa, Canadian Affiliate of the World Calendar Association told the Rotary Club on Monday.

"This perpetual calendar," Mr. Hills said, offers harmony and order to all strata of society—government, finance, industry, labor, retail trade, administration of justice, home life, religion, transportation and education. "In the last two fields alone, millions of dollars annually would be saved by eliminating yearly schedule making."

"His own calculations of the loss sustained in Canada alone by a year of bad holiday arrangement as compared with the World Calendar's arrangement," the speaker said, "runs up to 35 million dollars."

Claims Calendar Unsatisfactory

"The Gregorian Calendar is unsatisfactory in many ways," Mr. Hills said. "It is variable, unbalanced and unreliable; every year is different; holidays are all over the place; there are 28 different kinds of months coming in irregular order; there are 35 variations of the so-called quarters, which are really not quarters at all being uneven in their make - up of days 90-91-92 and 92."

"These major faults," Mr. Hills went on, "are coupled with the fact that none of the 14 different kinds of years, repeats in less than six years, and if not then the spacing between the year and its repetition is 11 years except in the case of leap years which repeat every 28 years. These conditions made exact comparisons impractical. They make dates for most people unpredictable."

Strangely Out of Place

In this modern split - second world this Gregorian Calendar is strangely out of place. It is wasteful and costly.

"The World Calendar," the speaker said, "is a simple arrangement of the present twelve months — by five one-day changes and the use of two stabilizing days, which gives balance and perpetuality.

February gets one more day than it has now in Leap Years thereby getting 30 days every year. March loses a day, as months other than the first in each quarter have only thirty days. April gets one day more because the first month in each quarter has 31 days. May and August each lose a day, being second months in their quarters.

Each quarter year follows a standard pattern. First a 31-day month commencing on a Sunday followed by two 30-day months, the last one ending on Saturday. Four such quarters each of 13 complete weeks make up 364 days. To make up 365 days one stabilizing day goes in every year after Saturday December 30 and before Sunday, Jan. 1. In each Leap Year the 366th day goes in between Saturday, June 30 and Sunday, July 1. "Worlds Day" will go in at the end of each year much as the hour goes in between midnight and 12:01 when the change is made from Daylight to Standard Time.

Leap Year Day

Similarly "Leap Year Day" will follow Saturday, June 30 at the half - year mark. It is expected that these days will be observed as world-wide holidays devoted to peace and goodwill uniting all nations.

With such a calendar in effect all the annoying variations in the present calendar will be eliminated. Each month has 26 working days plus Sundays. Under the Gregorian calendar the work days vary from 24 to 27 and the content of the months is continually changing.

"In 1937," Mr. Hills said, "representatives of 14 nations signified their approval of the 12 - months, equal - quarter plan of the World Calendar Association. Three more countries have come into line since."

Canada could just as well again take the lead in initiating another great civil reform by advocating Calendar reform, and passing legislation to make it effective when adopted by other countries, Mr. Hills concluded.

He spoke to the Kiwanis and Kinsmen Clubs Monday night and at noon today on the same subject.

SAVE DROWNING VICTIMS

All drowning fatalities are not necessarily due only to carelessness on the part of the victims, it is stated by Dr. Gordon Bates of Toronto in Health magazine. Too frequently there is lack of knowledge as to proper means of artificial respiration on the part of onlookers anxious to help.

"Artificial respiration should always be immediately and continuously applied by persons with some knowledge of the procedure. There are misapprehensions, however, which in some cases have led to tragedy. In spite of widespread publicity about ten years ago in the press, there still remains in the minds of many the idea that a person who has been under water for more than a few minutes cannot be revived by artificial respiration. This is not true. There have been instances of individuals who have been revived after having been as long as half an hour in the water.

"A committee of the Health League of Canada under the leadership of the late Sir Frederick Banting, in 1938 issued a statement to the effect that artificial respiration should be kept up continuously for four hours or until there is evidence of rigor mortis in the victim. Yet it has been noticed in not a few cases recently that artificial respiration has been discontinued in a very short time and the victim pronounced dead. This action has presumably been decided on because there have been no signs of life."

The editorial states that the same committee also found that "most drowning victims have no water in their lungs and that death results from spasm of the larynx. It is therefore most important that one should make certain in all of these cases that the air passages are free. The only known method of attempting to assure this end at present is to see that the patient's tongue is drawn well out during efforts of artificial respiration."

FOR SAFETY OF CHILDREN

There has been issued by the Ontario Department of Highways a striking chart or illustration to show in what type of accidents 68 children of school age were killed in Ontario last year. 42 were walking, 13 were riding bicycles and 13 were riding in cars.

The Department is doing everything possible to bring the facts of road casualties to the minds and hearts of the people so that the accident deaths may be eliminated and the ways be stafe for children.

The chart shows what the motorist has to be on the lookout for. 42 out of 68 were walking as follows, 13 were crossing the highway, 11 came from behind parked cars, 8 were playing in the streets, three were crossing between intersections, two crossing where there is no signal, two walking on the highway, two were on the sidewalk, and one was getting off a vehicle.

Then comes the next group of thirteen child victims, those riding bicycles — three were riding two on one bicycle, two were riding on the wrong side of the road, two riding in the centre of the road, two failed to stop at a through street, two swerved to the left without a warning signal and two were passing a vehicle.

The other thirteen victims were in cars which were in crashes.

Pupils should be told by their parents that they should be very careful now that they are going on holidays.

Children should be told to follow the rules of safety such as these drawn up by the Department:

Play in safe places.
Walk on the left side of the road (if there is no footpath).
Avoid stepping out from parked cars and trucks.
Stop, Look and Wait before crossing streets.
Cross only at intersections and walk across, don't run.

The folder also gives these practical bits of advice to children:

STOP at the curb.
LOOK both ways.
WAIT until it's safe, then
WALK across the street.

PAYING CROP

Tilling on his farm near Sylvan Lake, Red Deer, Alta., George Coverdale turned up a $65 crop of "lettuce." The money was in a moulded old billfold lost six years ago by Henry Ward, when he was working on the farm. The money was pressed together and had to be sent to Ottawa for reprinting.

Trust to God to weave your thread into the great web, though the pattern shows it not yet—George Macdonald.

ANCESTRY

How strangely generations
  Begin and fade away
And build the various nations
  For all who live today.
Upon life's stream we're carried
  To live and disappear.
Had John not Julia married,
  Then I had not been here.

Unnumbered the Decembers
  That since have come and gone,
When friends that none remembers
  Saw Julia wed to John.
Forgotten all the others
  Pledged faithful to remain,
The fathers and the mothers
  Who followed in their train.

Surely this life had altered
  For living and the dead
Had John or Julia faltered
  And each another wed.
Of all who loved and married
  Since then from year to year,
Had but one dream miscarried,
  Then I had not been here.

20 YEARS AGO

June 21st., 1929.

The Patterson Construction Company of this city will commence tomorrow on additions to the Alemite plant to provide for expansion of business, at a cost of $60,000.00.

Mr. W. Clarke Diamond, who received his training in the Ostrom Drug Store here, has been appointed manager of the second Tamblyn Drug Store in Hamilton. He is a son of Mrs. F. Davey Diamond of this city.

Mr. Stephen Brownell, who resides with his daughter, Mrs. C. Reddick on Burton Street, celebrated the 92nd. anniversary of his birth yesterday and received the congratulations of relatives and friends.

On Wednesday next the entrance examinations to the high school will commence here. Between 80 and 90 pupils from the public and Separate schools in the city will write.

Mr. Cyril Waite, who succeeds Mr. Walter E. Scott as manager of the Dominion Bank here, has arrived to assume his duties.

30 YEARS AGO

June 21st., 1919.

A team of horses attached to a wagon and owned by Mr. John Lafferty ran away on Charles Street last evening. At the junction of Church and Bridge Streets the wagon collided with a telegraph pole and the horses were freed from the wagon and ran to their stable on Pinnacle Street. The wagon was wrecked and the harness was badly damaged.

At a meeting of the Board of Education Col. Ponton moved and Mr. Harry W. Ponton spoke to the motion in an eulogistic manner. The motion was carried unanimously by a standing vote.

DOWN TO BRASS TACKS

A young man addressing a religious convention recently brought down the house with the statement that many people pray the following prayer: "Lord, I am willing to do whatever thou wouldn'st have me do, but thou knowest I work best in an advisory capacity."

Have you ever noticed the fellow who, when three or four men are grunting and sweating as they move a piano, tags along behind carrying the piano stool? There are many people who love committee meetings. As long as plans are being discussed or moral questions are in the delightful readm of the abstract, these people are on hand, taking a prominent part in the proceedings. But when questions suddenly become concrete, when plans mean ringing doorbells and climbing stairs, signing cheques or jumping in and doing a hard piece of physical work, these people are on the list of absentees.

It is easy to advise people about their problems; it takes self-effacement and sacrifice to get down where they live and help them solve their problems. We can do a lot of weeping at the movies over imaginary tragedies, and five minutes after we leave the theatre we can step right over a tragic situation in someone's life which is calling stridently for help.

Jesus said, "if ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them."

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

That curiously blinding red paint being used on billboards and other advertising signs soon fades to surely the feeblest, mawkiest of all colors—raspberry. It is quite a sensation these days for those of us who look askance at billboards to find ourselves being given the raspberry in large type by some of the most energetic advertisers in the country.

The first time I ever saw that particular blinding red was in the final months of the war when the American tanks under General Patton employed pieces of cloth dyed that color to identify themselves to our own aircraft.

The use of it only lasted a few hours. The great problem that faced the generals on that historic occasion, when a breakthrough around the Atlantic end of the Normandy line became a wild possibility was how to protect our wildcat tanks from being blasted by our own air forces—British and American—far behind the enemy lines, where no enterprising young airman would expect to see our own troops.

This terrifically gleaming red dye had just been discovered. And the generals got enough cloth of that staggering color to ration out a piece about the size of a table cloth to each of the tanks involved in the mighty gamble.

During those few hours of critical collision between our armor breaking through and their armor rushing to intercept, our air forces had no trouble picking their victims. The Germans—great dye experts—had no glittering, eye-blinding red with which to protect themselves by simple deception.

It was one of the great slaughters of all time; and that red dye had a good part to play in it.

Letter to the Editor

Urges All Citizens Get Out and Vote

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,

One of the commendable features of the forthcoming federal election is the active campaign to "Get out the vote". The Chamber of Commerce, the Canadian Legion and other civic minded bodies are engaged in a vital campaign to stir the lazy citizen into exercising the most precious possession of the democratic voter—the right to vote freely for the candidate of his choice.

Millions of people in this modern world are now denied this privilege we treat so lightly. Minority groups, headed by ironhanded dictators ensure that you vote for the one candidate listed on the ballot. He is the party man. You vote for him or suffer the consequences.

In our country, a good government is not hard to get; you just help yourself. But certainly nobody will present it to a community, a province or a country. The citizens themselves must want it enough to make the necessary effort to get it. Holy Writ states very plainly that "where there is no vision the people perish" and the hundreds of thousands of our fathers, brothers and sons who made the supreme sacrifice in 1914-18 and 1939-45 would indicate that the required vision was lacking in many places.

What are you doing about it? It can happen again.

Under our present democratic system we — you and I — are the government. All we need to do to get good government is to get behind our representative, let him know what we want, and then turn out on June 27th to vote for him. Do more than that. Get your friends out to vote. Volunteer the use of your car. Help your wife with the Monday wash and see that she, too, exercises the franchise we are so fortunate in having.

If we, the people, are so complacent and so disinterested that we can't take fifteen minutes of one day to mark an "X" beside the name of the candidate of our choice, then the wrong people will control our future destiny.

Don't let George look after your interests when June 27th comes around. Call up George and take him to the poll with you!

Vote as you like, but please vote on Monday, June 27th.

Yours truly,
C. D. Lundy,
12 Pine Gardens.

Mackenzie's Column:

Russians Promise Not to Impose Any Blockade

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The month-old Big Four Foreign Ministers' council meeting in Paris finally has ground to a weary close having recorded some achievement although it has done little to make the halls of the pink palace echo with satisfaction.

Small wonder that a United States spokesman wasn't optimistic in evaluating the results. One of the conference's chief accomplishments, as I see it, has been to emphasize again the conflict between the two blocs—western democracy and totalitarian bolshevism. It's difficult to find common ground on vital issues.

The principal object of the conference — to establish economic and political unity for Germany—hasn't got far. The best that could be done by the four statesmen—Vishinsky of Russia, Bevin of Britain, Schuman of France and Acheson of the United States—was to agree on a "modus vivendi" under which dismembered Germany will continue to be administered by the opposing blocs.

Under this agreement the Big Four would reopen and encourage trade between east and west Germany. The Russians promise not to impose blockade conditions on Berlin again.

Will It Work?

At face value that looks good but its real value depends on whether it can be made to work. The establishment of political and economic unity of Germany is essential to the rehabilitation and peace of Europe. However, this very importance of the Reich has made it the object of a tug-of-war between west and east. There is no guarantee that this tug-of-war will cease.

The council announced agreement in principle on an Austrian independence treaty.

The council agreed that Austria's frontiers will remain what they were Jan. 1, 1938, which means that Yugoslavia's claim has been thrown out. Russia is expected to withdraw her support to that claim. Yugoslavia won't get reparations but may "seize, retain or liquidate Austrian property" in Yugoslav territory. Austria will pay Russia $150,000,000 in reparations.

That's what has been agreed to in principle. It remains to be seen whether it will be what ultimately is signed, sealed and delivered. Agreements in principle have had no uncomfortable habit of blowing up, and so we shall wait and see what happens before accepting the treaty as an accomplished fact.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE CARTOONIST

The power and influence of the newspaper cartoonist has long been a potent factor in influencing and shaping public opinion. Among the great ones of the past may be mentioned Thomas Nast, Bush, Davenport, Johnson, Morris, W .A. Rogers, and among our more recent ones, Jay Darling Rollin Kirby, Fitzgerald, Rube Goldberg, John McCutcheon, and J. H. Donahey, the latter for 43 years the outstanding cartoonist for the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

I wish to pay a tribute to my friends Donahey, whom I knew for forty years. He was a fine artist and a keen thinker, and one of the most lovable men whom I have ever known. He died a few days ago, and left a void in the hearts of thousands of his friends. He had great ability, but was most modest and kindly at all times. He lived a full life and enriched the lives of all who knew him. He had no usa for sham and pretense. His distinctive cartoons made people think and he touched them with humor, but he was never brutal or unkind in them.

Donahey's interests were wide and varied. You always left him with something learned from his vast store of accumulated knowledge and experience, and to be with him and to talk with him was an event. He was widely read, but he was more an observer, and he saw the simple significance in things and in human beings. Those who knew and loved him will cherish his memory as a rich heritage.

The cartoonist doesn't have the vogue of the comic artist, but he has an importance that the other never has, for he is an interpreter of the higher values of life, and through his human pictorial art gives to the newspaper reader what many a long editorial would miss in seeking to explain a fallacy, or to reveal facts or truths. The cartoonist gets instantaneous reaction to the thing he wishes to reveal. You get the story at once, imagined in the brain.

Many of our cartoonists have been powerful crusaders who have done great service in opening the eyes of the people toward wrongs and evils that should be corrected. It was Thomas Nast whose powerful cartoons routed the "Tammany Tiger" of his Jay. Indeed it was he who created that symbol. More power to these cartoonists of ours!

Tomorrow—Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Places".

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

(Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis or treatment will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letter should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.)

THERE SHOULD BE A LAW

Reason for yourself, cries a quack doctor at the top of three columns of sucker bait. The quack quotes one Prof. Ehret whoever he may be, as follows:

"Every disease, no matter what name it is known by medical Science, is Constipation, which is a clogging up of the entire pipe system of the human body. Any special sympton is therefore merely the extraordinary local Constipation by more accumulated mucus at this particular place. Special accumulated points are the tongue, the stomach, and particularly the entire digestice tract. This last is the real and deeper cause of bowel constipation..."

Evidently the customer must have Constipation in order to qualify for the quack's treatment. But don't fash yourself if you haven't it—you will have it, all right, if you consult the quack. For that matter, every disease, no matter what name "it is known by Medical Science" is constipation, you ninny.

How can any one with the intelligence of a ten-year-old child read such bait and bite on it?

The quack plays up for all it is worth the fact that most persons "constantly carry in their colons the putrefying residues" of several meals.

Howell's Textbook of Physiology—available in any public library—says:

"Putrefaction is a normal occurrence in the large intestine" colon).

Thanks to the quacks and the managers of colon filling stations a great many gullible customers worry themselves sick about putrefaction in the intestine. A good many more people of limited intelligence cultivate a morbid concern about mucus, and once they begin using enemas, bowel washes or, as the filling station attendants call 'em, "internal baths," they are likely to preoccupied with excessive for as long as they continue interfering with the function of the bowel. The internal bath business is thus self-perpetuating.

Far from being harmful to health, putrefaction or decomposition of protein material in the intestine, by the action of bacteria (germs) on such material, is now regarded as part of the digestive process. That is, the bacteria in the intestine probably aid or supplement the protein splitting or hydrolytic function of the digestive enzymes or ferments—pepsin, trypsin, erepepsin —to form the amino-acids which are essential in nutrition.

Fortunately, people obsessed with the nostrum and quackery propaganda concerning the "toxic" or virulent" effects of intestinal putrefaction are not at all harmed if they limit their intake of certain proteins (such as those of meat and eggs) and consume the equivalent of three glasses (1½ pints) of milk, skim milk, separator milk, butter milk, naturally sour milk or skim milk soured by a culture of dactic bacilli—such as Bulgarian, Acidophilus, Yoghurt. These and other milk products are generally healthful for everybody.

Despite the common belief that milk, as a daily health beverage or as exclusive diet, is "constipating," the truth is that, like most foods, milk, skim milk, even cheese, is not only not "binding" but mildly laxative in effect. As the exclusive diet of the infant milk seems to promote normal intestinal function.

No More Harsh Laxatives!
Famous cereal brings lasting relief from constipation

Are harsh laxatives causing you distress and unhappiness? Then read this unsolicited letter:

SHANNONVILLE

Local H. and S. Assoc. Stages Surprise Party

Shannonville—The local Home and School Association staged a delightful surprise party on Friday afternoon for the pupils of the Shannonville School.

The teachers, Miss Verna Fox and Mr. Orville Reynolds lined the children outside on the school grounds. Four ladies of the Association, Mrs. Jerry Dafoe, Mrs. Fred Louis, Mrs. Kenneth Juby, and Mrs. Kilburn in turn presented each child with a bag of mixed candies, cookies, ice cream and a coco cola. The neighboring children too young for school were later treated with the surplus treats.

Miss Verna Fox and Mrs. Peter Marion took pictures of the various classes and the Junior and Senior Rooms.

Miss Fox and Mr. Reynolds thanked the Home and School Association. on behalf of the school children for this thoughtful gesture and which made such a fitting climax to the school year.

As it was too warm for games, the Junior pupils were dismissed and the Senior pupils retired to the school to receive their test results.

Later in the afternoon Roger Hill was visited by Miss Fox and Mr. Reynolds and delivered his share of the treats. Roger had been confined to his home that day after receiving a severe gash on his head while diving in the local river. He received a slight concussion and several stitches were required to close the wound. His schoolmates are hoping he will soon be back with them at school.

Guest of Liberal Party in City Welcomed at Charming Tea At Home of Mrs. E. Follwell

With the addition of but one syllable, the stenographically world-famous sentence could have been made to read, "Now is the time for all good women to come to the aid of the party." So doing, it would have exemplified fully the splendid rallying of over 300 ladies at an afternoon and evening tea held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. (Ted) Follwell, George Street, in honor of the party's guest speaker for the evening, Mrs. Douglas Blair, executive secretary of the National Federation of the Liberal Women of Canada.

Receiving at the door, which ushered the guests from the searing heat of a merciless sun into cool and spacious, flower-decked rooms, were the gracious hostesses, Mrs. E. E. Follwell, Mrs. Herbert McCabe, regional president of the Women's Liberal Association and Mrs. George Wilson, president of the Belleville Branch. Silent fans placed at strategic intervals wafted the so-welcome cooling breezes, laden with delicate perfume of peonies and roses. So contrasting were the atmospheric conditions of the inside with that of the outside, one could, with no stretch of the imagination fancy themselves at Killarney Lodge on the Lake of Two Rivers. Round about sat the guests, relaxed, and in easy conversation.

Through the wide-open archway between the living room and the dining room could be seen the lovely tea table, with its delicately hand-made cloth of Spider lace; its gleaming silver tea services, its triple silver candelabra with tall ivory candles, whose flames moved gently back and forth in the cooling air, and centred with a silver rose bowl of fragrant red roses. The whole effect was repeated in the large mirror in the living room, making on exceedingly charming picture, which was further enhanced by the soft notes from the piano played by Mrs. Peter Fortin.

The living room hostesses were, Mrs. Neil O'Neil, Mrs. F. Temple, Mrs. C. Murdock, Miss Mary McClelland, Mrs. M. Hudon, and Mrs. C. Wallbridge.

Those who presided from 3 to 4 were, Mrs. J. D. O'Flynn, and Mrs. Gilbert Scott, while Mrs. C. B. Morgan, Mrs.C. J. Doran, guest executive from Ottawa, assumed this honor from 4 to 5, and Mrs. Ken R. Ross and Mrs. A. G. Sprague from 5 to 6 p.m., Mrs. J. J. O'Connor and Mrs. Ben Burley. 8 to 10 p.m.

Those who replenished the table included: Mrs. T. A. Tucker, Mrs. G. Gallagher, Mrs. Wilfred Callaghan and Mrs. K. Young.

Those serving were, Mrs. W. C. Follwell, Miss Lillian Cournyea, Mrs. John Tatham, Mrs. Frank Cowan, Mrs. W. H. J. Follwell, Mrs. Robert Boyce, Miss Monique Laporte, Mrs. Ralph Morton, Miss Margaret Fairbairn, Mrs. Ken McNaught, Miss Isobel McCabe, Mrs. Robert Meyers, and Miss Agnes Marie O'Connor.

A charming tea, delightfully arranged, and graciously convened.

After the presentation and program a rousing charivari started outside. The groom handed out a good sum of money and ice cream and sweets were bought, which all enjoyed. All wished Mr. and Mrs. Baxter a very happy and prosperous married life.

On Tuesday last, the young couple motored to Nova Scotia, where they will reside.

V.O.N. NEWS

The V.O.N. admitted 45 new patients and made 417 visits during the month of May, reported Miss McGeary in the regular monthly report read to the Board of Directors Monday evening. Of the 417 visits, 46 were paid for by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, 133 fully paid for by the patients, and 48 paid for on a part time basis. In all some pay was received from 227 visits. The other 190 were free.

A letter of appreciation from Miss Millman of the School of Nursing of the University of Toronto, had been received, concerning the experience given the post graduate student who was in Belleville for her field work during May.

Miss McGeary said that the Order appreciated the funds presented them by the Women's Auxiliary of the Bridge Street United Church enabling them to buy reference books for their library.

Miss McGeary also referred to the co-operation given by the superintendent of the C.A.S., the principal of the O.S.D., the registrar of the community nursing registry, and the management of the Meade-Johnston in providing them with an opportunity to demonstrate their community service work.

It was announced that there will be no more dental conferences of toxoid clinics until September. However, the usual baby conferences will be held every Friday from 3.00 to 4.30 p.m. during the summer.

SHANNONVILLE

Presentation Made To Departing Pastor At Garden Party

Shannonville—Last Wednesday evening, over 200 people from Tweed, Belleville, Melrose, Salem, Shannonville and other district points, attended a garden party on the lawn of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Elliott, 2nd Concession. It was held under the auspices of the Sunday School of Shannonville United Church, and capably directed by the superintendent, Mr. William Slavin, assisted by the Sunshine Girls' Group, and their leaders, Mrs. Lorne Uens and Mrs. Charles Wood.

The evening was ideal for a lawn social. Gay colored lights lent to the attractiveness of the scene. Chairs were placed on the lawn for the visitors to enjoy the appropriate selections rendered by the Salvation Army Band of Belleville, who had graciously consented in adding their musical talent to make this evening such a great success. Towards the middle of the program, a sing-song of old familiar hymns was heartily enjoyed by all present.

Presentation Made

The Shannonville congregation took this opportunity of presenting their pastor, Rev. A. W. Lougheed, and Mrs. Lougheed, with a beautiful embossed purse containing the cash donations of their friends. Rev. and Mrs. Lougheed were called to the front by Mr. Slavin and seated in two arm chairs. Mrs. Aubrey Robertson read a fitting address and Mr. Claude Clarke presented the purse of money.

Rev. Mr. Lougheed thanked the contributors for their kind thoughts. He mentioned that he and his family had made many good friends during his seven years on this pastoral charge, and he hoped to be able to return to renew these friendships at not too long intervals. "Blest Be the Tie That Binds", was then sung.

The secretary of the Sunshine Girls' Group, Miss Beatrice Uens, outlined the history of the Girls' Group. The girls sang their theme song, accompanied by the Salvation Army Band.

Fish Pond Patronized

Mr. Crispe and son, Ernest, had charge of the fish pond, which was well patronized by young and old during the evening.

The girls of the Sunshine Girls' Group had charge of a booth, where they sold ice cream, soft drinks and home cooking, the latter table presenting a tempting array of tarts, cup cakes, and buns and needless to say, soon was "sold out".

Mr. William Slavin was master of ceremonies for the evening, and served very capably in this capacity.

The members of the Sunday School, assisted by the local ladies and men of the church, served delicious refreshments bringing an enjoyable evening to a close.

Credit for the success of this garden party is largely due to the untiring efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott, and to the members of the Sunday School.

A donation was given the Salvation Army for the Band's delightful concert.

ROSLIN

School Section Honors Teacher By Silver Gifts

Roslin—On Friday afternoon the ladies of Carter's School Section, met at the schoolhouse and spent a pleasant afternoon with the children and their teacher, Mrs. A. Bates.

Mr. Keith Goodfellow as master of ceremonies was in charge of the program which was arranged by the children and included musical numbers, contests and a quiz program.

Later, the teacher, Mrs. A. Bates, was asked to take the chair at the front of the school, and an address was read. She was presented with a silver cream pitcher and sugar bowl, on behalf of the school section.

Mrs. Bates, though taken completely by surprise, made a gracious and fitting reply, thanking them for their beautiful and useful gift.

Women Determing Factor In Elections Mrs. Blair Tells Members of Liberal Assoc.

"Since fifty per cent of the voters in this country are women, it is plain to see that women are a determining factor in elections," said Mrs. Douglas Blair executive secretary of the National Liberal Women's Federation, in addressing a capacity audience of the Belleville Women's Liberal Association gathered last evening at 123 Front Street.

"This week is most important," Mrs. Blair told the women. "We have to put forward that final effort that insures success. The stage is set, opening night is election day, and it is up to the workers to get in the vote. It is that extra push, that will send Mr. Follwell to parliament hill. Mr. Follwell is a very fine representative for this constituency and will no doubt be in Ottawa, when parliament opens in the Fall.

"The number of women's clubs have doubled and quadrupled since 1937", the speaker said, "and much of this renewed interest has been due to Louis St. Laurent.

Has One Candidate

"The Women's Liberal Association has one candidate running in this election. In future elections we hope to have more. Women should start now, and learn to take their proper place in municipal politics, building up reputations for themselves so that they will be fully qualified for nomination should they choose to run."

Mrs. Blair remarked that one of her neighbors, on leaving for a three-week holiday which would keep her out of her own riding during the election, had said to her that, "my vote will not matter—men will run things anyway."

"It was apathy such as this that lost a Liberal seat by three votes in the recent elections in Nova Scotia." the speaker charged "This person should realize that the advantges, of which she is availing herself, are due to the policies of the government, that has been in power."

Realized Mistake Claim

"After making a change in 1930, the voters of Canada realized their mistake, and flocked to the polls in 1935 to make certain that they would have a government which would better look after their interests.

"One of the parties is pressing the slogan, 'It is time for a change'. Certainly it is not a time for a change from the security of the last 14 years to the 20 cent a day relief of the early thirties."

Mrs. Blair, one of the four original organizers of the 20th Century Club, went on to say that "Our party recognizes the value and importance of young people in politics. Paul Martin and Lionel Chevrier were both members of the 20th Century Clubs back in the thirties The young people in the group tonight are the potential leader of tomorrow.

"The Liberal party does not put on one front in one province, and another front in the other provinces. Our party is not making illogical promises. We are not promising increased family allowances and old age pensions while at the same time promising lower taxes. We art not that dense that we fail to see that these two sets of promises are illogical. When family allowances were first introduced Mr. Drew referred to them as iniquitous.

Don't Make Promises

"We do not have to go up and down the country making a lot of promises. We have a record, a leader, and a team. Our party is like a club. Our president is Louis St. Laurent. The executive is the Cabinet. The team is the members of parliament and the voters. The Conservative Club has only a president."

Mr. Blair was introduced by Mrs. Herbert McCabe, regional president of the Central Ontario Women's Liberal Association, and the appreciation of the audience was expressed by Liberal candidate, Frank Follwell.

Mrs. George Wilson, president of the Women's Liberal Association of Belleville, was chairman of the meeting.

Dollar harvest...
A MAN with ideas often needs more than his own brains and hands to prosper from his enterprise. Often he needs money ...
Such a man is the "primary producer"—the farmer, fisherman, pulpwood contractor, miner.
When he needs a bank loan to help him put his ideas to work, he is free to shop around among Canada's ten chartered banks for the best deal he can get.
That's why primary producers—like most people—intend to keep banking competitive.

Oldest Street in North America Has Seen Many Changes in 400 Years

By JOE MacSWEEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

St. John's, Nfld., June 21 — (CP) — Water Street, a hop, skip and jump from this ancient city's fishwharves, is switching from cobblestones to pavement.

The narrow thoroughfare, oldest in North America, is being cleaved by bulldozers, jabbed by drills. A lot of water has come through the harbor narrows and washed its shores since the street was called "Lower Path" 400 years ago.

Water Street is Newfoundland's business centre. Narrow archways and passages lead from it to the wharves where the sea harvest is unloaded. Executive offices in business houses dating back several centuries overlook a maze of schooner masts that represent the island's biggest economic mainstay — the fishing industry.

Fire razed the wealthy street twice — in 1846 and 1892. It was paved with cobblestones and granite in 1899. Buses replaced its old tram system only last year.

In contrast to the many cars of late model in St. John's are to be found the horse-drawn "long carts," relics of the past which still compete with the bouncing traffic.

The street follows the length of the harbor, which once was closed to nosy enemy vessels by a giant chain strung across the narrows.

Directly behind Water Street the hill-side city of 60,000 rises on "levels." The houses, from their grandstand-like levels, survey the harbor and the business section as from a mighty amphitheatre.

Bicentennial celebrations in Halifax this summer include a musical play, "Halifax 1749," which will be presented in the centre of Citadel Hill's Fort George.

Floods Kill Nine, Health Agencies Take Measures

Petersburg, W. Va., June 21 — (AP) — Health authorities Monday moved into the flood stricken Shenandoah and Potomac River Valleys to avert any possible threat of typhoid from polluted water.

The danger of disease was the aftermath of flash floods that struck in Petersburg and Moorefield, W. Va., and Bridgewater, Va., during the weekend, killing at least nine persons.

Still unaccounted for were about a dozen others in the area. Officials directing the operations said, however, that they might still be alive but unable to communicate with rescuers.

Officials said damage from the flood may run into several millions. They added that only about 15 persons are actually homeless but that some 300 are depending on the Red Cross food kitchen for meals.

Drinking water in Petersburg and other communities hit by the floods has been polluted, and health officials are starting a program of inoculation.

Officials said no disease has occurred as the result of the flood yet and that the chances are good that none will. But they have 1,400 units of vaccine ready and expect more to be shipped in.

Spring Break-up In Arctic Causes Supply Problem

Ottawa, June 21 — (CP) — The "spring break-up" in the Arctic, with its fields of drifting ice and snow, is causing an acute supply problem, army headquarters reported Monday.

For several weeks R.C.A.F. Dakota aircraft have been dropping supplies and mail by parachute to such outposts as Kittigazuit at the mouth of the Mackenzie River, about 1,000 miles northwest of Edmonton and Cambridge Bay, about 1,200 miles north.

R.C.A.F. crews, working side by side with supply-dropping crews of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, last week completed one Edmonton-Kitti-Gazuit flight when 3,000 pounds of supplies were dropped.

During the cold winter months, heavy Dakota aircraft find little difficulty landing on the packed ice fields, but when spring reaches north about June, these fields become treacherous. The break-ups are expected to be completed by the end of the month when Canso flying boats will be on the runs and the normal supply routine resumed.

Montreal, June 21 (CP)—Fight observers who acclaimed the middleweight title victory of Jake Lamotta over France's Marcel Cerdan in Detroit last week as a remarkable feat will find no echoing support from Paul (Montreal Le Canada) Parizeau.

The astonishing feature of the bout in Parizeau's opinion is that the Moroccan, having lost the use of his left hand in the initial round, lasted eight more rounds against a fighter with a reputation as a hard hitter. Cerdan's left is consodered his strongest weapon in the ring, says Parizeau.

"A boxer with only one hand is worth no more than a racehorse with three legs," he adds.

Under the circumstances, Parizeau claims, the Frenchman's defeat was not surprising while it can be said of Lamotta "that he beat only one-half of a champion for a title which he will find difficult to retain in a return match."

"If Lamotta really deserves the title on his own personal prowess, how much we rank Laurent Dauthuille (another middleweight from France) who soundly defeated Lamotta at the forum here only a few months ago?"

Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll quotes Willie Morrissey, Dominion President of the Horsemen's Benevolent Protective Association, as impressed with the flat racing set-up here after viewing the opening of Blue Bonnets Saturday.

The Toronto horseman feels that Montreal is well on the way to a comeback as a racing centre, says Dink who quotes Morrissey as having promised:

"Toronto owners will try to help...by sending good horses here. After all, racing is a cooperative enterprise. It would help us in Ontario to have good racing in the province of Quebec."

Walcott-Charles Bout Looks to Be Even Affair

Chicago, June 21. (AP)—For the first time since Joe Louis cornered the heavyweight boxing market 12 years ago and whipped all comers, an even contest for the title has shaped up in the Ezzard Charles-Jersey Joe Walcott scrap tomorrow night.

Although the bout has been dubbed the "slim pickin's" heavyweight championship, it sincerely presents two firedup contestants who are not afraid of each other and appear evenly matched.

Louis, before he retired, was always an overwhelming favorite who usually came through on schedule in cut-and-dried fashion.

Walcott, the 35-year-old family man from Camden, N.J., and 27-year old Charles, unmarried Cincinnati slugger who has lost only four times in eight years, are expected to enter the ring at odds of about 6-5, take your pick.

Arthur Wirtz, co-partner with Joe Louis and Jim Norris in the International Boxing Club, which is promoting the bout, says the advance sale is "between $250,000 and $300,000." This indicates that some 25,000 to 30,000 patrons will see the show at Comiskey Park, home of the White Sox, where Louis defeated James J. Braddock for the crown exactly 12 years ago to the day.

The fight, scheduled for about 10.30 p.m. E.D.T., will be broadcast coast-to-coast over some 300 stations. It will be on television on a network of 16 or 17 stations from St. Louis eastward to Boston and the Atlantic seaboard with the Chicago area —a 200 mile radius—blacked out.

The scrap has the blessing of the National Boxing Association but is being snubbed as a title affair by New York State and the British Isles.

Walcott's only fighting in the last year has been done in exhibitions. Charles has been busy leaving the light-heavy ranks which he dominated to knock out such 200-pounders as Joe Baksi and Johnny Haynes.

Chicago, — (AP)— The big tank of 500 goldfish looked fascinating to the puppy. It turned into a pretty kettle of fish for police.

The cocker spaniel pup was left on display in a window of a pet shop when the proprietor locked up Saturday. So were the goldfish.

Sunday passersby noticed the pup leaping against the sides of the glass tank, barking at the darting fish inside. Finally he got a paw-hold over the edge, hoisted himself up and fell for the fish.

Once inside, things weren't so attractive. The pup clung to the tank's edge and howled. A crowd collected and police were summoned. Police called the fire department. Firemen rescued the driping pup.

But the pup promptly started leaping against the side of the tank again. Firemen finally frustrated him by placing a wire mesh between him and the fish.

Reading, Pa., (AP)—Wine at every meal, except breakfast, is one of the secrets of longevity, Mrs. Cecelia Cifferi said Saturday on her 103rd birthday.

Born in Italy, she has outlived all except one of her 17 children, a daughter with whom she now lives.

To further her contention that wine is good for a long life, Mrs. Cifferi said her paternal grandmother lived 110 years, her mother 95 years and her father 90 years. And all were wine drinkers.

Dave Lockyer Clouts Single To Break Fourteen-Inning Tie And Give Juniors 8-7 Victory

By GEO. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Dave Lockyer's sharp single in the fourteenth innings broke up a marathon baseball game between Kiwanis Juniors and Northern Electrics at the Fair Grounds last night with the youngsters getting the 8-7 edge long after the mosquitoes had left to sleep off their midnight snacks.

The teams battled scorelessly for five innings after Al Galbraith had tied the score at 7-all in the eighth with a mightly triple that cleaned neatly and effectively the loaded sacks. Both sides had chances to break the deadlock during the overtime but failed to click either through errors or good pitching on the part of the opposition.

In the bottom half of the fourteenth chukker. "Mouse" Bush drew a walk and Bradshaw poled out a single to bring Lockyer to the plate. Dave smashed a hot ground ball through first that bounced off (let's see who was playing first at that time for the Electrics?) Bunton's leg for a hit and the Mouse scampered home with the winning run.

Fitz Charged with Loss

Dick Fitzpatrick was the hard-luck guy of the evening. Playing three or four positions during the game, he went in to pitch in the fourteenth when Red Carson extracted himself from the box. Fitz pitched to three men and was credited with the loss.

The game ranged from some good baseball to what was a comedy of errors at times. Kiwanis staged a topflight example of top - blowing in the sixth when they were leading by a 3-2 count. They tossed everything including caution and especially the ball to the winds and by the time the smoke had cleared, five Electric runners had crossed the plate off two hits and five errors. Even the mosquitoes stopped gorging themselves to watch the erroneous antics out there under the kleigs.

Use Four Pitchers

Electrics used four pitchers in an effort to snatch victory out of defeat, and as a matter of fact it was anybody's ball game until Lockyer came through with a single just as dawn was streaking the horizon, at least it was one a.m. when the cease fire sounded and a couple of neighboring roosters were tuning up for the morning serenade.

Joe Nolan started on the mound for the planters and did a good job for four innings. Joe struck out five of the first seven men to face him but he was yanked in the fifth when the whole shebang blew and was replaced by Don Semark. Joe was touched for four hits for five Electric runs.

Semark was the outstanding hurler of the night (and morning). He went the rest of the route pitching outstanding ball for nine innings yielding up five hits for two runs while striking out seven.

Northern started Jackie Wardhaugh, rookie hurler who was essaying his first job on the mound. He lasted until the third after giving up three runs for four clouts and was relieved by Bobby Bunton. The hon. Robert went through to the ninth giving up four runs for seven clouts. Enter Red Carson who held the kids to one lone hit and no runs until the beginning of the 14th when he extracted himself from the game. Came Fitzpatrick and you know the rest.

Both team managers experimented with "shake-ups" on their lineups. At least two players of each team played nearly every position but master-mind and water boy and the lads were changing spots so often it's a wonder some of them didn't run to third base from the plate.

Russ Soules led the Junior hit parade with four clouts for six. Bradshaw had three. Lockyer got a double and single and Al Galbraith donated a three-run triple and a single. Carson and Fitzpatrick came through with a pair each for Electrics. One of the few Wardhaugh's one-handed stab of a foul ball near the Junior's dug-out.

The score:
N. El. 000 205 000 000 00—7 9 5
K Jr. 102 000 130 000 01—8 14 7

Wardhaugh, Bunton, Carson,

Wardhaugh, Bunton, Carson Fitzpatrick and Reeves; Nolan Semark and Soules.

Umpires: Townsend, plate; Schrieder bases. Time 2.50.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A renewal of the thumping feud between Tug Carlson and Fred Atkins is slated for next Saturday night at the Memorial Arena when these bitter mat rivals will collide in the feature wrestling event.

The sensational Carlson was infuriated when Atkins was declared the winner in last week's clash and demanded a return bout. He particularly specified that there be no time limit for this battle and the purse be set on a winner-take-all basis.

With the haughty, boastful, Atkins making no objections to a re-match on these terms, the bout was signed in record time. Fred bragged he can beat any wrestler in the country under any conditions, and he will have to back up such a sweeping statement in the ring Saturday.

Carlson's logical complaint was that he was pinned while one foot was tangled in the ropes and that the referee failed to see his predicament.

Al Lovelock will meet Sky-Hi Lee in the semi-final and Ben Sharpe will tackle rowdy Frank Hewitt, a newcomer from Brooklyn, in the opener.

Ed. Pine's streamlined "Maple Leaf" smart 224 cubic inch racing demon, sped to a new record for the Tweed course on Saturday when she was clocked over the two and one quarter mile course at a speed of 72 miles per hour. "And that ain't loafin' brother." especially in one of the spray-kicking, spume-hurling speedsters that are the life of any speed-boat party.

Ed has given the "Maple Leaf" a new spring face-lifting, placed a nut here, taken a giggling pin from there, inserted a whatdyacallit in one place and extracted a thingamajig from another. And the result, a pepped-up racing queen that should give the best of the big boys a run for their money when the big American Power Boat Association regattas roll around.

The genial Ed has half-a-mind to part with the grand little racing craft. That is, just before he starts to race. But when that motor is purring sweetly under the throttle; the white spray ripping upward into a foaming cloud to envelop him in a misting fog, and he senses the nearness of his competitors as the checkered flag goes up in a token of victory, Ed thinks the matter over.

"May have a new boat for the Picton do on August 1st," Ed said today, "but I hate to part with the Leaf here. She's a grand old girl and after her spring tuning-up has been kicking up her heels like a lamb in clover. However, I should have a new one, as I believe some of the boys are coming here this summer with some fancy craft said to be able to kick spray in the face of any driver this side of Niagara Falls."

The boys in the flying nautical trapezes held a highly successful meet in Tweed on Saturday. Down from Ottawa for the occasion were Lloyd Hicks and Mrs. Hicks, two of the best-informed speedboat authorities in the district. Lloyd handled the starting gun while the good lady took over the statistical department. It was the genial Lloyd who held the stop-watch on Ed. Pine as he put the gallant "Maple Leaf" through her trial paces over the 2¼ mile course.

Fifteen outboards and five inboards answered the starter's gun during the afternoon and a large crowd of speedboat enthusiasts watched the sport. It was a grand day, and the meet was one of many to be staged in the central and northern parts of the county this season. Bancroft wants to sponsor a meet "up in God's country," while Madoc interests are also toying with the matter.

Winners of the various races were presented with silver trophies and other prizes at the end of the regatta. Present was youthful Donald Reid, from Fisher's Landing, New York, who drove his capable service outboard craft to a well-earned victory. Donald, who recently celebrated his fourteenth birthday, won the plaudits of the crowd with his efficient handling of the craft. Another meet has been scheduled for August 1st, Civic Holiday when, it is expected, it will provide one of the main attractions at the Centennial Picnic of the Hastings County Council.

To get back to Ed Pine and "Maple Leaf" for the nonce. The "little lady" injured one of her pontoon "flippers" during the Saturday meet, and will have to be sent away for repairs before she sees action again. Probably will go to an expert boat "doctor" in Gananoque.

Looks like a triple bill is scheduled for Belleville and District Baseball League squads tomorrow night. According to the schedule Point Anne are the guests of the Trenton team; Juniors trek to Picton and the Trenton Flyers play hosts to the Napanee team here at the Fair Grounds in a floodlight fight.

STOPS RUNAWAY SPEED BOAT

New York, June 21 — (AP) — A daring policeman lowered himself from a helicopter into a runaway speedboat Sunday and brought the craft under control after it endangered scores of other small boats on Jamaica Bay. The speedboat, its rudder locked, sped in dizzy circles in the crowded bay after its pilot had fallen overboard.

TODAY WE LIVE IN A GREATER CANADA

New Signs in the Sky...

A distant hum and a flashing streak in the outer sky announce another exciting Canadian achievement—a new jet plane designed and built by Canadians—one more example of the meteoric advances made by Canadian skills and manufacturing abilities.

In Canada, too, giant airliners, which have won international recognition, are now being built for the world's air routes of today and tomorrow.

Today our production—both in extent and variety—has attained heights undreamt of even ten years ago, creating new opportunities in every field of activity for the talents and enterprise of young Canadians.

Increase of air traffic: today Canada's commercial aircraft carry more than four times the number of passengers and three times the amount of mail they did in 1939.

One of a series presented by Molson's
to promote a fuller realization by Canadians of Canada's present greatness

"Countless New Opportunities..."

"I sometimes find it hard to realize the extent and rapidity of our plant's growth. It has all been based, of course, upon the tremendous expansion of Canadian industry in general, which has created countless new opportunities in every field of activity for the energy and enthusiasm of young Canadians."
—says HARRY J. SEHL of Kitchener.

The development of Sehl Engineering is a typical Canadian success story. Only 14 years ago, Mr. Sehl, with one assistant, began operating a small tool and die shop in Kitchener. Its expansion has been spectacular, with new lines of production added, new departments established and new plants built. Today the company, with 90 employees, is fast becoming one of the leading metal producing concerns in the country.

Gerald Staley Earns Giant Killer Label After Hurling Cards Close to Top of Loop

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

"Staley, the Giant Killer"—that's what St. Louis fans are calling Gerald Lee Staley, 25-year-old, broad-shouldered right-hander of St. Louis Cardinals.

Primary a bull-pen operative last year and at the start of the current season, Staley had been going great guns since given a starter's role May 28.

Staley pitched the Cards to within a half-game of the National League's leading Brooklyn Dodgers Monday night, beating the New York Giants, 7-2, in St. Louis. The Dodgers were idle.

The triumph was Staley's fifth of the season and his third over the once-powerful Giants who occupy fifth place.

The Cards nicked Monte Kennedy for a run in the first and drove the young lefty to cover with four more in the third. Schoendienst collected four of the Cards 13 hits to boost his average to .357, a point back of Brooklyn Jackie Robinson's league-leading .358.

Boston's third-place Braves crawled to within two games of the Dodgers, edging the Chicago Cubs, 3-2, in the majors' only day game. Elbie Fletcher singled home Ed Stanky from second base in the ninth inning with the winning run.

Goes All Way

Vern Bickford went all the way to gain his ninth victory. Hank Sauer accounted for Chicago's run with an eight-inning homer.

The fourth place Philadelphia Phillies, behind the seven-hit pitching of Russ Meyer, turned back with the Pirates, 7-1, in Pittsburgh. Meyer also took a hand in the Phils' 15-hit attack, socking two singles and driving home a pair of runs.

The New York Yankees grabbed a tighter hold on the American League lead, increasing their advantage to four games over the runner-up Detroit Tigers. The Yanks beat the St. Louis Browns, 4-1, in the stadium while the Tigers lost, 6-1, to the Red Sox in Boston.

Fred Sanford, pried from the Browns for $100,000 in the Fall, limited his former mates to seven hits. Jack Phillips socked his first homer of the season with two on in the sixth inning.

Walt Masterson, recently obtained from Washington, and Joe Dobson halted the Tigers on six blows while the Sox collected 14 off a trio of Detroit pitchers.

The third place Philadelphia Athletics inched to within a half-game of Detroit, beating the world champion Cleveland Indians, 4-1 before 19,561 rooters in the Quaker City.

Fowler Beat Indians

Dick Fowler, who came to the majors from Toronto, granted the Indians only four hits in posting his fifth straight triumph and sixth of the season. The Indians scored in the first on three walks and Hank Majeski's error after the first batter had been retired. Fowler then got out of the jam by forcing Manager Lou Boudreau to hit into a double play.

The A's went ahead for keeps in the second against Mike Garcia, scoring twice on Elmer Valo's inside the park homer and singles by Mike Guerra, Coleman and Dale Mitchell's miscue.

Chicago ended a five game losing streak as Lefty Bob Kuzava pitched the White Sox to a 5-4 triumph over the Senators in Washington.

Buffalo Bisons Leading Way In Tight Race

(By The Associated Press)

The thrilling International League pennant squabble finds Buffalo Bisons leading the field by one game today and the fourth-place Toronto Maple Leafs only 2 1-2 games away.

Jersey City Giants moved to within a game of Buffalo Monday night by beating the Bisons, 8-4. The Giants snapped a 3-3 tie and won the game with a three-run rally in the seventh inning. Monte Irvin featured the rally with a two-run single.

Pete Pavlick, Fred Gerken and Ray Noble paced the Giants' 11-hit attack with a pair of safeties apiece. One of Noble's blows was his first homer of the season.

Montreal Royals, second-place occupants when the day began, tumbled to third place, a game and a half behind Buffalo, by dropping a 5-3 decision to the sixth-place Syracuse Chiefs.

Ken Burkhart went all the way for the Chiefs and granted 10 hits. His mates made four errors. But the former major leader was tight in the clutch. The Chiefs collected nine hits off Clarence Podbielan and Jean Roy, including Carden Gillenwater's 11th homer of the season.

The seventh-place Baltimore Orioles upset Maple Leafs, 5-3 Frank Mancuso was the chief spoiler with two homers, his ninth and 10th of the season. Lefty Irv Medlinger was reached for 10 hits but he fanned eight and went all the way to post his second victory for Orioles.

Rochester's fifth-place Red Wings trounced the last-place Newark Bears, 10-2. Righthander Cloyde Boyer held the Bears to four hits to post his sixth straight victory. Boyer lost his shutout in the fourth when Lew Riggs homered.

Ted Schroeder Justifies Role At Wimbledon

(By The Canadian Press)

Ted Schroeder of La Crescenta, Calif., today justified his favorite's role in the Wimbledon tennis championships at London by grinding out a five-set victory over Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla.

The top-seeded Californian, two sets down, stormed from behind to win 3-6, 9-11, 6-1, 6-0, 7-5 in a marathon duel that had all the thrills of a final.

All the other seeded stars, including defending champion Bob Falkenburg of Beverly Hills, Calif., American champion Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles and Frankie Parker of Los Angeles who won easily.

An important casualty was Earl Cochell, the San Francisco redhead who is ranked sixth in the United States. Handicapped by a recent back injury which kept him in a London hospital until last week, Cochell bowed to Eustace Fannin, young South African Davis Cupper, 5-7, 7-5, 6-4, 9-7.

John Samis of Vancouver heads the men's list and Marjorie Mapp of Toronto the women's in the National Badminton rankings made by Doug Grant and appearing in the current issue of Canadian Sport Monthly, published in Montreal.

The rankings are accepted annually as official by badminton organizations. In the 10 selections among men players, Toronto placed four, Vancouver three, Montreal two and Winnipeg one. Toronto captured four places in the women's 10, Vancouver three, Montreal two and Winnipeg one.

Rocky Graziano, back in the good graces of the New York and National Boxing Association fistic fathers, sets out tonight on the comeback trail with regaining of the middleweight crown his No. 1 objective. The hard-hitting youth from New York's East Side takes on Bobby Claus of Buffalo in a 10-rounder at Wilmington, Del. The New York State Athletic Commission suspended him Feb. 7, 1948, for failure to report two $100,000 bribe offers he thought were "jokes." The N. B. A. slapped a suspension on him Nov. 26, 1948, for running out on a fight with Fred Apostoli in Oakland, Calif.

Jean Richard, Canadian featherweight champion, left Montreal by plane Monday night for London where he will meet Ray Famachon July 5 for the European title. Famachon holds the European featherweight crown. Richard has already signed to meet Willie Pep, world featherweight champion, in London if he beats Famachon.

At Glace Bay, N. S., Canadian middleweight champion George Ross of West Bay Road, N. S., stretched his undefeated string as a professional to 37 by jabbing out a split decision over Joe Pyle of New Waterford, N. S., in a 10-round non-title bout here Monday night. There were no knockdowns.

From St. Andrew's, Scotland, comes word that Frank Stranahan, Toledo, O., amateur who holds the Canadian Open title, and professional Bobby Locke of South Africa head a list of 245 entries for the British Open golf championship to be held July 4-8 at Royal St. George's, Sandwick. Twenty-seven overseas sharpshooters are among those competing for the title being vacated by Henry Cotton, British professional. Cotton, who won the crown for the third time at Muirfield last summer, has not entered, explaining that he plans to devote much of the year to private business and has not been able to practise.

Miss Canada IV Given First Test Run in Muskoka

Gravenhurst, June 21 (CP)—Miss Canada iv, the dominion's hope in the Harmsworth Trophy powerboat race in early August on the Detroit River, has undergone her first trial run. Owner Harold Wilson, expressed his satisfaction over the preformance.

Despite a series of minor mishaps Saturday as the 2,500-horsepower craft was transported from the builders' plant here to nearby Muskoka, Miss Canada iv churned for several hundred yards at a maximum of 1,400 revolutions.

First the champagne bottle wielded by Mrs. Wilson failed to break against the hull during the traditional christening ceremony But a second swipe at a steel cap protecting the nose of the $17,000 hull was successful.

Then the craft slid down the ways—but Wilson found himself adrift not only with Miss Canada but also the cradle used to transport her from the yards. A second attempt parted the power boat from her cradle.

After two trips of about 200 yards each, a "bug" developed in the water-cooling system, and tests were halted.

But Wilson is not worried. He said: "The same thing happened when we first tried Miss Canada iii, and she turned out all right. I think this one will too."

His prediction was partly borne out, for the craft was out on the lake again Sunday for further tests. It is expected she will get a thorough testing during the week.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The bridge of Alta Gooding should never make her cry. She bakes a dandy pudding or luscious berry pie.

Are you uncertain as to how two biddable suits should be shown? Especially if one is rebiddable? You need not be in doubt if you take the simple rule that guides the showing of suits.

This is the rule: With equal lengths, first bid the higher rank; with different lengths, first bid the longer; when one is at least two cards longer, bid it twice before the other.

Take this hand:

♠K J 9 6
♥A 9
♦J 4
♣A K Q 7 4

Open with a bid in clubs. Then bid clubs again. This shows you have a five card club suit that is rebiddable and a four card suit that is only biddable.

Having bid a lower rank first, you say it is longer than your higher rank. Having rebid the lower rank you say it is rebiddable. At the same time you announce that it is not two cards longer.

If your clubs were two cards longer than your spades, you would have rebid clubs before mentioning spades. At the same time you have admitted that your spades are not five and clubs not six. Know how?

With six clubs and five spades, bid clubs first and spades next. The rebid spades to show they are five cards. Having bid clubs first, you admit they are longer, therefore clubs are six.

Suppose you bid spades first and then clubs. Having bid first the higher ranking suit, the lower rank is definitely shown as not longer. Suppose you then rebid clubs on the third round.

Your rebid of clubs would say they were at least five cards. But they are not longer than the spades, which you bid first. So, you say your spades must also be at least five long.

If you do not know this, be happy you are a good cook.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 21 — (AP) — Judy Holliday is back in town for another try at the movies. She's doing much better this time, thank you.

Judy played the wise-cracking roommate of the junk dealer (Paul Douglas) in "Born Yesterday" on Broadway. She was merely a sensation and was out of the role after three years and three months.

She now is braving the film industry in "Adam's Rib" with Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn. She was given Mary Astor's dressing room and is generally being treated as a dignitary. 'Twas not always so with her in Hollywood.

Nothing Happened

She was under contract to 20th-Fox, but nothing happened. Finally she learned she had a role in a wartime musical, "Something for the Boys."

Judy was enthused until she learned she had one line. She complained to a studio official.

"It's only one line, sure," he answered, "but it's a long line!"

"And," he said, adding the clincher, "the picture's in color!"

The actress complained to her agent. He listened, then replied, "but it's in color!"

So she did the part. When she reported for work, she discovered she was to play a war worker—dressed in overalls, bandana on her hair and goggles over her eyes.

"What's more, it was a comedy line, so I had to read it fast," she recalls. "That was their idea of a comedy line — read it fast."

After a bit in "Winged Victory," she headed back to Broadway, which acclaimed her talents. She's going back there again, as soon as she finishes "Adam's Rib." She's angling a play for the fall.

Man is Killed, Police Chief Hit In Gun Fight

Hartford City, Ind., June 21 — (AP) — A police bullet Monday night killed a Hartford city man after he shot and wounded the police chief and sheriff and barricaded himself in a home.

The dead man was identified as Rollie Cook, 22. Police Chief John Landis was wounded in the leg and Sheriff Gerald Uptegraf was shot in the abdomen in an exchange of gunfire.

The dead man's mother, Mrs. Iva Cook, had called police and said her son was brandishing a revolver and "threatening Betty and me."

The police chief said he and the sheriff went to the house to serve an affidavit on Cook. The affidavit, charging assault and battery, had been filed by the man's wife, Mrs. Betty Cook.

Cook barricaded himself in the house after the two officers were shot.

Other officers came to the scene and shot it out with Cook. The man was hit by a bullet fired into the home.

The sheriff's condition was said to be serious. The chief of police was not badly wounded by the bullet, which passed through his leg.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was taking a walk with pop before supper, and I said, Hay pop, dont forget ma wants us back by 6 o'clock special.

Yee gods, what time is it? pop said.

And he looked at his wrist watch and it was stopped again pop saying, Horse blanket to blazes, I've got a good notion to drop this watch at a bizzy street corner and just hope it wont be able to find its way home.

And he stopped some man going passed, saying, Will you tell me the time, please? and the man said, Well, I dont happen to have a watch with me, but I rather imagine it's in the naborhood of 5 thirty.

Being a wide man in a brown suit, and he kept on going, and pop said, That cluck probably cant even tell time. If people dont know, why cant they be honest enough to admit it? That's one ple. If I stopped the next man of the many troubles with peo- and asked him any nonsense that came into my head, he'd probably still try to act wise, he said.

Jimminies, pop, why dont you try it? I said, and pop said, By gollies I will.

Which he did, the next man being a narrow one with glasses, pop saying, Pardon me, but can you tell me if that bilding is the effluvial mass propulsion of the secondary squatters rites minus tractor principles?

Well, I rather think it is, the man said, and pop said, Is which?

Why, what you mentioned ferst, the man said, and he quick kept on going, and I said, G pop, try it on somebody elts.

No thanks, life is short enough without going out of your way to try to make it seem insignificant, pop said.

And we started back on general principals and get home just to keep ma from being mad.

Canada Club to Present Chairs And Faldstools to Westminster Abbey

London, June 21 — (CP) — Highlights of Dominion Day celebrations in Britain this year will be a service at Westminster Abbey at which two chairs and faldstools will be presented to the Abbey by the Canada Club in the presence of the King and Queen.

Intended as a memorial to Canadians who died in the Second World War, the chairs will be formally presented to the Dean of Westminster, Dr. Alan Don, by C. B. Cowley, honorary secretary of the Canada Club.

The chairs, made of Canadian birch stained and polished to a dark tone, are of Venetian pattern with oval bases in front carved with a maple leaf. Each prie-dieu (kneeling desk) displays the arms of Canada.

The King and Queen will be received at the great west door of the Abbey by the Dean and Chapter and L. D. Wilgress, Canadian High Commissioner in the United Kingdom. The precession then moves eastward through the church to the lantern where the King and Queen take their seats facing the high altar.

Singing of the hymn "O God of Bethel" by the choir and congregation will open the service, after which prayers will be offered by Canon C. M. Armitage, Procentor of the Abbey. Then follows Psalm 121 "I Lift Up Mine Eyes Unto the Hills" and reading of the lesson from book one, chapter eight of Kings, verses 54-62.

After the presentation, to which the Dean will respond the King and Queen move to the sanctuary, there to occupy the Canadian chairs and faldstools that will in future be used on all royal occasions.

The bells of the Abbey will peal as the King and Queen move out through the great west door for their journey back to Buckingham Palace. The normal Dominion Day reception by the Canadian High Cimmissioner will take place at Canada House during the afternoon, followed by the Canada Club dinner at the Savoy Hotel.

SAFECRACKERS GET $1,750 IN CASH

Brantford, June 21 (CP)—Approximately $1,750 in cash was taken by safe crackers at the Coca Cola Company plant here during the weekend.

Theft of the money was discovered Sunday by Scott Green, clerk at the plant. He found that the safe had been pushed from the office to the bottling room where it was smashed open with railroad tools.

Police found the safe lying on its back about 25 feet from the office.

They said entrance was gained from the second floor window.

Bob Green Scores 2-0 Shutout Over Plumbers

Sensational hurling by youthful Bob Green gave Houston "Knotholers" a 2-0 win over Howe and Hagerman in the best contest seen in the Commercial Softball League this season. In the first game of the doubleheader Stewart - Warner trounced the Energetic Club 20-3.

Green showed amazing control and coolness on the firing line in his first start in the league. He set a new strikeout record of 14 for a seven - inning game. He set the opposition down with five hits and three walks.

Houstons scored their first run in the fifth when Watkins drove in Wardhaugh on a long fly to the outfield.

Howe and Hagerman came back in the bottom of the fifth to make their most determined rally of the pastime. Ray Donovan led off with a single and went to second on an error that put Cross on first. Cook singled to centrefield but the relay held Donovan at third. Tomaso hit to second base and Donovan was forced at the plate. Green then struck out Doyle and Amo to retire the side, leaving three men stranded.

Houstons counted their last run on singles by Spafford, Temple, and Wardhaugh with none away. Smart infield work by Howe and Hagerman choked the rally at one run.

In all fairness to Howe and Hagerman it must be said that they played well enough to win almost any other contest. The team fielded errorlessly behind pitcher Cook who struck out two, walked one, and scattered six hits for two runs over the seven inning route.

Line Up: Houstons: Wood lf; Adams c; Rollins 2b; Spafford ss; Temple 1b; Wardhaugh 3b; Blaind rf; Watkins cf; Green p.

Howe and Hagerman: Tomaso 3b; Doyle 2b; S. Amo cf; V. Murray lf; Callaghan 1b; W. Fitzgibbon c; R. Donovan rf; Cross ss; Cook p. Rogers, M. Fitzgibbon and Cook, batted for Cross, Cook and Tomaso in the 7th.

Score by Innings		r	h	e
Houstons	000 010 1	2	6	3
Howe and Hagerman	000 000 0	0	5	0

Stage a Parade

Stewart-Warner staged a parade in the first game as they used their whole team in routing the Energetic Club 20-3. Before it was over they used three complete outfields and three pitchers.

Swaco drilled out six runs on five hits in the second inning and added four more in the third. cher Middleton crashed out a home run in the third for one run.

Stewart - Warner hammered out seven more counters in the fourth, two in the fifth and one in the sixth.

Energetic collected their last two counters in the fourth on a walk, a triple and two singles.

Dracup started for Stewart-Warner and was given credit for the win. He worked three innings striking out five, walking two and giving up one hit for one run. He was relieved by Butcher in the fourth who struck out one, walked two, and gave up four hits for two runs. McMillan went the final two frames striking out three, walking one, and surrendering no hits for no runs.

Middleton started for Energetic and was hammered for 16 hits and 17 runs in four frames. Hopkins walked two and gave up two hits for three runs in the last three frames.

Lineups:

Energetic Club: Middleton p; 3b; Scriven c; McNiven 3b; replaced by Hopkins in 5th, p; Outindeke rf; McMullin cf; Stickle ss; Orim lf; Townsend 1b; O'Neil 2b.

Score by innings:

17-Foot Snake Still Slithering About Salem, Mich., They Say

Salem, Mich, June 21 —(AP)— Salem townsfolk are convinced there's a great serpent still slithering about this farm and community about 30 miles west of Detroit.

A posse of Salem citizens—100 men strong and armed with an assortment of weapons — set out to get the monster Sunday. But all the hunters bagged was two blue racers and eight garter snakes.

Stories of the serpent started circulating nearly a year ago. Then, a local farmer reported, a snake some 17 feet long appeared while he was driving his tractor, and outdistanced him when he gave chase.

Three weeks ago 80-year-old farmer George Bowen gave the serpent-terror report a shot in the arm, reporting he saw the animal on his land.

"Its head was standing four feet off the ground," Bowen said. He reported he hurried to his house for a shotgun, but when he returned the serpent was gone.

While only two persons report actually seeing the serpent, dozens of farmers can tell about missing chicks, ducks and even a young calf.

"You catch on like you was bawn to it," one of them spoke in tribute. "You'd make a cow hand. You want one of my cigarettes?"

"Thanks, Lefty. That's a compliment from an expert like you. The fact is, I like it. Handling stock."

"Yeamp. Some do. It's why we work at it, I reckon. Well, okay, Ken."

Ken didn't realize it, but from that moment he "belonged", He had been acepted by the rather exclusive if unlettered clan known as real cowboys. The word would get quickly around, Ward McMurray knew. It gave Ward considerable pleasure.

But if Ken Palmer had overcome his awkardness to considerable extent on the rangeland, he was still a retiring, shy sort when he got back to town. At the University he slipped quickly into his routine of classes and library study. He was making good progress in his special research into southwestern folklore.

He was back in the library, deep in one of the alleys made by sections of bookshelves, when sheer chance next morning enabled him to overhear two girls talking. They were within a few feet, through one of the book tiers there, but quite out of sight of the young man.

"They must have been engaged for days," one of them was half whispering, too loud. "With Ken Palmer —— imagine."

That mention of his name arrested him. He was instantly alert.

"Well, Joy Boone can marry any man she wants," the second girl said. "She's got plenty of what it takes, all around. I'd make eyes at Ken myself but I know he wouldn't see me for dust." She sighed elaborately. "He's poor as a church mouse, you know that, Marie. He's probably marrying her for her money as much as anything, but I guess it's all right. For money and—— and prestige. It would be something of a catch to get America's wealthiest and most famous girl. But she is good looking, I admit that. She's been running after him till it's scandalous. I don't believe he——."

The girls passed on then, and Ken heard no more.

But for a full minute he stood there appalled. His facial expression had frozen into one of near horror. He put his book back on its shelf, moving like an automaton. Then, slowly, he edged toward the door. He didn't want to be seen. He didn't want to face any one here, lest some finger publicly point at him.

When he was out of the room, though, he began to run down the hallway. It was sort of ignominious retreat, yet he could have said from what.

He was almost frantic by the time he had reached the campus. His frown was so noticeable that girls stared at him. He did not appear to hear the four or five who spoke. He saw then hazily, though, and broke into a run again.

He was not at ease when he reached his father's cottage, nor even in his own room. He left there again, went to his old jalopy and started off in the thing. Vaguely, almost desperately, he realized he wanted to talk to someone. He needed some friend. Not some relative or adult for "advice". but some one who was intimate with him and could understand.

He found himself presently driving out the Paradise Ranch road, Oddly, that ranch seemed like a haven now. He was thinking of Polly McMurray. He knew this was Polly's free morning, the one morning in the school week when she didn't have classes and so didn't come to school until noon. As usual, he had looked around for her earlier when he first came toward the library, but she was not in any of the groups of girls he had seen. Come to think of it, he had begun to look for Polly McMurray more and more of late. Strange he hadn't realized that before.

He knew only that he had a desperate yearning to see her now. To see her and talk with her.

The radio broadcast about Joy Boone and her pet fawn had follow-up attention at once.

Almost that same hour, too, a newspaper syndicate telegraphed that one of its feature writers, Terry Brookfield, was flying down to do a series of intimate articles about Joy as "The American Girl in Action."

Bettina Carlson handled those calls. As Joy's secretary she was used to sucn things, used to arranging Joy's days, paying Joy's bills, handling the myriad business and personal details which beset a young multi-millionairess. Joy had to be gracious to all. At least she had liked it until now.

She was, surprisingly to herself, disturbed about the gossip which the radio narrator had started. He had hinted that she and Ken Palmer were engaged. The Frontier girls then had swamped her with congratulations, telling her she had "got her man."

And that's where the surprise came. "Ken hasn't asked to marry me." She whispered to herself, alone in her dormitory suite. "And——I don't care much.'

She felt a tingly little sense of shame. Little, but definite. It was something she had sedom ever experienced before. She thought about the whole thing for an hour. Maybe she did in truth "get her man", but she had honestly to admit now that it had been a sort of lark. Having "got" him, she wasn't so anxious to claim him any more. All at once Joy saw herself as a spoiled somebody just enjoying the thrill of conquest, and she was appalled. But there is such a thing as prid, too; and a course once set is not easily changed.

She was almost in tears when Ward McMurray telephoned her.

"Hi, Skeets." he boomed at her over the wire. "Say, know what? The panthers have been taking some of our stock again, and dad wants to throw another hunt.... Yep sure, a lion hunt, mountain lion. You said you enjoyed the deer hunt. Wanta go with us after lions?"

Joy's interest leaped.

Not only was a lion hunt a new experience, but it would also get her away from this gossip thing. At least away from worrying about it. She hastened to accept. The same group that went after deer would be along this time, she learned. That included Dr. Palmer and Bettina Carlson, whom Buck McMurray admired more and more.

Excitement again was in the air when the magazine photographer and the syndicate writer arrived in town.

Those two gentlemen. Glenn and Brookfield, were doubly delighted. With the customary agility of their clan they invited themselves to go along with Joy on the hunting trip, and of course Buck McMurray said he would be pleased to have them.

"This is sure swell." Mr. Glenn exulted. "Imagine, getting Joy Boone chasing lions. Whoops."

"Check," Brookfield agreed. "Looks like a break for both of us."

They were decent enough young men; types, really. They stood in no awe of Joy Boone, but they liked her cordiality.

They slept most of the way out toward Tonto Rim where the hunt was to begin, and they came fully awake only when the second car on this party rolled up to the log cabin there and Polly McMurray stepped out in trim western hunting clothes.

"sa-a-a-ay." James Glenn gave tribute, low tone.

He saw instantly that Polly was photogenic. Saw her consummate grace. Her stature. Her extraordinary pretty brown eyes, and her high coloring that was from wind and sunshine and wholesome living. When the introductions were under way and she smiled at him, Mr. Glenn from Manhattan felt his heart do a sort of deliberate handspring. In the same moment he perceived that his colleague, Terry Brookfield, was affected the same way.

" So nice that you could come on the lion hunt," Polly assured them "It ought to make your pictures much more interesting, don't you think?

"Could you hold that position just a second, Miss McMurray?" Glenn pleased "I'll have my camera read in two shakes."

Polly looked bland. "Me?"

"You. There against the blue skyline and that green cedar tree. I'm taking color shots. Your costume —— you —— say, would you like a tryout for pictures? Hollywood, I mean. I also represent one of the studios as a talent scout and ——"

"Oh." Polly laughed then. "Please excuse me, I misunderstood. Miss Boone is yonder helping get the hunting dogs and the horses out of the ranch truck, We are about the same build, but I thought you had met her, and all. Anyway she is very fair. Blond. I'm sorry you mistook me for her."

Mr. Glenn eyed her. 'I didn't," said he. I've known Joy Boone for years. Now look —— just lean back casually against the tree and ——" —

"But Mr. Glenn,"

"Sure, That's it, Bright brown eyes. Alert smile. Hot ziggety gosh, Brookfield, just look at this girl. Hidden out here in Arizona."

"You better sign her and wire Sol Berger what you've found," the syndicate man said, enthusiastically. "Sign her for a test anyway. Some other scout may get ahead of you if they see your photos. I can give her a boost in the column that will help with the publicity sendoff, then you can start building for——"

"For goodness sake." Polly was more or less ifnored in their shop talk. But not for long, Mr. Glenn took eight pictures of her then and there, quite over-ruling Polly's flustered protests. When the others came to watch, he ignored them and went on with his picture making. In time he was through, and turned to be introduced to Ken Palmer, Buck McMurray the rancher, and a camp helper and cook.

The picture taking procedure was embarrassing to Polly. She hoped Joy had seen that it was forced on her. She whispered to Ward, asking him to direct their attention at once to Joy. But when Ward spoke to them in private a few minutes later——

Fast New Escort Ships For Anti-Sub Work to Be Built

First to Be Completely Designed, Built in Canada

Ottawa, June 22 — (CP)—The first step in a program of building fast new escort vessels for anti-submarine work was announced by the navy today.

A contract has been let to Canadian Vickers Limited of Montreal to start work immediately on preparation of detailed working drawings of the hull structure for the first three of the ships. It is hoped the first keels will be laid down in Canadian yards by the end of the year or early in 1950.

Major War Vessels

The ships are classed as major war vessels and, as such, are the first to be completely designed and built in Canada, the announcement said.

It was understood no decision has been made as to the number Canada will eventually build. The first three are in the nature of "pilot" or experimental vessels.

Only the working drawings are complete, contracts will be awarded to three different Canadian shipyards.

Although much assistance has been received from the Royal Navy and the United States Navy in designing the vessels, the ships will be "entirely of Canadian design throughout and their manufacture will be carried out in Canada with Canadian personnel and resources," the navy said.

Work as Team

It added that this was the first instance in which the R. C. N. and the Canadian shipbuilding industry have worked as a team to produce "a good, practicable warship of Canadian design."

"While specific details of the ships cannot be disclosed for reasons of security, they are designed primarily for the detection and destruction of modern fast submarines. They will be the first to be built anywhere to meet the new requirements."

SOUTH ONTARIO FACES PROSPECT OF LITTLE RAIN

Some Relief Given But Heavy Rain Still Needed for Crops

Toronto, June 22 (CP). — Through scattered thundershowers which brought some relief to drought-stricken farms and pastures Tuesday, Southern Ontario faced the prospect of no further rainfall today or tomorrow. Weather forecasters said it would be clear and cooler today, warming up tomorrow.

Heat-plagued residents were relieved by at least 10-degree cooler weather but heavy rainfall for crops still was needed. Temperatures were expected to range in the middle 80s throughout most of Ontario.

Spotty Rainfalls

In the Toronto area Tuesday night the first rainfall of any note in three weeks was spotty. In Hamilton, also, the first fall of rain in six weeks sent residents scurrying for shelter, but nearby farms got only a sprinkling.

In Bruce, Dufferin and Grey Counties, and along a stretch of the Lake Simcoe country, slight rainfalls were recorded, while in Halton, and Peel Counties the land still was dry. Light showers fell in Waterloo and Wellington.

Generally, northern and eastern Ontario and the extreme southwest fared better than central sections. Eastern Ontario farmers from Ottawa to North Bay Tuesday welcomed two cloudbursts yielding 1.32 inches of rain.

In many urban and suburban areas of southern Ontario water shortages are resulting in rigid enforcement of by-laws prohibiting use of garden hoses. Officials say at least three to four days' rain is needed.

Heat Wave Sizzles

New York—A June heat wave in the northeastern states sizzled on today amid growing fear of serious damage to farm crops.

The long dry spell—no heavy rain in three weeks—intensified the hazard of fires in the heavily-wooded areas of New England, New York and New Jersey. No immediate relief from the unseasonable heat seemed in prospect. Temperatures climbed into the 90s over the parched areas Tuesday.

Soaking rains are needed in the parched areas, both to alleviate the danger of fires and to help wilting crops and pastures.

In Massachusetts alone, the hot, dry weather has caused an estimated $5,000,000 worth of damage to crops.

In New York State, where no substantial rain has fallen since the end of May, the drought was described as "serious" by agricultural experts at Cornell University. But they said the state is not facing a crop failure.

New Jersey sweltered yesterday as the mercury hit 98, a record for the date and the hottest day of the year. New York felt just as hot with a top of 94.

MAN AND WOMAN SLAIN

Birmingham, Ala., June 22 — (AP) — A burst of gunfire, crackling through the five o'clock rush Tuesday left a man and woman dead and two bystanders wounded. A few seconds after the slaying Oscar Lee Colvert, 38, estranged husband of the slain woman, surrendered to nearby policemen. Police quoted Colvert as saying the second victim, Hoyt R. Hardenon, 38, had been responsible for his separation from his wife.

Arrest Two Brothers For Damage To School

Toronto, June 22 (CP).—Police said today two brothers, aged 10 and 13, were arrested on malicious damage charges for wrecking the offices and classrooms of the West Toronto Public School which they attended.

Police say the boys entered the school some time last Sunday and caused damage "the worst on record for any city public school".

Furniture was smashed and walls, desks and records splashed with paint and ink. Keys on typewriters and on the auditorium piano were glued together.

Canned Horse Meat Without Gravy Greatly Prized by Congo Natives

By HAROLD MORRISON

Ottawa, June 22 — (CP)— Belgian Congo's 10,000,000 natives consider canned horse meat a delicacy — and that means money for Canada. Former head-hunters are fond of colored beads — the women tie them around their waists — herring, ice cream and cheap tools.

These and other commodities which Canada hopes to sell to the mid-African colony will mean greater trade and more U.S. dollars for the Dominion, L. H. Ausman told a press conference.

The 41-year-old trade commissioner, who comes from Toronto, returned from three years in the Congo and told of the wealth of unexplored trade possibilities offered by the Congo basin.

Before 1942, he said, the Congo hardly knew Canada existed. The colony turned to the western world when European food and textile sources were cut off by war.

Soon the Congo grew fond of Canadian non-inflammable beads, square boxes of horse meat from Swift Current, Sask., canned fish from the Maritimes, flour and inexpensive tools.

During the war the Dominion sold the Congo about $2,500,000 a year. This figure slumped at the end of the war, but by 1948 Canada's trade again hovered around the $2,000,000 mark and was climbing.

The Swift Current canned meat plant has been asked to make a favorite of the natives — horse meat without gravy.

"They have no spoons to eat the gravy," said Mr. Ausman.

"The natives are conservatives and they're very fussy about the shape of the box in which their food is packed," Mr. Ausman added. They like square boxes.

As to imports, these are expected to decline, making for a favorable trade balance for Canada. Previously, the Dominion imported a great deal of palm oil from the Congo, but now she expects to get it cheaper elsewhere. Some tin was bought by Canada in 1948, but she does not expect to buy any from the Congo in 1949.

"The Congo is rich in dollars," said the trade commissioner. "United States buys practically all of her uranium."

The colony is one of the biggest uranium producers in the world.

137 ARE DEAD, 1,086 MISSING IN FURIOUS STORM

Millions of Dollars Lost in Shipping

Tokyo, June 22 — (AP) — The welfare ministry today counted 137 dead and 1,086 missing in the furious typhoon which swept Southern Japan.

Figures differed on the death toll, however. Police said 93 perished.

Property and shipping damage was millions of dollars.

Included in the missing were 131 Japanese who may have died when the vessel Aboa Maru foundered off the Southern Honshu coast. An American and a Japanese were rescued from the ship. The others were feared lost.

Most of the missing are fishermen in the Bungo Strait between Kyushu and Shikoku, both large southern islands.

The Japanese Marine Safety Board listed 161 fishing boats sunk and 678 wooden fishing boats missing.

The largest vessels in trouble were the 2,500 - ton freighter Koei Maru, aground off Fukuoka on the west coast of Kyushu, and the 2,000 - ton Kize Kawa Maru grounded on rocks near Karatsu on the Southern Kyushu coast. All the crew of the Koei Maru were ashore.

Reports to the Welfare Ministry indicated approximately 2,000 homes were destroyed and 4,000 damaged severely by winds that reached 93 miles an hour.

Slayer Intended To Use Money For Getaway

Sudbury, Ont., June 22 — (CP) — Mrs. Isabel Rollins of Sudbury said Tuesday her brother-in-law Clarence Brosseau, apparently intended to use $1,050 of his wife's secret savings to make a getaway last Saturday night.

Brosseau, 45-year-old factory worker, shot and killed two police officers and a bystander, then killed himself following a domestic quarrel with his wife.

Police found the money on the kitchen table, a few feet from the spot where Brosseau ended his life. The tightly - rolled currency was in a small oblong carton.

Mrs. Rollins said her sister, Brosseau's wife, "had skimped and saved to build it up against a day of need and she kept it a secret from Clarence, or thought she had."

"But apparently he must have known about it and never let on."

Says Future Holds Much Promise for Canadians

By FORBES RHUDE
(Canadian Press Business Editor)

Minaki, Ont., June 22 (CP). — The future holds much promise for Canadians who have faith in their country, Gerald G. Ryan of Montreal said today in his presidential address to the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada.

He said "judicious risk-taking and an adequate supply of venture capital, arising as much as possible within our own borders, are essential to Canada's economic progress."

Statistics show that the personal savings of Canadians aggregate vast sums in years of prosperity, Mr. Ryan said.

"The indicated total of savings for 1946, 1947 and 1948 amounted to $961,000,000, $650,000,000 and $1,146,000,000 respectively.

A high proportion of these savings is paid to insurance companies under life insurance and endowment policies, annuity contracts and kindred benefits."

Broaden Investment Field.

He said that "if these savings are to be put to their best use, a broadening of the field of institutional investment and in particular a more extensive investment in promising common stocks of Canadian corporations are essential."

"A larger participation by insurance companies in the development of commerce and industry is required in the national interest and should, it seems to me, be feasible within the bounds imposed by present legislation."

Mr. Ryan stressed the large amount of capital expenditures that are taking place.

"During 1948, capital expenditures by Canadian business (including agriculture) governments and institutions excluding the cost of repairs and maintenance, amounted to slightly more than $3,000,000,000. The survey of 1949 forecasts an all-time high of cap-

Elmer Sandercock Hurt in Crash North of City

Elmer Sandercock, M.P.P. for Hastings West, was seriously injured Tuesday afternoon when the car which he was driving was sideswiped by a Brewers' Warehouse truck on highway 14 four miles north of Belleville.

Mr. Sandercock was rushed to Belleville General Hospital where he was found to be suffering from chest injuries. Dr. Van Blakslee stated Mr. Sandercock had several fractured ribs and also suffered from shock. Whether there were other internal injuries had not been determined.

Mrs. Sandercock was also riding in the car and suffered from cuts, bruises and shock but was not admitted to hospital.

According to an eyewitness, the accident occurred during a rain which made the pavement slippery. The brewery truck was southbound following a LaPalm moving van when the heavy truck slowed and the brewery truck bumped into it. Then the brewery truck skilled sideways and sideswiped the northbound Sandercock vehicle.

The Sandercock vehicle went into the ditch and broke off a telephone pole. Mr. Sandercock was assisted out of the damaged car and taken to hospital by ambulance while Mrs. Sandercock was permitted to go home after receiving first aid treatment.

Mr. Sandercock was taking an active part in the federal election campaign and was said to be driving to Bancroft when the accident occurred.

Freak Twister Hits E. Ontario

Alexandria, Ont., June, 22 — (CP) — A freakish twister swept over two farms near here Tuesday and caused extensive damage to buildings, trees and telephone poles Alexandria is 30 miles northeast of Cornwall.

W. J. Kennedy's farm bore the brunt of the damage estimated at $6,000.

The twister swooped down at the height of a violent thunderstorm. Wreckage from buildings was carried 100 feet through the air. To the west of the farm seven hydro poles were felled, blocking Highway 43 for five hours. Power and telephone service were not restored in the area until midnight.

Thousands Line Streets to View Funeral Parade

Sudbury, July 22 — (CP) — Thousands of people lined Sudbury streets Tuesday to witness the mile - long funeral parade for Police Constable Gerard Dault, 32, one of three persons killed Saturday night by Clarence Brosseau, 45-year-old factory worker.

A large crowd also attended mass at the Roman Catholic Church in nearby Copper Cliff for James Germa, 50, another victim of the crazed gunman.

Funeral services were held Tuesday for Constable Edward Terrell, also shot down in a wild two - hour gun fight with Brosseau, who killed himself after the triple slaying.

The parade for Constable Dault, one of the largest ever held here, was composed of members of the Sudbury police force, the R.C.M.P., and representatives of other police departments throughout Ontario, veterans' groups and other organizations.

Nearly every member of the Sudbury force was present at the Roman Catholic funeral service for the popular officer.

Among visiting officers were four from Toronto, four from Sault Ste. Marie and five from North Bay.

Dault is survived by his widow and three children.

Denies French N. Africa Area Promised Spain

London, June 23 — (Reuters)—Foreign Secretary Bevin today told the House of Commons that there was no foundation for a recent claim by Gen. Francisco Franco that the Allied leaders during the war had promised Spain French territory in North Africa on the cessation of hostilities.

He was replying to a question by Labor member Richard Stokes.

Stokes further asked: "In view of the fact that we have already been made aware of two secret treaties of which we did not know the existence, may we now have an assurance that Mr. Churchill did not enter into any other secret obligations of which this House has not been made aware?"

Bevin replied: "I have given the answer to the question and I have no reason to suppose that anything that is not in the archives of the Foreign Offices does exist."

Anthony Eden, wartime foreign secretary, said that as far as Churchill and he were concerned no such commitment as had been described was ever entered into.

DROUGHT HITS NEW ENGLAND

Boston, June 22 — (AP)—New England's rich small farms and broad forests faced millions of dollars loss as a three - week drought shrivelled crops and brought woodland closings in four of the six states. Massachusetts reported a $5,000,000 loss to date from the long dry spell.

BERAN ACCUSED OF TRYING TO WRECK ECONOMY

Czech Govt. Threatens To Take Legal Actions

(By RICHARD KASISCHKE)

Prague, June 22. (AP)—Roman Catholic employees in some Czechoslovak government offices said today they were being required to sign statements declaring they did not support Archbishop Joseph Beran.

The Archbishop is fighting attempts of the country's Communist regime to get control of the church. The government has accused Beran of trying to wreck national peace and economy and has threatened to take legal action against him.

Some laymen who signed the statements told their priests they did so in fear of losing their jobs and dwellings.

One informed diplomatic source expressed belief the Archbishop soon might be formally arrested on charges of anti-state activity and incitement to unrest.

Czechoslovakia's Communist government Tuesday night accused Beran and other church officials of attempting to disrupt the peace of the country and thwart fulfillment of its economic plans.

Premier Antonin Zapotocky said in a special broadcast that the regime will not tolerate "violations of law" by the Catholic hierarchy. He added that "legal action will be taken against all saboteurs, provocateurs was the sharpest public statement yet uttered by the Red regime in the church-state war. It followed a cabinet meeting at which the government apparently decided to crush Beran's resistance to what he says are Communist plans for wresting control of the church and cutting its ties with the Vatican.

The Premier did not say what steps are planned against Beran. It could mean his former arrest and trial unless he backs down—something he said he will never do.

The Red-dominated press has hinted that such action may be taken. It said the Roman Catholic church was guilty of terrorist tactics which are "against the law and punishable".

In Hungary last February, Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty was accused of anti-state activity and sentenced to life imprisonment. Vatican sources have compared that case to the Beran issue.

Zapotocky referred to Beran by name and linked the Archbishop with other "church dignitaries".

"For some time," Zapotocky said, church dignitaries headed by Archbishop Joseph Beran, have been trying to use church institutions, churches and monasteries in co-operation with the enemies of the republic abroad to abuse the republic and disquiet citizens with false information."

The premier listed as alleged intimidation the ex-communication of priests and laymen who have gone over to the separate Catholic Action Society founded by the Communists.

Beran and the Vatican have said the group is fraudulent and pronounced ex-communication upon the group's instigators and followers.

TWO GIRLS DROWNED AS RAFT TIPS

Cobalt, Ont., June 22—(CP)—Two girls, Leona Larabie, 12, and Marlene Hurst, nine, were drowned Tuesday at nearby Cross Lake when a raft on which they were playing tipped, throwing them into the water. Provincial police from Haileybury recovered the bodies two hours later with grappling irons. Efforts at resuscitation by Hydro workers were unsuccessful.

Did Dry Ice Really Start Rainfall? Rain Area Too Wide For 'Ice' Used

Toronto, June 22. (CP)—Donald Fraser pushed five pounds of dry ice into a cloud Tuesday and it rained. But now, no one seems to know what caused the rain.

The "rainmaker", a member of the National Research Council in Ottawa, came her two days ago to "dampen" heat-stricken Southern Ontario. Assisted by Kenneth Pettit of the Meteorological Bureau here and piloted by Flt.-Lt. Bob Christie of Ottawa, he flew to a height of 17,444 feet and dropped the ice.

When the plane landed, it was raining hard at Malton Airport and considerably cooler than the 94 degrees registered earlier.

Mr. Fraser checked the area of the rainfall later and found it too widespread for the amount of ice he used. At the time of the experiment, the sky was cloudy and threatened rain.

"It wasn't an accident," Fraser said, "but there is no way to check accurately whether we really started it."

Explaining the 'rainmaking' procedure, he said that dry ice, dropped into a cloud from a height where ice conditions prevail, will attract moisture. The ice gets heavier and falls. At a lower altitude it melts "and you have a raindrop".

J. Shepherd, Wife Seriously Burned By Boat Explosion

En Route to Montreal When Accident Occurs

Two people were severely burned at nine o'clock this morning when a motorboat exploded and caught fire in the Bay of Quinte one mile east of Glenora.

The injured are Mr. James Shepherd, severe burns on arms, and his wife, first degree burns on face, neck and arms.

Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd, former residents of Belleville, were on their way back to their Montreal home after attending the funeral of Mr. Shepherd's father a few days ago.

Boat Complete Wreck

The sixteen-foot inboard boat acquired by Mr. Shepherd last fall, is almost a complete wreck. Following the explosion and fire, it drifted ashore on the north side of the bay.

The Shepherds decided to return to Montreal using their boat but were forced by bad weather to put in at Glenora where they stayed at the summer resort owned by Miss Blanche Lighthall.

They started off early today and at 9.30 a.m. when about a mile east of Glenora a sharp explosion occurred. The Shepherds were sprayed with blazing gasoline and the boat caught fire.

Mrs. Shepherd, a non-swimmer jumped overboard when her clothing caught fire. Shepherd managed to get an air-filled mattress over the side and dragged Mrs. Shepherd and the family dog to safety on the mattress.

Goes To Aid

John Hegadorn, who camps on the north shore of the bay, saw their plight and immediately went to their aid in his motorboat.

The injured people were taken to the Lighthall resort where they were treated by Dr. S. W. D. Hart. Mrs. Shepherd was taken to the Prince Edward County Hospital this afternoon for treatment while Mr. Shepherd will return to Belleville.

Mr. Shepherd was employed here as a messenger for the Bank of Montreal and left last year to take a similar position in Montreal. He had purchased the boat last year and left it here to call for, when his vacation time came due.

He is a veteran of the Second World War and served many years in Europe. He returned to Canada but later went back to France where he married Mrs. Shepherd.

STRIKE LEADERS REJECT OFFER TO RETURN TO WORK

Will Issue Statement Citing Their Reasons for Rejection

Berlin, June 22 —(CP)— West-German railroad strike leaders today rejected a recommendation by the western commanders of Berlin that they return to work.

The leaders of the anti-Communist union, U.G.O., declined to accept Russian assurances that there would be no reprisals by the Soviet-controlled railway management against those who merely walked off their jobs and took no part in strike violence.

They said they would issue a statement citing their reasons for rejecting the offer, which included 60 per cent of wages in west marks and a promise of no reprisals for striking.

W. T. Babcock, United States deputy commander in Berlin, said the western commanders probably will meet tomorrow because "we want to go into what was discussed at Paris on the strike.

"We understand the foreign ministers talked over the situation but we are not sure just what was done at Paris."

Some 14,000 men walked off their jobs May 21, asking payment of all their wages in Allied-sponsored west marks, worth four times as much as Russian-backed east marks; job security, and recognition of their union.

Union recognition is the big stumbling block in settling the strike, which has halted rail traffic between Berlin and western Germany.

The railways management refused to do business with any union except the non-striking Communist Free German Trades Union.

"Times have changed. Ottawa has been the only Canadian city with two morning papers. The demand is for evening papers."

The shift will leave the capital with one morning and three evening papers. Only morning paper will be the Ottawa Citizen, morning edition of the Evening Citizen, a Southam newspaper. The other evening papers will be the evening Journal and the French-language newspaper, Le Droit.

A quantity of hay and straw and a small number of hens, was also destroyed in the fire.

Mr. Hubbs stated the fire was first noticed at about eight o'clock but already the flames had gained considerable headway. Fortunately the wind was blowing away from the other buildings and they did not catch fire. Mr. Hubbs stated the farm buildings were spread out and this helped to save them from the fire. Size of the burned barn was about 35 by 70 feet.

Mr. Hubbs expects to rebuild as soon as possible.

ital investment estimated at almost $3,300,000,000."

Expenditures by business undertakings alone, excluding housing and government-owned corporations, Mr. Ryan continued, will amount to $4,600,000,000 in the three years in 1947-49.

"Investment of this magnitude points to a boldness of leadership in business which contrasts oddly with the lack of enthusiasm reflected in the low levels currently obtaining on the stock exchange.

"We hear the fear expressed frequently that the present prosperity cannot last. This is quite true. Obviously it cannot go on forever and certainly cannot in its present pattern for more than a few years at the very most, if that.

'Our present export activity is abnormal to the extent that it is temporarily and artifically stimulated by European recovery program purchase in Canada. Domestic investment in capital goods is abnormal to the extent derived from sizable deferred needs. And so on.

"But this is a rich and favored country. Rich, amongst other things, in natural resources and technical skills."

He said that "perhaps the most powerful single influence economically and politically discernible in the western world today is the European program."

"The remarkable achievement of E. R. P. is measured by the return of hope and vitality to one of the key areas of the world. Given this, we are all given much and Canadians by no means the least.

"With this, plus intelligent cooperation between the countries concerned, the eventual return of reasonable satisfactory trading conditions should not prove impossible.

FLOYD FITZSIMMONS DIES

Mail Privilege Is Withdrawn Over Lotteries

Toronto, June 22 (CP).—Privilege of receiving mail has been withdrawn from several Toronto residents for failure to sign a written statement that they will not use the mails or permit their name and address to be used in connection with lotteries, it was learned today.

During the past week, the post office department in Ottawa has sent out letters to persons suspected of dealing in lotteries in general and the Irish hospital sweepstakes in particular.

At Ottawa, post office officials declined to disclose the number of persons on its "banned" list, but said it fluctuated from time to time, generally coming to a peak when sweepstake activity is at its height.

Under the department's punishment, all mail addressed to a person on the banned list is returned to the sender or goes to the dead-letter office. The restriction is usually imposed until the person gives assurance he will not use the mails for illegal purposes.

FAST NEW ESCORT

The new vessel will function as did the frigates and corvettes of the Second World War and their design has been worked out so that in an emergency they could be produced rapidly and in quantity.

However, the navy said, the comparison ends there.

To Fulfill Requirements

"In speed, manoeuvreability, weapons and habitability the new ships of the R. C. N. will fulfill all the requirements of their class for modern sea warfare."

Steel Hulls

With steel hulls and aluminum superstructures and bridges, the escort vessels will be driven by steam turbines and twin screws at a speed "considerably in excess" of the frigate. They will accommodate a crew of more than 250 with separate sleeping and dining quarters and air conditioning in dining spaces and the principal operating positions.

While the actual size of the new vessels was not disclosed, the fact that they will carry more than 250 officers and ratings indicated they may be about the size of a small destroyer.

Corvettes, about 200 feet long, averaged a crew of 100, while frigates, about 300 feet, had a wartime complement of 140.

Los Angeles, (AP)— The "Honeymoon Limited" has been derailed—all because, says Promoter Wesley Oliver, Niagara Falls is just so much water to Californians.

"This is the only excursion in history that never sold a single ticket," Oliver reports.

He planned to take 100 newlywed couples on a 30-day train tour of Canada and the United States—at $2,000 a couple. Movie rights were to be sold to a studio.

'But we priced ourselves right out of the market," Oliver said as he cancelled the junket. He plans a short, cheaper tour next year —starting from New York. Californians, he says, are content to stay at home.

Hollywood, (AP)—All the comforts of home soon will be available to the Hollywood Hotshots who like to do their fighting in public.

A private barber shop, handy for cosmetic repairs, is being added to Ciro's, plush nightspot on the Sunset strip.

Proprietor H. D. Hover also announced plans for a gymnasium and steam room—just the thing for the boys whose floor records indicate a little more training.

"Purely a matter of convenience', explained Hover, a twinkle in his eye.

Halifax, (CP)—The Warden of the north began its 201st year today after a gala and colorful opening for its three-months'-long bicentenary party.

Only chilling rain and grey skies Tuesday spoiled Halifax's natal day celebrations, featured by a three-mile-long parade, a sham battle on the rocky slopes of Citadel Hill and a monster street dance.

Some 50,000 shivering celebrants saw the fortress city's 200-year history relived in the parade which depicted Halifax past and present. Lord Cornwallis, kinsman of the adventurer who founded the port in 1749, took the salutes of 3,000 fighting men, garbed in both modern and Colonial uniforms.

The festivities were just the beginning of the party. Before it closes Sept. 21 there will be more dances, five-ring circuses, open-air operettas and drama festivals and varous sport attractions.

C.P.R., Imperial Oil, Power Corp., Ford A., Seagrams and Canadian Celanese were among the gainers. Atlas Steel slipped 1-4 to new low at 10 and Standard Paving Pfd., was down to a new low.

Holds Firm To Her Love For A Russian

Washington, June 22 — (AP)—Judith Coplon held firm to her love-for-a-Russian defence at her espionage trial today despite admissions that she kept all-night trysts with another man.

Step by step, Prosecutor John M. Kelley, Jr., had Miss Coplon repeat under cross - examination her earlier testimony of meeting and falling in love with Valentine A. Gubitchev, the Russian engineer assigned to the United Nations in New York.

Mss Coplon, charged with stealing secret papers to give to Gubitchev, insisted repeatedly that Gubitchev told her he was "going into the formalities" of obtaining American citizenship and assured her he had broken with the Soviet regime.

Kelley drew from Miss Coplon Tuesday the admission that she had spent more than one night with H. P. Shapiro, later identified as a lawyer in the justice department's criminal division.

VOTING A PRIVILEGE AND DUTY

Canadians on Monday next, June 27th., have the opportunity of making a choice according to our democratic constitution, they will elect the members of the new House of Commons.

In elections in Canada the electors have a choice and that choice is free. Every voter realizes from knowledge of present day events that this liberty of choice is a precious possession for in some countries the people have no choice since their governments make decisions for them and give them no choice or expression in the nation's affairs.

But freedom is part of the Canadians' birthright and next Monday they have the opportunity to vote for the election of the coming Parliament.

This freedom places responsibility upon the voter to make his or her decision for whom to cast the vote and then to go to the poll and cast it, thereby doing one's full duty to the nation.

To the great glory of Canada her way of life has been blessed in that long centuries ago freedom was born and has descended to the present generation whose duty now it is to carry out the wishes of the people — elect the members of the next House of Commons.

Upon the voter therefore rests a great responsibility to vote for the candidate of one's choice.

Only by expressing their will at the coming election, can the voters determine the future and maintain the solid principles of our democracy, which is of such a precious quality as to be one of the greatest developments of any nation.

Therefore voters should not be indifferent but express their vital interest in the conduct of the state by the one means they possess — the use of the franchise or the casting of the ballot.

Those who have the privilege of voting freely as Canadians have are now fully aware that there never was a period when it was more important for us "to demonstrate to the world that democracy is a healthy, vigorous thing," the vice chairman of the executive of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce said recently. The best way to prove the advantages of our democracy is by going in great numbers to the polls, and by voting to show how highly we regard our political system and the free vote.

SHOWER OF RAIN

For days and weeks the parching land has been thirsting for rain. At last in this district the drops came in a drenching shower which was of brief duration, but a drizzle continued for awhile and added its share to the beneficent fall of rain which the earth needs at this time to help on the crops. Damage of real magnitude has been done to the growing vegetables and grains by one of the longest droughts on record at a critical time in the growing season.

For the good that the brief spell of heavy rain has brought there is gratitude.

Through the kindly winds and the powerful rays of the sun which forms clouds of moisture and through the air channels which bear the moisture, earth in many parts receives its share in nature's distribution of rain. Canada and the United States are two countries enjoying in an unusual degree the blessing of the rains in season which help to make this western world of the north the great granary of the world.

In the dry seasons one of the miracles of nature is seen in the growth that comes despite the shortage of moisture. This year the crops have been delayed by lack of rains and yet nature's plants are able to extract from the dry and even parched earth and from the atmosphere sustenance and some moisture for their growth and production as for example the strawberries to a degree that would scarcely be anticipated in view of the lack of adequate rains. In nature's wondrous alchemy of processes this miracle is wrought.

Eastern Ontario has been more favored this past spring than the section just west of here and that part stretching into western Ontario, but the lack of precipitation has been much felt.

This year has been so far from the regular that it comes with surprise to many that this is summer. What else were those hot days of the last week but summerlike days and heralds of possibly warmer weather in the next three months? But all in all Canadians would not yield their summer for that in any other climate.

God divided man into men that they might help each another.—Seneca.

THE FORGOTTEN MAXIMS

"See a pin and let it lie,
You'll come to want before you die."
Can sixty years have flown away
Since that I heard my mother say?

"A penny saved, a penny earned."
'Twas from my father that I learned.
This was his great concern for me:
That thrifty I should grow
[illegible] to be.

When I was but a youngster
small,
Upon my granddad's workshop
wall
I used to read in letter
bold
A card which "Waste not; want not!" told.

Old-fashioned mottoes, one and all,
With counsel wise that I recall;
True now, as then, but all the lot
Today discarded or forgot.

HEAVENLY RICHES

Jesus spoke about laying up treasures in heaven.

Treasures in heaven — what must they be like? Certainly they are not like earthly treasures. The whole existence after death must certainly be something quite different from life here on earth. Once in a while when the heavenly order breaks through into the earthly, those who are permitted to see such visions find that words are inadequate to describe them. Light peace, gladness, composure, control — these seem to be the elements which make up that unseen world.

The advantages of riches are that they enable one to maintain an adequacy among certain events of life. In the heavenly world, riches, according to those heavenly standards, must enable people to do the same thing. The poor in the unseen world are the people who are not adequate to take advantage of its limitless opportunities, and the rich are the people who are adequate.

"Lay not up for yourselves treasurers on earth," said Jesus, "but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where moth and rust do not corrupt and where thieves do not break through and steal." It seems that we start building up the heavenly bank accounts and portfolios right here and now.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

It is good to know that there is something in this dizzy world which not only has not been improved, can't be improved, but in order to keep it good, has to be constantly refreshed from the plain homely original source. And that's the Jersey breed of cattle.

The little island of Jersey has never let go of its breeding stock. And from all over the world, Jersey breeders have to come back to the island every so often to obtain fresh strains of the original beast from off its native soil.

The legend in Jersey is that the Jersey is the result of an ancient cross between a stag and a cow, which accounts for its delicate snout, its fine eyes, its mincing gait so different from that of other breeds of cattle. In a couple of generations, the Jerseys that are exported begin to grow large and lose that diminutive quality, together with their genius for producing the milk with the highest butter fat content in the world. Back the breeders have to come to the island where no other breed is permitted.

Jersey breeders abroad go to the greatest lengths to try to keep their cattle small and true to type. The little heifers are fed no grain, their feed is scientifically controlled; but none the less they seem to lose the instinct for smallness and spareness which is their characteristic at home in Jersey.

All this is true also of Shetland ponies. As soon as the ponies are removed from the lean and lustly isles from which they get their names, they soon become the roly-poly little pudges with which we are familiar, And in a generation or two, they begin to increase in size.

In this age of universal improvement, it is nice to know of a few things that are still desired small, unimproved, dainty, spare and full to the brim of quality, the way they were to start with.

Amazing World Changes Rapidly In Way of Life

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

This amazing world is changing so rapidly in its way of life that it's difficult for some of us old-timers to keep up.

This comment was inspired by the marriage extraordinary of a German princess, Cecelia of Hohenzollern, to Clyde Harris of Amarillo, Texas.

The princess is, of course, the granddaughter of the late Kaiser Wilhelm (the all-highest) and is a direct descendant of Queen Victoria of England. The wedding took place Tuesday in one of the Hohenzollern castles, with many notables, including royalty, present.

Drastic Changes

Imagine the Kaiser's granddaughter marrying a commoner! In the hey-day of the all highest, such a marriage would have been unthinkable. Royalty was royalty and the Kaiser ruled by devine right. It was that ambitious spirit which had much to do with hastening the president politico - social global upheaval, for it was he who gave the signal which precipitated the First World War.

Through that conflict the Germans glorified the Kaiser, but after the German collapse and the revolution he was forced to abdicate and go into exile in Holland. Thus disappeared one of the greatest thrones of history.

The rest of the Germany Royal Family, including little Willie, the Crown Prince, retired to private life and since then have lived quietly with ample means on their wonderful estates. Gradually they have been adapting themselves to the new world which has followed the Kaiser's war. Yesterday's wedding indicates how well they have succeeded.

Will the newlyweds live in a castle in Germany? Not on your life. Harris is going to take his bride back to Amarillo where he is an interior decorator.

Britain's Imports Exceed Exports During May

London, June 22 (CP)—Britain's imports exceeded exports by £37,800,000 ($151,200,000) in May, showing a drop in the adverse balance compared with April but a rise compared with the first three months of the year.

Balancing Britain's trade figures is the number one headache of Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

May imports totalled £194,800,000, the Board of Trade announced. May exports were £157,000,000. In April the adverse balance was £44,600,000 and during the first quarter of 1949 it averaged £21,000,000.

Exports to Canada climbed to £7,500,000 in May, mainly due to heavy automobile shipments. Detailed figures showed automobile exports to Canada totalled £2,155,000, twice what they were in May, 1948. The five-month total so far this year is £6,486,000

By contrast, sales of automobiles and tractors to the United States have fallen sharply. Automobiles exported to the United States last month were valued at £92,000 and in April at £82,000. The monthly average during the last quarter of 1948 was £751,000 and a peak of £892,000 was reached last July.

Tractor exports to the United States were only £11,000 last month a slump of 98 per cent from the February figure of £545,000.

Total vehicle exports to all countries totalled £27,200,000, the Board of Trade said, compared with £22,400,000 in April.

Britain's over-all May deficit was despite an export drive which put up the flow of goods overseas in May by £14,000,000, compared with April. But May imports were the highest on record.

Letters to the Editor

Dr. A. Walters Gives Reasons for Resigning From Bd. of Education

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

In view of the fact that I was elected to the Belleville Board of Education by a large number of the people of this city, I feel it is only right that I should explain my reasons for resigning from the Board on the evening of the 17th of June. Last month I gave notice of motion— "that the combined offices of Administrator and public school inspector should be abolished. That Mr. L. A. Kells, the present incumbent of the positions, should be given his choice of either position and the other advertised as vacant". This motion was seconded by Dr. R. W. Tennent and was presented at the 17th of June meeting, and decisively defeated, only Dr. Tennent and myself voting for it. The entire board (except for Mr. Cushing who was absent) voted against it. Even the Chairwoman Miss Tickell, voted against it when I have always understood that, according to Parliamentary procedure, the chairman should only vote in case of a tie. I then presented my resignation verbally, and have since notified them in writing.

There are many minor reasons why I felt I could no longer be a member at least partially responsible for its decisions, but space does not permit the entire list. First, I was not satisfied with the general attitude, at the time of voting, in choosing a man, with less than nine years Belleville teaching experience, a principal of one of our own schools over a man with eighteen years in Belleville schools who was also a veteran of World War II with much overseas administrative and combat experience. And please bear in mind that the inspector, Mr. Kells, had never, up until the time of the election of a principal, made any difference in his official reports between the two men. If seniority, a decent teaching record, and extensive and valorous war experience are not to be our standards for promotions, what price long years of conscientious work in our docal schools? Please think this over. I personally believe it a monstrously distorted and unfair decision.

Secondly, there is the matter of the approaching division of the public schools into Junior and Senior Schools. I agree entirely in theory with its principle, but this city's schools are not geographically situated to contend with such a redistribution of school children for several years to come. Parents living in the West Moira district who have to send their children to King George school might take time to tell other parents who are likely to be soon affected in such scatter brain moves. The proponents of this scheme airily mention hot lunches — but where are they to be prepared, and who but the taxpayer will bear the additional expense of canteens or cafeterias and adequate supervision (which is absolutely necessary but never mentioned)? Cafeterias are not feasible in any of our present schools — no matter what the excessive costs might be. The new west school has no plan or room for such an addition without expensive building costs. The Board has not been in complete accord on this score, but members of all the local Home and School Clubs will remember how all they have ever heard was from the proponents of this fantastic scheme. Mr. Kells has been always in favor and pushing it. At one Board Meeting, in discussing this topic, I asked that a letter be sent to the various Home and School Clubs asking for a vote from their members on this question. The motion was not even put to a vote, the august members (who haven't many school children problems in their homes) seeming to think they knew more about such things than the parents who will have to contend with excessively tired school children due to distances to be travelled.

Lastly, but most important, I do not believe the present system of combining the offices of school inspector and Board administrator is the best thing in the interests of our teachers who are probably the most important members of the community since they train our children. It gives the teachers no sense of security. If they might have what they fairly think is an injustice or a difference of opinion, they have to appeal to the administrator who is one and the same person. In such a dual position, humans being just human, the scales of justice will not always balance. I do not state such an occasion has arisen, but it could very well happen, and it is certainly not a state of affairs that should exist in our democracy. You will hear and read that Mr. Kells' qualifications are among the best in the province, I will not dispute this point with them. Frankly, if we should divide the two offices it would cost more than the forty-four hundred dollars which is his present salary. If he is worth that much money then let him be paid it — but only in one position. It is my firm belief that he, or anyone else, should not hold the combined offices — no one man should have that much power in any municipal educational set-up.

How can such a situation be corrected in view of the opinion of the present Board? It is curious commentary on our behavior as conscientious citizens that we pay little or no attention to the election of such a Board, and yet may wax enthusiastic over the voting for a City Council. In the past two years Belleville has had a tax rate of 47 mills. In both years the educational rate has averaged about 17 mills, or approximately one third of each tax dollar. Four or five positions are open each year, and yet never more than five or six persons are nominated so that only one person has necessarily to be eliminated. Actually to win a place on the Board is a so-called very soft touch. There's practically no opposition, and I have yet to hear a candidate (and that includes myself) utter anything but platitudes, As a matter of fact the candidates rarely appear more than once anywhere to ask for voting support. Hence it is possible for unpopular and impractical people to get elected because the voter certainly has no choice — it's just a matter of all but one making a very easy grade.

If you are in accord with my beliefs, then let the voters — and particularly the parents see that more than enough people are nominated next December. See mainly that they are people with children in the schools who will be affected by the changes proposed. Do not forget that you as voters are responsible for the government you get.

EARLY STATE OF DEFICIENCY DISEASE

Scurvy, rickets, beri beri and pellagra, the most clearly defined and well recognized nutritional deficiency diseases, were not always recognized as manifestations of faulty nutrition. Even today, these diseases are prevalent, usually in mild or moderate degrees, among all classes of people in the United States and in a large proportion of cases escape recognition or diagnosis in private and hospital practice.

For example McLester mentions (Nutrition and Diet in Health and Disease, Saunders, Phila.) that an appreciable number of pellagrins in the Hillman Hospital, of Birmingham, gave a history of having been admitted in previous years with the diagnosis of neurasthenia. McLester describes subclinical forms of pellagra (mild, early stage, moderate) as presenting vague symptoms such as anorexia (lack of appetite), diarrhea, easy exhaustion, nervous instability or mild mental depression, and perhaps neuritis. Often the tongue is very red and sore and there is excessive sailvary secretion.

Most physicians and some laymen have learned that early tuberculosis of the lung can and schould be recognized for the purpose of proper treatment even though there is no absolute laborahtory or other test to clinch the diagnosis in any case. Neither X-ray nor bacteriological examination or sputum nor physical examination of the chest nor tuberculin test, in the incipient stage of pulmonary tuberculosis, can or will do more than confirm the opinion of the physician that the patient has or has not tuberculosis.

So far as the mild, moderate or "subclinical" forms of nutritional deficiency disease are concerned, even a tentative diagnosis is a matter of the opinion of the physician and there is practically no laboratory or other means of confirming the physician's opinion, although it may and always should be subjected to the therapeutic test.

The therapeutic test means restoring whatever nutritional element or elements the patient may require, either through better diet with adequate amounts of the essential factors or by correcting habits or conditions which interfere with assimilation of essential elements. The therapeutic test is valid only in the hands of the physician and under the physician's observation and control from day to day or week to week. A lot of Wiseacres deceive themselves by getting some curbstone opinion or offhand suggestion from a doctor that they need vitamins and then taking some high potency capsules or pills for a few weeks to no apparent avail. That is no test at all. It is as foolish as it would be to proceed on your own opinion as to the significance or X-ray film, tuberculin test etc., instead of obtaining the opinion of your physician.

The observation of McLester that patients hospitalized for pellagra had been in the hospital in previous years with "neurasthenia," always a tentative diagnosis, is interesting. Had some physician, skeptical of the diagnosis of "nerve weakness" suggested that those patients had mild pellagra his or her colleagues would probably have dismissed the idea as irregular or whimsical. However it would have been at least a stab at a diagnosis, whereas the "nerve weakness" hokum was just hokum—an imposing way for the doctor to say "I haven't the haziest idea what ails you, but who cares as long as you think I'm a good doctor?"

It is my own conviction that a large proportion of our common ailments or complaints, which are ascribed to overwork, bad weather, worry, strain, domestic and business responsibilities, nervous exhaustion and whatnot are really the manifestations of mild or moderate nutritional deficiency disease.

Arthritis

Some months ago I wrote for your booklet The Ills Called Rheumatism. My sister's doctor had given her injections for a year without result. She showed him what you say about calcium and vitamin D. He started her on it, and she is now much better. (Mrs. S. W.)

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

PLACES

This useful brain of ours is stamped with an endless number of images which are recorded as Places. And these places are what made up so much of what we term experience. Some people even judge others by the number and importance of the places they have visited.

The wandering, inquisitive instinct is in us all to a greater or lesser degree. We like to go places. We like to talk about them. The memory of many of these places is a precious one. What could Walden Pond, however, mean to anyone who did not known and love the writings of Thoreau I thought and read much about the Grand Canyon long before I had the opportunity of looking upon it. It lives as one of the most notable places in the world. Its coloring, its shadows, its depth, its age, its mystery — everything about the natural spectacle of wonder makes one think and ponder.

Said Hilaire Belloc: "I have wandered all my life, and I have also travelled; the difference between the two being this, that we wander for distraction, but we travel for fulfilment." Not all the places we visit furnish us with this fulfilment, but many do. The first view of the falls at Niagara is one filled with emotion and wonder. A place of power and beauty as well.

Just to visit a place so that you can say you have been there, gains you nothing unless you have absorbed something of the spirit of the place. The first time I visited Lyle Park, in Cincinnati, where the famous George Grey Barnard "Lincoln" stands in its heroic bronze, I bared my head and looked upon it with the deepest emotion. A negro boy came up near me and also removed his hat — but not a word was spoken.

All of us live in anticipation of visiting places about which we have read, heard talked about, or which, for some personal reason, we want to see with our own eyes. You see, a place gives out a certain aroma, or spirit, and it is never the same to any two. There is one place I visited many years ago. In travelling by car in the South I came across a spot with a great tree in the center and with a chain fence about it. On a bronze marker was noted that this tree and its immediate real estate had been deeded and dedicated to the Lord!

Loper Says Women Are Like RCMP Always After Man

New York, June 22 — (CP) — Dan Loper, Hollywood dress designer, says women are like the Royal Canadian Mounted Police: "They're always on the look-out to trap a man."

This "trapping" theme is apparent in Loper's first collection of coutoure models presented there. In fact, one section of the presentation is dubbed "Trappers," because of the "above the table" interest of the daytime dresses.

The theme of his collection is "shades of black," and his aim is to show how different black can look in different fabrics and designs.

Most of his fitted torsos revealed natural body lines, in both pencil - line and full skirts. Dipping hemlines and graceful, rhythmic back interest in skirts add a new note for fall. Draped bustles lend a regency flavor.

Skirt lengths are a graceful 12 inches from the floor.

Rich fabrics with old - world names — jacquard taffetas, iridescent taffetas, silk broadcloths, velvets, brocaded satins, striped failles and plaids — highlight his collection.

A fitted coat of black - silk broadcloth with velvet front and velvet stripes around the skirt is appropriately entitled "Black carriage." Another fitted number — a cocktail dress — of black velvet with decolletage collar of heavily — beaded white alencon lace is named "Black Princess."

Loper's evening gowns have a "Merry widow" quality. One, "Black Waltz," is a dancing dress of black silk net over a crepe-and-lace slip.

Wife of Former Resident to be Guest Soloist

Mary Nevery, wife of Fred J. Nevery of Boston, Mass., who was a former resident of Belleville has been given a signal honor in her appointment as soloist for the International Grand Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, which will hold its convention in the Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto during the month of June.

Mrs. Nevery is a well known soprano soloist in the Eastern United States and is at present choir director and soloist in one of the largest churches in Boston. She has done considerable concert work for women's clubs and national organizations in that section of the United States. She was educated in music in Columbia University and the Julliard College of Music.

Mr. Nevery was born in Belleville and attended the Grier St. School and Queen Victoria School before leaving for the States in 1912. He keeps in touch with the old home town by returning for yearly visits. Mrs. Joseph Tilley of Alexander Street is a sister.

Golden Wedding Anniversary Is Observed

Fifty years ago wedding bells pealed merrily from the belfry of the English Church at Port Hope when Charlotte Jane Marrfield and William J. Tyers exchanged vows before the Reverend W. Kendrick. On Tuesday they observed the golden anniversary of this happy event at their home, 317 Foster Avenue.

On that memorable occasion they were attended by Miss A. Stone, as bridesmaid and Mr. E. Tyers as groomsman. Yesterday, the groomsman was present, but Mrs. E. Rumblow, of Cleveland, Ohio, the bridesmaid, was unable to attend.

At the reception, 4 to 9 p m., Mrs. Tyers, charming in her gown of grey draped crepe and corsage of yellow roses, welcomed the many guests, who thronged the flower-bedecked home, lawn and verandah. Wherever the eye roamed were peonies, roses and snapdragons lending their sweet fragrance to the air. Holding a place of honor on the beautifully appointed table, was the three-tiered wedding cake, trimmed with gold, and topped by a fifty-year emblem.

Many Beautiful Gifts

A presentation of a purse was made to Mr. and Mrs. Tyers by the immediate family and near relatives, while the floral gifts were many and beautiful. Among these was a lovely basket of golden-hued roses presented by the neighbors, and another of pink and white gladioli and snapdragons sent from the Canadian Plumbing and Heating Co., Montreal. Many cards and telegrams were also received from friends near and far bearing congratulations and good wishes for many more years of happiness together.

For some years following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Tyers lived in Montreal and Ottawa but for more than thirty years have been residents of this city. Mr. Tyers was formerly connected with the Canadian National Railways as Master of Bridges and Buildings.

Two Children

They have two children, Charles William, of London, Ontario, and Ellen Kathleen, (Mrs. Jack Wright), of Hampstead, Montreal, and three grandchildren, John William Wright, Mary Ellen Wright, and Robert James Tyers.

Mrs. A. J. Crowhurst, and Mrs. Edward J. Irving, sisters of Mrs. Tyers, beautifully rendered the request number "In The Garden of My Heart", which has always been one of Mr. Tyers' favorite songs.

Out-of-town guests were, Mrs. A. James Crowhurst, of Glen Ridge, New Jersey; Mrs. Jack Wright and children, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tyers, London, Ontario; Mrs. Roy Maybee, Woodstock; Mrs. Ed. Irving, Rochester, N.Y.; Mrs. Jack Martin, Mrs. Albert Tickles, Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Tyers, Ottawa; Mrs. Sidney Tyers, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tyers, Mr. Edwin Tyers and Mr. Harold Tyers, all of Toronto; Mrs. Orville Hoff, Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Mrs. Stanley Norris, of Cornwall.

Tullulah Takes Time to Coach Miss Churchill

Princeton, N. J., June 22 (AP) — Tullulah Bankhead took time out Tuesday from playing in "Private Lives" at the Summer Theatre here to coach eager Sarah Churchill for her American stage debut next week.

The visiting British actress will open next week in the comedy, "The Philadelphia Story," as a part of the Princeton University drama festival at McCarter Theatre on the college compus.

Miss Churchill, who has appeared in several British films as well as in such London stage productions as "Angel Street" and "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" will play opposite screen actor Jeffrey Lynn. She will have the role of Tracy Lord, which Katherine Hepburn created in the original production of "The Philadelphia Story" in 1939.

Miss Bankhead welcomed Miss Churchill and made laudatory comments about her father, Winston Churchill, whom Miss Bankhead knew when she was a star on the London stage in the '20s.

Miss Churchill said she had no fear about having too much of a British accent.

"We've had so many Americans in our home in the last few years," she said, "that I feel sure I will speak exactly as if I had just arrived from Philadelphia a moment ago."

Miss Bankhead stopped her coaching for a moment.

"The truth is," she said, "that Miss Churchill just arrived from Philadelphia an hour ago. She has been there visiting friends. Now she knows everything about how to do 'The Philadelphia Story.' "

Miss Churchill said that after her stage appearance at Princeton she may go to Hollywood.

Women's Institute

PHILLIPSTON-ZION W.I.

Twenty-six members and four visitors were privileged to enjoy the June meeting of this Institute held at the home of Mrs. Percy Ray. The new prisedent, Mrs. Murney Simmons, presided and suggested new activities for the coming year asking the members to express their opinions of the same at the next meeting.

It was decided that the branch charter a bus for an excursion to Ottawa on or about July 5.

The president suggested that each member have an Institute sister during the coming year. Names were drawn for this purpose. The name of the sister must be kept a secret and to her extra kindness must be shown.

Mrs. Delbert Rowe, conveuer of Home Economics, conducted the program. The roll call "Some Benefit I have derived from the new Cook Book", proved most interesting.

The topic "Experience teaches but the rates are high" was capably given by Mrs. Harry Ketcheson. She said "Life may seek to teach us lessons but are we benefiting by experience? If the lesson is hard let us be good students. Often we live our lives before we have learned how to live. If only a warning voice could be heard as life's journey continues how much less of physical pain and mental agony might be the travellers portion". In the book "Mrs. Miniver", the writer mentions the fact that social and class distinctions were broken down in England because of the experience of war and its terrors. So may it be with us when we make our final settlement with life for the experiences of living. May the wages tho' high not be deemed exorbitant for the benefits we have received."

A demonstration of an electric ironer was given by Mrs. P. Ray and this concluded the home economics program.

The president, Mrs. Simmons, asked for highlights of the District Annual from members who had been present and Mrs. Rowe gave a more detailed report.

Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Ross Lott, Mrs. Carl Clarke, Mrs. R. Sills and Mrs. W. Phillips.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

When Relatives Insist on Giving Shower

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

This much-discussed question of the giving-of-showers has caused a rift in our family relationships, too. Will you please give me your advice? My husband's sister is expecting a baby in August. Would it be proper for his other sister to give her a baby shower, asking the expectant mother's sister-in-law and me to be co-hostesses? You see, we three who would be giving the shower are all closely related to the would-be guest of honor. In my opinion, to do this would not be in good taste, and would give the impression of being a bid for presents. It is my belief that showers should be given by friends of the guest of honor, not by members of a family for another member of the family. What do you think? (The list of guests would include some relatives, some close friends, and some who are not close friends of the guest of honor.)

M. W.

I agree with you that these perhaps-too-well-laid plans do look definitely obvious, as if the relatives had gotten their heads together to devise a way to gather some loot for the mother and her baby-to-come. The other relative-hostesses may regard it as "proper"... there are no definite rules about the giving of showers. Instead, the idea is whether or not the plans are in good taste However, even if you think they are not, I would advise you not to make any insistent point about it (it's not important enough to make an issue of it, particularly with relatives.) but instead go along with the plans, graciously and cooperatively. (The only point you might make is that you prefer not to invite any of your friends who are not very intimate friends of the prospective guest of honor.)

When Her Family Doesn't Approve of the Marriage

Dear Mrs. Beeckmen:

My daughter is to receive her engagement ring soon. As we do not approve of the marriage we have never met her fiance's family. Would you please tell me the proper thing to do under these circumstances .... are we to invite them to our home? If so, must we invite them to dinner? Or how should we entertain them?

E. R.

As a matter of fact it is the parents of your daughter's fiance who should make the first social move, who should come at once to call on your daughter. But I judge that they may feel that any social move on their part would not be welcome, and so, apparently, the first move must come from you and your husband. And whether or not you approve of the approaching union, I urge you to make some gesture to establish a relationship between the families, at least during the period of the engagement and the wedding. It is not necessary to invite them to dine with you, if you don't wish to, but you might write a note to the young man's mother (or telephone her) inviting her and her husband perhaps to luncheon on Saturday or Sunday, or perhaps (and just as correctly) to tea on some convenient day.

Return Shower Presents When Engagement is Broken

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What is the correct thing for me to do with my shower gifts now that my fiance has broken the engagement? I had a surprise shower given for me six months before we planned to be married, and I don't know whether I should keep the gifts or return them.

E. M. D.

I urge you to return these shower presents to your kind friends who gave them to you, enclosing a gracious little note explaining the "our engagement has been broken by mutual consent, and so, since the reason for the giving-of-the-shower no longer exists, I am returning your present, again with many, many thanks for your goodness to me." This is the proper thing to do under this circumstance, proper because it is the honest thing to do. And it makes sense, heals more quickly the wounded feelings.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Letters and Answers

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Recently I met a boy at a party, where he paid a lot of attention to me and we enjoyed each other's company very much. He took me home and asked if it would be all right if he called the following week, but he never did. I don't understand why, since he seemed to like me so much.

Now I am having a club social and I would like to know if it would be foolish of me to call him and ask him to go with me.

"Bewildered".

Dear "Bewildered":

I think it would be quite all right if you invited this boy to your club social, but if he declines the invitation, of course you would not give him another.

Strictly speaking, it is a little smarter for a girl in a situation such as your to wait for the boy to call her. But it is not out of the way for you to make one attempt to get your friendship going. Be guided, though, by his reaction, and drop him if this attempt fails. Next move would be definitely up to him.

Needs Congenial Companions

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a woman in my late forties. A few years ago I lost my dear husband. I have two children, but with their dates and parties I am left alone on Sundays, week day evenings and so forth. I go out with women friends some, but most of the time I am at home alone.

Do you think I could find some congenial companions to have good time with? I work all day, but all work and no play seems quite dull.

"Late Forties"

Dear "Late Forties":

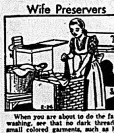
Of course it's dull not to have enough recreation and companionship with people on one's age. But, as I see it, it's quite unnecesary.

Whether or not a woman has an interesting life today simply depends on her own energy and initiative. There are so very many things she can do to develop a wide circle of friends and a busy, fruitful life.

Your first step should be to do a little research into the possibilities right in your own community or in your nearest large city. Practically every town has a great many community projects which are always looking for volunteers, and any one of them would make a good beginning for you. Investigate what organizations your church, the Y.W.C.A. the adult education program of the public schools may have to offer. Find out if there aren't some hobby groups among which you might find an activity that would appeal to you.

And when you find yourself facing a lonely evening at home —which you won't do very often if you follow the advice I have just given you — invite a friend or two home to supper with you, and have a nice companionable time. Nobody has to be alone, if they don't want to be.

Wife Preservers



When you are about to do the family washing, see that no dark threads or small colored garments, such as hose, gloves or handkerchiefs, are left in light colored clothes that you are about to put into the wash water.

Fashion Flashes

It's fun doing things in this year's play clothes — co colorful, so practical, so pretty. Black, flowered chintz is used for a full skirt that is edged with pale blue chintz to match the strapless camisole top The bodice zips up the front and is trimmed with narrow edgings of the black, flowered skirt fabric. A bolero to match the skirt does a good cover-up job for general wear.

Colorful hats lend interest to dark clothes. Fine white straw is used for a little roller, the curled-up brim holding a full wreath of black and red berries and green leaves. Red velvet ribbon for a tiny bow in back, and pink blossoms dotted her and there for extra color.

Oodles and oodles of suds this season, as washable fashions continue to be the best sellers. Nice for town wear is a bolero and skirt of natural linen worn with a tucked-shirt-front blouse of dark gray voile. The skirt has slanting tabbed pockets at the hipline and continues around the waist, where it ties in a streamer bow.

Soft shadows, cast by soft, big black hats, lend allure to the summer scene. Lacy black straw is used for a big hat with a softly curved brim, massed on one side above, and on the opposite side, below, with a cluster of pink-to-red roses, the petals glinting here and there with tiny pearl or sequin "dewdrops."

Straws in the fashion wind include wallets, billfolds, compacts and cigarette cases all of straw to tone with straw handbags.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Correct Exercise Creates Grace Of Movement

In the contents of the make-up box a woman finds cheer. Powder will transform the shining satin skin to smooth velvet. The counterfeit blush can be so deftly created that it may pass for the real thing. That the lipstick is a prop for the soul every woman knows. All these are precious aids. But they will perform their beauty duties best for the woman who carries the radiance of splendid health and vitality.

The skin is benefited by brisk circulation and a digestive system that functions normally. The more fresh aid that is pumped into the lungs, the more colorful the cheeks and the lips. Exercise is the best way of air-conditioning the human bellow. It keeps the musculature strong and resilient, promoting the graceful silhouette, ordering fat cells to keep their distance. Lazy women and cushion sitters miss a lot. Activity is a law of life. We were not meant to be idle or indolent.

Health and high spirits boost beauty stock. Nothing like them for putting star shine in the eyes, ginger in the heels. You cannot be so blessed unless you have a certain amount of outdoor life, and right now is the season to get it. Spring busting out all over. Nature with vine leaves in her hair. If you can't do anything else, get out and hoof it.

Without work to do, muscles go slack and saggy. Soft fibers are ideal tenements for fat cells and they also make for slow, awkward movements. The girl who is athletically inclined— who enjoys muscle flexing and gets a thrill out of it — moves with the grace of young animals. She senses the vitality that is hers; it acts upon her mind and every cell of her body. It is tonic to her soul and her complexion.

If circumstances will not permit you to play golf or tennis or to tramp along pleasant places, give yourself a ten-minute workout at home. Calisthenics really are not tedious; it is just that many women think they are. If you go at them languidly and casually, they will not be interesting. Put your mind and heart on the project, realize that you are preserving the good lines of your figure, and you will consider it well worth while.

A good time for exercise is before the morning bath. Stretching lifting on the toes, swinging the arms, twisting and turning at the waistline, touching the floor without bending the knees — all these stunts any women can do without a sense of fatigue or martyrdom.

Here is a grand one, highly recommended by members of the medical profession for keeping one's insides, as well as one's outsides, in perfect form; lie on your back in bed, no pillow under the head. Hands under the buttocks for support. Lift the legs slowly until you are fairly standing on the back of your neck, lower them slowly.

A Few Words About Weddings

(From the Blue Bell)

Comes June and orange blossoms! Watching the bride and groom as they repeat their vows and go through the marriage ceremony, have you ever wondered where the various customs originated?

The idea of the marriage rites it to give the union social approval. With the guests regarded as witnesses, the feasting that usually follows the ceremony is to bring the bridal family together, strengthen the bond of friendship.

The practice of the joining of hands, which still is an important part in the marriage ritual began among savage tribes and later was included in the Indo-European rites.

Thus the wedding ring's evolution began in ancient times when the would-be groom captured a bride and bound her hands and feet with grass — symbolizing a stronger marriage tie.

Later, the more considerate suitor bound only the hands and still later a ring of plaited grass adorned on finger.

Have you ever wondered why the wedding ring is always worn on the third finger of the left hand?

It was customary for friends of the lady to be tied, to gather at her father's house to discuss the terms of the marriage contract.

When the amount of dowry payable on the wedding day had been agreed upon, there followed a feast during which the prospective bridegroom gave the woman his pledge that he would go through with the business — a ring which the lady put upon the third finger of her left hand because it was believed that an artery reached direct from this finger to the heart!

Later writers, however, gave a religious significance to the placment of the ring as did that "Emily Post" of early Victorian days, Mrs. Beeton, who wrote: "We have remarked upon the vulgar error which supposes that an artery runs from the third finger of the left hand to the heart, and that, therefore, it became the wedding finger. The custom of so placing the ring is really associated with the doctrine of the Trinity, for in the ancient ritual of English marriages the ring was placed by the bridegroom on the top of the thumb of the woman's left hand with the words: 'In the name of the Father,' he then removed it to the forefinger, saying: 'In the name of the Son' and then to the middle finger, saying 'And of the Holy Ghost.' Finally, he put it on the third finger with the closing word, 'Amen,' signifying the irrevocable covenant of marriage.

The ring, "circle with no beginning and no end," was a symbol of eternity and of the intention of the wedded pair to keep their covenant forever.

"With all my worldly goods—" Speaking of dowries, there was an ancient custom where the groom put a considerable sum of money into a purse or plate and presented it to the bride on her wedding night, as a token of the purchase of her person and his right to possess her.

"To honor and obey." In early Anglo Saxon weddings, the father of the bride presented his new son-in-law with one of his daughters shoes as a token of the transfer of authority. In confirmation of this the gallant bridegroom picked up the shoe and brought it smartly down upon the head of the bride! (This was supposed to put her in her place, with no nonsense, from the start.

"Love and cherish." The husband of ancient times was bound by oath to use his wife well as, failing this she might up and leave him. As a slight concession however, he was allowed to beat her in moderation. An old Welsh law was most specific. It provided that "three blows with broomstick on any part of her person except the head," was a fair allowance.

As with the moderns, June was the wedding month most in favor by the Romans.

Although the superstitions have been forgotten over the centuries, certain pleasant customs have continued with their purpose forgotten. The gay costumes of the attending bridal party, for instance, which often are to a wedding what frosting is to a cake, were once worn to protect the wedding couple from evil influences.

The bride usually looks lovely through a veil dreamily framing her face or thrown back from her head, but originally veils were used to cover the bride's face as protection from the "the evil eye".

Many a snapshot is taken of the smiling groom carrying the radiant bride across the threshold. This practice occurs not only in America but in China, Palestine, Cairo, Morocco, old Rome and in many modern European countries. The ground, supposedly, was affected by evil influences and trouble was in store for the maiden who preferred walking into the house.

It is interesting to learn, too, that throwing old shoes was practiced in England, Scotland, Denmark, on the Rhine, among the gypsies of Transylvania and in ancient Greece. This may have been as a means of scaring off evil influences because spirits may have been afraid of leather, or it may have been an offering to the evil spirits.

On the whole, it would seem that the bride of today is in a much more fortunate position than her sisters of olden times.

Here's to her!

LEFT MOTHERLESS BY SLAYER—Lawrence Springer, 20 months, sits in his crib unaware that his mother, Mrs. Louise Springer of Los Angeles was the victim of a fiendish killer. She was found strangled to death with a hemp rope in the back seat of her car. The murderer was likened by police to the unsolved "Black Dahlia" case of Elizabeth Short, whose severed body was found in a vacant lot a few years ago.—(Central Press Canadian).

Guests present included Grace Sargent, Leta Brownscombe, Flora Metcalfe, and Abbie Robinson of Peterborough, and Mae Smith and Violet Noakes of Belleville.

In her remarks of welcome to them into both the Belleville club and the International Association she gave a short history of Soroptimism, stressing the opportunities its affords for service and friendship. She also explained the significance of the emblem, which is made up of the Spirit of Womanhood, with the leaves and acorns of the oak, emblematic of growth and strength on one side, and the leaves of the laurel renowned for victory and achievement, on the other.

The officers for 1949-1950 who were installed were: Past President, Georgia Smith; President, Sally Caton; 1st Vice President, Leona Riggs; 2nd Vice President, Rachel Fox; Directors, Helen Keeler, Inda Drew, Mary Quinn, Harriett McGeary; Treasurer, Tillie Mazer; Corresponding Secretary, Frances Bennett; Recording Secretary, Lazietta Stirland.

Candlelighting Ceremony

The traditional candlelighting ceremony was part of the installation service. The candle of Soroptimism was lighted by Grace Sargent, from which the candles of tolerance, wisdom, sincerity, friendship and service were lighted.

The president's report of the Venture Club was read. Mae Smith, past president and Violet Noakes, president of the Venture Club, both thanked the Soroptimist Club for sponsoring their or-organization.

Frances Bennett tendered a vote of thanks to Grace Sargent and all the members of the Peterborough Club for their assistance, this was responded to by Grace Sargent.

Mrs. Georgia Smith, who was the Charter President of the Belleville Soroptimist Club, thanked all the members and officers for their assistance and cooperation. In presenting the gavel and the President's pin to Sally Caton, the new President, she voiced the hope that the same loyalty would be accorded to her.

Sally Caton, the new president, paid tribute to the fine example set by the Charter president, and hoped that she would prove worthy of the confidence placed in her. The pledge was repeated at the close of the program.

Each person was presented with a beautiful pink rose, by Mrs. MacKay, the new dietitian at Lattimer's, through the courtesy of Bernie LaPointe, branch manager, Ice Cream Dept., the Borden Company Ltd., in honor of the occasion of the first banquet that was served in the new Town Room.

MYSTERY MURAL UNVEILED—A receptionist of the U.S. state department in Washington pulls aside a curtain to display a mural that has been covered since Gen. George Marshall was secretary of state. The general ordered the painting kept under wraps because he felt it was too warlike to be displayed in an office dedicated to peaceful diplomacy. In doing so, he excited great interest in the mural.—(Central Press Canadian).

It Takes Big Money To Run A Railroad

(From The Canadian National Railways Magazine)

In Canada more people travel by trains than by all other commercial transportation services combined, yet it is safe to assume that only a trifling proportion of those who use the railways have a conception of the huge costs involved in construction and upkeep. As these costs have a bearing upon the rates railways charge, or are asking to be allowed to charge, for services rendered. a few words on the subject, may be timely.

From the windows of a passenger train, travellers must look across the railway right-of-way before their eyes to see the countryside beyond. The limits of the right-of-way (the property the railway owns) are usually enclosed within wire fences. The railway has to pay for this fencing and the cost averages $2,200 per mile of track.

Beside the track runs the company's telegraph system — many lines of wire strung between poles. There are approximately 36 poles to a mile and these, with the wire they support, cost the Canadian National Railways an average of $800 per mile.

The train itself runs on steel rails, and for main line track each standard rail in 39 feet long. A 39-foot rail of 100-pound weight (that is 100 pounds for every three feet) costs $50. Thus a mile of such track costs $13,550.

The rails themselves rest on ties each of which costs, on an average $2.34, and there are approximately 2,850 ties for every mile of line, so that the cost for ties per mile amounts to about $6,700.

The rails are fastened to the ties by spikes having an average value of four cents a-piece, and there are about 13,000 spikes for every mile.

Add these figures together and you'll find that for these items alone the cost per mile of track averages $23,770, without taking into consideration, grading, ballasting, bridges, stations and other buildings, signals, switches, tie plates and other items which bring the costs much higher. Nor does it include the costs of labor, upkeep or the original price of the land. And the Canadian National operates 24,178 miles of first main track.

Although there must be few people in Canada who have not seen or had a ride upon a passenger train, not many could estimate how much these trains cost that they use or look at so casually. It is large. For example the Canadian National has one train called the "Continental Limited" which is operated on daily service between Montreal and Vancouver and between Toronto and Vancouver. The minimum of this train is: 1 locomotive, 1 express car, 1 baggage car, 2 day coaches, 1 diner, 1 tourist car, 2 sleeping cars and 1 "observation" car.

Sixteen such trains are needed to maintain this daily service alone, and the cost of one such train at today's replacement values is:

1 locomotive	$200,000
1 express car	71,300
1 baggage car	71,300
2 day coaches	259,200
1 tourist car	130,000
1 dining car	183,000
2 sleeping cars	378,000
1 "observation" car	189,000
Total	$1,481,800

Thus to operate only this one of its many regular passenger train services, the Canadian National has to keep at least $23,708,800 tied up in equipment. Actually, the sum is more, because locomotives have to be changed at stated intervals and the length of the train is frequently increased as cars are taken on to perform certain local or connecting line services.

Viscountess Byng Dies at Age 78

Thorpe-Le-Soken, Essex, England, June 22 (CP)—Viscountess Byng of Vimy, 78, widow of the former Canadian Governor-General, died Monday at Thorpe Hall, her home here, it was announced Tuesday night.

Viscount Byng, Canada's Governor-General from 1921 to 1926, died in 1935.

Lady Byng's funeral will be held Friday.

On a visit to Canada in 1940 she donated a Spitfire fighter plane in memory of her husband. She stipulated that it be flown by a Canadian.

In 1928, Lady Byng inherited £500,000 ($2,000,000) from an uncle, Pandeli Ralli, a Greek merchant in London who was a close friend of Edward VII.

Her father, Sir Richard Moretown, was Queen Victoria's master of ceremonies.

Lady Byng was an author of some note. Her best-known novel was Anne of the Marshess, published in 1913. In recent years she wrote a book about her life with her soldier-husband who led Canadian forces in the capture of Vimy Ridge during the First World War.

Before her marriage, during the Boer war, Lady Byng was a popular and strikingly-beautiful figure in London society. Her home, Thorpe Hall, is noted for its fine gardens, including some plants brought from Canada.

She was active on far work during the war and offered her services "wherever they want to use me."

DREW MOVES INTO MONTREAL IN CAMPAIGN

Montreal, June 22. (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, today carried his election campaign into Montreal after a swing through Quebec's eastern townships where he made provincial autonomy the keynote of his addresses.

He is scheduled to visit high officials of the church, newspaper offices and the city hall, where he probably will be received by ebullient Mayor Camillien Houde.

Mayor Houde is supporting Mr. Drew although running on an independent ticket in the new riding of Papineau where the Progressive Conservatives also have entered a candidate.

In the afternoon, Mr. Drew will stop at a highway restaurant to speak to the employees of Canadair Limited, an aircraft plant whose purchase by United States interests he has criticized.

Mr. Drew, concluding a busy round of speech-making at Sherbrooke Tuesday night, said he has been and always will be a fighting defender of provincial rights. He spoke in both languages French and English.

He told his Granby audience that there is no chance of national unity while Prime Minister St. Laurent is in office, nor so long as Mr. St. Laurent goes about the country criticizing Premier Duplessis of Quebec.

Could Co-operate

Mr. Drew said he was sure that as leader of a federal government he could co-operate with Premier Duplessis.

At Farnham, he said people were being told that, as Premier of Ontario, he had co-operated too closely with Premier Duplessis; that Ontario and Quebec had blocked health and social security programs by refusing to sign a taxation agreement with the federal government during the 1945-46 Dominion-Provincial conference.

The Sherbrooke meeting, where Mr. Drew spoke in support of Redmond Hayes, the party candidate for the riding, was attended by two Quebec government cabinet members, Lands Minister Bourque and Hon. Patrice Tardif, minister without Portfolio. Both called for the support of Mr. Drew.

Mr. Drew, cheered when he started to speak in French, said he realized there was a whispering campaign going on against himself and Mrs. Drew. "But do we look like the kind of people who would do the things that they are saying we have done?" he asked. He did not elaborate. f oiMMinO5dfvyh

YOUNG LIBERAL ASSOCIATION MEETING TONIGHT
at 8.00 P.M.

Guest Speaker: GEORGE SHEWITT, President of the Central Ontario Young Liberal Association

COME AND MEET YOUR CANDIDATE
FRANK S. FOLLWELL
REFRESHMENTS SERVED

COLDWELL ADMITS:
THE C.C.F. CAN'T WIN!

VOTE
LIBERAL FOR PROTECTION AGAINST

EVEN THE C.C.F.'s own leaders admit the party cannot hope to form a Government after this election. It's ambition is to become the official Opposition.

What kind of protection could a C.C.F. Opposition provide against a Tory Drew government? For your answer, consider the Ontario Legislature. For six years an arrogant Tory machine has ridden roughshod over every C.C.F. proposal. It has forced through any kind of legislation it likes—hamstringing the federal labour code . . . creating "decertification" clauses. . . blocking national health plans . . . altering the wills of dead men to stifle freedom of the press . . . restricting the powers of municipal councils.

Nothing the C.C.F. Opposition could say or do swayed Drew in Ontario. Nothing a C.C.F. Opposition could say or do could restrain him if he held power at Ottawa.

Only the Liberals can prevent Drew from gaining power. Every vote for the C.C.F. divides the anti-Drew vote, increasing his chances of victory. Every vote for the Liberal party is a definite, positive vote against Drew.

Be fair to yourself. Don't take a chance that your vote will boomerang against your own best interests. Vote LIBERAL and be sure of a prosperous national economy . . . in which labour retains its rights to work and bargain for its legitimate aspirations.

St. Laurent Says Drew Not Helping Democratic Life

(By Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, June 22 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent says that Progressive Conservative leader Drew is conducting his federal election campaign "in a way that does not strengthen our democratic system."

"To judge from his public utterances," Mr. St. Laurent told a Liberal rally Tuesday night, "he seems incapable of believing a good many people can hold a different view than his and still be honest and sincere."

Mr. St. Laurent, in his only campaign appearance in Toronto, spoke before a crowd in Maple Leaf Gardens which Liberal officials estimated at 13,500.

He charged Mr. Drew with 'repeated efforts' to stir up political controversy about the details of Canada's defence organization and said he hoped the people of Toronto "are becoming tired of having their representatives spending so much time in the opposition."

Of the defence organization, Mr. St. Laurent said:

"I'm not going to say it's perfect. But I doubt if any country has had peacetime forces with higher morale or greater efficiency or better spirit than our Canadian forces in 1949."

He termed 1949 a year of significance for Canada, with the Atlantic act, the entry of Newfoundland in Confederation and a period of prosperity and trade at unprecedented levels.

Trade Minister Howe, introducing Mr. St. Laurent, said there could be "nothing further from the truth" than statements that Canada is losing her foreign trade markets. He warned that it "is possible for us to talk ourselves into a depression" and expressed regret that opposition parties "find it necessary to fight their elections by predicting economic disaster."

"Canada," he felt, is "an oasis of prosperity in a world that is far from prosperous."

External Affairs Minister Pearson said the Progressive Conservatives are "on the run" and suggested: "Let's keep them that way."

WEALTHY CANINE—"Rip", nine year-old wire haired terrier, is one of Canada's wealthiest dogs. When Mrs. Marguerite Ethel Spratt died in 1946 her will provided for a $75 a month to care for her pet until his death. The will provided "Rip" should sleep in her bedroom and be bathed in her bathroom by a registered nurse. For this the nurse was to receive $1,000 a year and $5,000 when the dog died. The nurse has become seriously ill so the executors have ruled "Rip" must go to a kennel. On his death he will be buried in the garden of the Spratt estate which is going to be sold.—(CP Photo).

Britain Sitting On Powder Keg In Tripolitania

By STANLEY SWINTON

Tripoli, June 22 — (AP)—Britain is sitting on a powder keg in strategic Tripolitania.

Almost everyone here agrees the keg will explode into Arab riots or revolt next fall if the United Nations Assembly tries to hand Tripolitania back to its former Italian rulers.

The fiery mufti of Libya threatens to lead his 700,000 Moslem followers in a war for independence or death if Italy returns.

For Britain and the United States trouble here would be disastrous. Peace is essential to the west's political and military position.

Why? Because the ace in the African strategic deck for the United States is Wheelus Field. That's the big but little - publicized stand - by air base put outside Tripoli town. Disturbances endangering Wheelus Field could upset American strategy over a big mediterranean area.

Britain's stake is even bigger.

Her 8th Army erased the last Italian resistance from Tripolitania's 106,472 square miles of sand and shore in January, 1943.

For 6½ years, Britain has had the costly, thankless job of mothering 826,000 Tripolitanians.

Britain Pro-Arab

Britain is traditionally pro - Arab. But as the occupying military power responsible for maintenance of order, she certainly would have to use force should trouble break out in conjunction with any attempt to re-impose Italian rule.

If that happened, Britain's whole Middle East position would be weakened by ensuing political repercussions in the Arab world.

Last spring Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin of Britain and Foreign Minister Carlos Sforza of Italy cooked up a plan to divide the former Italian colonies.

Tripolitania was to go to Italy.

British officials on the spot — who privately feel the plan was unworkable — were notified only a few hours before it was published.

Between 10,000 and 20,000 Arabs met the proposal with demonstrations of furious protest.

Defeated by Vote

Authorities here say it was the best - disciplined, best - organized Arab demonstration in modern history. Fortunately the proposal for Tripolitania was defeated by one vote in the United Nations Assembly.

"Those demonstrations proved we haven't a hope of maintaining order if they try to re-introduce the Bevin - Sforza plan in September," an important British official conceded.

The most likely outcome, and one which Arab leaders privately

See Communism Losing Fight In Austria

By G. K. HODENFIELD

Vienna, June 22 — (AP)—Western observers and diplomats here are convinced Austria will never go communist without active interference by Russia.

Britain has had more experience in governing Arab countries than any other power, Libyan Arabs point out.

Most bets are that a British trusteeship will be the final answer. If so, Tripolitania probably will remain peaceful — particularly if she is granted internal self-government, like Cyrenaica. Western observers and diplomats here are convinced Austria will never go communist without active interference by Russia.

Should the Paris agreement, announced Monday, result in a treaty of independence for Austria, they firmly believe this country would stay outside the iron curtain.

There are many reasons why communism has been a losing cause in Austria

First, the country is primarily Roman Catholic; secondly, Russian troops came to Austria as conquerors, not liberators. Their arrival in Vienna touched off a wave of looting, raping and acts of violence whose memory lingers.

During the last four years of occupation the west has brought in huge shipments of gifts and grants to keep the country alive. On the other hand, millions of dollars worth of goods seized by the Russians as German assets or war booty, have flowed out of the country to the east.

Austria, in population and tradition, has few ties with the Slav states to the east. Her outlook is westward.

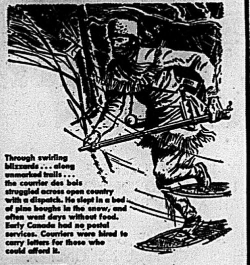
TURNING THE PAGES OF "CANADA UNLIMITED"



Through swirling blizzards . . . along unmarked trails . . . the courrier des bois struggled across open country with a dispatch. He slept in a bed of pine boughs in the snow, and often went days without food. Early Canada had no postal services. Couriers were hired to carry letters for those who could afford it.

When the first Post Office opened in Halifax in 1755, regular mail service to England began. In 1763, post offices were opened in Montreal, Quebec and Three Rivers by Benjamin Franklin, then Deputy Postmaster-General of the British Colonies in America.

During the 1800's, roads opened up. Boats began regular trips along the St. Lawrence. Mail services expanded until, in 1852, the Canadian Post Office was handling 3,700,000 letters. And on Christmas Day, 1898—thanks to the efforts of Sir William Mulock—penny postage was born.

Today Canada leads the world—carrying mail by air between distant points of our country . . . at first-class rates! From paper-making to transportation, the industries that make the postal services possible have contributed to this growth . . . have increased opportunity. Yes, there's room to grow in Canada Unlimited!

VOTE ARNOTT — JUNE 27th

FRONTIER U.

By Oren Arnold

"Nuts to that, McMurray!" Glen said, grinning, "Glammer gals come a dime a dozen. Personally I think the public is sated with 'em, although I admit the Boone person has something on the ball, all right. But your sister now—whew! You ought to look at her!"

Ken Palmer sensed their attitude also, and curiously enough was more than normally concerned about it. He somehow felt that it was a personal matter with him. Not that he disapproved of their reactions to Polly; on the contrary, he told himself, he thought he understood how they felt.

The camp this time was in a highline mountain cabin on the far reaches of the range area for this part of Arizona. A threat of rain was showing. Mr. McMurray said that inasmuch as the hour was late afternoon, they'd all hole in for the night and start early tomorrow.

"Suits me swell," James Glenn said. "Miss McMurray, your brother brought a guitar along. Said you could play it. Can you tune it up for me here in the cabin?"

"Hey!" Terry Brookfield. "You had your inning with her. It's my turn."

"Try and get it!" the other young man grinned. "Miss—look, may I call you Polly?—look, why don't you come on to New York and . . ."

He was a very talkative somebody. And so, for that matter, was Brookfield. Moreover, there was nothing whatsoever bashful about either of them. Accustomed to working at high tension, these two from the east pitched into new self-assigned pleasures here.

It soon became obvious to the whole party that while they might also attend to business on this outing, they were personally smitten with Polly as well. Ken Palmer watched with increasing interest and concern. He heard them again say that she could be made famous, in movies, in modelling, in any of several walks of life back in New York. Polly played the guitar and sang western songs for them, and Brookfield wanted her to sign a contract with him then and there, him to be her manager for Manhattan night club bookings.

If nobody else seemed prone to take the two ardent young men very seriously, Ken at least did.

He had helped with cooking supper, and in the cleanup time after eating he paused often to stare at Polly and her new suitors, over by the cabin fireplace. They were still there, talking, laughing, when most of the others went to their bed rolls. Joy and Polly and Miss Carlson had been assigned one of the three rooms for their own and Joy "turned in" early, partly for diplomacy's sake, Ken felt.

Ken, staking the camp duffel, untieing Polly's and the two New Yorker's sleeping rolls, was completely ignored by the trio at the fire, but he was within earshot when the men's voices dropped to an increased, assumed intimacy with her, and when Glenn finally said, "Look, Polly, everbody else is hitting the hay and you'll want to sleep too. You're marvelous, kid! See you first thing in the morning, hunh? Meantime though, how about a good-night kiss? All right?"

Ken, several feet away, turned toward the fireplace in silent consternation. He was frowning. They still ignored him, or rather didn't notice him at all.

"Mr. Glenn," Polly said, levelly. "Good-night. Thanks for saying so many nice things. But—the man I kiss will know it! It won't be a casual or careless thing. He'll be the man I expect to love always!"

She got up then with quiet dignity and went to her room.

Ken Palmer had unconsciously clinched his fist. He stood there erect and powerful, looking in the fire glow, silently glaring at the other two men. They still ignored him.

The lion hunting party found rain falling when they awoke next morning in their big cabin. Ward called through the closed door to Bettina Carlson, Joy and Polly, when he heard them stirring.

"Sleep late, chillun," said he. "The dogs could never pick up a lion trail now. Maybe the rain'll break later. Breakfast when you want it."

But Joy had retired very early, so she was done sleeping. "Ward, I'm coming out to help cook. May I? Hunh?"

"Sure! Be tickled to have America's Name Girl fry my bacon!" He said it jauntily.

"Ward! Please don't. I'm sick of that sort of thing. Really I am. Can't I be just one of the party?"

"Sure you can. I was only teasing and—no! No, you can't. Not this trip. I forgot the photographer and feature writer. They are pounding the hay in the next room."

Joy groaned, in depreciation. Polly peeped out of her blankets with interest, and not a little surprise. Joy spoke again.

"Will you talk to me if I come out quiet like, Ward? Just about camping and things?"

"Will I?"

When Joy was gone, Bettina Carlson, next to Polly there on the cabin floor, poked a face out and smiled.

"This is truly remarkable," she said. "Joy and I have lived for years amid the finest luxury money can buy. And yet, my dear, I'm actually enjoying this! This! Sleeping in rough blankets down on the dusty floor of an old log house in the mountain. I think Joy likes it, too. It's a fundamental thing, I feel, Polly. Something earthy and good about roughing it. Something wholesome."

"I think I understand," the ranch girl agreed. "I'm glad Polly is happy about it. She seems bright this morning. She was a little depressed back at school. There was talk, you know."

"I heard. About her and Ken, you mean?"

"Yes. Miss Carlson, she does care for Ken, doesn't she?"

Oh, in a way, dear. Kenyon is a grand boy, surely. And I think his being prominent, the college president's son you know, made him attractive in Joy's eyes. She is quite impressionable. Honest and open."

"You mean—maybe she doesn't—doesn't really love him?" Polly asked that eagerly.

Miss Carlson sighed. Who can say what love is, dear? Especially other people's loves? But then, I do not delude myself about Joy. The child is sweet, but she has been man-struck, no doubting that. She enjoys the thrill of conquest."

"Oh."

"Yes. But I do not think she was wrapped up in him."

"Was?" Polly's interest soared higher. "Has she . . .?"

"Well, phychologically, the affair is waning. When a predatory type of girl such as Joy has 'won' her man, she begins to lose interest. Unless it happens to be real love, I suppose. It has happened twice before with Joy, although perhaps in milder form. Oh she will continue to like Kenyon and be gracious to him . . . I don't know how far he has committed himself, but I'm sure he hadn't actually proposed, and . . ."

"Oh, Miss Carlson!"

"What, dear?"

"I. . . I mean . . . I hope Joy can always be happy whatever she does."

"Of course. You are her best friend, Polly. She speaks so much of you. She's so fine at heart. Just young. Not as . . . as mature minded as you think you are. We have all come to love both of you very much, you two girls!"

The compliment touched Polly. She murmered a thank you.

"If the right man ever comes along," Miss Carlson went on, gazing now at the rafters and the roof beyond which the rain was pelting, and just spectulating as women in conversation will, "Joy Kathryn is capable of a fierce loyalty to him. It's just that she's growing up. A child, coming of age. Twenty is so young!"

"Oh." Polly considered that. She herself was only twenty-one

"You know, Polly, what Joy needs is a strong muscled, a strong willed man, who will sweep her off her feet."

"Why Miss Carlson! Don't we all? You sound so romantic!"

The older woman smiled. "I mean it. I have thought often that energetic Miss Joy would some day meet her match. Trouble is, she scares a lot of men off. Now take your own brother—he . . ."

"Ward?"

"Yes. A fine young American, isn't he! I think I have never seen a more admirable man, all around. If some day one of his sort should cross her path so as to impress her, and still should appear disinterested . . . goodness!"

Polly raised up on one elbow, hugging blankets over her ear. "Miss Carlson, what would Joy likely do?"

"Do? Do,my dear?" she laughed "Why she'd set her cap for him! I confess that Joy is spoiled. We must love her in spite of that. She has been so wealthy, so sought after because of her spectacular beauty—there are even publicity men here with us in these isolated mountains, of all places! Everywhere the photographers . . ."

Polly interrupted. "You are sure she would try to corral a good-looking man who—who held off, and didn't fall for her at once?"

Miss Carlson laughed gaily. "Of course. It's quite a fundamental thing, Polly. What comes easy we don't want. What evades us, we crave. We are all like that."

"I'm going to get up!" Polly declared. She arose at once and stood there a moment in her pajamas, the crimson silk ones that had been made in Mexico. They were a compliment to Polly's ebony hair and her deep skin coloring. She was looking off at nothing, though, unconscious of herself.

"Don't get chilled, dear."

"Miss Carlson!" Polly dropped to her knees near the older woman, and spoke quietly now. "Do you think—tell me—could Joy possibly be made interested in shone on her.

Miss Carlson reached to pat her hand. "You're so sweet, Polly. I don't know. I was just using his name as an illustration. But then, why not? Stranger things have happened. He is handsome. And quite different from the mill run of men. Come to think of it,she really was impressed by him when he gave her the fawn. Remember?"

Polly nodded gazing off now. She was biting her lip, thinking brown eyes wide.

Then all at once Polly's lovely eyes narrowed.

Her pretty face took on a scowl. Perhaps too much of a scowl. She turned away from Miss Carlson for a moment and began slowly to dress. When she did speak again, though, it was in a most surprising tone.

"You make her let Ward alone!" Polly said angrily.

Miss Carlson looked out of the blankets in astonishment.

"You tell Joy—you must order her to, Miss Carlson—that Ward can't afford—can't tell her that Ward has his life all cut out for him! He wouldn't be interested in any city girl, Miss Carlson. Never! Tell her not to—not to upset him. She'd just be hurt."

Bettina Carlson sat upright in her own bed roll now, distress evident on her. She spoke very calmly. "Polly dear, of course I will, since you ask it. I had no idea I might distress you so! Of course I shall speak to Joy. But I must warn you—ordering her to stop would serve enough to encourage her more. She would only buck the more."

"I don't care!" Polly snapped. "You tell her. You must!"

"All right, dear."

"Tell her Ward doesn't want to be bothered. Ward is not a — not a ladies' man. He never was. Not the type at all. He wouldn't respond."

I understand."

"Promise?"

"Surely, since you wish it so."

Polly began dressing fast then. And, miraculously, her expression changed again. Miss Carlson noted with renewed astonishment that the scowl had vanished, the eyes were alert and eager as before. In a moment, when she was lacing boots, Polly actually began to hum a little happy tune. She went out of the room, leaving kindly Bettina Carlson in a state of interested confusion.

Outside in the main room of the cabin, Polly saw that Joy had braved the cold to walk out on the front porch with the photographer and the syndicate writer. Ken Palmer was with Buch McMurray and Dr. Palmer outside feeding the saddle horses. That left brother Ward inside at the fireplace, cooking, momentarily alone. Polly hastened to him.

She kissed him quickly on the forehead by way of morning greeting, and when he turned with the frying pan in hand to smile at her, she placed a finger on his lips.

"Wardy!" she whispered. "Listen carefully to me! Things are brewing! Mind everything I say. You act cold toward Joy all day, you hear?"

"Cold?"

"Yes! Cold and disinterested. Be ever so nice but standoffish. Show off before her, Wardy. Strut your he-man stuff. Be the grand westerner that you are, and all. But don't talk much to Joy. Just kind of,uh, tolerate her! Show no personal interest in her at all!"

"But . . ."

"No buts! You promised to let me handle certain matters. All right, the games on and you've got to do as the captain says!"

The rain stopped before 10 a.m. There hadn't been enough of it to do any damage, only enough to make lion hunting impracticable while it fell.

"We'll have early lunch," Buck McMurray said, "then we can get going by one o'clock. That will be time for some cats to have made fresh trails."

"Won't the wet ground be hard to trail on, Ward?" Joy asked him strapping on pistol and ammunition belt. Pistols were sufficient to kill any mountain lions, Ward had said.

"No, Miss Boone," He spoke impersonally, as a lecturer might do. She looked surprised. "You see, the lions holed up during the rain even as we did. With the sun out, they'll be moving soon. Not much. Not as much as they will tonight. But whatever trail they do make today will be fresh so our dogs can lead fast. We stand a good chance."

"You called me Miss Boone," Joy affected a little pout.

"Aren't you Miss Boone?" Ward asked levely. Then he turned disinterestedly from her. "I'll go see that the dogs are fed and ready."

She stood watching him depart, a little piqued. She couldn't understand Ward McMurray. He might be a very genial and attentive to a girl, or he might seem detached from all consideration of her. He interested her more and more, she realized. She saw anew the powerfull build of him. She remembered the few times he had danced with her, how he occasionally lifted her and swung her with consummate ease. She saw his graceful strides now, and behind the evident efficiency of him in whatever he set himself about doing.

James Glenn the picture magazine photographer, and Terry Brookfield, syndicate feature writer, who had slept disgracefully late in the camp this morning, came now to Joy.

"We're all set to ride," Glenn said. "Want to get some action shots. The sky is clearing, thank goodness."

"Will you want me or Polly?" Joy demanded. "You seemed so much taken with her yesterday."

"Ouch! Lay off that, Miss Boone Surely you can't be getting jealous in your old age! I warn you there's a writer present."

He said that jokingly, but Joy it was a threat even so. Terry Brookfield was noted for his candid stories on personalities in the American Limelight. It was why he had been sent here. He'd pull no shots in giving his impressions of Joy!

"I'm sorry," she said. "I did sound catty, and I don't want to."

"Stout fellow!" Brookfield nodded, admiringly.

The three older persons present—Mr. McMurray,sr., Dr. Palmer, and Miss Carlson—announced that they would not ride this first day because of wet foliage.

"You youngsters go on," Polly's father urged. "You aren't afraid of anything. We have some planning for the college to do. Best place in the world to talk is up here. Mind you bring back a lion."

DAWES BLACK HORSE BREWERY

Title in Balance As Joe Walcott And Charles Meet

Chicago, June 22 (AP)—Jersey Joe Walcott, fighting 35-year-old father of six children, and Ezzard Charles, a belting bachelor of 180 pounds, battle for the world heavyweight boxing title (N.B.A. version) at Comiskey Park tonight scale 194. This would give him retired Joe Louis' vacated crown were to weigh in at 1 p.m. EDT at Chicago stadium. Walcott, the aging but clever clouter from Camden, N.J., was expected to scale 194. Thos would give him an approximate 15-pound weight pull if Cincinnati's 27-year-old Charles came in at a likely 179.

There was a sentimental, if not a golden box-office touch to the 15-round title affair. It was exactly 12 years ago tonight in Comiskey Park that Louis sledgehammered the heavyweight crown from the scarred brow of James J. Braddock. Louis retired as undefeated champion last March.

As time for the gong neared, thar, Walcott—was a dwindling 10-13 favorite.

Interest Not Great

Because tonight's winner will not be recognized as world champion by the New York State Athletic Commission or the British Boxing Board, interest was slow coming to a boil or even a simmer.

But, within the last few days, a substantial contingent of out-of-town boxing writers have moved in to make the best of the heavyweight vacuum caused by Louis' retirement.

The New York Commission, not a member of N.B.A., wants a "tournament" of contenders before crowning any world champ. The British Board will label the winner of the Bruce Woodcock-Lee Savold bout in England Sept. 6 as the heavyweight monarch.

There are whispers, vehemently denied by Louis, that the Brown Bomber himself may emerge then from retirement to get another whack at a big purse, especially if Charles wins tonight. Louis now is boxing director of the International Boxing Club, the sponsor at tonight's bout.

In event of a postponement, the bout will be held tomorrow or Friday.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The taste of yellow dust in your mouth, the hoarse roar of the crowd, the thud of thundering hoofs on the turf and all the color that goes with harness racing is being readied for enthusiasts of that sport in Picton on July 1st.

* * *

The star attraction for the pacing and trotting nag owners will be a $1,000 Free-for-All purse. "That ain't hay" even to a horse, and the boys who wear the peaked caps and silks of harness horse driving are already going all-out to get a chunk of the money. Picton race authorities tell us that already nine entries have been received for this race.

* * *

In conjunction with the horse racing there'll be a carnival staged by the Picton Rotary Club and in the evening, or at least after it's all over, some lucky person will be taking home a brand new car. The whole business is under the sponsorship of the Picton Rotary Club in aid of its Crippled Children Fund. Don't mention it, Philip, m'lad.

* * *

What baseball fans would like as much if not better than season passes to all baseball games; free beer between innings; a blonde to keep them happy while rival managers are arguing, and a life-membership in the Royal Order of Non-Income Paying Buckaroos, is a scoreboard, on, near or about the diamond in Exhibition Park. The season is well advanced and all earlier rumors to the effect that a scoreboard would be erected have been relegated to the conventional barrel of hogwash.

* * *

Early in the spring, when the dew worms were poking curious snouts above ground, there were all kinds of rumors extant regarding the erection of a scoreboard. And they died on the spot. No effort, except that of a gang of fun-minded youngsters, has been made to have a board erected — at least no visible sign of effort. And it's about time somebody did something about it.

* * *

The large scoreboard situated deep in centrefield, if repaired and painted would still fill the bill. Some stories have it that the owners, or original owners, were going to do something about it; others had it that a certain industrial plant in the neighborhood had "taken over" and would place the board in working order. So far, no runs, no hits and plenty of errors of omission.

* * *

There have been plenty of comments from the fans regarding the non-existence of such a board, and the majority of them have not been commendable to the powers-that-be. A scoreboard is badly needed and would be welcomed not only by the fans but by players and team officials as well. The season is nearing the half-way mark and action, if any is to be taken, should get under way immediately.

* * *

We have been informed, correctly or incorrectly, that certain manufacturing firms of national scope, are willing to place a scoreboard at the baseball diamond, free of charge provided certain advertising was permitted on the board. We are not in a position to say whether this is true, but if it is, why have these firms been turned down?

* * *

The present ancient scoring monument to the gallant teams of Belleville's past baseball glory, carried plenty of advertising praising the qualities of a product manufactured in this city. We are not trying to convey the impression that advertising carried on the board is the reason for its non-appearance. Personally, we do not know why a board has been absent for so long. In any event, let's have a scoreboard at the diamond in Exhibition Park. Nobody gives a tinker's dam whether it proclaims the life-giving qualities of Murgatroyd's Meatballs in Mustard; Sling-it-on Liniment for Tired Husbands, Aching Feet, Cranky Mothers-in-Law; Mother Murphy's Chowder; Pull-Push, Nick-Nick Razor Blades, or Marvello Tonsil Oil for Weary Politicians. Let's have the scoreboard, and the sooner the better.

* * *

Kiwanis Juniors trek to Picton tonight to take on the husky baseballers of that town. The Juniors had plenty of workout in that midnight session with Northern Electric on Monday night and they should give a good account of themselves.

* * *

Napanee Merchants are the guests of the Trenton R.C.A.F. Flyers at the Fair Grounds tonight at 8.30, and that should be a tidy little scuffle. The Flyers tucked away a neat victory in their last game and with Walt Gerow's crew in fine fettle, the game should be worth glimpsing. But puleeze, fellas, get the game started on time, and let's gettahell out of there before the hordes of man-eating miniature tigers with wings descend in full force on unexposed arms, legs and other parts of the anatomy that aren't exposed. Taint no fun eating a couple of meals off the mantelpiece after a long night baseball session at the Exhibition Grounds.

* * *

The pitching masterpiece that youthful Bob Green threw at the unfortunate Howe and Hagerman squad last Monday evening is all the more remarkable when one considers that it was the first time that the portside speedball artist has pitched against any competition other than school boys from Grades 7 to 10 inclusive.

* * *

Bob struck out 14 batters in a 7-inning contest, sparing no one on the opposing team, pinch hitters included. He showed amazing control as well, walking but three and scattering five hits. He showed his steadiness under fire when Howe and Hagerman loaded the bases with none away in the fifth by forcing one man to ground out and by striking out the other two. Three infield errors by his mates failed to shake him and the fact that he was working without a run for five innings seemed of no consequence whatever. His mates finally got one for him in the fifth and another in the seventh. With this one effort Bob Green has stepped right up with the best pitchers in the league and his presence on the Houston team makes last year's winners a still more potent ball club.

Record Field Start on Trail Of $10,000 Open

St. George's Golf Club, Toronto, June 22 (CP)—A record field of nearly 200 golfers started out today on the trail of $10,000 in the Canadian Open golf championship.

There was a dearth of favorites for the title won by Charles (Chuck) Congdon of Tacoma, Wash., at Vancouver's Shaughnessy Heights course last year.

The total entry reached 198, outstripping the previous record of 181 set at Toronto St. Andrews in 1936.

Congdon was one of the early arrivals and in a practice round Tuesday he shot a three-under-par 69.

Dick Metz of Virginia Beach, Va., cut one stroke off this figure in his first look at the course Tuesday.

A half-hour rain Tuesday night had little effect on sun-parched course. It was the first rain in weeks but the greens were still in good condition.

Anybody's Guess

The winner is anybody's guess.

Cary Middlecoff, the Memphis, Tenn., dentist who won this year's United States Open, passed up the Canadian classic, but Clayton Heafner, from Charlotte, N.C., and runner-up to Middlecoff, will make his bid along with other heavily - favored American entrants.

The last time a Canadian won it was in 1914, when Karl Keffer of Ottawa shot an even 300 at the Toronto Golf Club layout.

Fred Wood of Vancouver's Shaughnessy Heights was linked with Gordie Brydson, Toronto Mississauga, as top Canadian prospect. Wood has been well up in the running for several years and Brydson is the Canadian Professional Golfers Association champion, winner at Vancouver Point Grey last year.

After 36 holes of play the field will be cut to 100 and ties, and on the final day the 60 lows and ties will fight it out.

First prize money is $2,000 and second prize $1,400, with the other awards scaling down to $50 for 20th place.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Batting, Elmer Valo, Athletics—Slammed a home run with the bases full, got two singles and stole two bases to help the Athletics defeat the Cleveland Indians, 8-2.

Pitching, Dave Koslo, Giants—Went the full 12 innings, retiring the last 13 men in order as the Giants defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-5.

Mystery of Johnny Sain's Ineffectiveness Deepens As Braves Drop Fifth in Row

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The mystery of Johnny Sain and his loss of pitching magic grows deeper every time the former Boston ace takes the mound.

Veteran observers, who watched the 30-year-old curve-balling righthander ring up 24 victories for the Braves last year, are at a loss to explain his all-too-numerous dismal performances this season.

What has happened to Sain, a 20-game winner for the last three seasons. He is not in ill health and insists his arm is as strong as ever. Then what is wrong

Could it be that reports of strife between the pitcher and Manager Billy Southworth are true? Sain has never bothered to deny persistent reports that he and Southworth are not on speaking terms.

Sain Tuesday dropped his fifth straight and his eighth of the year as Chicago Cubs downed the Braves, 8-4, in the National League's only day game. The defeat, coupled with Philadelphia's 9-4 triumph over the Pirates at night dropped the Braves into fourth place.

Sain, who has won four games, went the distance for a change, but he was pummelled for nine hits, six of them for extra bases.

Chipman Credited

Bob Chipman, who relieved starter Walt Dubiel in the fourth, was the winner.

Brooklyn increased its first-place lead over St. Louis Cardinals to 1½ games, defeating the Reds in Cincinnati, 9-4, while New York Giants were downing the Cards, 6-5, in a 12-inning thriller in St. Louis.

The Reds have won only one game from Brooklyn at Crosley Field since 1947. Carl Furillo's double in the seventh with the bases full, his fourth hit of the game, put it on ice.

Willard Marshall tripled in the top of the 12th, then crossed the plate with the Giants' winning run on Wes Westrum's long fly. A grand-slam homer by Joe Lafata, subbing for the slumping Johnny Mize at first, kept the Giants in the game. Ted Wilks, third Card hurler, was the loser. Dave Koslo went all the way to register his second triumph for the Giants.

Willie (Puddin' Head) Jones slammed two home runs to lead the Phils to their second straight win over the Pirates.

A's in Second Place

Philadelphia Athletics moved into second place in the American League, winning their second straight over Cleveland, 8-2. They moved past Detroit by a half-game and trail the front-running New York Yankees by four.

Lefty Lou Brissie limited the Tribe to four hits — a triple and home run by Bob Kennedy — for his seventh triumph. Elmer Valo hit a grand slam home off losing pitcher Bob Lemon.

Lefty Mel Parnell pitched the Boston Red Sox into fourth place with a 7-1 job against Detroit. Ted Williams helped the Red Sox stretch their winning streak to six straight, hitting his 17th home run off Art Houtteman in the 6th with two aboard.

Sid Hudson pitched a four-hitter as Washington Senators whipped Chicago White Sox, 9-3. It was his fifth victory of the year.

The Yankees and St. Louis Browns had an off day.

Buffalo Shortstop Hailed as Best Since Boudreau

(By The Associated Press)

Billy De Mars, 23-year-old shortstop of the Buffalo Bisons, is being hailed as the best shortstop to cavort in a Bison uniform since Lou Boudreau played for the team in 1939.

De Mars, on option from Philadelphia Athletics, has been brilliant afield and has surprised Manager Paul Richards with his hitting.

The Brooklyn native returned to action last night after sitting on the side lines for 10 games due to a minor leg injury. He played an important role in the Bisons' 9-8 triumph over Jersey City Giants. The victory boosted the Bisons' International League lead over the Giants and Montreal Royals to two games.

De Mars contributed a bases-loaded double to the payoff surge and scored the winning run from third base on Lonnie Frey's single to right.

Montreal pulled into a second-place tie with the Giants by splitting a doubleheader with Syracuse Chiefs. The Royals took the opener, 3-2, on Chuck Connors' 3-run homer but dropped the nightcap, 8-7.

Sam Jethroe hit for the cycle for the Royals in the nightcap, banging out a homer, triple, double and two singles. Jethroe also stole two bases, batted in two runs and scored three.

The fifth-place Rochester Red Wings trounced the last-place Newark Bears 11-4. Lou Novikoff and Ed Ehlers belted two run homers to account for all Newark's runs.

Rochester whacked four Newark pitchers for 11 hits, including round trippers by Steve Hilko, Russ Derry and Don Thompson. Derry's belt was his 17th of the season, tying him with Toronto's Ed Sanicki for the circuit leadership.

Two Seeded Stars Stave Off Upsets At Wimbledon

(By The Canadian Press)

Two seeded stars Tuesday staved off threatened upsets before 20,000 sun-drenched fans who flocked to the Wimbledon tennis championships.

The fireworks, which seemed ready to blow out Frankie Parker of Los Angeles and Eric Sturgess of South Africa in the first 45 minutes, fizzled.

After both stars had fallen one set behind in their matches, they straightened up and cruised into the third round of men's singles. Parker defeated Billy Sidwell of Australia 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4 and Sturgess scored over Torsten Johansson of Sweden 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 8-6.

At Wilmington, Del., Rocky Graziano, hard-hitting former middleweight champion from New York Tuesday night took his first step on the comeback trail by knocking out Bobby Claus, veteran Buffalo campaigner, in 46 seconds of the second round in their scheduled 10-round bout. Graziano weighed 159 3-4, Claus scaled 149.

Frankie Frisch, Chicago Cubs manager, Tuesday was fined $100 and suspended for five days by President Ford Frick of the National League.

The suspension was the result of a row with Umpire Art Gore at the finish of Monday's Cub game with Boston when a Chicago runner was called out after apparently scoring the tying run.

Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth, Tex., have been dropped from the United States Hockey League circuit and Louisville, Ky. has been added, Harry Fowler of Omaha, one of the league's governors, said Tuesday at Omaha. Fowler said the Texas teams will form a new league. Additional entries are expected to be San Antonio and Wichita, with possibly Oklahoma City.

The United States loop now has six teams — Omaha, Louisville, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Kansas City and Tulsa.

Minneapolis Millers of the United States Hockey League Tuesday announced sale of defenceman Gordon (Moose) Sherritt, to Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League. Sherritt was the second player minneapolis sold to Buffalo during the last few days. The other was Walter (Pinky) Melnyk, rightwinger from Kitchener.

The third-ranking United States golf amateur, Dick Chapman, has filed his entry for the Canadian amateur opening at the Riverside Golf and Country Club July 25, it was announced Tuesday night at Saint John, N. B., by the committee in charge of the event. Chapman is ranked behind only Frank Stranahan, Toledo, current Canadian champion, and Willie Turnesa among United States amateurs.

At New York, Max Ritter, a member of the United States Olympic committee and chairman of foreign relations for the Amateur Athletic Union, said Tuesday he had received "a green light" from the International Olympic Committee at Lausanne to re-affiliate Japan and Germany into all international sport federations.

WILLIAMS WINS EASILY

Los Angeles, June 22 (AP)—Lightweight champion Ike Williams toyed with young Irving Steen of San Diego Monday night for a 10-round decision at the Olympic auditorium before 5,000 fans. Williams weighed 141 and Steen 143 in the non-title engagement. The match was a tune-up for Williams' title scrap here July 21 against Enrique Bolanos of Mexico.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, June 22 (AP)—Lefty Remini, who used to manage Tami Mauriello, was leading a discussion of the heavyweight situation in the New York office of the I.B.A.—that is, he was yelling lounder than anyone else ..."Jersey Joe Walcott is one of the great fighters of all time," Lefty maintained conservatively ..."You criticize him for keeping away from Louis at the end of their first fight, but what would you have said if he had waded in and got himself knocked out.. He does just what you try to teach a kid in the gym—stick and move."..There was some attempt at rebuttal such as "the didn't move; he ran away." Finally a guy who is considered one of the keenest judges of boxers in town, stuck his head in the door .... Don't quote me," he said, "but if you haven't make your pick yet, pick Charles. Walcott won't find hasn't had a fight in a year. this dept, hereby selects Ezzard as tonight's winner.

Thumb Fun

Ever hear of a psorts editors getting thumbed out of ball park by the umpire?...It happened, not in Brooklyn but in the Evangeline League ball park at Lafayette, La...Seems the Lafayette manager and the umpire got into a noisy rhubarb and one of the scribes, who could stand just so much, hied himself out of the press box onto the field and started taking the umpire to ask... Upshot was that the manager and writer both were ejected from the park and the scribe was told not to return..."I'm told," says the gent who reports this incident, "that he has resigned his job since and gone back to—of all places—Harvard."

CANADA NEEDS HEALTHY RAILWAYS TO SERVE HER PEOPLE

Canada's Railways mean EMPLOYMENT for over 190,000 Canadians

It takes skilled manpower and lots of it to keep the railways rolling ... to move passengers and freight (145 million tons of it last year!) ... to carry the essentials of life and work to every community. So it's not surprising that the railways are among Canada's biggest employers. Last year their payroll totalled $544,000,000.

Then, too, the railways are heavy buyers of so many things, from paper cups to locomotives. Their continued power to employ and to buy is therefore linked with the welfare of countless thousands of other Canadians doing all sorts of jobs in all parts of Canada. The fact is ...

THE RAILWAYS ARE CANADA'S BIGGEST BUYERS

This advertisement is one of a series pointing out the railways' key place in Canada's economy. As Canada's largest builders of railway rolling stock and equipment, this company and its employees are directly concerned with the railway industry. Canadian Car & Foundry's eight modern plants turn out thousands of railway cars of every type, both passenger and freight. They are fully equipped to supply Canada's railways with rolling stock of the latest type to meet the growing needs of our expanding economy.

Last year they bought well over 400 million dollars' worth of goods, most of which were grown, mined and manufactured in Canada.

FUEL—For fuel alone, the railways spent $113,000,000. They are Canada's largest fuel users. Fuel is one of the largest single items purchased.

STEEL — They spent $21,000,000 for rail and track fastenings. There are 13,000 railway spikes in one mile of track; and the railways operate close to 50,000 miles of track.

WOOD PRODUCTS

There are 3,000 wooden ties to every mile of track. Last year for wood products, including ties, the railways spent nearly 30 million dollars.

The railways also spent other millions for rolling stock of all types; for paper products, tickets, timetables, booklets, stationery; for food, textiles and a host of other products.

Adding taxes, duty, insurance, interest charges and other items, the railways spend close to one billion dollars a year.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

What do I mean, several ask me, by breaking the chain of new suit takeouts. The question is sparked by my rule: A simple takeout is forcing for one round; if the chain of takeouts to new suits is not broken.

A takeout to a new suit means a bid in a suit that has not been mentioned before in the current deal. If nothing but new suits have been named, the bids are an unbroken chain of new suit takeouts.

Simple refers to a bid without a jump. No-trump is not a new suit. An assist of a suit that partner has named is not a new suit. Rebid of a suit you have mentioned before is not a new suit.

Suppose south opens with a heart and north responds with a bid of one spade. The chain of new suit takeouts has not been broken. If south then bids two clubs the chain of new suits is not broken.

When south opens a heart and north responds a spade, suppose south then bids a no-trump or two hearts or two spades. Not one of these is a takeout to a new suit. The chain of new suits is broken.

South opens with one spade when he holds this hand:

♠A Q 8 6 3
♦9
♣A K 7 4 2

Suppose north responds with two diamonds. The next south bid is three clubs. The chain of new suits is continuous up to this spot. It is an unbroken chain of new suit takeouts.

Therefore, north is forced to bid again. Whether or not north has anything new to show makes no difference. North is forced to bid again. The chain of new suit takeouts forces him to bid.

When south opens a spade, suppose north responds with a bid of one no-trump. South then bids two clubs. The south bid of this new suit is not forcing. Why? The chain of new suits was broken.

The north no-trump bid is not a new suit. It broke the chain of new suits in this pair for this deal. It broke the force of the south new suit. A link snapped.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 22—(AP)—Out here the silly season gets sillier as the weather grow hotter. So it's not surprising to find a top fashion designer telling men to judge their girls by their stockings.

Here's Mary Kay Dodson who says: "If you are thinking of marrying the gal, look at her legs. The way she wears her stockings reveals a lot more than just her legs."

Miss Dodson denies she has become hose-happy. She claims her method of character analysis is foolproof after years of observation. Here's how it works.

1. Wrinkled stockings are by women who have unorganized lives. She will wear curlers in public and serve dinner a half-hour late.

2. Straight seams denote efficiency. She'll make a wonderful wife for a man who admires brains as well as beauty. But she may be exacting and demand that he pick up his clothes.

3. Seamless stockings are worn by girls who like to fool men. Good mate: A man who can keep her guesing.

4. The zig-zag seam belongs to the nagger. Even though she slaved all afternoon over a hot bridge table, she'll claim she's overworked. She requires a patient man.

5. The girl who wears her stockings too short pouts when you catch her flirting with other men. Watch her temper, especially in the morning.

6. The girl who wears her heels under thinks woman's lot is a poor one. This gal needs sympathy and understanding.

7. The girl with an obviously mended run is a sloppy jane. She'll scrape burnt toast all over the sink and never fold the newspaper back up.

8. The girl who wears mismated stockings is out of step with everything. Better stay a bachelor, boy.

Frankford Takes Bata Softball Club by 14-9

Frankford — Frankford Softball Club is currently playing .500 ball, by virtue of their 14-9 win over Batawa Monday night in Frankford. Phillips and Foster, with three for four were the leading hitters for the winners, while Consaul, Moran and Lohnes each collected a pair of safeties. Montgomery pitched the first 3 innings, and was relieved by Bates, with Moran working behind the plate. Hearns and Frost were the Batawa battery. Frost had three for four at the plate for the night. Hearns played a great defensive game, hauling in four hard line smashes back to the box.

FRANKFORD

Prompt Action Saves Life of Lloyd Partridge

Frankford — Lloyd Partridge, 21-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hersery Partridge of South Trent Street, is alive today through the gallant efforts of two of his neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Maybee. Partridge was swimming back of the Maybee home in the Trent River, Sunday afternoon, and apparently encountered difficulty with the current. As he started to go under the water, Shirley Patrick, a neighbor birl, ran to the Maybe home for help. Allan Maybee immediately ran to the river, and fully clad, plunged into the water. Partridge struggled violently, and both went under several times. Mrs. Maybee swam to her husband's assistance, and between them, they managed to pull Partridge to the bank of the river A boat took them further up the river to Ferguson's Landing, from whence a call was made for Doctor McMullen. Dr. McMullen stated that another minute would have been fatal to Partridge.

Earlier the same morning, Mrs. Maybee had assisted Leota Partridge, a younger sister of Lloyd, when she had the breath knocked out of her as she dove into the river.

PRAGUE PRELATE UNDER RED GUARD—It is reported from Prague, Czechoslovakia, that police have placed the palace of Archbishop Josef Beran under guard. The action, according to church sources, followed the prelate's rejection of a demand by the ministry of education to enter the consistory and to control all incoming and outgoing calls and papers. Beran, like Cardinal Mindzenty of Hungary, has defied Communist attempts to control religion.—(Central Press Canadian).

New Moon Found For Neptune

Ottawa, June 22 (CP). — The planet Neptune has a new moon.

Its discovery was reported yesterday to the American Astronomical Society by Dr. Gerard P. Kuiper, head of the University of Chicago's Yerkes Observatory.

He spotted for the first time May 1 through the 82-inch telescope at the McDonald Observatory, near Fort Davis, Tex., and it was officially identified as a satellite of Neptune only two weeks ago.

Dr. Kuiper said Neptune's new moon was some 5,000,000 miles away from the planet—25 times as far as Neptune's only other moon, Triton. The moon—the 30th to be found in the solar system—circles Neptune once every two years.

Pop quick got out of his private chair like somebody remembering something, and ma said, William, I hope you haven't taken it into your head to use the telefone just as the Question Box program is about to go on the air.

I've got an important call to make, for Peet sake, pop said, and ma said, If it's waited this long it can still wait. That phone is more than likely to ring any moment with the long distance information that my name has been chosen to try for the Jack Pott headed by a fernished cottage on any lake I care to mention. All I have to do is answer a simple question and the Jack Pott is mine, she said.

And all I have to do is make a short call to save myself from losing 50 dollers, pop said. A certain party is holding a 50 doller deposit of mine, and tonite is my last chance to tell him the deel is off or elts forfit the fifty, he said, and ma said, William, you keep away from that phone. Do you want me to have a nerviss breakdown imagining I'm losing 50 thousand dollers werth of prizes while you're chatting idly about 50 dollers? They're adding a special exter prize this week, a refrigerater guaranteed to automatically refill itself once a munth with a free delivery of a hundred dollers werth of frozen meats and vegetables, she said.

I'll bet you 25 dollers to a dime that you dont get called, pop said, and ma said, Now William, any 25 dollers you'd give me under any pretext would be 25 dollers I'd get anyway, so please dont lets confuse the issue, ma said, and pop said, Yee gods, I'll go around to the drug store and telefone.

Which, he did, me going with him partly for company and partly for an ice creem cone while he was in the fone booth.

Miss H. Thompson President Of Young Women's Guild

The Young Women's Guild combined business and pleasure in the form of a picnic party at the home of Mrs. H. Mills, on Monday.

After a delicious supper there was a short business meeting at which it was decided to send another parcel overseas and to donate $5 toward the expenses of the North Belleville Playgrounds.

Short annual reports were given by Mrs. A. Wells, convener of Worship, Mrs. S. D. Stripture, for the Look-out Committee—in which she urged a drive for membership; Mrs. R. G. Coulter for overseas parcels, stated that eight parcels had been sent to the value of over $46, and two boxes of clothing. Mrs. G. Wishart gave the treasurer's report, and Mrs. G. S. Stanton the secretary's report. Miss Olive Elson, the program convener, outlined the year's work as follows: Religion, guest speaker, Mrs. F. R. Harback, "The Church and Tomorrow"; International—"Is Lobbying Justified in a Democracy?"; World Citizenship—"The North Atlantic Treaty"; National—"Are We Wasting our Natural Resources?", "Newfoundland: Canada's Tenth Province"; Women's Affairs—"The Spirit of Christmas Giving", "Women's Responsibility in the Canada of the Future"; Foreign Affairs—"Growing Pains for Latin America"; Book Review—"Home from the Cold Wars", by Leslie Roberts.

Miss H. Thompson, President

Mrs. A. D. Archibald gave the report of the nominating committee and an election followed, the new slate of officers being, Honorary President, Mrs. W. J. Harrison; Past President, Miss A. Heasman, President, Miss H. Thompson; Secretary, Mrs. H. R. Gibson: Treasurer, Miss J. Smyth; Press Reporter, Miss Rachel Fox and Pianist, Mrs. G. S. Stanton.

Miss H. Thompson conducted the worship service which was particularly well suited to the outdoor meeting.

An interesting and comprehensive book review of Leslie Robert's latest effort "Home from the Cold Wars", was given by Mrs. H. R. Gibson.

Leslie Roberts was overseas five years in World War I and at the beginning of World War II, he was called to Ottawa to be special assistant to Canada's Minister of Defence, Norman Rogers. After Mr. Roger's death he became a war correspondent and he also served with the R.C.N.

Before writing "Home From the Cold Wars", Mr. Roberts visited Russia to form his own opinions free from statements of Russia-haters on the one hand and Russia-lovers on the other.

After Russia he visited seven other European countries so that this book is not merely a report of what a Canadian thinks about Russo-American politics but what Englishmen, Swedes, Czechs, Dutchmen, Belgians and other Europeans were saying in the Spring and Summer of 1948. These people are sick and weary of the power politics of Russia and the U.S.A.

The Russia Mr. Roberts saw is not the Russia we read about in America—the America, the Russians talk about is not the continent on which he makes his home. If we wish to prevent the collapse of the roof of an uneasy peace we must find a way to dam the channels of hatred into which each of these two powers is pouring a flood of lies. He feels that there is a way out of our impasse and that is, by reaching out to the truth while there is still time.

Private Property

In speaking of the Atomic Bomb he feels that while British, Canadian, and other scientists collaborated on it, the United States has kept the complete process as its private property even in respect to the peaceable uses of atomic energy.

In the chapter "Memo to Uncle Joe", Mr. Roberts examines the extremely taut strings current between Canada and the Soviet Union and blames ignorance and the inability to come by any valid information. The direct result of all this misunderstanding is that literally millions of North Americans have come to the conclusion that the Russians have no desire for peace except on their own terms— but Mr. Roberts claims that Russia is in no condition to wage war.

He describes the similarities of Russia and the United States. Each owes its present development to a revolution, each is a pioneer, each occupies huge territory and has been concerned with the task of empire building, each has a sense of aliveness and an attitude of "devil-take-the-hindmost". The Russo-American collision is a clash of, and for, power. At this moment Russia rates second in the power parade.

Reconstruction in Russia might be called the pursuit of the "American Way"— for the Russian nurtures a tremendous admiration for, and envy of, the achievements of the people on the other side of the world—who, his propagandist journalists tell him, are trying to hem him in.

What Mr. Roberts has seen is a great section of Europe against the backdrop of Soviet power and American power, yet he returns to this country more profoundly convinced than when he left, that an enduring peace cen be built in Europe, but that it must be founded on the principles of a free and dynamic democracy, hinging entirely on the leadership that the United States of America will exert in the years immediately ahead.

Beached British Ship Fired On By Nationalists

Hong Kong, June 22—(AP)—The beached steamship Anchises was machine-gunned again today, a radio message to the ship's agents reported.

The message said there were no casualities. The plane was not identified.

The Anchises was bombed and machine-gunned by Chinese Nationalist plane on the Whangpoo river at communists-held Shanghai yesterday.

One British source in Hong Kong suggested that the attacks on the Anchises are not necessarily part of the Nationalist blockade program. He said it is possible to confuse the blockade with the ordinary operations of the civil war.

In their raids on Shanghai the Nationalists were hitting "everything in sight.'

Chinese and English-language newspapers bitterly attacked the Nationalist bombing of the Anchises and the blockade attempts, on the grounds they threaten foreign interests and lives more than the cummunists.

Credit Spaniel With Saving Girl From Elderly Man

Chicago, June 22 (AP)—A cocker spaniel today was credited with saving a nine-year-ald girl from advances by a 60-year-old man.

The girl, Jacqueline Thompson, was walking near her home Tuesday night with her dog, Sally. She told police the man pulled up in his car and forced her and the dog to get in.

When he made improper advances to her, Jacqueline told officers, Sally bit the man on the hand.

She said the man yelled, stopped the car and she and Sally jumped out.

Police Say Gray Had Threatened To 'Get' McKitrick

Port Arthur, June 22. (CP)—A 50-year-old father appearing in family court on a non-support charge Tuesday whipped out a revolver and fatally wounded his wife and the presiding judge before killing himself.

William Gray, taxi-driver and part-time theatre doorman, started shooting shortly after his hearing opened in Judge Bruce J. McKitrick's tiny courtroom. Police arrived to find Gray, his estranged wife and the judge all wounded. They died within an hour.

Police said Gray, a former Ontario police officer at Sudbury, previously had been bitter about the non-support suit and had made threats to "get" the 45-year-old judge "some day."

F. H. (Sully) Davis, Gray's counsel in the non-support action filed on behalf of Mrs. Gray and her three young children, narrowly escaped a like fate. The crazed killer, after pointing the revolver at his lawyer, apparently changed his mind as he was about to pull the trigger and warned Mr. Davis to "get the hell out of here."

Fired at Spot

Mrs. Frances Hodgson, court stenographer, said Gray fired a shot towards the spot where his wife had fallen before firing a bullet into his chest.

He did not fall. Mrs. Hodgson, who had been crouched behind the judge's table, said she heard the click of the empty revolver's hammer, saw Gray methodically reload it with bullets he took from a pocket, shoot himself in the chest again and then topple to the floor.

Gray had been separated from his wife for two years.

Mr. Davis said that when he stood up in court to ask Mrs. Gray a question, Gray started to rise as if to interrupt the proceedings.

"I waved him down. Gray sat down but the next second pulled a gun from his pocket. He was sitting near his wife. He swung the weapon towards her and pulled the trigger.

Slumped to Floor

"Then, in a flash, he pointed the gun at Judge McKitrick, who attempted to duck behind his table as the gun was fired. The bullet, however, took effect, and both the Judge and Mrs. Gray slumped to the floor.

"Gray, his eyes glazed, pointed the gun straight at me. Apparently, however, he recognized me just when he was about to pull the trigger. Anyway, he turned away and with a snarl said: 'Get the hell out of here.' "

The shooting was the second mass killing in Ontario within three days. Clarence Brousseau, 45, went berserk in Sudbury, Saturday night after a family quarrel, killed three persons and wounded five others before committing suicide.

World Calendar Subject of Talk To Kiwanis Club

"The World Calendar" was the subject of an adress by Arthur John Hills, delivered to the weekly luncheon meeting of the Belleville Kiwanis Club, held Tuesday afternoon in Kiwanis centre. Mr. Hills gave the same address to the Rotary and Kinsmen Clubs of the city this week.

Stan Joss stressed the importance of the forthcoming election and urged Kiwanis support of the joint program of the Canadian Legion and the Chamber of Commerce in their "Get Out the Vote" campaign.

Dr. Anderson made a few pertinent remarks about the forthcoming Kiwanis city-wide canvass.

Frank Creegan announced the club has made arrangements to bring three "name" bands to Memorial Arena during the summer. On June 30, Charlie Spivak will be here. Tony Pasteur is scheduled for July 13, and Jimmy Dorsey will hold forth on August 10.

Badly Needed Rain Falls on First Day of Summer

The weatherman opened up his heart yesterday and ushered in the first day of summer with a life-giving downpour of rain.

A parched earth enjoyed this aerial cocktail to the fullest as rapidly drying fields, orchards, not to mention gardens, gulped figuratively, the "dollar-a-drop" downpour.

Purification plant officials here stated this morning that .48 or nearly one-half inch of rain fell yesterday.

But the weather man did not stop at quenching the thirst of a gasping earth. Today he sent down cool breezes that were a distinctly comfortable departure from the hot, dusty, sticky atmosphere of the past few days.

Today was one of those "rare June" days that some poetical genius wrote about. Fans in office, shop and factory were stilled after a week of practically steady duty. Cool breezes swept through open windows, and forgotten for the nonce, at least, was the hot, almost unbearable heat of the preceding days.

But tomorrow, the weatherman says, it will be "Fair and Warmer."

Candidate Denies Charges DRO's Given Instructions In Liberal Committee Rooms

Toronto, June 23 — (CP) — James H. Rooney, Liberal candidate in Toronto St. Pauls, today denied charges by Progressive Conservatives and C.C.F. candidates that deputy returning officers in the constituency had election-day duties outlined to them in Liberal committee-rooms.

John Osler, agent for Andrew Brewin, the C.C.F. candidate, wired Jules Castonguay, chief electoral officer, that such a meeting was held Wednesday night and asked an investigation. Roland Michener, Progressive Conservative candidate, said he would report the matter to returning officer Leo Doheny.

In Ottawa, Mr. Castonguay said today he was advised that persons attending the meeting were "prospective" deputy returning officers but had not been appointed. He quoted Mr. Doheny as saying the meeting took place without his knowledge and that no similar meetings would be held again.

Mr. Rooney said the meeting was one of "party workers, including scrutineers, at which instructions were given on procedure at polling booths for next Monday's election."

"No D.R.O.s were invited and if any were at the meeting it was purely voluntary."

TWO BISHOPS SAID PUT TO TORTURE BY ROMANIAN REDS

Vatican Sources Report Terrorism at Work

Vatican City, June 23 (AP)—A Vatican source said today that two leading bishops of the outlawed Uniate Church in Romania have been put to torture by Communist officials in an effort to break their allegiance to the Pope.

The Uniate Church is a Romanian branch of the Roman Catholic faith. It was dissolved by the Romanian government last December.

The source said the Communist regime in Romania is bent upon "wiping out the two brancnes of the Roman Catholic faith there, from the ground up, and with the use of every means of terror, oppression and pressure."

This Vatican informant said the Communists demanded the Uniate Church leaders return to the Orthodox Romanian faith. Six bishops refused. They were led by Monsignor Ion Suciu, papal representative of the Metropolits.. See of Fagaras and Albia Julia, this source said.

The informant said it is known that Suciu has been tortured, but it is not known whether he still lives.

Four Others Held

In May, the informant here continued, Suciu's auxiliary, Msgr. Aftenie, was taken to the interior ministry where he also was put to torture. The other four bishops still held, this source said, believe they are only waiting their turn.

The Uniate Church was formed in the 17th century by orthodox priests and bishops of the Carpathian Mountain region who wanted to recognize the authority of Rome. They swore submission to Pope Clement VIII. He allowed them to retain the eastern rites, and to keep the liturgy of the church in their own language, instead of Latin.

The government is also moving against the Latin branch of the church. The Vatican source said the government has deposed three of the five Roman Catholic bishops of Romania.

There are about 1,500,000 communicants in each of the two allied Catholic rites, Uniate and Latin in Romanian. The pro-Russin Romanian Orthodox Church has over 12,000,000 adherents, and is the officially recognized religion in Romania.

Hitler's 'Big Berthas' Are Being Scrapped

Eschenbach, Germany, June 23 (AP)—Hitler's two "Big Berthas" of the Second World War are being scrapped. Hitler ordered the guns built at the Krupp war plant in Essen. One was used in 1943 in the German siege of Sevastopol in the Crimea, and the other had been held in reserve for a contemplated attack on Gibraltar. The long-range guns had been rusting on a railway siding near this Bavarian village since the war's end.

New French Book by Laval's Lawyer Cites Nazis On Vichy Regime

By JACQUES ARMAND-PREVOST

Paris, June 23. (AP)—A new book published in France quotes secret German files to give the "Vichy viewpoint" of what happened when Pierre Laval was wartime Premier of France.

Jacques Baraduc, one of Laval's lawyers when he was condemned to death at his trial in 1945, says in his book "Tout ce Qu'on Vous a Cache" (All of which has been Hidden from You):

"We opened the files . . .of the enemy, those where one could have discovered traces of treason—if there had been treason. We only found resistance. And never before has this term had a more exact meaning: one only resists a force he faces".

The 150,000-word book, issued this week, is composed of secret German documents discovered in Germany and recorded in the Nuernberg files of the international war crimes tribunal.

At a press conference Baraduc told reporters he had been asked to lunch at Mme Pierre Laval's in the Winter of 1946. There, he said, the Countess de Chambrun, her husband Rene, and "a United States judge at the Nuernberg court whose identity I am not authorized to reveal" were present.

The judge, the lawyer added, told them that he had discovered German documents on Laval and the policy of his government during the occupation which were

Demands of Workers Would Cost Railroads $74 Million Extra Yearly Say Officials

Montreal, June 23 — (CP) — The railways today estimated that demands made upon them last week by 16 non-operating railway brotherhoods on behalf of 135,000 workers would cost the companies more than $74,000,000 a year.

The joint statement, issued by N. B. Walton, executive vice-president or Canadian National Railways, and N. R. Crump, Canadian Pacific Railway vice-president, said the demands "are being studied."

Fifteen international brotherhoods representing about 100,000 workers asked for a general increase of seven cents an hour effective July 17, and a 40-hour week, as against the present 48-hour week, effective Sept. 1, with the same take-home pay.

The Canadian Brotherhood of railway employees (C.C.L.) made similar demands for the 40-hour week on behalf of its 35,000 members but specified no effective date. The C.B.R.E. also requested a general increase of 10 cents an hour effective July 16, and check-off of union dues from wages of all employees covered by the collective agreement.

"Last year," said the railway statement, "all railway employees received a general wage increase of 17 cents an hour, which meant in effect monthly increases amounting to $35.36 and upwards, for the individual employee. This increase is costing the railways over $71,000,000 a year.

"The estimated cost to the railways of the new wage increases demanded by these groups alone would be more than $22,000,000 annually, and to establish a 40-hour week without reduction in present weekly pay would mean a further annual expense to the railways for these same groups of more than $52,000,000 or a total of over $74,000,000."

Fire Equipment Standardization Aim Of New Act

St. Catharines, June 23 — (CP) —Labor Minister Daley of Ontario Wednesday night told delegates attending the annual banquet of the Ontario Firefighters Provincial Federation that "the new Fire Departments Act of 1949 will encourage municipalities to improve their fire services."

"The act will also provide relief for the taxpayers through a provincial subsidy and will eventually lead to standardization of fire equipment throughout the province," he said. "This would be essential in an emergency such as war."

In connection with the Ontario standardization, he pointed to the agreement signed in Washington between Canada, Britain and the United States calling for standardization on a larger scale.

"The best equipment in the world will not fight fires without efficient, well-trained and happy personnel," he said. "The proposed fire-fighting school to be set up by the province will provide the advanced technical training needed."

Mr. Daley told the meeting that local municipalities must recognize that the fireman is entitled to proper compensation, home life and recreation.

"The fireman must realizze that his is an unusual occupation," he said.

Child is Killed Three Men Hurt In Accident

Brantford, June 23 — (CP)—A five-year-old boy was killed and three men were injured in a series of accidents here Wednesday. All are Brantford residents.

Terry Jackson, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Jackson, died while en route to hospital after running into the side of a truck driven by Vincent Brennan. The driver said the boy darted out into the road.

Laverne Babcock and Frank Guberney were taken to hospital after a collision of Babcock's car with a taxi which police allege Guberney had stolen. They said Guberney ran out of the Brantford General Hospital but was arrested later.

Hospital authorities said Babcock had suffered a fractured pelvis. Guberney suffered concussion.

Sixty - nine - year - old A. L. Kamner, working on a barn at the rear of his home fell 12 feet and broke his spine.

MAY BE STAYING

St. Catharines, Ont., June 23 — (CP) — A man who went to police station Wednesday to visit the prisoners may be staying. He will serve a one - month sentence with one of the drunks he came to see — unless he can scrape together $39. That was the verdict of Magistrate H. D. Hallett after he had been told that the man tried to pass a bottle of wine through the cell bars to a prisoner.

Coastal-Approach System Offered To Dominion

London, June 23 — (CP) — A British coastal - approach system which automatically gives a ship or plane its position within a few yards at close range, is being offered to Canada and other countries.

The Decca Navigation Company, which operates the system in Britain and Denmark, is sending a delegation to Canada this year. An official said efforts will be made to interest the Canadian government in permitting an installation to cover shipping in the St. Lawrence.

The system, developed during the war for use by the Royal Navy on D-Day, was put into commercial use in 1947. A chain of four ground stations was built in Britain and later a similar chain was built in Denmark. The two chains transmit signals day and night to shipping from the western approaches to the Southern Baltic.

More than 700 ships now are equipped with the special receivers which pick up the signals and automatically pinpoint the position. The system has a range of 300 miles.

Miller and his wife were sleeping at the back of the store when they were awakened by a noise. Miller picked up a heavy air pistol and rushed into the store. He struck the burglar several times with his fist and opened a gash on his head with a blow from the heavy pistol.

The burglar slipped away and made his escape down the street leaving a trail of blood behind him.

Claims Pilot Thought Anchises Communist Ship

Taipeh, Formosa, June 23.—(AP)— Maj.-Gen. Wang Shu-Ming, deputy commander of the Nationalist Chinese Air Force, said today the pilot who attacked the British freighter Anchises in the Whangpoo, on Tuesday thought it was a Communist vessel.

In an interview, Wang said his reports indicated the Anchises was not flying the British flag at the time of the plane's attack.

(The captain of the vessel said after the attack that the flag was flying.)

"The attacking Nationalist pilot did not know it was a British ship." Wang said.

COMPANY WILL SPEND 10 MILLION IN PROVINCE

New Asbestos Mine Found at Larder Lake

Montreal, June 23 — (CP)—The Canadian Johns Manville Company announced here Wednesday night that they have discovered new properties in Ontario which will increase the flow of asbestos from Canada.

Lewis H. Brown, chairman of the board of the company, said in the announcement that $10,000,000, originally to be spent for the development of the company's Asbestos, Que., property, would now be used in connection with a new mine located near Larder Lake in Ontario.

Larder Lake is 70 miles southeast of Timmins, between Kirkland Lake and Rouyn, Que.

The company's mine at Asbestos has been strike - bound since Feb. 13 when 2,500 employees asked for wage increases to bring their basic hourly wage rate from 85 cents to $1 an hour. At present the company is operating with only 700 men.

Mr. Brown said the new mine would yield about twice the ore value as that mined at Asbestos. He was unable to give the exact value of the ore in money valuation because of the "different methods of processing involved."

He told reporters, who met him at Dorval airport just before he returned to his office in New York that the new asbestos fibre "is among the best quality on this continent."

He predicted the new asbestos discovery will have a direct influence on the strike situation at Asbestos. New machinery will be needed to develop the mine and this will have to come from the Asbestos plant.

Orders Given

"Orders for the movement of the machinery were given yesterday, he said.

Meanwhile officials at the gold-mining centre of Larder Lake confessed that they were puzzled by the announcement. Councillor Anthony Bos suggested the company might be using "a general mining term indicating a vast area from Timagami on the south up to Timmins on the north." He said there are scattered deposits of asbestos in the immediate area of Larder Lake but none known to possess commercial quantity.

A company spokesman here declined to reveal the exact location of the mine except to say "It is in the vicinity of Larder Lake." He said the site "might be made known in about two weeks."

Later word from Northern Ontario placed the scene of the development a few miles from Matheson, about midway between Kirkland Lake and Timmins. It was recalled that Johns Manville geologists recently went into the bush for explorations in the Matheson area.

At Quebec an official of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor said today that he saw no "relationship" between the Asbestos strike and the new find in Ontario.

Campaign Finds Paper's Two Owners In Opposite Camps--and Feuding

Bowmanville, June 23 — (CP) —This Central Ontario town is sizzling like a fire-cracker in the federal election campaign. The two owners of the town's only newspaper — The Canadian Statesman — are in opposite political camps, and the fight has reached into the columns of the paper.

One half-owner, red-haired John James, 38, is Liberal candidate in Durham constituency. His most spirited opposition comes from his Progressive Conservative uncle, George W. James, who owns the other half of the 95-year-old weekly.

But Uncle George says he isn't opposing nephew John personally. In a recent editorial, the uncle wrote: "I am not opposing him for this is not personal matter, but I am opposing the issues of his party's policy."

But to the 5,000 people of Bowmanville, the June 27 election is strictly a battle between "Johnny" and "George." Elsewhere in the constituency, some 50 miles east of Toronto, there is more interest in the main election contest — between John James, Liberal, J. D. Kenny, C.C.F., and Charles E. Stephenson, Progressive Conservative and a former mayor of Port Hope, the other town in the riding. Mr. Stephenson was the last member for Durham.

At the crux of the family feud on the Statesman is an agreement the two partners signed in July, 1947. During the life of the agreement, Uncle George James has control of editorial policy and business administration. Nephew

Crashes in Flames Off Coast, 24 Bodies Recovered

Company Has no Indication Of Cause of the Disaster

The Hague, The Netherlands, June 23—(Reuters)—The Royal Dutch airlines (K.L.M.) announced tonight that their plane, the Roermond, crashed at Bari, Italy.

K.L.M. Officials said the plane was carrying 16 passengers and a crew of 12.

(Reports from Bari said 24 bodies have been recovered from the sea. All were said to be burned almost beyond recognition.

K.L.M. said the pilot was J. C. Plesman, a son of K.L.M.'s president, Dr. A. Plesman.

In making the announcement, the K.L.M. said it could be assumed there were no survivors.

K.L.M. said they had no indication of the cause of the disaster.

Earlier the K.L.M. head office here said the aircraft which crashed today in the Adriatic Sea near Bari, Italy, was not one of their regular planes on the Amsterdam-Batavia route.

The control room at Schipol airport earlier said they had been in touch with the "Roermond" 55 minutes before she was due. The pilot reported "all well" at that time.

Relatives and friends of passengers awaiting the arrival of the "Roermond," were taken into a conference room at the airport and given what news was available.

$36,000 Found In Broken Crate Among Baggage

Brantford, June 23 (CP)—Police said today $36,000 in United States currency was found in the baggage of Jacob Rosenzweig, a displaced person from Austria who came here to work as a farm-hand.

The money was packed in a wooden crate, along with jewelry and other articles. A broken slat on the crate led to its discovery. Ed Murrell, an employee of the Canadian National Railways' freight shed here, saw a $20 bill protruding from the crate and investigated.

Officials said they believed an attempt had been made to break into the crate.

The crate was being held here for Rosenzweig, staying with relatives in Hamilton, 20 miles northeast of here, pending placement on a district farm. His family is in Montreal waiting to join him.

Officials here said that unless complications arise, Rosenzweig likely will be permitted to convert the money into Canadian dollars and keep it.

The money was turned over to R.C.M.P. in Hamilton and is to be examined to see whether it is genuine.

$20 MILLION ON RURAL HYDRO IN 1949 PLANNED

Premier Says 35,000 New Customers Will be Added by Extension

Seaforth, Ont., June 23 (CP)—Premier Frost said in an address here Wednesday that Ontario's Progressive - Conservative government would spend $20,000,000 this year on rural hydro extension. A total of 35,000 new consumers would be added under the scheme. The electrification of all rural Ontario was in sight.

He addressed hundreds of party supporters at a picnic and rally in the local park in the interest of Elgin McKinley, Progressive-Conservative candidate in the federal riding of Huron - Perth.

Mr. Frost asserted that the Progressive - Conservative party was the party of the "little men and little women" of Ontario—and the same was true of the same party in the federal field.

He cited the province's hydro program as evidence of this fact. In the last year of the previous Liberal government, Ontario had spent but $100,000 and had added but 17 miles of new line in taking hydro to serve rural regions.

This year, the Progressive Conservative government was spending $200,000 in the Mitchell-Seaforth region alone and erecting more new line in this one area than the former Liberal administration had done in the whole province.

Mr. Frost said this was only one of the steps the provincial government was taking to make rural life more attractive. For years he had been hearing about the depopulation of farming districts. His government was determined that the people of rural Ontario would have the same opportunities as those in the towns and cities

As part and parcel of the "make farm life attractive" drive, the provincial government was concentrating its road projects in the rural areas.

KINSMEN'S BOYS' BAND WILL GIVE CONCERT AT ARMOURIES

The Kinsmen's Boys' Band recently organized by that club will make their first public appearance in their new uniforms, when they will give a concert on the Armouries lawn on Sunday evening. The band was formed this year for the sole purpose of retaining the boys' interest in music and they made their first appearance when the convention of the Kinsmen's Club was held in this city. A great deal of credit must be given to Alfred Cooper, their bandmaster because he has spent many hours with the band in perfecting their knowledge of band music. A silver collection will be taken at the concert, the proceeds of which will be used to further the project of a community swimming pool for this city.

C.N.R. EMPLOYEES TO HOLD PICNIC

A special train will be run to Cobourg on July 6th and a program of events will be run off for the benefit of the children.

The Athletic Association, with other organizations of the railway have secured from the city council a piece of land near Memorial Park and it is intended to develop this area into a recreation field and park for the use of employees and other residents of the city. The funds derived from the picnic will be used to defray the cost of preparing this field for use.

PARK ON NORTH FRONT ST. NEARLY READY

Arthur Keegan, commissioner of the Parks Board, is a busy man these days in preparing different plots of ground throughout the city for small playgrounds, where children can enjoy their summer vacation without fear of injury. The park on North Front Street is rapidly nearing completion and last night swings, sand boxes and other equipment were put in place.

A park is needed over in the Cannifton Road district and it is to be hoped that residents in that area will find a piece of land suitable for the purpose. The parks board and city will supply the equipment to carry out this work. These small parks only serve a certain neighborhood but if enough of them are established most of the children in the city will have a safe place to play.

Young Liberals Should Take Part Says Speaker

"During the last war Canada emerged as a nation among nations, after years of being a poor country cousin of the great powers. Our ability was proven and we should be proud of Canadian achievement," said George Shewitt, Kingston, President of the Central Ontario Young Liberals Association in an address to a well attended meeting of the Belleville Young Liberal Association, Wednesday evening.

"The average age of the Canadian soldier during World War II was lowered five years over the average in World War I from 32 to 27. Young people were needed to fly the planes and fight in the tanks, and to show young people their appreciation for a job well done, the Liberal government drew up a Veterans Charter providing the veterans with an opportunity to complete what they had left undone at home.

Clubs Formed

"Now it is just as important for young people to learn to run their country in peacetime as it was for them to defend it during wartime. For this purpose Young Liberal Clubs were formed throughout the country. In Ontario a regional set-up has been achieved with the province organized into Eastern, Central, Toronto and Yorks, Southern, Northern and Western divisions. Each region is divided into ridings and a movement is afoot to organize a club in each township in a riding," the speaker stated.

"These clubs are not formed for this or any election. They are organized to give youth a voice in their country's affairs. And young people are taking advantage of this opportunity. The Young Liberal Club in Frontenac-Addington started out with four members in February and today there are 160 paid up members."

Duty to Choose Right Man

Mr. Shewitt continued, "Be proud to take a part in the administration of your country. The candidates asking for your support are of a high type. Today a man is elected because of his integrity, his ability, and his personality. It is your duty to see that the right man is chosen for the job of government. The older people of Canada have given us an opportunity to progress and it is our duty to progress."

Liberal candidate Frank Follwell addressed the gathering briefly.

Bob Temple, president of the Belleville Young Liberals Association was chairman of the meeting.

After the meeting refreshments were served and the members were then taken to the Drive-In theatre as guests of the candidate.

WINNING CANDIDATE TO ACT AS JUDGE

Officials of the forthcoming Kiwanis-Optimist Miss Belleville Contest are busily engaged in signing up judges for the gala event. Charlie Spivak, whose top-ranking band will provide the music for the contest and dance, has already promised to choose Miss Belleville, 1949 model.

Contest chairman P. K. Bradley announced today that the maestro will be joined in the judges box by the winning candidate in Monday's federal election. All candidates in Hastings South have been approached, and each has signified his willingness to assist in the judging of Quinte city pulchritude at Memorial Arena on the evening of June 30th.

Drive-in Theatre, West of City Officially Opened by Mayor

Something new in the way of theatre entertainment was offered for the first time to Belleville and district movie lovers Wednesday evening when the new Belleville Drive-In Theatre on Marshall Road just west of the fair grounds was officially opened.

Well over 400 cars ware parked on the theatre auto ramps for the opening performance. Future shows will be held nightly Sunday excepted.

Representing an investment of approximately $100,000 the new drive-in theatre has accommodation for 500 autos which can come or go at will during the performance. Auto ramps permit good visibility for both front and rear seat passengers, while individual speakers for each car permit sound volume to be controlled at will.

Mayor D. L. Storey, officially opened the new drive-in theatre and in speaking a few words over the sound system declared the new theatre to be another milestone in the field of entertainment in Belleville.

One of Chain

The Belleville drive-in theatre is one of a chain of eight such Canadian theatres and ten in the United States, which are operated by the Ochs Management Company of Cleveland, Ohio, headed by Herbert J. Ochs. Mr. and Mrs. Ochs with their son and daughter, all of whom assist in the operation of the drive-in theatre chain were on hand for the Belleville opening.

Convenience of the drive-in theatre appeals particularly to families with small children, to elderly people and to shut-ins who find it difficult to attend the conventional theatre, according to Mr. Ochs.

It is unnecessary for Dad or Mother to remain at home with the kiddies, while the others attend the show. Neither is it necessary to hire a baby sitter. The kiddies are merely bundled into the family car and everyone goes to the show. When the kiddies get sleepy they can go to sleep in the car. The theatre management even provides a baby bottle warming service.

Gravelled Ramp

Shut-ins and elderly people who otherwise find it difficult to attend the ordinary theatre appreciate the convenience of the drive-in theatre as they can enjoy the show in the comfort of their own auto.

"It just means that we are tapping a potential which the ordinary theatres do not reach," stated Mr. Ochs.

Gravelled ramps 40 feet apart make for easy access and exit to the theatre and cars are directed to ramps by courteous and white uniformed attendants. Attendants then bring individual speakers for hanging in the auto.

The aluminum picture screen measuring 40 by 30 feet is atop a 56 foot mount and is just the right height for easy visibility from cars.

Situated 225 feet back from the screen is the combined projection room and refreshment booth. The refreshment booth is exceptionally clean and uniform attendants will serve up hot dogs, hot coffee, pop corn, soft drinks and other refreshments in a jiffy. Refreshments can be taken to autos. Washrooms are also provided.

Cables Are Buried

Picture and sound equipment is by the De Vry Company and is especially manufactured for drive-in theatre use. Fifty thousand feet of cable is buried in the auto ramps serving the 500 individual car speakers.

Rain does not interfere with the projection or visibility of the picture on the outdoor screen, according to technicians.

"The only thing which stops us is snow and sun," stated the theatre projectionist. "We can't start the show until it is dusk."

Pictures to be shown are from top ranking Hollywood studios, the pictures being changed four times each week. In addition there is always a first run news and color cartoon, as well as a special short feature.

Local manager of the new drive-in theatre is Mr. Larry Buck. Mrs. Buck is manager of the refreshment booth, while a daughter Lois is head cashier, and a son Donald is one of the ushers.

Personnel of the theatre will vary between 25 and 30 persons, it was stated.

IN MEMORIAM

MARACLE—In loving memory of a dear son, Clayton Earle, who was drowned June 23, 1947.

Two lonely years have drifted by,
To speak our thoughts, we will not try;
But one treasured gift we do retain,
Your smiling eyes in a photo frame.
A beautiful memory dearer than gold,
Of a son whose worth can never be told.
To those who knew him, all will know
How much we lost two years ago.

Sadly missed and fondly remembered by Mom, Dad, brothers and sisters. J23

MARACLE—In loving memory of a dear brother, Clayton Earle, who was drowned June 23, 1947.

His smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasure to recall,
He had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet him,
Some day, we know not when,
To clasp his hand in the better land
Never to part again.

Ever remembered by sister Lo[illegible], brother-in-law Roy, and Stirling. J23

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, June 23—(CP)—Gold stocks continued in demand as activity increased here today. Gains in senior and junior producers lifted the gold list into higher ground. Industrials also tightened while base metals climbed in mid-session after a dull opening.

Demand for golds was comparatively widespread with advances in seniors ranging up to 1-4. Junior producers showed gains up to 15 cents. Recent reports by gold producers have shown improvement and feeling on the street is that the gold industry is improving.

Base metals reflected the strength in golds, climbing in mid-session from early mixed prices. Quemont added 1-2 at 13 Consolidated Smelters was up 3-4 a 84 3-4. Other advances range up to 25 cents in steadily increasing activity.

Selected industrial issues led the industrial board edging ahead slightly on fractional gains. Utilities showed some good gains and papers eased from early strength.

HOGS

Toronto, June 23 — (CP)—Hog prices at Hull were unchanged this morning at $30.25 for Grade A, delivered. At Stratford, hogs were unchanged at $29.50, to truckers, for Grade A, delivered and $29.35 to farmers.

New Silver Dollar Marks Entry Of Newfoundland

Ottawa, June 23. (CP)—A new coin went into circulation today, a shiny silver dollar to commemorate Newfoundland's entry into Confederation.

It goes into circulation, the Finance Department today said in a statement, on the eve of Founder's Day holiday in Newfoundland, in memory of John Cabot, 15th century explorer who sighted the shores of North America in 1497 after a 53-day voyage from Bristol, England.

Some 300,000 pieces of the dollar, which goes on sale at local branches of chartered banks, have been struck by the Royal Canadian mint W. C. Ronson, master of the mint, said more coins would be struck later if there was demand.

The obverse side of the new dollar is similar to Canadian coins of all denominations. It bears an effigy of His Majesty King George VI, with the inscription "Georgeivs VI Dei Gratia Rex".

John Cabot's three-masted ship, The Matthew, sails on silver waves on the reverse side. Along with the ship under full sail is the motto "Floreat Terra Nova", (may Newfoundland flourish) and the date 1949.

"capable of destroying wicked legends."

Archivists then started working on the documents which were identified as genuine, photographed, and sent to Paris. There they were examined and translated.

Baraduc cited these documents as evidence of long and subtle opposition put up by Laval to Nazi demands in financial, diplomatic and political fields.

Laval repeatedly refused to yield to German demands for a reduction in the number of United States agents in French North Africa and a limitation on their activity.

In several telegrams, Joachim von Ribbentrop, Nazi foreign minister, and German diplomats from the Wilhelmstrasse reminded Laval "that the fact of tolerating any longer the activity, hostile to Axis powers, of American consuls constituted a formal contraction of the obligations coming from the Armistice (of 1940). . . . ."

Col. Schellenberg, chief of staff of the S.S. wrote to Heinrich Himmler on Nov. 17, 1942, that "we have reason to doubt that Premier Laval was absolutely ready to collaborate with Germany."

CAMPAIGN

John James gets top spot in the Statesman's back shop — his official title is production manager.

They disagree on the duration of the agreement. John says it was for six months only. George James says it is still in effect, and nephew John says: "My uncle refuses to consider anything which will give me the smallest voice in editorial policy."

John James says he thinks the paper ought to be independent. "I feel that as a monopoly in this district, we have responsibilities to all subscribers to present the unbiased truth."

His white-haired uncle says: "I loathe neutral, straddle-the-fence papers. They are not constructive."

The paper doesn't carry much news about John James. It announced his nomination as Liberal candidate in the second paragraph of a front page report, saying "the candidate proved to be John M. James, Bowmanville . . . the majority in the 315 votes cast was not disclosed."

However, nephew John breaks into print. He has been able to express his views in several bylined columns — and in paid advertisements, which are clearly labelled as such.

In spite of it all, Uncle George James says: "John and I are still speaking."

HALIFAX CELEBRATES BICENTENNIAL

Halifax, one of the greatest seaports of the world, is celebrating the two hundredth anniversary of its founding. For a city in the New World it has had a life filled with romance and association with events of the deepest importance. The rise of Halifax to world importance is woven into the very fabric of the life of the Dominion.

The harbor was first known as Chebucto "chief of havens" and is one of the finest on the globe. It is no less than sixteen miles long from north to south with an average width of a mile. It has an average tide of four to six feet, it is free of ice and it is practically all deep water. It ends in Thedford Basin, a sheet of water four miles wide, which affords ten square miles of safe anchorage. The North West Arm is three miles long and a quarter to one-half mile wide. The banks are wooded.

Halifax has the advantage that it is 600 miles nearer London than New York, this meaning one day shorter sea travel than by the New York route.

What Halifax meant to Canada and the United Nations Allies in the last war is wellknown history. The flow of supplies through this port was a vital factor in the victory of the United Nations over the tyranny of Hitler and Mussolini.

Its early history is memorable. It was founded by Lord Cornwallis as a counter-measure to the French fortress of Louisburg in Cape Breton in the year 1749, a memorable period which saw British supremacy in North America accomplished by the treaty of Paris, 1763.

Halifax has a military history of which it may be proud. It has its own distinctive characteristics as a seaport, wears its age well and lends dignity to this country with its age and the part it has played during the two centuries of its existence.

The port city will give the summer over to celebration of the completion of the second century of its existence. So outstanding a contribution has it made to the development of trade to every part of the world that anything less than months of celebrating would fail to do it justice.

ICELAND CELEBRATES

Iceland recently celebrated the anniversary of its independence and can make the proud claim to being the world's oldest democracy. Five years ago on June 17 it peacefully dissolved its union with the Kingdom of Denmark. Set in the far northern seas this island (the word "Iceland" really meaning "island") has had as romantic a history as that of any nation. It has been an independent republic from 930 A.D. to 1264 when it swore allegiance to Norway's ruler. From 1381 it was under the rule of Denmark. In 1918 it again became a sovereign state, united to Denmark by a common king who also bore the title King of Iceland.

This rugged people of Scandinavian origin developed up in the north and once numbered 100,000 souls. Then by famine and epidemics in the years 1783-1801 they were reduced to some 47,000. By 1880 it had again grown to 72,000 but then declined a little owing to emigration to America. Since then it has grown in numbers to 122,000.

Historians think this island was the Thule of the ancients. There was an Irish settlement in the island before 800 A.D.. In the ninth century Scandinavian kings began to explore it, the first permanent settlement being made by the Norwegians about 870, the Norsemen sailing to the island to escape the aggressions of King Harald Fairhair. The settlers of that time arrived in clan groups, soon formed assemblies known as "thing" in 930, established a central parliament, Althing, for the whole of the country. This became the oldest surviving parliament of the world and was both assembly and supreme court. This republic laster for three hundred years.

The Icelanders became daring explorers, sailing the seas and one of them is thought to have reached the mainland of North America. Tradition says he reached Vineland (the name he gave to the newly discovered territory) and there is a story that the first white child born in America in 1004 returned to Iceland to found a noble family. It was about this time that the islanders gave up their pagan faith and became Christians.

The spirit of the Icelandish folk is that of courage and daring, they cherish their freedom.

The rugged life they live has made them a brave people in the very spirit of democracy and progress in their nature.

It is the property of the religious spirit to be the most refining of all influences.— Emerson.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

(Copyright, 1949, Edgar A. Guest)

GARDEN MEMORY

A little garden, gay with bloom,
Is like the mother's sitting room
Where gathered such true friends of old
As peonies and marigold.

Her boy, I'd enter from the street
The visitors she loved to meet.
I fancy now I hear her say:
"The columbines are here today.

It's very nice to have the stocks.
You know they're neighbors of the phlox;
And here are friends I like to come,
The cosmos and delphinium."

Just as she would when serving tea,
She introduced her friends to me,
Gay visitors from spring to fall,
And thus I learned to know them all.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

The members of Eureka, Moira and the Belleville Masonic Lodges will attend service at Holloway Street Church on Sunday morning. The notice calling for the members to attend is signed by Everett H. Liddle, W. M.; Alexander Kidd. W. M., and H. W. Dillnutt, W.M.

Mr. and Mrs. J. MacDonald, Cedar Street, will spend the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. B. Doolittle in Brockville.

The Rev. G. F. Denyes of Manitoba, is here to spend a vacation with his father, Mr. H. K. Denyes, and to renew acquaintances.

Mr. and Mrs. Mackenzie Robertson have returned home from Dallas, Texas, where Mr. Robertson attended the International Rotary Convention.

30 YEARS AGO

green peas sold at 25 cents per pint.

Hogs are now selling at $20.50 per hundred weight.

Dr. George Clinton of this city, Provincial Health Officer, has left for Quebec City where he will attend a meeting of the Medical Association.

Dr. J. W. Ross, Canadian Trade Commissioner to China, who has been spending a few days here renewing acquaintances, has left on the return trip to China.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mather and little daughter of Vancouver, B.C., are visiting his mother in this city.

40 YEARS AGO

June 23rd., 1909

Year after year the Intelligencer has suggested through its columns that a public swimming pool be provided in this city, but as yet the suggestion has not been acted upon. However, we have not lost hope that one day some council will crown itself with glory and give Belleville a swimming pool, where anyone, feeling the desire for a refreshing dip, may be accommodated by paying a small fee.

Mr. J. E. Parks is in Kingston today on business.

Mr. P. J. Lee went to Kingston today.

Mr. and Mrs. Gael Donnolley of Rochester, N. Y., formerly of Belleville, are visiting relatives here.

50 YEARS AGO

June 23rd., 1899

Mr. Frank Ferris, New York City, formerly with the Canadian Bank of Commerce here, is spending his vacation in the city.

Messrs. Frank Pearce and Reginald Pearce of Marmora are the guests of Mrs. Job Lingham, in this city. They are preparing for a wheeling tour of the British Isles and the continent.

It would be difficult to find a prettier place than Belleville in the month of June.

The by-law with regards to burdocks should be enforced. If allowed to go to seed we will have a bumper crop of them next year. The responsible city officials should get busy.

Mr. J. Higgins of Prince Edward County. who left for the Klondike some time ago, has returned home fully convinced that he is just as well off here as in that remote country.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

This is strictly for the ears of young people of school age. You are now in the last awful throes of the final examinations. Or worse, the exams may be over and you are sitting on pins and needles, knowing in your heart and soul that you have made a mess of it all. Worse still, you may be one of the older youths whose examination results have already been published; and you are going about with your tail between your legs.

It seems monstrous that at this beautiful time of year such agony and woe could be visited upon the only decent people in the world—the young. Exams should be held during the filthiest week of February, when it certainly isn't fit to go skiing, and hardly fit to go out to a movie. In all nature, spring is not a time of testing, of auditing, or accounting and summing up. Spring is seeding time, nesting time, time for song and love and joy.

I address myself to those of you who are failing or have failed. And this is strictly between you and me. If you fail, it may be because you are equipped for a joyous, colorful, eventful life, with all the best characteristics that life can bestow on morals. Maybe you could not keep your mind on your work, because, outside the classroom windows the sun shone, the green bough waved and the wide sky was blue. Maybe all the dull statistics you have been pouching in your mind these past many weeks seemed to melt and vanish, as you sat there at the examination desk, because your body and soul was being called away, called away, by vast intangible nameless forces, singing to you.

Someday soon you will know that it is better to be alive than clever, sensitive than informed, perceptive than erudite—better to be you than anybody you can think of.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

OTHERNESS

We human beings are all of a piece. There is hardly an emotion, thought, or experience that has not been felt in some manner by another. Sorrow, disappointment, hunger of heart, as well as those moments of gaiety and triumph—others beside us know of them and to some degree have experienced what we have, or may at some time.

There is an otherness about us all. Just to get the feel that there are other human beings going through the same things that we face—sometimes in triumph, and sometimes in defeat—heartens us, gives us courage and hope, fortifying us with many an uplift of spirit.

If we didn't have tastes and inclinations universal among all human beings, even getting on imperfectly would be almost an impossibility. But for thousands of years there has been a certain community of interests among all peoples. It is tragic that hatreds and wars have despoiled so much of this beautiful earth.

At this time, when there is so much distrust among nations and peoples, a practical application of this otherness might change the world. Mutual good will, however, is essential. A treaty of peace, signed mistrustfully, would never mean anything. I am sure that the people of this earth want more than anything else—a permanent peace among all nations. How soon all wars would end if those wanting them were compelled to fight it out among themselves alone!

There is so little of this otherness in war. Each side is out to get the other fellow. Did we not know all about war, its filth, its cruelty, and its tragic moments of utter despair, we would look upon it as the savage age—as it is. What a world we would have today had we not turned from peace to war, thus bringing mankind to the brink of ruin and to a loss of so much faith in one another.

We like to know there are those who think and feel as we do. It makes us that much more akin. We know others are like us in like circumstances, and that they have won out and so can we. We would have a much happier world if only all the people thinking alike thought so at the right time! What handful could defeat such an event?

Mackenzie's Column:

Pravda Claims Int. Situation Has Been Eased

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Moscow's communist party organ, Pravda, reaches the general conclusion that the Big Four Foreign Ministers' Conference in Paris has aided in "easing" the international atmosphere.

We may accept that appraisal guardedly as correct, I believe. Although we reach the conclusion by a different route than Pravda. Moreover, this easing would seem to have been achieved more because of what the conference proceedings imply than what they carry out.

The atmosphere of the conference was that of a truce marking a forced halt to the great offensive which the Russians have waged since the end of the war to extend communist domination toward the English Channel. The counter drives by the western democracies (the Marshall Plan. the Atlantic Pact, aid to Greece and Turkey, and so on) have been effective. The dangers of another global war have receded.

Not the Finish

So the world does breathe more easily. At the same time it knows — or certainly should know—that this isn't the finish of the conflict of the isms. That will continue, perhaps long after your time and mine. But as far as the western world is concerned, the red drive is likely for the immediate future to be confined largely to fifth - column activities which are aimed at crippling noncommunist countries economically and spreading the red ism. Meanwhile, as Dean Acheson, Secretary of State, told the United States Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Russia intends to hold the gains she has made.

President Truman in his Tuesday statement about the conference found that "genuine progress" was made toward the conclusion of a treaty with Austria. He said the Austrian people "should be commended for their attitude of patient understanding throughout the protracted negotiations."

If and when the Austrian treaty is signed, Austria should become a steadying influence in Europe. She wants to be friendly with both the Russian bloc and the west, though she has no leaning toward communism, since she is highly religious. And religion doesn't mix with communism.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Denies Statement Communication Was Received

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

I trust that you will allow the writer sufficient space in your paper to correct a misstatement made by Alderman Claude Tice, as reported in Tuesday's newspaper. This was the outline of Council's proceedings and presumably checked by Mr. Tice in his capacity of city editor.

Reference was made by Alderman Tice to a letter from the Department of Health to the City of Belleville having been given to the Chamber of Commerce and used in their bulletin before same had come before the city council. May I state that this reported statement is entirely incorrect as the writer has never seen any communication from the Health Department to the city and therefore would not be in a position to give it to anyone.

Bd. Chairman Replies To Dr. A. Walters

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

It seems only just to your readers to correct some erroneous impressions which may have been created by the letter of Dr. Walters published in your columns, June 22.

"The chairman or vice-chairman or member presiding may vote with other members on all questions." Section 18, the Board of Education Act.

At the regular meeting on June 17 a motion to separate the offices of inspector and administrator was made, duly seconded, voted upon and lost. 2 to 7. In all such cases in all public bodies the majority vote is accepted until such time as the matter may be legally re-opened, if so desired.

The selection of the two new principals from the five applicants was made by means of a fair and just system of elimination voting. After long and careful investigation and consideration at a special meeting held early in March. It is to be hoped that the welfare of the pupils was the first consideration in the minds of the members. That the two winners turned out to be other than veterans cannot be blamed on any discrimination against veterans. Again the case was merely acceptance of the majority vote.

The public should know that after the appointment of the principals had been made but before the information had been released to the men or to the public a majority of the board wished to re-open the whole question. This was vigorously opposed by Dr. Walters who had the support of two other members, and a two-thirds majority is required to re-open a matter once decided.

Among the present male employees of all ages of the Board of Education approximately 43 per cent are veterans of either World War I or II and five of the seven new men engaged to enter the employ of the Board in September, 1949, are veterans of the last war.

The question of the division of the public schools into Senior and Junior Public Schools has not yet become a matter of Board policy. That the pros and cons are being discussed informally in advance by interested parties would seem a good sign for an ultimate wise decision.

In the last five years the Public Schools of Belleville have lost only one teacher for reasons other than marriage, except two shop men who resigned to enter high school work. This does not indicate a feeling of a lack of security.

It is quite probable that a Bay of Quinte High School Area may be formed within one or two years. At that time the present set-up might have to be entirely re-organized.

It is easy to be destructive with little of concrete value for replacement.

A person who has not completed one full term as member of the Board of Education and has refused to accept a share of responsibility as chairman of any regular committee, or member of any special committee, cannot be fully acquainted with all such matters as the appointment and duties of inspectors, principals' duties and responsibilities, inspector's reports, teachers' council, etc, etc.

Let us hope indeed that more citizens, genuinely interested in the educational welfare of the boys and girls of Belleville, will in future stand for election for these important posts.

In closing I wish to state that I am personally responsible for the remarks in this letter.

J. Tickell.
Chairman Board of Education.

SO IT HURTS A LITTLE, EH?

The old timers are getting desperate about a favorite "operation" of nineteenth century vintage — hemorrhoidectomy, cutting out piles. From my point of view, this hemorrhoidectomy (which I confess I inflicted on a few trusting patients in the early years of my practice) is as crude and in most instances as unnecessary as that other favorite "operation" of the old timers, tonsillectomy. If any physician, surgeon or specialist of standing cares to take issue with me about either of these atrocities, I promise to give his or her statement fair publication here and to keep his or her identity confidential if he or she does not give me written consent to reveal it. I have been studying these problems or questions for a good many years and in reaso- and conscience I can take no other position than this.

A full page ad of a local anesthetic reads:
Stop Post - Hemorrhoidectomy
Pain Safety
The excruciating pain of the first days following hemorrhoidectomy....

A great many readers who have had the modern ambulant treatment for hemorrhoids—that is, a series of injections at intervals of several days, each such treatment taking only a few minutes and only brief absence from work or business for a visit to the doctor's office—have reported their complete satisfaction with the treatment. Incidentally, injection treatment, in the hands of a physician who has mastered the difficult technique, requires more skill than the crude hemorrhoidectomy requires, and effects at least as many cures as hemorrhoidectomy does.

These people who have been curred by ambulant treatment usually remark that they experienced litle or no discomfort from beginning to end of the treatment, whether they received four, six or more injections.

Injection treatment is applicable to internal hemorrhoids onry. It is not applicable to exetrnal hemorrhoids. In several instances small calibre doctors have attempted to inject external hemorrhoids and naturally bungled the business, at the expense of much unnecessary distress to the victims. These incompetents have tried to defend themselves by blaming the injection treatment. Their customers know no better.

Even if there were no "excruciating pain the first days following hemorrhoidectomy," the ambulant (injection) treatment would still be the method of choice, because no hospitalization is necessary.

On written request (not a clipping) I'll send any reader who provides stamped self addressed envelope the pamphlet It is Stupid to Suffer from Piles.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Acne Age

Daughter, twelve, troubled with very oily skin and blackheads and pimples, feels too embarrassed. (Mrs. G. J.)

Answer—More or less acne (oiliness of skin, blackheads and pimples) must be regarded a sthe pimples) must be regarded as the boys. If a few escape most of the pimples that has no significance. I'm sorry for your daughter, but try to make her understand it is the normal thing and not a sign of impure blood or anything else. Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask in writing for pamphlet on Acne. No clipping, please.

Coffee

Is instant coffee more harmful than the sort you boil, pere or drip? (S. E.)

Answer—What! Boil coffee? Officer arrest that man. He betrays subversive leanings. Make coffee as you prefer, provided it is never permitted to boil even for a moment. I tell How to Make Coffee and Win Friends in a chapter in the red book What to Eat and Why. For the booklet send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope.

Menstruation is Not Illness

My daughter, aged 19, has to stay home from work about two days in each month because of her monthly illness. (Mrs. J. P. A.)

Answer—Assuming she is not playing "ill" as an easy way to avoid work or school, your daughter probably suffers from lack of physical education and from the wrong mental attitude—for instance, calling menstruation "illness." Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask in writing for pamphlet Hygiene for Girls and Health for Women.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

SUGGESTIVE EVEN TO THIS DAY

Once in history there appeared a man who had everything heart could desire. This man was King Solomon. He had power which made his neighbors tremble. He had such wealth that neither he nor his councilors could compute it. He was among a half-dozen of the most learned individuals who have ever appeared in human history. Every indulgence of the flesh was his for the asking, and it seemed that the multitudes of the whole world positively fell over themselves in their excited eagerness to serve him.

Was he happy? Few men have been less so. One of the sourest books ever written is Ecclesiastes, a regretful appraisal of life by Solomon, the old roue, who, having indulged in every pleasure and having enjoyed every honor which this world could bestow, came to the end of his life with about the worst taste in his mouth that anyone has ever experienced.

The point does not need to be labored. People who have their own way in everything, generally miss happiness by a mile. Strange as it may seem, the people who have to suffer most, frequently get the most out of life. The pampered darlings grow up discontented and often drink themselves, worry themselves or bedevil themselves to early graves.

An occasional readying of the book of Ecclesiastes constitutes a wholesome corrective in the field of thought and action.

Colored Cottons Of London Girls Invade Offices

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, (CP)—There's a famine in office "formals" in Britain.

The little dress with its white collar and cuffs has almost disappeared Now it's gay colors and low necklines.

Cottons are this year's summer choice. Secretaries turn up in breezy low-necked, wide-skirted cottons of brilliant colors, combined with stockingless legs and low, comfortable colored sandals. Many wear a choker necklace with bracelet to match.

The reason? Not fashion fad nor price says the buyer of an Oxford Street store. "It's the boss.

"He's not the man he was. He's changing his views on what's right to wear in the office. After all, the bright colors have a psychologically brightening effect compared to the old office "uniform'."

And it's all right with the girls. Cottons are reasonably priced this year with many double-purpose designs just right for the weekend jaunt to the sea. Two of the most popular necklines are the draw-string top that can be just as wide as you please, and the off-the-shoulder shawl-collar styles.

A Danton-collared button-through with wide skirt, pocket hip emphasis and tie belt has flared, cuffed shorts and tie-front bra. The whole is in sunshine yellow printed with bowls of fruit.

Cuffs on Everything

The backless models with covering bolero are very suitable for town and seaside. Dresses are soft-shouldered with magyar or dolman sleeves and cuffs are used on anything from short to three-quarter sleeves. Pockets are used for design and emphasis.

The duster flounce (foot frill) is popular, usually with dirndl skirt, button top, roll collar and elbow or three-quarter cuffed sleeves.

A poplin evening gown with printed floral motifs on a pastel background has tight, neat-waisted bodice with off-the-shoulder roll collar and plain flaring skirt.

Holiday wear gives more scope and the bare midriff is popular for seaside outfits. Patio pyjamas of paisley design—so full they look like a skirt—are combined with pastel-shaded, midriff bolero with tie-front, Danton collar and three-quarter cuffed dolman sleeve. For evening the pyjamas can be used with an off-the-shoulder, puff-sleeved gypsy blouse.

A scarlet polka dot sun-suit with button-front, halter-necked bra has a fully flared skirtline and deep, slimming midriff of navy silk jersey. Striped, cuffed shorts with roomy, patch pockets combined with bra top and lose, hiplength shirt-coat, is a popular sailing outfit

Bathing suits are mostly one-piece again, often strapless and sometimes having two or three rows of hip frilling. Elastic slipper satins with their shiny brilliance of collar and painted motifs are most popular. Elasticized cotton prints are also popular and nylon is used with printed sea scenes.

Eastern Section W.M.S. Holds Annual Rally

The annua rally of the Eastern Section of the Cobourg Presbyterial of the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church was held in Hilton United Church on June 16, with morning and afternoon sessions. Mrs. H. Ireland, sectional vice president, presided. Ten afternoon and tw evening auxiliaries responded to the roll call. The devotional exercises were conducted by the Carman Auxiliary.

Mrs. Gordon Adams extended a cordial welcome to the visiting ladies.

The business session ncluded the appontment of committees: Courtesy, Mrs. Welton, Castleton; Mrs. J. G. Waite, Colborne; Resolutions, Mrs. E. C. Roberts, Campbellford and Mrs. S. L. Terrill, Wooler; Press, Mrs. J. J. Way, Wooler.

The Book Review, b Mrs. F. Dunnett, Brighton, was a review of "The Big Fisherman" by Lloyd C. Douglas. Peter, the fisherman, was one of the disciples. He was always a fisherman for God called him to be a fisher of men. Later, he became the chief pillar of the church. People then were much the same as today. Some accepted and some rejected Him.

Six Bands tok part in the Mission Band hour by giving reports, musical selections, both vocal and instrumental; exhibits of handicrafts and skits. In the absence through illness of Mrs. Reid, Presbyterial Mission Band Secretary, Mrs. H. H. Lackey of Frankford, told an interesting story to the children.

Mrs. P. F. Gardiner, of Canton, Presbyterial president, introduced the guest speaker, Miss Christine MacDougall, who told two stories about Chinese children to the Band members.

Mrs. H. Morgan, of Carman, said there are several Polish and Dutch children living in that community who are members of the Mission Band, four of whom were present.

"Advance" Theme of Address..

Mrs. E. C. Roberts, of Campbellford, concluded the morning session with an address on "Quiet Moments", "Advance" being the theme. In these busy days there is very little time for quiet moments when one can withdraw from worldly interests and listen to God. Christ withdrew many times, to be alone and communed with God. If His example is followed, it will help to face the problems and others will know that strength has been received from God. If not, in time, one becomes empty and poverty-stricken. Peter's later life is an example of what can be done if one withdraws for communion with God. What the church does now will effect it for all time. There is great indifference everywhere, and the people must be drawn into the church, because if they are not reached outside interests will entice them. Everywhere in the world workers are needed.

This Can Be The Dawn Of Our Greatest Day!

Canadians have never willingly elected to power a government which has failed to remain faithful to the democratic principle of free enterprise.

By their insistence on retaining emergency powers granted for war only, the Liberals have confused and frustrated every branch of our economy by a mass of ever-changing orders and regulations. Canada's future, your own future and the future of your children hang in the balance. ON JUNE 27th., VOTE FOR THE PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE PARTY — which will insist in government being the servant of the people — not the master!

Keen Age Club Holds Charming Blossom Tea

Candlelight and roses, gleaming silver and sparkling crystal, a spacious room and easy chairs—all lent their quota in making the Blossom Tea held by the Keen Age Club in the Sunday School room of Tabernacle United Church, on Wednesday afternoon, "a thing of beauty and a joy forever."

On entering the room, the first impression was one of 'hominess' followed by one of sheer delight in the subtle arrangement of the furnishings to achieve this effect. On the outside of the quadrangle, formed by the tall, stately pillars on either side, had been placed easy chairs, and ottomans, while at the two ends were large, wine-colored chesterfields, backed by library tables holding tall baskets of pink and white peonies, blue delphiniums and orange blossoms, with lighted tapers in gleaming holders.

And in the centre, upon one of the three large rugs, stood the long tea table, exquisitely lovely with its dainty hand crocheted lace cloth in fern pattern, centred by a crystal bowl of fragrant scarlet roses, and flanked on either side by three-branched crystal candelabra, in which were lighted ivory candles. These in turn were sentinelled by two beautiful antique prismatic crystal vases filled with more scarlet roses.

Quartet Tables

Outside the quadrangle were the little quartet tables, each having a different colored linen cover in color and design. The first was green, the next mauve, then yellow, and last white. Each table had its own centrepiece; one was a tiny hanging vase of plastic, containing tiny white flowers and a small pink rose; another held Sweetheart roses, in shades of pink, and so on with each table, all dainty and appropriately perfect. Here and there, about the outside of the quadrangle, and at opposite corners inside, were small tables holding tall, graceful baskets filled with all manner of Summer flowers, each lending its perfume and loveliness to the occasion.

Away to the west of the large room was the nursery where the tiny tots could spend a happy half hour playing with various toys, and each other, while the mothers could relax amid the surrounding beauty, and enjoy "the cup that cheers, but not inebriates".

Those who presided at the lovely tea table from 3.30 to 4.30 were, Mrs. Evan Barlow, and Mrs. Merritt Hackett; those from 4.30 to 5.30, Mrs. William Harrison and Mrs. M. Duff.

Receiving Guests

Those who received the guests were, Mrs. J. Hall, Mrs. Lockyer, and Mrs. W. Judge, while those who served the dainty cakes and sandwiches and replenished the tea table were, Mrs. C. Lathangue, Mrs. R. Wardle, Mrs. F. Douglas, Mrs. E. Miller, Mrs. P. Huddleston, Mrs. M. Gariepy, and Mrs. E. Melville.

The tearoom hostesses were, Mrs. E. Cornish and Mrs. A. Mulvey, Mrs. S. Kelleher and Mrs. A. Davies acted as the "receipt of customs".

The nursery conveners were, Mrs. G. Robinson, and Mrs. E. Sandford. Mrs. G. S. Stanton was convener of the kitchen, while Mrs. J. Thompson, assisted by Mrs. A. Firth, were in charge of the tearoom, and the President, Mrs. J. Hall, was convener-in-chief of the tea.

A lovely blossom tea, exquisitely arranged, and dainty in every detail.

Batawa Drops 9-1 Decision To Peterborough

Peterborough, Ont., June 23 — (CP) — Beating Batawa Shoemen 9-1, the Petes broke a first-place tie with Oshawa in the C.O.B.L. to take over top spot alone. With Lefty Bill Dadson hurling five-hit ball and fanning 13, the home team bunched blows and cashed in on miscues for an easy win, while playing errorless ball themselves.

They spelled out Doug Mott with none away in the first. Max Smith pitching then till Gord Muffitt took over to start the seventh.

Al Menzies led the hitters with four for five, as Joe Lowrey hit three in five tries, and Howie Dalton and Lefty Dadson each got two for four. Dalton hit a triple and Lowrey a double. None of the visitors got more than one safety but Ken Peacock connected for a two bagger. The third place Shoemen were never in the hunt after the Petes four-run drive in the first frame.

FRONTIER U.

By Oren Arnold

That left only six in the party but that was enough. Ward led the way with four hounds, Ken Palmer riding near him. Joy moved up presently to be nearer Ward Polly rode with James Glenn and Terry Brookfield thus rode behind. Ken turned in his saddle and saw this chance arrangement. He reigned in.

"Mind if I ride with you too, Polly?" he asked, when they had come up to him.

"Why Ken, of course not! delighted to have you, silly But am I the belle of the party to have three escorts? I thought you two were sent out here to, uh, write up Joy?"

They took the hint. In truth the time had come when they really had to stay near Joy, for they did have proffessional assignments there.

"Thanks, Ken," Polly murmured, when they had spurred on ahead. "They are nice enough, I suppose, but I'm glad to be rid of them."

Ken looked angry. "Polly, if you say so I'll go paste both of them."

"Why, Ken!" Her surprise was genuine, although his anger flooded her with a strange delight. "But no. No, they weren't annoying me that way."

"About last night — I couldn't help overhearing them when they . . ."

"Oh. Thanks so much, Ken. You're a darling. But I can handle them. I don't think they're as foreward as they seem. Just types. But, Ken, it's wonderful of you to—to feel this way. It makes me know you are my friend."

She winked and nodded at him then, quite unconsciously; a little gesture of intimacy, meaningless perhaps, but enough to send Ken's blood racing. He looked off self-consciously and the sense of confusion which had been in him often here lately assailed him again. He turned to look at Polly's profile as she rode beside him. Their horses were moving at a fast walk. She swayed easily with every motion. Ken swallowed, realizing that never in history had there been a girl with such perfectly chisled features or with such wholesome beauty as this one.

He was about to speak to her again, but up ahead Old Mag, the lead hound, sounded off: "Ow-u-u u-u-u-! Ow-owu-u-u!"

"Step on it!" Ward McMurray yelled. "We've struck trail."

He spurred as he spoke. Old Mag and her three companion dogs already had streaked up the slope, across a narrow canyon, and out of sight around a rise in the earth. Evidently the trail was fresh indeed.

In a moment the six horses here had sensed the quick excitement. Their ears laid back. Two of them snorted. All of them broke into a fast run, crashing pell mell through underbrush, avoiding rocks, snatching their riders unmercifully in a driving, pounding rush.

Original positions of the riders soon changed. Polly and Ken had crept up nearer to Ward. Joy's horse made a false start off trail and had to be brought back, so that she was riding with the two men from New York again. These three thus were behind all the others, and presently the distance from Ward had stretched into a matter of 300 yards.

"Unh-h-h-h!" James Glenn groaned. "How much farther?"

"Don't know!" Joy shouted out of one corner of her mouth. "Don't you like fast riding?"

"My side! It's killing me!"

She glanced at the two men then. Agony had come to show on both their faces. Joy understood. If you aren't accustomed to fast riding, don't know how to get in rhythm with the saddle's up-and-down, your lower lungs do develop an intense pain. She had experienced it herself. She knew these two city softies would be sadly out of condition.

In a minute or two Joy glimpsed the dogs away off to her right. Obviously the lion trail had circled unexpectedly. The lion had cut back up the hill after apparently going left and down. It had misled Ward and the others momentarily.

"Look!" she called to her companions. "We can save time. Let's cut across and intercept the dogs. I'll go on. You follow as fast as you can!"

She spurred then, and in a matter of seconds was quite alone. But Old Mag sang out her trail call — "Ow-u-u-u-u" —and that gave Joy the proper direction.

Before she realized it she saw the dogs had halted a short distance in front of her. Old Mag was in a frenzy of barking now and the other hounds were equally frantic beside her. Their attention was directed not up a tree, as Ward had told Joy to expect, but down into a cave-like hole.

Joy skidded her horse to a stop, dropped reins and ran to the dogs.

"Goodness!" she murmered.

The cave entrance was dark. It was much like a well for 10 feet or so, slanting down into the rocks. Beyond that it was black dark. Obviously the lion had retreated in there.

"This is my chance!" Joy breathed. "I can make the kill alone before the others come. Ward said lions are cowards! They never attack human beings."

She remembered his assurance at that point, and she was a girl with abundant courage. Moreover, adventure spirit had assailed her anew.

With sudden determination she unholstered the pistol she wore and dropped down into the hole. She was trembling a little, but more in excitement than in fear. Cautiously she edged deeper into the cave that was more horizontal now; she wanted to make the kill before Ward got here, just to show him!

This side of the mountain with its many boulders had been protected from the rain, for the cave bottom was deep in dry leaves, chips and pine cones, Joy discovered. They rustled as she walked.

"GROWR-R-R-R-R!"

The beast within roared frighteningly. I was, in fact, a growl that quite dominated the shrill yapping of the dogs outside. It sent chills through Joy.

She looked in. There, through the darkness as her eyes, adjusted, she saw not one dark blotch but three! Not one set of eyes, but three pairs of them!

One of the creatures was far larger than she knew a mountain lion to be. There had been a mounted specimen of lion back at college, no larger than a good-sized dog. But this thing stood taller than Joy herself!

"Oh-h-h!" Joy shrieked a little involuntarily, recognizing the beasts.

All at once she was shuddering in terror.

Ward McMurray's horse was pounding hard to skirt a great boulder there on the mountain-side. The fine animal snorted, strained with the uphill running. Ward suddenly swerved him to the right.

Women say:
"Satina in my starch makes the clothes 3 times easier to iron!"
"Satina does everything claimed for it. When ironing I use it regularly and wouldn't be without it. Even my brother likes to wash and iron his own shirts which saves sending them to the laundry. Starched shirts are 3 times easier to iron when Satina is added to the starch," writes Mrs. T. E. Davidson of Sarnia, Ont.
"As a practical nurse I find, when ironing, that Satina makes a wonderful difference with uniforms and caps. Satina retains their stiffness. It is also easier to make the starch, and when Satina is added it makes all ironing 3 times as easy to do," writes Mrs. J. W. Kemp of Hamilton, Ontario.
"Adding Satina to the starch makes shirts 3 times easier to iron, and leaves a nice gloss on them. Satina also makes my table linens lovely and my iron never sticks," writes Mrs. W. Andrew of Riverside, Ont.
"I have used Satina for a long time and like it very much. When added to starch it makes all my ironing 3 times as easy and gives fabrics a fine finish," writes Mrs. Harold Justice of Owen Sound, Ont.
"With me, Satina has become a habit. Clothes smell so nice and iron up crisp and dainty. I wouldn't use anything else but Satina for all ironing because Satina in starch makes it 3 times as easy to do," writes Mrs. E. Kavanaugh of Windsor, Ontario.
Satina in my starch makes all ironing 3 times easier. Satina is wonderful for my husband's shirts and it also gives fine gloss to collars. I like Satina, too, for the children's dresses—it makes colored dresses look like new," writes Mrs. T. Schaefer of Toronto, Ont.
READ PERSONAL EXPERIENCES OF WOMEN EVERYWHERE—HOW SATINA STREAMLINES IRONING IN THOUSANDS OF HOMES
Here's proof. Simply read what other homemakers say about Satina. Now—you try it. Then judge Satina for yourself. Prove that starched clothes can be ironed bright and fresh with that band box finish you admire. Prove that home ironing can be so much easier.
When next you iron add Satina to your starch and be amazed at the results—shirts with a marvellous finish—table linens with a new high gloss. Your starched ironing will be done with greater speed and ease, if you start using Satina regularly.
Satina in Starch Speeds Your Iron
Just dissolve Satina in hot starch made by your usual method. Then when ironing time comes, your iron skims easily over a s-m-o-o-t-h surface. No stopping to scrape starch off your iron when you use Satina. Starched fabrics iron up like new—soft, glossy and pliable. At all grocers. Full instructions on the package.

Only 27 Men Face Napanee's Ed. Hooper Who Fashions 2-Hit Effort to Down Flyers 6-0

But for a slight lapse in the fifth innings, burly Ed. Hooper, Napanee star righthander, would today be basking in the glory of the Belleville District Baseball League Hall of Fame.

The big hurler fashioned one of the best pitching efforts ever seen in the Exhibition Grounds last night (and that includes the COBL, too) when he limited the Trenton Flyers to two hits, blanking them by a 6-0 score. Hooper struck out nine and issued but one walk. Only 27 men faced him in nine innings.

He had the Flyer bludgeons hogtied, handcuffed and practically helpless over the nine innings route. In the fifth the Flyers got their only two hits of the game and put runners on second and third with one out but some weird wacky baserunning put the situation squarely up to the Napanee infield and it obliged by killing the effort with a neat two-ply out play.

Behind Hooper the Napanee team fielded like veterans. A shake-up in the infield which sent big Bud Green to short paid off handsomely. The infield came up with three sparkling double plays besides fielding their different positions in a standout manner.

Gave Hooper 11 Hits

And offensively, the Napanee lads carried the torch for Hooper. They smashed out eleven hits one of them a smashing home run by Vic Burtt who incidentally added a couple of singles for good luck. Joe Jocko pounded out a mighty triple in the eighth and he too added a single for two hits. Herb Hays contributed a double and Maracle helped himself to a pair of singles.

Big Jim Titus started on the mound for the Flyers and was nicked freely from the start. Napanee got to him for three hits and two runs in the first innings and by the time the fifth had rolled around with one out, Titus had been touched for nine clouts for six runs. Martyn took over the chore and the lefthander held the Napanee bats scoreless yielding up only two hits. He struck out three and walked four.

Weird Baserunning

Flyers only chance to break the duck-egg came in the fifth. Coursal had struck out when Greenough plowed a sharp grounder through the box which went to centrefield. Zaleski, next man up slashed a hard-hit ball to left centre that looked like a triple.

He rounded second and tore for third. Coursal, who was looking behind him to watch the ball so much he appeared to be running backwards, hesitated, tore for the plate, changed his mind and raced back to third where Zaleski was coming in. The Napanea infield trapped Coursal between third and home, and Jocko whipped the ball back to second in time to nip Zaleski.

They were the only two Flyer hits of the game. The Airmen played shoddy baseball at times, times, coming up with no less coming up with no less than six miscues.

Bud Green, at short for the first time, played heads-up baseball all night. He started two sparkling double plays and came up with hard-hit balls that appeared labelled for hits.

The teams:

Napanee: V. Green 2b; B. Green ss; Gerow 1b; Jocko 3b; Burtt lf; Scarlett cf; Van Vlack cf; Maracle rf; Hayes c; Hooper p, Vick.

Trenton Flyers: Maracle 2b; Choinard 1b; Renaud 3b; Coursal c; Greenough cf; Zaleski lf; Samain ss; Ormsby ss; Thomson rf; Martyn p, Titus p.

The score:

Napanee 211 020 000—6 11 1
Flyers 000 000 000—0 2 6

Hooper and Hayes; Titus (5), Martyn and Coursal.

Umpires: Mack, plate; Periton, bases.

Walcott Calls Ezzard Charles A Sneaky Puncher

Chicago, June 23. (AP)—Having flung his leather at Ezzard Charles without avail, Jersey Joe Walcott has decided to fling some mud.

While Charles, newly-crowned N.B.A. heavyweight champion, was paying something of a tribute to loser Jersey Joe by saying "he can take it," Walcott called the 27-year-old Cincinnati belter "a sneaky puncher".

Weary Walcott, who missed his third try at the crown last night on a unanimous decision, told a dressing-room crowd:

"Charles is not a great fighter—he's a sneaky puncher who hit coming out of the clinches. When the referee broke us, I stopped fighting, but that dirty fighter kept banging away."

Davey Miller, veteran referee, discredited Walcott's charge.

"I thought both fighters broke pretty well for big guys," he said. "I didn't see any punches thrown coming out of clinches."

Toronto Leafs Earn Even Split With Baltimore

(By The Associated Press)

One of the reasons for Buffalo's ability to stay on top in the international league is the Bison's knack of coming from behind.

Last night, for the second straight time, the Bisons snatched victory from almost certain defeat by rallying in the closing innings to edge out the runner-up Jersey City Giants.

Trailing 10-6 when they came to bat in the last half of the eighth the Bisons tallied three times and added another in the ninth to force the game into extra innings. A wild pitch, with the bases full, by relief pitcher Ford Smith presented the Bisons with the run that gave them an 11-10 victory. Marty Tabacheck scored from third on the wild heave. The day before, the Bisons came from behind with a six-run ninth to defeat Jersey, 10-9.

Baltimore Orioles overcame an even larger deficit to defeat Toronto 12-10, in the second game of a doubleheader and earn a split. The Leafs won the opener, 7-3. The Leafs built up a 9-0 advantage after six innings, but the Orioles kept plugging away, finally scoring seven runs in the ninth to tie, 10-10. Then they added the winning runs in the 10th. Pitcher Bill Payne won his own game, driving in the tie-breaking run. Ed Sanicki's eighteenth homer helped Lefty Oscar Judd win his fifth for Toronto in the opener.

Newark scored twice in the 11th to take an 8-7 decision from the Rochester Redwings. Frank Lamanna allowed one hit in three relief innings to receive credit for the victory.

John Heiki scattered four hits in pitching Syracuse Chiefs to a 6-1 triumph over Montreal. Dan Bankhead was charged with his second loss in nine decisions.
